William Greene Ashmore (Experience)

For five years I have made an intensive study of the Southern cotton and textile industries as part of my editorial duties. I have published innumerable articles in Textile World during this period and other articles in daily newspapers. Often I have cooperated with magazines, such as Saturday Evening Post, Fortune, and others when they were interested in articles on the South, although I have never published anything under my own name. Samples of my published works are attached.

No books. My articles have all been in trade magazines or newspapers. It might be mentioned that my specific responsibilities on Textile World are general southern developments, cotton and cotton textile industry, labor, industrial and public relations.

Four-year textile scholarship at Clemson College - $140 per year.
