My dear Mr. Haygood:

I find that I left the office in such a hurry yesterday that I forgot my portfolio -- a black leather one with a zipper -- which contained my notes on the various applicants. I would appreciate it very much if you would kindly hold it until I get back there in May.

I think the meeting went off splendidly, as it did last year. Your painstaking preparation for the meeting of the Committee paid its dividends.

With kindest personal regards,

I am

Sincerely yours,
