

FELLOWSHIPS, SCHOLARSHIPS, GRANTS-IN-AID AND LOAN FUNDS
OPEN TO LIBRARIANS AND PROSPECTIVE LIBRARIANS

PART I, TO AID AMERICAN STUDENTS IN ELEMENTARY OR IN ADVANCED STUDY OF LIBRARY SCIENCE.

(Advanced, or graduate, study of library science presupposes a year of study in a library school, and at least one year of successful library experience.) The majority of the fellowships available to librarians are for advanced, not elementary, study in library science.

The AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN FELLOWSHIPS listed below are open to American women unless otherwise stated. The Committee on Fellowship Awards grants fellowships in general only to candidates who have completed two years of residence work for the Ph. D. degree or who have already received that degree. The greatest importance is attached to the project on which the candidate wishes to work, -- its significance, and the evidence of the candidate's ability to pursue it.

One application may be made to serve for all the fellowships for which the applicant is eligible, if she so designates. Application must be submitted on the regular application form which will be furnished by the secretary of the Committee on request. Applications and recommendations for these fellowships must reach the secretary of the Committee on Fellowship Awards, 1634 I Street N. W., Washington, D. C., not later than December 1.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN Dorothy Bridgman Atkinson Fellowship, $1500, is open to women who, in addition to holding a bachelor's degree, have completed at least one year of graduate study and give promise of distinction. The field of study is limited to the Arts, Science and Literature. The fellowship is available to women from every section of the country, but all qualifications being equal, preference will be given to a candidate from the Northwest Central Section.

 Fellowship Crusade National Fellowship, $1500, is for graduate study or research, and is awarded only to one who gives promise of distinction in the subject to which she has devoted herself.

 Margaret E. Maltby Fellowship, $1500, is open to those women who show promise of distinction and have a degree in Arts, Science, or Literature.

 Alice Freeman Palmer Memorial Fellowship, $1500, a research fellowship is offered in biennial years to one who has not only the degree of Doctor of Philosophy or Doctor of Science, but who also presents evidence of distinctive subsequent accomplishment in research.

 Julia C.G. Piatt Memorial Fellowship, $1000, is offered triennially to any woman having a degree in Arts, Science, or Literature who intends to make teaching her profession. In general, preference is given to those applicants who have had successful experience in teaching and in addition have completed at least two years of graduate study. The award is based upon evidence of character and ability of the candidate and promise of success in teaching.

The AMERICAN COUNCIL OF LEARNED SOCIETIES GRANTS, up to $500, in aid of research, are made to mature scholars for definite projects already under way in research in the humanistic sciences. Applicants for grants must be citizens or permanent residents of the United States or Canada. The receipt of applications closes in December of each year. All inquiries for information and for application blanks should be addressed to 907 Fifteenth Street, Washington, D.C.

The AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION, under the provisions of a grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, offers a limited number of grants-in-aid for the study of librarianship to residents of the United States and Canada. The purpose of the grants is to encourage and aid persons whose proposed study or research seems likely to prove valuable to the library profession, by enabling them to seek further education in librarianship. It is expected that the results of the studies of successful candidates will be made available to the profession. Candidates should be graduates of approved colleges or universities. Also they should have completed successfully at least one year of work in a library school and have had satisfactory experience in library work. Furthermore, they should present evidence that they are competent to pursue effectively their proposed studies. Under exceptional circumstances, either library training or experience may be waived. The work of candidates who are given awards must be done under the auspices of an educational institution recognized as appropriate for the supervision of their studies, but need not necessarily be done in residence. It is intended that recipients shall give full time to their studies.

The stipend may vary from $750 to $1500 or more, according to the requirements and qualifications of the recipient. Present employment conditions and the need for restraint in recruiting incline the Committee to devote the larger part of these funds to the larger grants. When warranted, the stipend may be renewed for a second year, but a renewal should not be anticipated by any applicant. Grants will be conditional upon the acceptance of the applicant by the institution chosen to administer the work.

Application should be filed before February 1 with the Chairman of the American Library Association Committee on Fellowships and Scholarships, Charles E. Rush, Yale University Library, New Haven, Conn.

The BROOKINGS INSTITUTION RESEARCH TRAINING FELLOWSHIPS form a part of the provision for advanced research training and for research opportunities, which is one of the Institution's major functions. The research fellowships and the cooperative fellowships, the expense of the latter being borne jointly by the Institution and the cooperating university, enable students to gain experience by working in Washington on projects of their own choosing under guidance of mature investigators. The fields in which the Institution is at present best equipped to offer research training are as follows: International economic relations, agricultural economics, power resources, labor and industry, financial organization, marketing, constitutional law, administrative law, tax, budget, and public personnel administration. Ordinarily the stipend, which varies in amount for different classes of applications and upon the merits of each applicant, is paid in part in the form of tuition, board and room at the residence of the Institution and other residence facilities.

Those eligible for fellowships are:

1. Persons who have completed the work for or have taken the Ph.D. degree.
2. Students in the later stages of their graduate work, who have completed all or practically all of the residence and course-work requirements for the Ph. D. degree and who wish to do thesis work in Washington. As it is the purpose of the Institution to supplement the graduate work of universities, it does not itself offer to confer graduate degrees; hence, such students will presumably take their degrees at the universities where they did their post-graduate work.
3. Mature persons without extensive academic training who show evidence of competence to do research work under informal guidance.
