

THE CONNECTOR

You show up with presence and care. You create space for both voices, even when it's hard. This is what trust starts to feel like.

Your Source

You're showing up from commitment with intention. You're not perfect, but you're making space for truth, listening, and shared effort.

Where It Shows Up

Your spouse likely feels seen and heard.
Conversations may still be hard, but they feel safer and more grounded.

What's Possible

As trust builds, so does unity. You're becoming a safe place, and that creates momentum even when things feel messy.

What You Tend To Do

You engage with honesty. You slow down to hear what matters and speak in ways that invite trust.

What You're Practicing

Letting go of control, blame, and hiding. You show up with your voice and invite your spouse to do the same.

Your Next Move

Stay steady. You're doing important work—even when it feels slow or unseen.