

FELLOWSHIPS

(L. Rabun)

February 12, 1948

Dear Mr. Rabun: I am writing you in connection with your application for a Julius Rosenwald Fund fellowship. Candidates in creative writing are given a preliminary judging for the Committee on Fellowships by a jury of nationally known critics and authors. It is to the advantage of each candidate to present samples of his writing, preferably portions of the manuscript for which a grant is requested if such are available, in order that the jury can arrive at a fair and sensible conclusion as to the applicant's style, facility, and treatment.

Will you please send me sample manuscript or published samples of your writing before March 5? The material will be carefully handled and returned to you as soon as the Committee has made its final decisions.

Sincerely yours,

For the Committee on Fellowships
