My dear Billy,

I am sorry that you were unable to arrange to see the young women but I can understand how busy you must be at this time. Naturally, they were a little disappointed because I had given you a terrific buildup with all the trimmings.

With regard to my coming to Chicago, please don't make any plane reservations for me. I must confess that I have never flown and do not feel that I want to try it now with so many crackups occurring. I would prefer coming by train and I could make my own reservations on this end. On the other hand, if you care to you might purchase me a round trip ticket there in Chicago and send it to me here. This will require a little longer time in travel but I would rather do it this way than fly. As I told you on the phone, I can stay with Ted's sister, so don't bother about any hotel reservations.

I am anxious to see what the candidates have submitted and am looking forward to the trip with extreme interest. Ted joins me in sending very best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Hale
