DOWLING LEATHERWOOD

Assistant Professor of Journalism Emory University

Journalism

No doubt that radio is among the great social forces of this and the coming generation. Any real understanding of it is far more important than researches, however scholarly, into bits of past history.
Leatherwood seems a capable man to make the proposed study - and thus prepare himself to be a thoughtful, critical student of radio - journalism, not just another successful practitioner largely because of significance of the field I see this application
