Hi Krystyna,

I hope yall are doing really great!

I wanted to ask if you (or Mia or Aaron if you aren't free) might be available from 2-3PM tomorrow to hop on a webinar we are sponsoring?

The purpose of the webinar is to help agencies out there who are currently stuck in the paper hand or mail delivery world understand how they could make the transition to ProcureNow easily while keeping the impact high and positive on staff and vendors.

As you may know, we are offering our solution for a limited time for any agency who is currently accepting paper bids and needs to do something right away. Our contribution to the community is to offer essentially the part that you just went live (not the RFP/bid development stuff, not contract management, but just electronic bidding stuff) free of charge until December 2020.

There's nothing really to prepare... just to spend a few minutes relaying your fresh experience with doing this successfully... what worked well for you, and anything you think would be relevant for other procurement folks to know about based on what you just went through.

Thanks for considering it... I know it's last minute, but we've been pulling this together last minute :) We will also be recording it and making it available on-demand.

Here's a link to the landpage for it: <https://marketplace.city/p/free-paperless-procuremen/>

Thanks!
