Dear Mr. Haygood:

Answering your letter of June 13, while we at Studebaker have given some thought to providing scholarships to certain of our workers, our plans are still in such an embryonic state that they would be of no value to you. As a matter of fact, when you complete your research on this subject, we would be most interested in learning of your conclusions.

Sincerely yours,

President

Dear Mr. Haygood:

Your letter of June 13 addressed to Mr. Dahlberg has been referred to me for attention as I am the officer handling research for the company.

In the first place, may I say that we do not have any scholarships for students or for research workers. You will appreciate that during the war period many of these activities dropped by the wayside. This company is now in the process of reorganizing and strengthening its research work. In fact, we have a new Director of Research - Dr. Wallace Waterfall - who will report for duty July 1. I rather expect that during the year we may have something to offer in this line but at the moment we have nothing to report.

Very truly yours,

Chris L. Christensen
Vice President
