

Same letter to: James S. Knowlson, Stewart-Warner Corp., 1826 Diversey Pkwy., Chicago; Paul G. Hoffman, Studebaker Corp., South Bend, Ind; John Holmes, Swift & Co., Union Stock Yards, Chicago; W. E. Umstattd, Limken Roller Bearing Co., Canton, Ohio; Bror Dahlberg, Pres., Celotex Corp., 919 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

Fellowships
Directory

June 13, 1946

Dear Mr. Hoffman: In the past decade many business concerns and industries have instituted programs of scholarships for students or for research workers. The activities of the Standard Oil Company, Sears Roebuck, or the Pepsi-Cola Company are obvious examples.

The Julius Rosenwald Fund is attempting to gather information relative to this type of aid offered by commercial organizations, with a view to issuing a directory. Such a directory would be of considerable value to teachers, counselors, librarians, and other educational agencies and would also furnish the basis for an interesting study of this new development in American business life.

If your organization has, or has had in the past, or contemplates in the future, any kind of program of prizes or scholarships for students or research workers, we would be very grateful for any information you can give us.

Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM C. HAYGOOD

WCH:RC

Mr. Paul G. Hoffman
Studebaker Corporation
South Bend, Indiana

FISK
UNIVERSITY