Subject: GDIT Acquisition of CSRA Inc.

Dear Mr. Kingston:

As you may know, on February 12, 2018, General Dynamics (GD) announced that they had entered into a definitive agreement to acquire CSRA Inc. and its subsidiaries including CSRA State and Local Solutions LLC (CSRA). GD's goal was to add CSRA's offerings to its well-established business unit, General Dynamics Information Technology (GDIT).

We are proud to announce that the transaction closed on April 3, 2018, and CSRA and General Dynamics Information Technology (GDIT) are now operating as a combined business unit under GD. CSRA Inc. subsidiaries will be providing any necessary notifications regarding ownership and operating status to states, in accordance with the requirements of each state. At this time, CSRA State and Local Solutions LLC (CSRA) will continue to operate under CSRA Inc. and as a separate subsidiary of GD, and will continue to maintain its approved procedures, processes and business systems.

The CSRA and GDIT companies have more than a century of combined experience and are committed to making a difference in how the government serves our country and our citizens. Our employees are inspired by the important missions of our customers and believe that by working together we can deliver exceptional solutions and services to enable the safety, security, health and well-being of our nation.

We will continue to deliver a broad range of innovative, next-generation IT solutions and professional services to help our customers modernize their legacy systems, protect their networks and assets, and improve the effectiveness and efficiency of mission-critical functions for our warfighters and our citizens.

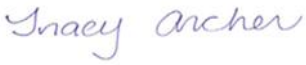

We're committed to leveraging the expertise of a combined workforce of approximately 45,000 professionals and offering a broad portfolio of next generation IT solutions and professional services to solve your most complex mission challenges. While we integrate our companies, we assure you that our priority is to provide you with outstanding support and to maintain continuity among our program/project teams.
