What is Affixa?

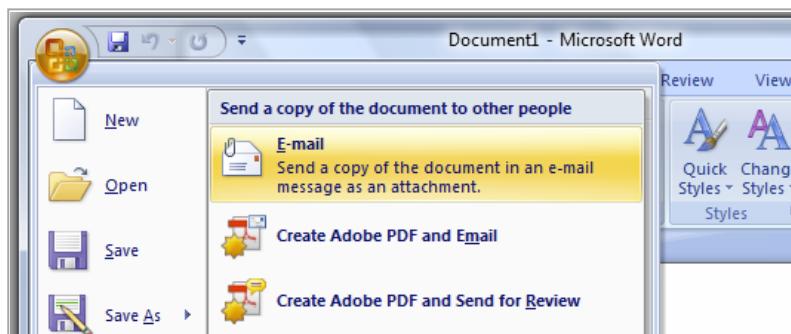

Affixa makes your webmail account part of Windows;

Affixa makes gathering and preparing the files you want to send easy;

Affixa gives you the choice of which web or desktop mail system you use and when.

All the features available in Windows that were once only available to your desktop mail-using friends are now available to everyone!

Making your webmail part of Windows

Many applications have the built-in capability to send emails. For example, you can send a document from Microsoft Word, a PDF from Adobe Acrobat, or photos from Windows Explorer. The problem is that these don't work with web-based email, including Gmail or Yahoo! Mail.

Affixa allows you to easily attach files to new messages in any of these webmail systems.

Oh, and it handles "mailto"s too, so when you click on an email address, you can choose which mail account to use.

Gathering and preparing attachments

When you're shopping online, you collect all the stuff you want to buy in a shopping cart or basket and then check out.

Affixa brings this concept to your computer and allows you to gather all the files you want to attach to emails in separate baskets. You can have more than one basket at once and can even save baskets for future re-use.

Before you "check out" and attach the files to an email, you can choose to resize your photos, shrink the size of what you're sending by zipping everything up, or choose to use Drop.io to send your files.

Web or Desktop Mail? You choose!

Increasingly, people use more than one mail system in their day-to-day life. For example, on your computer you might use Microsoft Outlook for business matters and Gmail for personal stuff.

You need to be able to use all the email functionality of Windows in multiple settings. The subscriber edition of Affixa allows you to choose which mail system you want to work with at any time.

How much does it cost?

The basic version is free for personal use by individuals!

If you want to use Affixa for your own personal use as an individual, it's absolutely free. There are no nagging reminders, no advertisements, etc.

If you feel you want to support Affixa's development and make use of the subscriber-only options, please consider subscribing for just £2 [\[Convert\]](#) a year.

To use Affixa in an organisation (commercial, non-profit, education, government, etc), you must buy a subscription licence. Again, this costs from £2 [\[Convert\]](#) a year, but per-licence costs decrease after the first 25 licences.
