

AMERICAN COUNCIL OF LEARNED SOCIETIES

Report on the Administration of Post-doctoral Research Fellowships, 1930-1936.

By D. H. Daugherty, Special Assistant in Executive Offices.

I. ADMINISTRATION AND DISTRIBUTION.

By an action, in April, 1936, of the Executive Committee of the ACIS the program for post-doctoral research fellowships in the Humanities, as formally established in July, 1929 (Bulletin 12, pp. 65ff.), was suspended. This report will review the more tangible results of those six years of activity in the field of post-doctoral fellowships.

The fellowships were created as a result of a special subvention from the Rockefeller Foundation and were intended "to provide opportunities for further training and experience in humanistic research to younger scholars of unusual ability selected from among those who have demonstrated unmistakable aptitude for constructive scholarship." Applications were accepted from all fields of the humanities except the social sciences: philosophy, philology, literature, linguistics, archaeology, art, musicology, cultural and intellectual history were specifically designated in the original program.

To administer the fellowships the Committee on Aid to Research, which since 1926 had directed the distribution of small grants in aid of research, was, in 1929, enlarged and reorganized as the Committee on Fellowships and Grants, and in the executive offices a Secretary for Fellowships and Grants was appointed.

The rules first governing appointments specified that applicants must "be citizens of the United States or Canada or permanently domiciled therein"; that they "must have attained the doctorate or, in judgment of the Committee, its equivalent in training and experience"; that they "must not, ordinarily, be more than thirty-five (35) years of age"; that they "must be possessed of good health and habits and be in sound physical condition". Men and women, married or single, might apply.

The appointments were to be made for one year with possible renewal, "at the discretion of the Committee", for all or part of a second year. The basic annual stipend was set at eighteen hundred dollars for unmarried fellows without dependents with possible additional allowances not exceeding six hundred dollars for those with dependents. Allowances for travel, fees, etc., in addition to the stipend, were provided.

A few modifications were later made in these regulations. Applicants were required to have the doctorate or to have completed all work for the degree except publication of the dissertation. The maximum age was fixed at thirty-six; "i.e., an applicant's thirty-seventh birthday must not antedate July 1 of the year in which awards are made". A unanimous vote by the Committee was made necessary for an award "following immediately upon another post-doctoral fellowship". A physical examination was required.

Because the expressed purpose of the fellowships was the training of younger scholars the regulations governing activities were neither rigid nor detailed. Although it was expected that fellows should give the major portion of their time to research, general study which seemed an essential preliminary to future scholarship was usually sanctioned, sometimes encouraged, particularly in those under-developed fields in which a longer period of specialized training is necessary.

Informal quarterly reports describing progress in research and study, mentioning libraries, museums, monuments visited, and scholars consulted, a detailed final report, and a financial statement were all the immediate return the fellows were asked to make. However, the executive offices, through the Secretary for Fellowships and Grants, endeavored to maintain a close, personal contact with the fellows, particularly after the termination of their fellowships. Fellows were required to send to the ACLS copies of all publications resulting from the fellowship.

The following scholars, listed by years, served on the Committee on Fellowships and Grants:

For 1930:

Chairman, Robert K. Root, Princeton; George L. Hendrickson, Yale; William L. Langer, Harvard; Julian Morgenstern, Hebrew Union; Colbert Searles, Minnesota; James Westfall Thompson, Chicago; Clarence Ward, Oberlin.

For 1931:

Chairman, Root; Thompson; Searles; Dixon R. Fox, Columbia; Albert H. Lybyer, Illinois; Chandler R. Post, Harvard; Berthold L. Ullman, Chicago.

For 1932:

Chairman, Searles; Tucker Brooke, Yale; Fox; Lybyer; Post; George H. Sabine, Cornell; Ullman.

For 1933:

Chairman, Searles; Brooke; Fox; Lybyer; E. Baldwin Smith, Princeton; Sabine; Ullman.

For 1934:

Chairman, Fox; Brooke; George R. Havens, Ohio State; Lybyer; Sabine; Smith; Ullman.

For 1935:

Chairman, Fox; Brooke; Havens; Lybyer; Sabine; Smith; Ullman.

During six years three hundred and seventeen applications from two hundred and sixty-eight persons were received; including renewals of ten months or more but excluding appointments which were declined eighty-three appointments were made to seventy-eight persons.

The projects in research for which support was asked are classified by field in Table I. Some of the projects were of such nature as to make it desirable to classify them under two headings; e.g., Philosophy and History of Science, or Anthropology and Musicology.

Table I.

Distribution of Projects by Field:

Bibliography	2
Linguistics
General	3
American English	1
American Indian	7
Assyrian-Babylonian	1
Australian	1
Balto-Slavic	1
Chinese	2
Germanic	3
Greek	1
Romance	2
Semitic	2
Anthropology	4
Literature and Philology
Classical	7
Comparative	7
English	55
Germanic	5
Medieval	7
Near Eastern	1
French	18
Italian	3
Spanish	7
Slavic	1
Palaeography	6
History
General	7
American	9
Ancient	10
Medieval	6
Modern European	14
Near Eastern	1
Archaeology
Ireland	1
Italy	2
Magna Graecia	10
Near East	3
North America	1
Art and Architecture	25
Musicology	9
Philosophy	48
History of Science	6
Oriental Studies
Near East	10
Indology	4
Japanology	1
Sinology	12

In Table II fellows have been classified according to their fields of study during the fellowship. Although these studies were usually a continuation of those pursued for the doctorate several of the projects were in fields related only indirectly to the graduate major and dissertation. One fellow, for example, shifted his interest from English literature to medieval art; another turned from Slavic philology to Chinese; another, from architecture to Persian archaeology. In no case, however, was a fellow permitted to undertake research for which he was not adequately qualified.

The scheme of classification adopted for Table I is intended to show the wide variety of academic interests which were brought to the critical attention of the Committee; that scheme has been somewhat altered in Table II, where a more general classification has seemed desirable. Only fellows are here included; renewals and appointments which were declined are excluded.

Table II.

Distribution of Fellows by Fields of Study During the Fellowship:

Field of Study	1930	1931	1932	1933	1934	1935	Total
American Indian linguistics and anthropology		1		1	1		3
Special linguistic studies:
Assyrian-						1	1
Babylonian-.....							1
Sumerian							1
Balto-Slavic ..			1				1
Chinese			1				1
Greek					1		1
Classical literature, philology, history, palaeography, and archaeology.....		2	1	3	1	4	11
Medieval history and literature	1	3				2	6
English literature and philology	4	3	1	3	1	2	14
Germanic literature and philology	2	1					3
French literature and philology	1		1	3	3	1	9
Spanish literature and philology	1	2					3
American history			1				1
Modern European history				1	1	2	4
Archaeology:
Ireland				1			1
Near East	1		1	1			3
Art and Architecture ..	2		1	1			4
Philosophy	1		2		1		4
History of science				1			1
Oriental studies:
Near East					1		1
Indology			1				1
Japanology						1	1
Sinology	1			1	2		4
Totals	14	12	11	16	12	13	78

Of the persons who have been fellows sixty-eight were men, ten women; and, of these, thirty-nine were married, two were widowed, one was divorced, and thirty-six were single at the time of application; seventeen were parents. Five fellows married during the period of the fellowship. One German citizen and four Canadian citizens were appointed.

These figures are distributed by years as follows:

Table III. *

Year	Male	Female	Married	Wid.	Div.	Single	Non U.S. Cit.	Children by families	Total children
1930	13	1	7	1		6	2	1,1,1,2,2	7
1931	10	2	7			5		1	1
1932	9	2	2		1	8	1	1,2	3
1933	14	2	10	1		5		1,2,3,3	9
1934	11	1	6			6	2	1	1
1935	11	2	7			6		1,1,1,2	5
Totals	68	10	39	2	1	36	5	-----	26

Seventeen fellows were appointed within the first year after they had received the doctorate; fourteen within the third year; thirteen within the second year; six within the fourth year; six within the fifth year; four within the ninth year; three within the sixth year; and two within the seventh year. Several conditional appointments were made to persons not having the doctorate at the time of application but able to produce evidence that they would receive the degree before the time for entering upon the fellowship.

The following table records only those fellows who had already received the degree at the time of application.

Table IV. **

Year	Number of years after doctorate appointment was made: (Each number represents one fellow)	Average in years
1930	1,1,2,3,3,4,4,4,4,5,9,9	4.08
1931	1,1,2,2,2,3,5,5,6,6	3.30
1932	1,1,2,2,3,3,3,9,9	3.66
1933	1,1,1,2,3,3,3,3,4,6,7,7	3.41
1934	1,1,1,1,2,2,2,2,3,5	1.80
1935	1,1,1,1,2,2,3,3,4,5,5,5	2.75

Average for six years - 3.18

* This table excludes appointments which were declined and renewals.

 The date of the doctorate is taken as of June in the year in which the degree was received; advanced degrees other than the Ph.D. are not counted in this table.

Only five fellows were more than thirty-five years of age at the time of appointment; more than half were from thirty to thirty-five. The average age would, of course, be slightly higher were renewals included in the table below:

Table V. *

Year:	Age at time of appointment:														Av.
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36		41	42
1930		1	1	1	1		1	1	1	1	1	2		1	1	1	32.00
1931						2	2		2	2	1			3			30.75
1932	1					2	2		1	1		2		1	1		30.09
1933		1	1			2		2	2	2	2	1	1	1	1		30.31
1934		2			2	1	2	1		2		2					28.33
1935					1		1	2		5		3	1				30.76
Totals
by years	1	4	2	4	8	7	6	6	13	4	9	4	5	3	1	1	30.42

The distribution of all applicants, excluding renewals, appointments declined, and applications withdrawn before being examined by the Committee, is shown by institution and region in Table VI-A; Table VI-B distributes the applicants by institutions ranked according to the number of fellows and includes only those schools which have provided one or more successful applicants.

Because more than three-fourths of the fellows attended one or more college or university and more than one-third received advanced degrees from two or more different institutions these tables (VI-A and VI-B) give an incomplete picture of the distribution by institutions. Applicants are here classified only according to the institutions at which they had most recently studied at the time of application. There is offered as Table VII of this report a record of all of the institutions at which fellows, at the time of appointment, had received degrees or taught.

Table VI-A.

Distribution of Applicants by Region and Institution according to the Institutions at which they had last studied at the time of application.

	Number of Fellows	Number of Unsuccessful Applicants
New England
Harvard	11	20
Yale	8	16
Radcliffe	1	3
Brown	0	2
Hartford Seminary	0	2
Clark	0	1
Wellesley	0	1
Totals	20	45

* Appointments which were declined are not included in this table; age is considered as of March first of the year of appointment.

Table VI-A (Cont'd.)

	Number of Fellows	Number of Unsuccessful Applicants
Middle Atlantic
Princeton	14	7
Cornell	6	11
Columbia	5	14
Johns Hopkins	2	11
Pennsylvania	2	9
Bryn Mawr	1	3
New York University	0	4
American	0	2
Crozer Seminary	0	1
Dropsie	0	1
George Washington	0	1
Union Theological	0	1
Totals	30	65
South
Duke	1	0
Texas	1	0
North Carolina	0	3
Virginia	0	3
Mississippi	0	1
Totals	2	7
Mid-West
Chicago	5	11
Illinois	4	5
Wisconsin	3	8
Michigan	1	9
Iowa	1	2
Minnesota	0	3
Ohio State	0	2
Indiana	0	1
Marquette	0	1
Totals	14	42
West
California	5	9
Stanford	1	3
Southern California	0	1
Washington (Seattle)	0	1
Totals	6	14
Foreign
(Canadian)
Toronto	0	1
(European)
Oxford	1	1
Bonn	1	0
Cambridge	1	0
Charles	1	0
Cracow	1	0

Table VI-A (Cont'd.)

	Number of Fellows	Number of Unsuccessful Applicants
Foreign
(European) (Cont'd.)
Edinburgh	1	0
London	0	4
Paris	0	3
Berlin	0	2
Vienna	0	2
Dijon	0	1
Hamburg	0	1
Le Saulchoir	0	1
Prague	0	1
Totals	6	17

Table VI-B

Distribution of Applicants by Institutions (Including only those schools providing one or more successful applicants.)

	Number of Fellows	Number of Unsuccessful Applicants
Princeton	14	7
Harvard	11	20
Yale	8	16
Cornell	6	11
California	5	9
Chicago	5	11
Columbia	5	14
Illinois	4	5
Wisconsin	3	8
Johns Hopkins	2	11
Pennsylvania	2	9
Bonn	1	0
Bryn Mawr	1	3
Cambridge	1	0
Charles	1	0
Cracow	1	0
Duke	1	0
Edinburgh	1	0
Iowa	1	2
Michigan	1	9
Oxford	1	1
Radcliffe	1	3
Stanford	1	3
Texas	1	0

* * * *

Table VII.
 Institutional Distribution of Research Fellowships
 1930 - 1936

(Column A shows institutions from which Fellows received the Bachelor's degree; column B, the doctorate or academic equivalent; column C, institutions with which Fellows were affiliated at the time of appointment.)

		A	B	C
NEW ENGLAND
Me.	Bowdoin	1
Vt.	Univ. of Vermont			1
Mass.	Amherst	1
	Boston University			1
	Clark	1
	Harvard	6	8	2
	Mt. Holyoke			1
	Radcliffe	1	1	1
	Wellesley			1
R.I.	Brown			1
Conn.	Wesleyan	1		1
	Yale	5	7	8
MIDDLE ATLANTIC
N.Y.	City College of N.Y.	2
	Columbia	2	6	3
	Cornell	1	5	1
	Hamilton	3
	New York University	1
	Niagara	1
	Rochester	1		1
	Syracuse	1
	Union	1
	Vassar	1		1
	Wells			2
	N.J.	Princeton	4	13	10
	Pa.	Bryn Mawr		1
Univ. of Pennsylvania		1	2	2
Penna. College for Women		1
Temple		1
Md.	Johns Hopkins	1	2
SOUTH
Va.	William and Mary			1
W.Va.	West Virginia Univ.			1
N.C.	Duke		1	2
Ga.	Emory	1
Ala.	Univ. of Alabama	1
La.	Tulane	1
Tenn.	Southwestern	1
Texas	Southwestern Methodist	1
	Univ. of Texas	1	1	1
	Texas Coll. for Women	1

Institutional distribution of fellowships (Cont'd.)

		A	B	C
MIDDLE WEST
Ohio	Kenyon	1
	Marietta	1
	Oberlin	3		1
	Ohio State			1
	Western Reserve	1
Ind.	De Pauw	1
	Indiana Univ.			1
Ill.	Muncie T. C.			1
	Chicago	2	6	3
	Univ. of Illinois	1	4
Mich.	Lombard			1
	Northwestern	1
	Univ. of Michigan	1		2
Wis.	Suomi			1
	Beloit	1
Minn.	Univ. of Wisconsin		3	1
	Univ. of Minnesota	2
Iowa	Univ. of Iowa		1	1
	Luther	1
Mo.	Univ. of Missouri	1		1
	William Jewell	1
N.D.	Minot T. C.			1
Neb.	Univ. of Nebraska	1
Kan.	Baker	1
	Univ. of Kansas	1
WEST
Wash.	Univ. of Washington			1
	State College			1
Ore.	Univ. of Oregon			1
Cal.	Univ. of California	3	5	2
	Univ. of Cal. at L.A.			1
	Cal. Inst. of Tech.			1
	Mills			1
	Stanford	2	1
FOREIGN
Canada	Dalhousie	1
	McGill	1
	Queen's (Ont.)	1
	Toronto	2
Europe	Edinburgh		1
	Oxford		1
	Bonn		1
	Freiburg i. Br.		1
	Vienna		1
	Prague		1
	Cracow			1
Institutions represented	52	23	41

II. ABSTRACTS OF CASES

The most tangible results which may with some plausibility be attributed to fellowships, or in which at least fellowships may be assumed to have had some part, are (1) advances in academic rank and (2) publication. But neither of these criteria can be relied upon for statistical interpretation.

Academic advancement, for example, can be minutely tabulated, but a table could hardly show that a Fellow had made substantial professional advancement when he moved from the rank of assistant professor to that of instructor, as happened in two cases. Nor can any judgment be based on changes in academic status during the depression, which, it must be remembered, profoundly affected the working of the whole fellowship system. Nevertheless, it can be reported that on the basis of incomplete returns from Fellows prior to the 1935 appointments, 22 out of 42 Fellows have received academic advancement; one has abandoned college work, and nineteen have remained in the same academic rank as at the time of appointment. Most of the advances have been from the rank of graduate student and instructor to those of assistant and associate professor; it is perhaps worth noting that the three advances from graduate school to full professorships (in reputable institutions) all occurred in the relatively newly developed fields of fine arts and the history of science.

Bibliographies of publications afford equally unreliable material for statistical treatment, because of the varying publishing practices among different fields and different individuals. One scholar may publish at long intervals books setting forth the results of his research; others issue the material as a series of substantial articles; still others publish a one-page note every few minutes. No account has been taken in the following statement of unpublished works, although the number of such is considerable; nor of works "in preparation". Of some 60 Fellows antedating 1935 concerning whom information is available, 42 have published articles and 21 books; the total number of articles published is approximately 135 at the present time (Aug. 1936). The productivity of the Fellows varies, as may be imagined, from one article to a dozen or more.

It may not be out of place to mention that from the administrative point of view a certain class of fellowships emerges as conspicuously successful. While there was, especially in the early years of the program, some tendency on the part of the Committee on Fellowships and Grants to favor fellowship programs in continuance of work for which the doctorate had been granted, ten awards seem most closely to approximate the ideal of the training fellowships, in that their programs involved either work in a field other than that in which the doctorate was taken or a shift of emphasis with the consequent extension of scholarly equipment. The average success of these appointments (measured, to be sure, somewhat subjectively) is high in comparison with the whole group. It is also perhaps noteworthy that although all but four of the whole roster of Fellows were Doctors of Philosophy or the alternative Master of Fine Arts equivalent, at the time of beginning tenure, three of this selected group still lack that distinction, while two of them took their degrees in fields foreign to their present studies.

There follow the names of ACLS fellows, 1930 through 1934; notes on positions held at the times of appointment and at present; lists of the publications which have resulted from each fellowship; and records of awards in aid of research received subsequent to the fellowship.

Those fellows appointed in 1935 have not been here included because their appointments continued into or through the summer of 1936,

Fellows of 1935-1936 are: Don Cameron Allen, Instructor, English, State College of Washington; Chandler Baker Beall, Associate Professor of French, University of Oregon; George Bechtel, Instructor, Linguistics, Yale; Mary Eloise Bradshaw, post-doctoral student, Slavic history, Columbia; Aubrey Diller, Instructor, Latin and Greek, University of Michigan; Joseph Eddy Fontenrose, Instructor, Greek, University of California; William Emmett Gwatkin, Associate Professor of Classical Languages and Archaeology, University of Missouri; Leo Ingeman Highby, Instructor, German and French, Suomi College (Michigan) (fellowship in classical archaeology); Charles William Jones, Instructor, English, Oberlin; Robert Roswell Palmer, Assistant, History, Cornell; Alexander Coburn Soper, graduate student, Princeton (fellowship in Japanese art); Catherine Boyd Tilton, translator and research assistant, Harvard (fellowship in medieval law); Charles E. Ward, Instructor, English, Duke. Positions are given as of time of appointment.

-1930-1- At the time of his appointment Herrlee G. Creel was Assistant Professor of Psychology, Lombard college; he is now Instructor in History and Oriental Studies, the University of Chicago. His first ACLS fellowship, in 1930, was extended for three months; he was reappointed for a full term in 1932. He was a Harvard-Yenching fellow in 1931, 1933, and 1934. He followed a systematic program of study from 1930 through 1934, working on preliminary backgrounds in the United States, then spending an extended time in the Orient concentrating on the Chinese language and Chinese history. He has published two books and more than a dozen articles as direct results of the combined ACLS and Harvard-Yenching fellowships.

-1930-2- Henry A. Grubbs was Instructor in Romance languages, Princeton, at the time of his appointment; he is now an Assistant Professor in the same department. During his fellowship he worked in the field of seventeenth century French literature; at present he is interested also in Latin American manuscript collections. One monograph and two articles published are direct results of the fellowship.

-1930-3- Frederick W. Hilles at the time of his appointment was Instructor in English, Yale; he is now an Assistant Professor in the same department. One book published is partially a result of the fellowship.

-1930-4- Jess Hamilton Jackson, at the time of application Professor of English, William and Mary, is now Professor and Chairman in that department. He has published one article, prepared several others, and continued work on a larger study in the field of the fellowship. In 1933 he received a Small Grant from ACLS.

-1930-5- Samuel Nathan Kramer, at the time of application teacher in an elementary school, is now an assistant on the staff of the Assyrian Dictionary, at the Oriental Institute, University of Chicago. He has published one article as a direct result of the fellowship and several others in the same general field.

-1930-6- Rensselaer W. Lee, a graduate student at Princeton at the time of application, is now Professor of Art, Northwestern University. He has published one monograph as a direct result of the fellowship and has continued other research then pursued. He has received three small grants from Northwestern to assist this research.

-1930-7- Irving A. Leonard, at the time of application Instructor in Spanish, University of California, is now an Assistant Professor in the same department. The materials he collected as a fellow have resulted in numerous publications; he has continued research and publication in the same general field. He received a Small Grant from ACLS in 1932 and will be a Guggenheim fellow during 1936-1937.

-1930-8- Lester Duncan Longman, a graduate student at the time of application, is now Professor of the History of Art and Head of the Department of Art, University of Iowa (Iowa City). He has included materials collected during the fellowship in the manuscript of a book which has not been published.

-1930-10- Samuel Holt Monk, at the time of application Assistant Professor of English, Southwestern college (Tenn.), is now an Associate Professor there. He was assisted in 1935 by ACLS in the publication of a book which was a direct result of his study as a fellow. He is now preparing two articles which make use of material collected during the fellowship.

-1930-11- Ernest W. Nelson now has the same position he held at the time of application, Assistant Professor of History, Duke. He has continued studies engaged in as a fellow which have resulted in a book to be published soon in the Harpers Rise of Modern Europe Series. His work has been assisted by two grants from the Duke University Research Council.

-1930-12- Ernest Lyman Sabine now has the same position he held at the time of application, Associate Professor of English, Ball State Teachers' College (Ind.). He has published three articles, completed another, as direct results of the fellowship.

-1930-13- Walter Wadepuhl now has the same position he held at the time of application, Assistant Professor of German, West Virginia University. One article and one book, published, are direct results of the fellowship. He was awarded Small Grants by the ACLS in 1932 and 1935. He is now engaged in completing the standard German edition of Heine and the standard Heine biography, at the request of Prof. Ernst Elster who began that work.

-1930-14- Austin Warren, at the time of application Assistant Professor of English, Boston University, is now Professor in the same department. He has published more than twelve articles and one book as direct results of the fellowship; another book is in preparation.

-1931-15- James S. Beddie, at the time of application Professor of History, North Dakota State Teachers' College, is now Associate in Historical Research, Department of State, Washington, D. C. He has published one article as a result of the fellowship and prepared material for a book. Although his studies as a fellow were in medieval history his present occupation confines his work to American history.

-1931-16- Lewis P. Curtis was an Instructor in English, Yale, at the time of application; he is now an Instructor in History in the same institution. His fellowship was renewed in 1932. He published one book as a result of the fellowship. He was awarded a Small Grant jointly by ACLS and SSRC in 1935 for work on a new project growing out of his interests while a Fellow.

-1931-17- Richard Leighton Greene, at the time of application was Assistant Professor of English, Rochester, is now Professor in the same department. Two articles and one book, published, have made use of studies of the fellowship.

-1931-18- Esther V. Hansen, at the time of application Assistant Professor of Classics and History at Wells college, is now Assistant Professor of Latin and Archaeology at Elmira college. One article accepted for publication and an estimated two-thirds of a book completed are partially results of the fellowship.

-1931-19- James Homer Herriott has been since his application Assistant Professor of Spanish, University of Wisconsin. He has continued work on the project of his fellowship and expects eventually to publish the results in three or four volumes, two of which are now completed but unpublished. He received a grant from the University of Wisconsin Graduate Research Committee for the summer of 1936.

-1931-22- Herbert Dean Meritt, a graduate student at the time of application, is now Assistant Professor of English, Leland Stanford. His ACLS fellowship was renewed for ten months in 1932; the following year he held a Sterling fellowship. He has published four articles as results of the fellowship and is now preparing a book in the same subject.

-1931-24- S. Harrison Thomson, at the time of application Assistant Professor of History, California Institute of Technology, is now Professor of Medieval History, University of Colorado. His fellowship was renewed in 1932, and he was given also a small grant for the summer of 1935. He has published a number of articles as results of the fellowship and has completed the manuscript of a book.

-1931-25- Willard Thorp has been since application Assistant Professor of English, Princeton. One book, edited, and two articles were published as direct results of the fellowship; the Council of the Humanities, Princeton, assisted the publication of the book.

-1931-26- Robert H. Williams, at the time of application Instructor in Spanish at Brown, is now an Assistant Professor in the same department. He has published one article as a direct result of the fellowship.

-1932-28- Harry Blumberg, at the time of application teacher in an elementary school, now holds a similar position. He has published one article and is completing the editing of a book sponsored by the Mediaeval Academy. These are partially the results of his fellowship.

-1932-29- Isabel Mac Beath Calder, at the time of appointment Assistant Professor of History, Wells College, is now an Associate Professor in the same department. She published one book and one article as results of the fellowship and has produced other publications in the same field.

-1932-32- Lancaster E. Dabney, at the time of application Adjunct Professor of Modern Languages, University of Texas, is now Assistant Professor in the same department. He has published two articles as direct results of the fellowship and is continuing research in the same field.

-1932-34- Cyrus H. Gordon, at the time of application Epigrapher at the American School of Oriental Research, Baghdad, is now Research Fellow for the Oriental Seminary, Johns Hopkins University. He has published sixteen articles as results of the fellowship. He was awarded an ACLS Small Grant for the summer of 1936.

-1932-35- Theodore M. Greene, at the time of application Associate Professor of Philosophy, Princeton, now holds the same position. He has continued the studies of his fellowship and expects to publish the results in a book; he has been assisted by a grant from the Humanities Council of Princeton.

-1932-37- Joseph J. Raymond, a graduate student at the time of application, is now Instructor in Latin and Lithuanian, Marianopolis College. He has not yet published.

-1932-40- Autrey Nell Wiley, since the time of application Associate Professor of English, Texas State College for Women, has published three articles as direct results of the fellowship; she has also prepared a manuscript of 552 pages and submitted it to MLA, asking that it be recommended to ACLS for assistance to publication.

-1933-41- Jacques Barzun has been since the time of application Instructor in History, Columbia. He now has ready for publication a book which is partially a result of the fellowship.

-1933-42- Philip H. Davis has been since his application Professor of Latin at Vassar. As results of the fellowship he has published two articles and has a book in preparation.

-1933-43- Madeleine Doran, at the time of application Instructor in English at Wellesley, is now Instructor in English at the University of Wisconsin. As results of her fellowship she has published two articles and editions of two plays.

-1933-44- Mark William Eccles, at the time of application Assistant in English, Harvard, is now Lecturer in English, University of Wisconsin. He has published six articles as results of the fellowship.

-1933-46- Edward B. Ham, at the time of application Research Associate in French, Princeton, is now Assistant Professor of French, Yale. He has published one monograph and edited one book which are partially results of the fellowship.

-1933-47- Hugh O'Neill Hencken, at the time of application Assistant Curator of European Archaeology, Peabody Museum, is now Curator there. He has published one article and arranged for the publication of one monograph as direct results of the fellowship; he has published numerous works in the same general field. His researches in the archaeology of Ireland, which continue, have been assisted by funds from ACLS (1934 and 1935), the Milton Fund of Harvard, the Irish Free State Public Works, the Government of Northern Ireland, the Rockefeller Foundation, the Peabody Museum, and the National Museum of Dublin.

-1933-48- Rozelle Parker Johnson, at the time of application Assistant Professor of Classics, University of Vermont, is now Instructor in Classics, Brown. He has published or had accepted for publication five articles as direct results of the fellowship.

-1933-49- Hunter Kellenberger, teacher in an elementary school at the time of application, was Instructor in French, Princeton, in 1934-1935; continued illness has prevented his teaching or attempting other work since that time.

-1933-50- Adele J. Kibre has been since her application Research Assistant, University of Chicago; in that capacity she is now working at the American Academy in Rome where she is collaborating with Professor Beeson. Since her fellowship she has been assisted by the Rockefeller Foundation and the Casey A. Wood Foundation.

-1933-51- Cyrus H. Peake, since the time of application has been Lecturer in Chinese at Columbia. He has published or had accepted five articles as direct results of the fellowship.

-1933-55- Morris Swadesh, since the time of application has been Research Assistant in Linguistics, Yale. Some of the results of studies during the fellowship will appear in a book on which he is collaborating with Professor Sapir.

-1933-56- Daniel Varney Thompson, at the time of application Assistant Professor of Art, Yale, is now Research Assistant, Institute of Art, University of London. As results of the fellowship he has published one book and nine articles. He has also been assisted by a small grant from the University of London.

-1934-57- Harcourt Brown, a graduate student at the time of application, is now Professor and Head of the Department of French, Washington University (St. Louis). He has published several things as results of the fellowship (bibliography at present not available). He is the founder and editor of a new quarterly, Annals of Science.

-1934-60- Solomon Katz, a graduate student at the time of application, became, the year following his fellowship, Assistant Professor of Classics, University of Oregon; in 1936 he resigned from that position and refused a grant in aid of research from the Oregon State System of Higher Education in order to become Instructor in History, University of Washington (Seattle). He is preparing a book which will incorporate materials gathered during the fellowship.

-1934-63- Walter T. Pattison has been since his application Assistant Professor of Romance Languages, Wesleyan University. He has continued the study pursued during the fellowship and has been assisted by a small grant from the Wesleyan Research Committee.

-1934-64- Isaac Rabinowitz, at the time of application adviser to Jewish students at Yale, is now engaged in editorial work for the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. He has not published.

-1934-65- Arshag O. Sarkissian, a graduate student at the time of application, is now Research Assistant in History, University of Illinois. He has published two articles as direct results of the fellowship and plans to use in a book other materials then collected.

-1934-67- John William Stanton has been Instructor in History, University of Michigan, since his application. His chief interest is Oriental history and politics. He has published one article and completed one book as results of the fellowship.

-1934-68- Charles F. Voegelin, at the time of application Technical Assistant in the Berkeley (California) Institute of Child Welfare, is now Assistant Professor of Anthropology, De Pauw University.

No recent report has been received from the fellows listed below; consequently, an accurate record of their present positions cannot be given, and the lists of their publications resulting from the fellowship are incomplete. Those entries marked  contain information returned in a follow-up report in 1934.

-1930-9- Georgiana Melvin at the time of application was Associate Professor of Philosophy, Mills College. During her fellowship she completed three essays, copies (typed) of which were deposited in the ACLS offices.

-1931-20- Leslie Webber Jones, at the time of application Assistant Professor of Latin, University of California, was later appointed Assistant Professor of Classical Languages, College of the City of New York, New York, N. Y., and in order to accept that position he resigned his fellowship after two months. He has published several studies in the general field of the fellowship.

-1931-21- Alexander Lesser at the time of application was engaged in research under a grant from the Columbia University Council for Social Science. He has published three articles and one book which are partially results of the fellowship.

-1931-27- Evelyn Faye Wilson, at the time of application a Longfellow fellow, in Europe, was later appointed Assistant Professor of History, University of Maine. She has published one article as a result of the fellowship.

-1932-30- Frederick Mason Carey at the time of application was Associate Professor of Greek, University of California in Los Angeles. In 1934 he reported three manuscripts nearly ready for publication as direct results of the fellowship.

-1932-31- Denzel Ray Carr at the time of application was Lector in Japanese, University of Cracow. During the fellowship he published one monograph. After serving as Acting Director of the Oriental Institute, University of Hawaii, he is now engaged in linguistic study at Yale.

-1932-33- Murray Barnson Emeneau, at the time of application a Sterling Fellow, Yale, was later made Instructor in Linguistics, Yale. He published four articles as direct results of the fellowship and has produced other publications in the same general field.

-1932-38- Benjamin Rowland, at the time of application Tutor in Fine Arts, Harvard, was later appointed Instructor in the same department. He has published at least one article as a result of the fellowship.

- 1933-45- Benjamin Ginzburg at the time of application was Assistant Editor of the Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences. He has published at least one article as a result of the fellowship.
- 1933-52- Paul Frederic Saintonge at the time of appointment was Assistant Professor of Romance Languages, Mt. Holyoke College. One unpublished volume has resulted from his work as Fellow.
- 1933-53- Chauncey Elwood Sanders at the time of application was Assistant Professor of English, University of Indiana. He has published one article as a result of the fellowship.
- 1933-54- Myron Bement Smith, at the time of appointment general secretary of the American Institute for Persian Art and Archaeology, has been since then engaged in archaeological research in Persia. He has been further assisted to remain at his research by funds from ACIS. He has published a number of studies during this period. Before entering the field of Persian archaeology he was an architect.
- 1934-58- Procope Sarantos Costas, at the time of appointment Research Assistant, University of Chicago, is now Assistant Professor of Latin, Whitman College.
- 1934-59- Eleanor Beata von Erdberg at the time of appointment was employed by the Oriental Department of the Fogg Museum. Her fellowship took her to China and Japan; she was reappointed for 1935-1936 and is still in the Orient.
- 1934-61- Milan Silvanus La Du at the time of application was Research Assistant, Romance languages, Princeton.
- 1934-66- Wilbur Lang Schramm at the time of application was Research Associate, English, University of Iowa. He published one small book and three articles as results of the fellowship.
- 1934-62- Henry Alonzo Myers at the time of application was Assistant, English, Cornell. He has published four articles as results of the fellowship and has other work in preparation.

August, 1936.

