TextWrangler

TextWrangler is the “little brother” to BBEdit \(/products/bbedit/\), our leading professional HTML and text editor for the Macintosh.

TextWrangler vs. BBEEdit

TextWrangler is a very capable text editor. What sets BBEEdit apart is its extensive professional feature set including Web authoring \(../bbedit/featuresweb.html\) capabilities and software development \(../bbedit/featuresdev.html\) tools.

TextWrangler 3.5 System Requirements

-  Mac OS X 10.5 or later (10.5.8, 10.6.7 or later recommended)
-  Universal \(http://www.apple.com/universal/\) application (for both Intel and PowerPC-based Macs)

What about BBEdit Lite?

BBEdit Lite was discontinued a number of years ago, and the world has moved on. TextWrangler and BBEdit have capabilities that were never supported (or possible) in BBEdit Lite:

- Run natively and at full speed on Macs with Intel processors;
 - Open files from (and save them to) remote FTP and SFTP servers;
 - The powerful and flexible pattern matching supported by PCRE;
 - Support for editing Unicode text files, and converting between text encodings;
 - Find Differences to compare files or folders;
 - Integration with the Unix command-line environment;
 - Advanced and extensible programming language support, with code folding, syntax coloring, and extensibility;
 - ...and much much more.
