

Mark LaRoe, KStJ, is a Managing Director, Private Client Advisor, and Institutional Client Advisor with Bank of America Private Bank in Dallas, Texas. Drawing upon more than 30 years of experience in wealth management, private banking, commercial real estate and asset-based lending, he works diligently to address the complex financial challenges of an accomplished clientele residing across the U.S.

Mark leads a team of selected specialists who provide comprehensive and customized financial strategies for senior executives (many in the energy industry), entrepreneurs and owners of private businesses, family offices, and generations of wealthy families and their related interests. He also serves large foundations, endowments and other non-profit organizations. Mark is one of a limited group of advisors holding the ICA (Institutional Client Advisor) title.

Before joining the Private Bank (formerly U.S. Trust), Mark was managing director and head of Dallas Private Banking for Deutsche Bank Wealth Management. Prior to that, he was senior managing director at J.P. Morgan and led the J.P. Morgan Private Bank in Florida before returning home to Dallas. He also held several production and management positions with Comerica Bank in Texas and its predecessor banks. In addition, Mark led valuation teams for bank purchases during the Texas banking crisis of the 1980s and 1990s and created a Southwest region healthcare banking practice for Comerica.

Mark is Immediate Past Chair of The Dallas Opera and a board member of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, The Dallas Symphony Foundation, Dallas Performing Arts Foundation, and Dallas Contemporary. He is Co-Chair of the Southwest Region of the Priory in the USA of the Order of St. John.

Mark holds a B.B.A. from Texas Tech University with a concentration in finance. He and his wife, Dianne, have been married for more than 30 years and have three adult children, as well as one grandchild. They collect contemporary art and Mark is an avid golfer.
