

Name Thomas N. Roberts REAPPOINTMENT Field: Economics
Agricultural

Graduate Student, University of Wisconsin
On leave from post as Project Manager,
Soil Conservation Service, U. S. D. A., Stationed at Tuskegee Institute

Plan of Work

To continue graduate study and research in land economics with special reference to the "Multiple-Land Use" approach as applied to the Southeastern United States: also the adjustment of occupants on the land in relation to new land uses.

Time to be divided between work at the University of Wisconsin in study and research, and field work and investigation necessary to complete thesis. Wishes to work under Dr. George S. Wehrwein, one year beginning July 1, 1941. Will be ready for preliminary examinations for the Ph. D. by fall of 1941.

Personal Data Born Savannah, Georgia, February, 1900 Age: 41
Married, one child

Undergraduate Work Hampton Institute, B.S.A., 1927
University of Wisconsin, B. S. A., 1928

Graduate Work University of Wisconsin, M. S., 1932

Experience Principal and teacher of vocational agriculture, Camden County Board of Education, Woodbine, Georgia, 1921-25, $900; professor of agricultural education and economics, Georgia State Industrial College, 1928-35, $1800; project manager, Resettlement Administration, Tuskegee Institute, 35-37, $2600; project manager, Farm Security Administration, Tuskegee Institute, 1937-38, $2600; project manager, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Tuskegee, July-October, 1938, $2600; project manager, Soil Conservation Service, Tuskegee, October, 1938 - $2600.

Accomplishments

Did research and wrote various reports on problems of agricultural economics, on file at the University of Wisconsin and in the Land Utilization Division, Washington, D. C.

References

Dr. George S. Wehrwein, University of Wisconsin
Dr. Asher Hobson, University of Wisconsin
Professor A. R. Whitson, University of Wisconsin

Budget Summary

Total Amount Needed	$2,000
From Applicant	--
From Fund	$2,000

Sent to Committee

AMOUNT GRANTED