When used as a standalone method of monitoring, the SCRAM TouchPoint app provides an efficient and intuitive way for low-risk offenders to check in remotely. Officers can schedule check-in/self-report times or trigger an on-demand location check to ensure clients are where they are supposed to be. After a two-layer verification using biometrics and facial authentication, clients must answer a series of questions selected by the officer and verify or submit updates on key information such as current residence, employment, and contact with law enforcement.
