

Matching Pants & Matching Mission

It has been really sweet to see how close the Christian students in our ministry have become. This semester we were somewhat discouraged to not have many new students attending our weekly gathering, but those who were faithful to come were our Christian students. We are always encouraged when a student decides to follow Jesus, but it can be disheartening when they make this decision but don't get involved in our community. This past semester, however, I've seen this is less and less. Not only have our students been faithful to attend, but also they are starting to catch a greater vision for our mission. They have continued to step up in leadership to the point where our recent weekly gathering was completely student lead. Here you can see Nuey and Bas leading worship, Guitar emceeing, and Jew giving a talk on what the Bible says about time management. I am so proud of them and pray they only continue to grow in their faith and leadership.

Faithful Friends

I'm happy to share that our dinner and Bible study meetings with Mel and Three have continued. One of our dinners even happened to fall on Mel's birthday! She said she doesn't usually do anything special for her birthday, so to surprise her with a cake was so fun! With the Thai school year ending, Mel and Three were busy with final exams and have now returned to their hometown for the semester break. Please pray that they will ponder what they have learned, pray to God while they are away, and that the Holy Spirit would work in their hearts, so we can easily pick up right where we left off when they return to us in June.

Ladies' Night

We've seen such great success in inviting friends to our home, so we started a weekly "Ladies' Night". We have dinner together, answer intentional questions, and do a craft or activity. It's been so special to model what it looks like to live in intentional community. Please pray that the deepening of our friendship will give us opportunities to build trust that leads to the sharing of the great hope we have in Christ that they too can have.

Living Solo

A challenge with living overseas is that there are seasons where some teammates go back to the States for an extended period of time. For me, that was last year, when I was in the States raising additional support and catching up with some of you. It had me away from Thailand for 6 months, and now it's my teammate Emily's turn to be away. Emily and I are now the only two longterm, single women on our team, so I'm feeling more lonely having to live without her. I'm realizing that all my life I've been blessed to live with great women and this will now be the longest I've ever lived alone. Please pray that I feel God's presence with me at home and that I build deeper relationships with those in my local community. I can't wait to have her back in September.

I've graduated from plants, to fish, to cockatiels! Meet my two month and one month old babies, Dino(saur) and little miss "name TBD".

My disciple, Prim, loving on Dino. We've been able to meet more frequently this semester. Please pray she continues to mature in her relationship with Christ.

I'm proud to say I'm staying hydrated in this hot climate, but sad to say that the large water bottle I carry around fell on my toe and broke it! It's healing well though!

I pray you all had a wonderful Easter celebrating the resurrection of Christ. Praise God that He is Risen! Thank you for your prayers and support as we long for this truth to be proclaimed and known in all of Thailand!

with love,
Jasmine

Thank you for your continued prayers and financial gifts to my ministry! Please respond to this email letting me know how I can be praying for you.

Ways to pray:

1. Praise God for our student leaders and pray God continues to mature them in their faith.
2. Pray the Holy Spirit works in Mel and Three while they are home for the break and that they come back ready to meet and study the Bible and explore what it means to follow Christ.
3. That "Ladies' Night" grows depth in our friendships with students.
4. That I look to God when feeling lonely and that God would grow me closer with my local community outside of my teammates.
5. That the Holy Spirit works in Prim and continues to grow her faith.
6. That God would equip and embolden me to share my faith and not shy away from the truth and commandments of Scripture.
7. That my Thai improves as I will be taking more classes this summer.
8. That God protects our team from spiritual attack and we unite together in grace and love for one another.
