

JULIUS ROSENWALD FUND FELLOWSHIPS
AWARDS FOR 1941 TO WHITE SOUTHERNERS

FREDERICK S. BARKALOW, JR., of the Alabama Department of Conservation: for studies in biology, specifically the life history of the cotton rat, at the University of Michigan.

ALFRED BRYAN BONDS, JR., assistant to the dean of the Graduate School, Louisiana State University: for studies in political science, dealing especially with an analysis of the effects of foreign and domestic governmental policies upon the interests of the "cotton South", at the University of North Carolina. Reappointment.

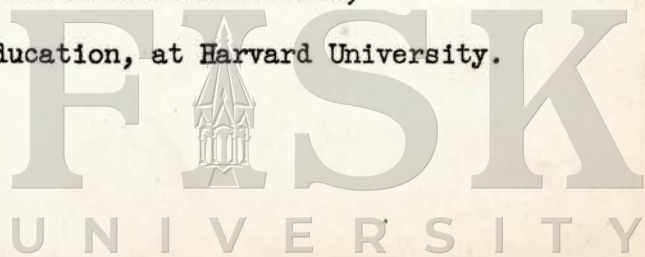

WILLIAM OSCAR BROWN, assistant professor of sociology, Howard University: for a study of the race problem in Puerto Rico.

MELVILLE FORT CORBETT, research assistant, Institute for Research in Social Science, University of North Carolina: for studies in sociology dealing with southern levels of life, at Columbia University.

JOHN HENRY FAULK, tutor of English, University of Texas: to record by machine and by writing, the sermons, morality plays, and other expressions of the unwritten literature of the southern Negro, at the University of Texas.

MARY SUNLOCKS HARRELL, instructor in English at Oklahoma College for Women: for the completion of a biography of O. Henry, and continuation of work toward the doctor's degree in English language and literature at Radcliffe College.

ELLIS FORD HARTFORD, supervisor of instructional materials, Tennessee Valley Authority: for studies in education, at Harvard University.

TOM LEA, El Paso, Texas: to paint in the Southwest.

WILTON PAUL LEDET, Abbeville, Louisiana: for a study of the economic, political, and social history of the Acadians of Louisiana, at the University of Chicago. Reappointment.

RAYMOND RALPH MacCURDY, JR., special teacher of English, Louisiana State University: for a study of the Spanish speaking settlements of Delacroix Island, Louisiana, at the University of North Carolina.

RAVEN IOOR McDAVID, JR., assistant professor of English, Southwestern Louisiana Institute: for a linguistic survey of western South Carolina, at Brown University and the Linguistic Institute at the University of North Carolina.

CHRISTIANA McFADYEN, instructor in history, Woman's College, University of North Carolina: for a study of the Republican-Populist Fusion Period in North Carolina, 1894-1900, at the University of Chicago.

EDWARD ARTHUR McLELLAN, Sumner, Mississippi: for a study of Negro youth in the Mississippi Delta, at George Peabody College for Teachers.

IDA LENORE MOORE, Tennessee Writers Project, Nashville: for the writing of a novel of southern life.

HERMAN CLARENCE NIXON, visiting professor of political science, Vanderbilt University: for research and special writing.

JAMES KIMBROUGH OWEN, Baton Rouge, Louisiana: for studies in local government and public administration, at Princeton University. Reappointment.

JAMES WARREN RABUN, Tuxedo, North Carolina: for studies in American history, at the University of Chicago.

GLENN WEDDINGTON RAINEY, assistant professor of English, Georgia School of Technology: for the completion of a doctoral dissertation, "The Negro as a Factor in the Georgia Independent Movement".

LEON FRANKLIN SENSABAUGH, associate professor of History, Birmingham-Southern College: for a study of the diplomatic relations between the United States and Uruguay.

EDWARD CRAWFORD SOLOMON, Jacksonville, Florida: for studies in sociology dealing with factors influencing the migration from rural to urban schools, at the University of Chicago and Vanderbilt University.

TENNYSON SUAGEE, Norman, Oklahoma: for studies in political science, at the University of Chicago.

LeROY WILBUR WATSON, JR., instructor in forest economics, University of Georgia: for an economic study of forest resources of Latin America, dealing especially with the possibilities of increased trade in forest products between Latin America and the southern states.

BELL IRVIN WILEY, professor of history and head of the department of history, University of Mississippi: for a study of the daily life of the Confederate soldier, as revealed in letters and diaries.

GORDON RANDOLPH WILLEY, Macon, Georgia: for the preparation of an "Introduction to Florida Archaeology".