FELLOWSHIPS

1946

Forum

The Julius Rosenwald Fund offers fellowships under three categories:

- I. To Negroes.
- II. To white Southerners who wish to work on some problem distinctive to the South and who expect to make their careers in the South.
- III. To persons from any part of the United States working in the field of race relations.

The fellowships are intended to provide opportunities for special experience or advanced study to individuals who have already given evidence of exceptional ability and who wish to prepare themselves further. They are not restricted to any special subject or activity. They are open not only to scholars and scientists but to persons in the fine arts, creative writing or journalism, education, agriculture, business, or public service.

The fellowships are open to men and women. It is expected that candidates will be not younger than 24 years nor older than 35 years, though the Committee is willing to consider very exceptional cases on their merits. Candidates must have completed their general college course or their general professional course before making application, or give evidence of maturity and preparation which may be regarded as the equivalent of a general education of at least collegiate standard. Persons in law, medicine, library science, or the ministry can be considered only for advanced work beyond the initial professional degree; persons in nursing will be expected to have both a bachelor's degree and an R. N. certificate.

The term of the fellowships will normally be one year, and renewals will be considered only in exceptional cases. Grants will not be awarded for a term of less than six months.

The amount of the award will be determined in each case on the basis of the expected expenses involved and of all other factors which enter into the given application, including the length of time proposed. It is expected that the awards will average $1,500 for a full year's work.

The Committee on Fellowships will require from each candidate full information about his education and experience, and a definite statement of the proposed study or investigation.

Applications for fellowships with all required materials must be submitted in the prescribed form by January 1, 1946. Blanks may be secured from Mrs. William C. Haygood, Acting Director for Fellowships, Julius Rosenwald Fund, 4901 Ellis Avenue, Chicago 15, Illinois.
