Salon Vert

A large scale store, with a central open space that is seen from the street. The store stands in harmony with the adjacent buildings through the use of traditional elements in a contemporary vision.

The designer's role

When does the architect have a role?

And when does society ignore this role?

The need for creation and change is a human nature and necessity.

In the primitive societies, creativity is spontaneous.

With civility, emerges the specialization.

Creativity is then transformed into a profession.

And the majority loses its intuitively.

Here comes the role of the designer and of the societal needs.
الصالون الأخضر

القياس الكبير و حيوش داخلية للمحل يرى من الشارع، و التألف من المباني المجاورة بالمعالجة للأسطح رغم اعتمادها على عنصر تراثي للعقد بمفهوم حديث.

Year: 1970
Owner: Le Salon Vert stores
Designer: Al-Hamamy and Bakry
Location: Kasr El-Nil street, Cairo
Cost: 150 000 L.E.
Program: Multi-story commercial store