

FELLOWSHIP

(focus)

AIRMAIL SPECIAL

March 7, 1947

Dear Miss Brandt: I am writing you in connection with your application to us for a fellowship in the field of writing. Candidates in creative writing are given a preliminary judging for the Fellowship Committee by a jury of nationally known critics and authors. It is to the advantage of each candidate to present samples of his writing, preferably portions of the manuscript for which a grant is requested if such are available, in order that the jury can arrive at a fair and sensible conclusion as to the applicant's style, facility, and treatment.

Will you please send me sample manuscript or published samples of your writing before March 25th? The material will be carefully handled and returned to you as soon as the Fellowship Committee has made its final decisions.

Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM C. HAYGOOD
