Dear Mr. Stern:

You will find attached correspondence from Superintendent C. M. Hirst and Doctor Nolan M. Irby of Arkansas, relative to some aid in making a survey of three to five selected counties in Arkansas. You will notice that they plan surveys which will result in model county programs, and recommendations ultimately affecting every Negro child in the state. They are asking for $100 a county, but Fred and I feel that with $200 for clerical expenses, materials, etc., they should be able to cover at least four counties, the Fund's share of the expense not to exceed $50 a county. The state men would get none of this aid as they have their salaries and traveling expenses paid by the General Education Board. Since these new men are exceptionally qualified for this task and are ambitious to do it, it seems to us to be a fine thing to give them the opportunity. If you and Mr. Embree approve, you could transfer this amount from the $425,000 schoolhouse construction budget. The General Education Board assisted them in surveying the white schools of several counties last year, but it seems that they were unable to take up the program for the colored at that time. I think it is necessary to have such surveys before the colored schools can participate fully in the State Fund for schoolhouse consolidation. Mr. McCuistion is very hopeful that this can be done, but he hesitates to push the matter since it is in his own state.

Sincerely,

S. L. Smith

Subject: Special allocation of funds
to county studies in Arkansas

Dear Mr. Smith: I talked with Mr. Embree regarding the above. We are very much interested in seeing the counties under state supervision make these studies. It will be an exception for us to give funds for them. Recently Mr. Newbold appealed to us for an appropriation for an extensive state-wide study which is the outgrowth of a conference in North Carolina pertaining largely to teacher training institutions. Mr. Embree turned this appeal down on the basis that the General Education Board is in a better position to interest itself in this type of study than we are.

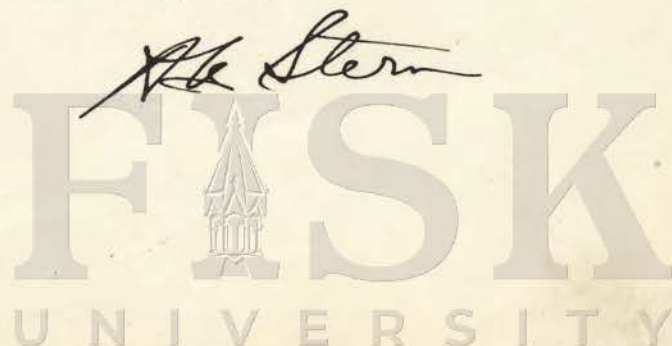

In approving the request from Arkansas, we will do so on the basis that it pertains to the school-house construction program directly and is therefore an extension of the work to which we are at present committed. It ~~will~~ ^{may} be best though not to have it disclosed where these funds are coming from as otherwise it might embarrass us with other states.

We are not clear as to what fund you plan to charge this against in the present budget. Possibly it could be best construed in connection with the $5,000. appropriation to fellowships. In fact, Mr. Embree suggested that for next year this heading be enlarged to "studies and fellowships". Before finally deciding on where this item will be charged, I wish you would secure a statement from the Arkansas people as to the total amount in which we will be involved on the basis of the figures which you think are adequate to cover expenses as mentioned in your letter.

Sincerely yours,

Subject: Special allocation of funds
to county studies in Arkansas

Dear Mr. Stern: We talked over with the officials last week while in Little Rock the matter of the studies to be made with a view to setting up consolidations and high school programs in a few counties of Arkansas. While several counties are asking for these studies, Dr. Irby and Mr. Ed McCuistion feel that they will be able to make studies in four, or possibly five counties this year. I suggest that you authorize us to pay this out of the fellowship or studies fund set up on our books, the total not to exceed $50 a county and the grand total not to exceed $250. Or if preferred, we could take it from the unallocated construction budget. Possibly the former would be better than the latter but it could be construed under either since the objective is a building program based on studies.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Irby: I have looked over your survey of Little River County with much interest and feel that you have done a valuable constructive piece of work and on the basis of data collected showing existing conditions, have outlined a progressive program which will be most helpful to Superintendent Willis and the various district boards of the county in charting their future school programs and procedures.

I have taken the liberty on page 8 to add a column after total enumerations showing the average per capita wealth for each child. This is for my own use but I believe you would find it helpful to the districts to reduce it to a per capita basis so that they can make comparisons easily. It is interesting to note that the lowest wealth in a district for each child enumerated is $577, and the highest, $8,286, while the average for all districts in the county is $855. This certainly shows great inequality in opportunity since the tax rate is almost uniform. It would require over twenty times more millage for this district with the lowest per capita wealth than for the one with the highest if every child is to have equal opportunity based on per pupil income or expenditure.

As I see it, this study, as well as the other two which you have reported to this office clearly demonstrates the need for consolidation of districts and ultimately a county-wide program in order to give every child of the county equal opportunity. While the inequalities for all children, both white and colored, are distressingly great, no doubt the expenditures of the colored children compared with that of the whites are even at greater variance. I think you are attacking the problem in the right way, trying to enlarge or consolidate the districts first in an effort more nearly to equalize opportunities for all as the first step; then, as a second step the objective should be to raise the opportunities for the colored children in a given enlarged unit as nearly as possibly up to the level of that of the whites.

I feel that the results of your studies have clearly demonstrated the wisdom of our appropriation to assist in carrying them on.

I was particularly struck with your age-grade table #9 showing that almost three-fourths of the children are over age according to their own classifications. In the first, second and third grades it is both distressing and encouraging to see the large number of over-age children ranging from eight up to eighteen years of age. No doubt an educational test would reduce the normal very much lower. As 30% of all children in the county are enrolled in the first two grades and 98% in the first eight grades it would seem that much stress should be placed on the early elementary grades with continued effort through the eighth grade. This does not mean that there should be any let-up in efforts to maintain at least one good high school. It is necessary in the training of teachers and in furnishing a stimulus to the upper elementary grades to remain on through until they reach high school.

Sincerely,

ELS:mc

Dear Mr. Smith:

I am pleased that you took the time to go through the Little River County Survey as thoroughly as you did and accept your amendment to the table on Page 6. I shall attempt to add those figures in future surveys.

While we accept the ten year program as outlined by Mr. Mc Cuiston, it has seemed necessary to shift emphasis a bit. We have centered our efforts largely upon the elementary rural school needs. It may interest you to know that this year, the first year such an attempt has been made, we will have around eighty rated (standardized) negro elementary schools. We supplied the teachers with material showing what was necessary. The result was surprising. In most cases where the necessary changes were not prohibitive because of cost, the teacher saw to it that her school was rated, or has set up plans for securing rating next year.

This effort did not necessarily slow up our work with high schools this year. We will have more accredited schools this year than last. In order to protect the elementary school, we have used the same plan as is being used in white schools - no high school can be rated higher than its supporting elementary schools. This ruling effectively prevents the centering of all expenditures upon the high school.

Prof. R. C. Childress has been invaluable in this work. It was impossible for me to see all elementary schools and carry on other necessary work, so Prof. Childress has undertaken the brunt of the labor there.

note The end of my first year finds me with definite plans carrying over into the future. One plan is to continue the survey work until all counties have a plan of consolidation. I have been unwilling to recommend buildings until a tentative survey of needs and future growth has been made. I am not certain that the surveys can be presented in mimeograph form for distribution. The State Department is having to retrench and our present clerical force is not sufficient to do the additional work. This, however, will not prevent a rough draft being prepared for the use of the county superintendent.

The average situation is deplorable. The causes are poor supervision, poor teaching, ill-adjusted courses of study, short terms, non-promotion without sufficient reason, and lack of physical equipment. Perhaps there are other reasons, but the above list gives a place for attack.

We are having no difficulty in securing consolidations. In fact we have reached the point where the setting up of larger units becomes a problem. We have very few negro principals well enough trained to assume such responsible positions. This situation has caused me to teach classes this summer at the A. M. & N. College, Pine Bluff, and at Philander Smith College, Little Rock. There are about eighty men and women - mostly men - taking the two courses which have for their purpose clarifying the duties of principals and setting up as nearly as possible rule of thumb procedure. I am glad to donate my time for this very necessary work.

We shall clear up our building inspections by June 20, and have reports reach you immediately afterwards. We have some buildings ready to start after new plans and blanks reach us.

I appreciate your letter of constructive criticism and interesting comment.

March 5, 1936

Dear Dr. Irby: It was a delight to have the days with you in Arkansas. The meeting of the Jeanes teachers was interesting and so were all of the other things that I saw, but the thing I enjoyed most was a chance to visit with you and to talk in a not too hurried fashion with you and others about matters of common interest.

I was particularly interested in the two one-teacher schools. I must confess that I was disappointed in the one near Pine Bluff, for, while the teacher was doubtless a stimulating personality and while the children were in a free and easy attitude of learning, the whole place was so unkempt and disorderly that I can but feel it is not a particularly good influence, at least in that aspect of living known as home making. On the other hand, I was completely pleased with everything that I saw in Spring Valley, even at the experience in the mud - since we got out of it. The hot luncheon is certainly an addition that must mean a good deal to the physical development and general welfare of the children and the whole atmosphere was so wholesome and eager that even without objective tests or a very long period of observation I am convinced that education of the first order is going on.

Just to prove that I was not speaking in the heat of the moment, I hereby record my offer to put up $50 a year for each of three years to provide equipment in similar one-teacher schools conducted by "average teachers." As I have thought it over, I begin to believe that you may not have been as far off as I first thought in your claim that an average teacher can do the kind of job that is being done in the two schools I visited. I think the difference, however, is not so much in the equipment that is offered as in the stimulation and guidance which you and your associates give. This may be a very important point for us all to keep in mind. We might be able to improve greatly the average teaching if we could provide some stimulation, some supervision, and a feeling of being in an important adventure to more and more of the teachers.

I have also retained through the vicissitudes of ten days' travel after I left you my interest in the possibility of a journal aimed at southern rural schools, usable by both pupils and teachers. This, of course, is a big project. No one would want to undertake it without a lot of thought and planning, but it still seems to me something well worth keeping in mind.

Dear Dr. Irby: I had not realized how strong a Scotch influence there was in your ancestry! You remember perfectly well that my outside offer was $50 each to a maximum of three schools - and here you come along suggesting $150 a year for a three-year period! Such shrewdness should have some reward. What do you say, therefore, to this proposal? Regard yourself as entitled to $50 each for three schools for the coming year and let us hold open the question of further support either to these or to other schools for a second or third year.

I am inclined to agree that we can get a good deal more evidence from three schools operating at once on this basis than from simply an individual school each year. It will be interesting to see what can be done by simply the little additional equipment made possible by the $50 and by the stimulation given to the teachers by having special supervision and attention and feeling themselves a part of a demonstration.

I quite agree with you that one of the best parts of these little projects is the fact that I and my associates will have to visit Arkansas more frequently. The best greetings to all the Irbys from me and your many friends in this organization, especially the Simons and Dr. Davis and George Sanchez.

The $150.00 that the Julius Rosenwald Fund gave to Arkansas, 1936-37, with which to purchase some teaching equipment for three Arkansas rural schools has proved to be such an excellent investment that I recommend that the amount be increased to $500.00 for 1937-38, and the number of schools to be aided increased to ten.
