FELLOWSHIPS, SCHOLARSHIPS, GRANTS-IN-AID, AND LOAN FUNDS
OPEN TO LIBRARIANS AND PROSPECTIVE LIBRARIANS

The Board of Education for Librarianship offers no scholarships or fellowships, and is not responsible for a grant awarded by any organization or by any committee of the American Library Association. In an effort to increase the opportunities for study to which librarians are eligible, however, the Board has secured from the organizations listed herewith the statement that library science will be considered a subject within the scope of their grants. Candidates are urged to examine carefully before making application the academic and other requirements of each scholarship, fellowship or loan fund and the purpose which it is intended to serve.

The list is divided into two parts:

Part I, To aid American students in elementary or in advanced study of library science.

Part II, To aid foreign students to study library science in the United States.

In addition to these grants which are not restricted to study in a particular institution, some library schools have scholarships or loan funds primarily to aid a student to complete the course in library science begun in that school, and most colleges and universities in which library schools are organized have available scholarships and loan funds to which students of library science are eligible in competition with other students in those institutions. The United States Office of Education, the Institute of International Education, the Harmon Foundation and the Institute of Women's Professional Relations have published comprehensive lists of fellowships, scholarships and loan funds for study and travel.
