Digital Media Makers. Projection Designers. Content Creators. Ad Agencies.

Different titles but one shared mission: transforming pixels into the images and stories we experience every day.

The question is the same:

How do we create stories that captivate, engage, and transport audiences?

From Times Square displays and immersive activations to projection mapped environments to phone apps, digital signage isn't just advertising. It's entertainment.

But we still need to translate creativity into business results.

Learn from the new storytellers of digital media behind these moments and explore the technology powering what's next.

The Future of Digital Signage Is Experiential.

If you're in content creation, displays, integration services, software/content management systems, video walls or more, you need to be at LDI 2026.
