Council to prioritize long list of projects

DESIGNS: The Frank Gehry designed project on Ocean Ave. will return for review this year.

KATE CAGLE
Daily Press Staff Writer

With a looming backlog of proposed projects headed to their desks over the next few years, the City Council will prioritize various planning initiatives at their Tuesday night public meeting,

"The identification of ambitious and laudable goals does not automatically produce results," says the staff report by director David Martin. "It is critically important that planning be grounded in the capacity of City government and private real estate market forces and property owners to actually implement adopted policies."

Here are the recommendations from Martin:

PICO NEIGHBORHOOD PLAN

At the top of the priority list for staff are the Pico Neighborhood Plan, implementing new CEQA guidelines from the state and updating the landmarks ordinance to remove ambiguous language. The Pico plan will address zoning issues to protect the neighborhood from gentrification and retain affordable housing. Martin says the bulk of the $150,000 program budget will be used to conduct multi-lingual outreach before developing zoning revisions. The revisions may include looking at the rules for combining residentially-zoned lots in the neighborhood and parking requirements.

MEMORIAL PARK

The design process for Memorial Park will begin this year after being shelved while staff prioritized the newly completed Downtown Community Plan. Memorial Park will involve rezoning about 70 acres of formerly industrial land centered on the Expo Light Rail station at 17th Street and Colorado. Staff anticipates finishing the plan and environmental analysis sometime next year.

"MANSIONIZATION OF SANTA MONICA"

Both the Council and the Planning Commission have requested further review of zoning standards for residential neighborhoods over concerns of the "mansionization" of Santa Monica. The earliest staff could review the standards is the second half of Fiscal Year 2018/19, although an interim ordinance could take a

Election season begins in Santa Monica

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

It is an election year in Santa Monica and voters will elect 14 people to the different entities that govern the city in 2018.

This year's elections include four seats on School Board (Oscar de la Torre, Craig Foster, Laurie Lieberman and Richard Tahvildaran-Jesswein), three on City Council (Kevin McKeown, Pam O'Connor and Sue Himmelrich), three on the Rent Control Board (Nicole Phillis, Steve Duron and Todd Flora) and four for the Santa Monica College Board (Nancy Greenstein, Louise Jaffe, Barry A. Snell and Andrew Walzer). Los Angeles County Supervisor Sheila Kuehl, who covers Santa Monica, will also be up for reelection.

The nomination period this year will be July 16 through August 10 with a possible five-day extension for each race if an incumbent does not file. The nomination period requires candidates to fill out the required paperwork and gather signatures.

City Hall has begun exploring a potential ballot measure that would require a supermajority to approve some developments. The council has the ability to draft a measure and add it to the ballot over the next six months. However, time is running out for potential ballot measures proposed by outside organizations.

Local firefighters recall Thomas Fire inferno

KATE CAGLE
Daily Press Staff Writer

The wildfire spread like the devil skipping stones.

Sparks flew through hot Santa Ana winds saturated with ash, bounced off metal gutters and wedged into roof shingles where they smoldered into a blaze.

Looking back, the handful of Santa Monica firefighters who drove into the midnight inferno on Dec. 4 had no idea they were headed to the start of the biggest wildfire in California history. When they reached Ventura County there was no command post yet. No "central com." No disaster declaration. A 50 acre brush rapidly spread out of control as families evacuated, packing up their loved ones and leaving everything else to fate.

Local firefighter Dominick Bei refers to that night as "the first 36," as in the first 36 hours of what turned into twelve sleepless days battling the Thomas Fire.

"Every house was completely engulfed in flames," Bei said, who had never seen anything like it in his near decade of service. "Every corner you turned there was a new house on fire."

The fire was spreading too quickly to save every house. Sheer instinct directed decisions over where to point hoses filled with precious water.

"We were just taking initiative and going to homes that were on fire next to homes that could be saved," said Captain Johnny Maccini who led the initial attack.

Pacific Palisades

St. Matthew's Music Guild continues its 33rd season of concerts in Pacific Palisades

St. Matthew's Music Guild will present the next in its 33rd season of concerts in Pacific Palisades on Friday, January 19, 8 p.m., featuring Chatham Baroque, one of the country's premiere baroque instrumental ensembles and one the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette called "One of Pittsburgh's greatest treasures." The program is entitled "Awake Sweet Love: Songs and Suites of Olde England" and features the core instrumental trio plus Pascale Beaudin, soprano, Cynthia Black, baroque violin, David Morris, bass viol, and David Walker, theorbo and baroque guitar.

Soprano Pascale Beaudin writes, "From the lute songs of Robert Johnson, to the French influence on Henry Purcell's writing, to Handel's Italianate oratorios, Baroque English music is extremely varied. One thing is true of all English composers: their vocal music reflects the bounciness, liveliness, and distinct flavor of the English language."

Sir Roger North, who chronicled musical life in late seventeenth-century England, applauded Purcell's special genius, referencing his ability to, "match the inflections of the English language to sublime melodies." North also noted a particular habit of Charles II, saying, "and it was and is yet a mode among the Monsieurs, always to 'act' the music – tap the beat with their feet – which habit the King had got and never in his life could endure any that he could not 'act' keeping the time, which made the common andante or else the 'step tripla' ye only musical styles in court at his time."

Along with songs and instrumental works by Johnson and Purcell, Chatham Baroque will offer a pair of "Royal Consort Sets" by William Lawes, arias from Purcell's stage works The Virtuous Wife and the Fairy Queen and traditional "airs" including the beloved "Greensleeves."

Chatham Baroque has been exciting audiences for 25 years with dazzling technique and lively interpretations of music of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries played on copies of instruments from that period. The artistically nimble ensemble of Andrew Fouts (violin), Patricia Halverson (viola da gamba), and Scott Pauley (theorbo) curates the finest of guest artists to perform with them throughout the season, allowing for repertoire ranging from well-known masterpieces to obscure gems. They also tour nationally and internationally and present numerous early childhood and community outreach programs.

The ensemble has recorded seven CDs on the Dorian label and three independent CDs on the Chatham Baroque label, the latest of which is "No Holds Barred."

Soprano Pascale Beaudin began her career on stage with the Atelier Lyrique de l'Opera de Montreal. She appears on operatic stages in Canada (Opéra de Québec), in France (Angers-Nantes Opéra, Opéra de Marseille, Opéra National de Lorraine, Opéra de Metz) and the United States (Opera Lafayette) in roles such as Zerlina, Papagena, Fiordiligi, Oscar, Adèle de Formoutiers and Nannetta. The New York Times praised her shimmering voice and girlish sassiness, while the Washington Post reported that she sang "the aria 'Per pieta' with such deliberate quiet elegance and restraint that it was a highlight not just of the evening, but also of my year."

Proud of her Acadian heritage, Pascale Beaudin frequently performs at home, with Symphony New Brunswick and Opera New Brunswick, as well as at the Lamèque International Baroque Music Festival, the Indian River Chamber Music Festival and the Barachois Summer Music Festival.

Pascale Beaudin has received national recognition with government grants from the Canadian Arts Council, the Conseil des arts et lettres du Québec and the Jacqueline Desmarais Foundation.

Guest artists Cynthia Black, David Morris, and David Walker perform extensively with baroque ensembles from Appolo's Fire, Philharmonia Baroque Orchestra and the Smithsonian Chamber Players to early music festivals in Boston, Bloomington, Carmel and across Europe.

The concert is underwritten by the Edwin W. Pauley Foundation.

All concerts in the Music Guild's series take place on Fridays at 8pm, in the architecturally and acoustically exciting St. Matthew's Church, 1031 Bienveneda Ave., Pacific Palisades. Admission is $35. The Music Guild offers discounted season passes. For more information, visit the Music Guild website: MusicGuildOnline.org or call (310) 573-7422.

Trains or the bus?

Dear EarthTalk:

I always assumed the train was the greenest form of mass transit, but a friend told me I would be better off taking the bus. Could this be true?

Jane McNeil
New York, NY

MOST OF US ASSUME THAT TRAIN travel—whether for getting around town, commuting to work or for long hauls—is the most eco-friendly mass transit "mode." Indeed, trains seem greener, with some relying exclusively on electricity while others utilize a single diesel-powered locomotive to pull dozens of passenger cars.

But even though trains are no slouch when it comes to fuel efficiency, buses, even though they spew diesel exhaust and get only about six miles per gallon, may be even better.

"The reason ... is that they are usually full of people, giving [buses] the highest miles per gallon per passenger, at 208," reports CNN's Steve Hargreaves based on his research digging into Department of Energy data. He adds that trains are the next best choice for the eco-conscious traveler, whether commuting or doing a longer haul. "A city train (think subway or light rail) gets 52 mpg per passenger (or the equivalent, if it's electric), while a commuter train—usually used to connect the suburbs to a city—gets about 44 mpg per passenger."

A landmark 2013 study in Environmental Science and Technology by researchers at the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis (IIASA) and the Center for International Climate and Environmental Research (CICERO) backs up these findings. The researchers found that bus travel noses out rail travel in fuel efficiency and carbon impact on typical business or holiday trips ranging from 500-1000 kilometers (300-600 miles), generating only about 20 percent of the per passenger emissions as driving alone in a typical gas-powered car.

"Motor coaches leave carbon in the dust," reports the non-profit Union of Concerned Scientists (UCS), adding that a couple can cut their travel carbon emissions in half by boarding a motor coach instead of taking their Prius. "And if they take the motor coach rather than flying, they will cut their emissions by 55 to 75 percent, depending on the distance they travel." And given that many bus companies have ditched their old buses in favor or new models replete with not only more efficient engines but also reclining seats, on-board entertainment and WIFI, the bus could become your new favorite way to travel.

Though buses are the current green leader, trains are catching up fast. All of Amtrak's trains in its busiest Northeast Corridor now eschew the old diesel generators that used to power their locomotives, and run instead on an increasingly renewable supply of electricity. Some $10 billion in investment in high-speed rail by the Obama administration means trains are getting more efficient across the country as well.

While Candidate Trump promised he would pour hundreds of millions of dollars into further boosting high-speed rail infrastructure, his 2018 budget does more to decimate Obama's progress on the issue than augment it. Whether he will follow through with a plan to further bolster U.S. rail travel remains to be seen. In the meantime, while trains remain a viable green choice, choosing Greyhound over Amtrak might be the better option for the time being.

Olympic Gold Medalist Dr. Tommie Smith to talk at SMC Martin Luther King, Jr. Celebration

Santa Monica College (SMC) and the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Westside Coalition have announced that Dr. Tommie C. Smith, the acclaimed gold medalist in the 200-meter sprint at the Games of the XIX Olympiad in Mexico City, will be the keynote speaker at the birthday celebration for Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. The celebration will be held on Monday, January 15, at the SGI-USA World Peace Ikeda Auditorium, 525 Wilshire Blvd.

The free event – one of the largest and most diverse celebrations of its kind in Southern California – is scheduled for 9 a.m. The event is presented by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Westside Coalition, a nonprofit coalition whose mission is consistent with King's legacy. Event co-sponsors are the City of Santa Monica, SGI-USA, Santa Monica College, the SMC Associates (www.smc.edu/associates), the RAND Corporation, CityTV-Santa Monica, Santa Monica Library, the Human Relations Council, and a variety of other organizations, individuals, and corporate contributors.

This year's celebration marks the event's 33rd anniversary and embraces the theme "Never Lose Hope: Unity Wins." The multi-ethnic, interfaith program will include inspirational readings, speakers, music, and Education Awards. Immediately following the program, a Community Involvement Fair offering refreshments and informational displays by a variety of community organizations will be held nearby at the Grand Pavilion of St. Monica's Church, 701 California Ave., Santa Monica. Attendees are invited to bring along a new pair of socks to donate to The People Concern (thepeopleconcern.org).

Dr. Smith, who retired in 2005 after 27 years as a faculty member at SMC, is the only man in the history of track and field to hold 11 world records simultaneously. In 1968, he stood wearing his gold medal on the Olympic victory platform and – in a historic stand for black power, liberation, and solidarity – raised a clenched fist covered in a black leather glove. His courageous gesture propelled him into yet another spotlight as a human rights spokesperson, activist, and symbol of African American pride. Dr. Smith received an honorary doctorate degree (LHD) from San Jose State University in 2005, and is also the recipient of numerous awards from colleges, universities, numerous Halls of Fame, and municipal governments in both the United States and abroad. He is also included in the Smithsonian's National Museum of African American History and Culture.

EMMY Award Winning Composer Bruce Broughton to be Honored by the New West Symphony

Ten-time EMMY Award-winning composer Bruce Broughton will be presented with the New West Symphony's "Bravo Award for Musical Excellence" at a special gala January 20 at Le Méridien Delfina Hotel in Santa Monica.

The gala will include a performance of many of Broughton's popular film and television music performed by New West Symphony musicians, many of whom are stars themselves in the Hollywood studio recording industry.

Broughton, a resident of Bel Air, is best known for his many film scores including Silverado (which earned him an Academy Award nomination), Tombstone, The Rescuers Down Under, The Presidio, Miracle on 34th Street and the Homeward Bound adventures and Harry and the Hendersons. His scores for television range from mini-series like Roughing It and The Blue and Gray to TV movies (Warm Springs, O Pioneers!) and countless episodes of television series such as Dallas, Quincy, Hawaii Five-O and How the West Was Won.

A concert composer as well, Broughton has been commissioned by the New West Symphony to create a piece for string quartet and orchestra, titled Salmagundi, that will make its world premiere with the Lyris Quartet and the New West Symphony on January 25 at Barnum Hall in Santa Monica. Tickets to the gala include admission to that concert or, if the guest prefers, tickets to see violin superstar Pinchas Zukerman who will perform with the New West Symphony and conduct the orchestra March 9 at The Broad Stage in Santa Monica

The January 20 Gala will also include a musical tribute to Broughton by the New West Symphony Harmony Project of Ventura County, a youth development program that provides underserved families in the community the opportunity to participate in music—from seeing the orchestra live in concert, to putting musical instruments directly into the hands of children and providing free instruction and the support they need to thrive.

Tickets for the gala are $250 (or $200 without concert ticket) with proceeds going to fund the New West Symphony and its education programs. Reservations can be made at www.newwestsymphony.org or 866-776-8400

Founded in 1995, the New West Symphony is a professional orchestra that draws its players from the rich talent pool of professional Los Angeles-area musicians. more surgical approach to addressing the issue.

"Staff has received complaints from neighborhood groups and individual residents expressing concern about the size of new homes," the report said. "In nearly all cases, staff has found the new homes of concern to comply with existing zoning regulations for single-unit dwellings."

BERGAMOT AREA ZONING UPDATES

Martin says the development community has complained current zoning regulations do not give enough incentives to attract housing or commercial development to the Bergamot area and "uncertainty and project risk weigh heavily on larger projects." Staff is proposing to revisit the zoning code in the first half of Fiscal Year 2018.

PROHIBITION ON HOTEL TO CONDO CONVERSIONS

The Council has requested an ordinance to preserve existing hotels along the coast, after a Chinese real estate investment firm purchased the Loews Santa Monica Beach Hotel on Ocean Avenue. The same firm, Anbang Insurance Group, owns the Waldorf Astoria in New York City and converted several floors of the hotel into private condominiums. The report says there has been no indication the firm is planning to convert the Loews in a similar fashion.

PERMITS

Staff is looking at a potential ordinance that would prohibit applicants from getting new permits while they have an outstanding Municipal Code violation to discourage bad actors.

Here is the list of big projects on the way:

PROVIDENCE SAINT JOHN'S HEALTH CENTER

The draft environmental review (EIR) is slated to be completed by the end of this year for the new medical campus. The development agreement may hit the Planning Commission's desk by early 2019. The project includes a master plan process with a comprehensive review of circulation impacts, land use, parking and other development potential for the campuses located on Santa Monica Boulevard between 20 and 23 Streets.

MIRAMAR HOTEL

Staff expects to receive revised plans for the Miramar early this year which will launch a review and negotiations over community benefits. The EIR could be available by mid-year 2019, with Planning Commission hearings in full swing by the end of that year. It will likely be 2020 before the plans reach City Council for final approval.

PLAZA AT 5TH AND ARIZONA

With the EIR scheduled to be finished in a few months, the Planning Commission could have their say on the public-private project by the end of the year. The EIR will explore eight project alternatives that include significantly different plans.

101 SANTA MONICA BOULEVARD

The developer behind a new proposed hotel on Ocean Avenue is scheduled to present the latest version of the project design on Jan. 11. The Architectural Review Board and Landmarks Commission will each get a look at the plans soon after that. Revised plans include 115 hotel rooms, 79 rental units (19 of which will be rent-controlled, and 18 affordable), ground-floor restaurant and retail space, a museum and a publicly-accessible roof-top observation deck.

The City Council will meet for closed session Jan. 9 at 5:30 p.m. in Council Chambers at City Hall, 1685 Main Street.

FIREFIGHTERS

"I wish we could have done more, saved more property."

A month later, the Thomas Fire has destroyed more than 1,000 structures – 700 of them family homes - and charred 440 square miles of coastal foothills and national forest through Ventura and Santa Barbara counties. A 32-year-old San Diego firefighter was later killed by the heat and smoke. A woman died fleeing the flames. Last week, President Donald Trump declared it a major disaster.

But to the twelve Santa Monica firefighters who were there on the ground, the disaster is in the details as the heat melted cars and reduced cherished family photos and heirlooms to ash.

"You see a lot of disturbing things," Maccini said. "It's the holidays and there's Christmas trees and presents inside these houses and we're watching them burn up."

Maccini and Bei were part of a strike team from Santa Monica, Culver City, Beverly Hills and Los Angeles that responded to a request for mutual aid when the fire began. Santa Monica sent two engine companies, Engine 3 and Engine 8, along with a deputy chief, a battalion chief, a captain and an additional firefighter – adding up to twelve total personnel.

As captain, it had ultimately been Maccini's decision to bring along the rookie, Zach Mendoza, that night. It was his very first day as a Santa Monica firefighter.

"We knew he had some brush experience," Maccini said, of the recruit from CalFire. "There's only one way to get experience and that's through doing it. It's better than any other teacher. You go twelve days straight and don't sleep for 36 hours, that's how you get experience."

"At the time it was just a series of tasks," Mendoza said. "A series of orders we had to do. But when you walk into homes and you see Christmas trees and presents and pictures it personalized it. It made it more real."

Even the more seasoned Santa Monica firefighters remark those first 36 hours are ones they will never forget. The sight of the destruction, the feel of the heat, even the taste of a few spoonfuls of a single spaghetti MRE Bei had stashed away in the truck that provided the only meal during the initial fight. On Tuesday, they will be honored by the City Council for their "fortitude, dedication and valor," along with firefighters sent to the Skirball and Creek fires.

Maccini says they were just doing their jobs.

"I feel honored to be out there with these guys, watching them deal with physical, mental and emotional stresses you can't imagine. Things you encounter in war time situations," Maccini said. "These folks who lost their houses, who right now they're still trying to figure out where they're going to live. They had a torn down holiday season. These people need the help and the attention."

CRIME WATCH
BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON DECEMBER 26, AT ABOUT 2:32 P.M.

While at Tongva Park officers observed a subject known to them for having a "No Bail" warrant for her arrest. Officers contacted the subject and confirmed she had a warrant for a parole violation. During the booking process, it was discovered the suspect provided a false name during prior arrests by Santa Monica PD and issuance of citations resulting in warrants being issued to an innocent person. The additional charge was added. Anthonette P. Bryant, 30, from Los Angeles) was arrested for a Parole Violation and Providing False Information to an Officer. She was denied bail.

ELECTIONS

According to the City Clerk's office, the timeline for qualifying a ballot measure is not yet impossible, but it is extremely tight. If proponents of a ballot measure were to begin soon and take the full time allotment to gather signatures (180 days), the verification, approval and scheduling process could prevent the measure from qualifying in time for this year's vote. The entire process must conclude by the first week of August to qualify for the November 2018 election.

While an ongoing lawsuit is attempting to force the City to move from at-large to district based elections, officials said it would be difficult to implement districts for this year given the schedule for the lawsuit. The lawsuit is scheduled to go to trial on July 30 and the City Clerk's office said that even with a speedy resolution, the case is unlikely be resolved with enough time to establish districts before this year's election.

Of the potential incumbents up for election this year, several said they had already made a decision on their plans.

Councilwoman Pam O'Connor said she is evaluating her options and has yet to decide if she will run for reelection but Councilman McKeown confirmed he plans to run again.

"Not only are there ongoing issues where I hope to make further progress, including protecting renters and housing affordability, but I've just been appointed Santa Monica's Director on the board of the County-wide effort to bring cheaper, cleaner electricity to Santa Monica, and I look forward to championing a ballot measure in November to assure stable, sane development policy," he said. "With all that to look forward to, yes, I'll be asking voters to re-elect me."

Rent Control Board Commissioner Flora said he will explore appointments and volunteer opportunities at the State or County level when his term expires this year.

School Board member Craig Foster, the only representative from the City of Malibu, said he will seek reelection this year as did Richard Tahvildaran-Jesswein.

"It's an incredible honor to work with, and for, our community as together we strive to always improve educational opportunities and outcomes for the students in Santa Monica and Malibu," said Tahvildaran-Jesswein.

Jaffe said she was "almost certainly" going to run for the SMC Board again.

At the State and national level, experts are predicting a surge in women running for office fueled largely by frustration on the Democratic side over the election of President Donald Trump and energized by Democratic women winning races in Virginia in November. Experts say 2018 is on track to be a historic year, with more women saying they are running at this point than ever before.

Although women are more than half the American population, they account for just a fifth of all U.S. representatives and senators, and one in four state lawmakers. They serve as governors of only six states and mayors in roughly 20 percent of the nation's most populous cities.

The last time the U.S. saw a surge in women running for office was 1992, in the wake of Anita Hill's testimony before an all-male U.S. Senate committee weighing the nomination of Clarence Thomas to the U.S. Supreme Court. It was called the "Year of the Woman" because women were elected to the U.S. House and Senate in record numbers.

Uninsured? Open enrollment in Covered California extended to January 31

Unlike Americans living in many other states, individuals and families in California have until January 31 to sign up for health coverage in 2018, thanks to the state's extended open enrollment window. US citizens, US nationals and lawfully present immigrants may enroll or reenroll through Covered California, the state's insurance marketplace, at coveredca.com. Covered California offers private health insurance as well as coverage through Medi-Cal, the state's Medicaid program.

Venice Family Clinic — the largest community health center on the Westside — is a Covered California Certified Enrollment Counselor and offers one-on-one enrollment assistance at several of its sites in Venice, Santa Monica and Culver City. Appointments are available by calling (310) 664-7509.

In addition, Venice Family Clinic will be holding free public enrollment events on the following dates:

- Saturday, January 20, 8 a.m. – 1 p.m., at its Irma Colen Health Center, in the Braddock Square Shopping Center, 4700 Inglewood Blvd., #102, Culver City
- Wednesday, January 24, 1 – 5 p.m., at its Simms/Mann Health and Wellness Center, 2509 Pico Blvd., Santa Monica
- Wednesday, January 31, 1 – 5 p.m., at the Simms/Mann Health and Wellness Center

More information is available at (310) 664-7509 or at facebook.com/venicefamilyclinic.

Covered California was created as part of the Affordable Care Act, the landmark federal health reform law passed in 2010, to help consumers purchase affordable government-regulated and standardized health insurance plans.

The Trump administration in April issued a rule cutting the open enrollment period in half — to just 45 days — but the change applied only to the federal marketplace, healthcare.gov. States with their own marketplaces were allowed to extend their enrollment periods. California, which is one of only 11 states (plus the District of Columbia) that created their own marketplaces, opted for the full 90 days of previous years.

Angelenos who do not qualify for Covered California may qualify for other low- or no-cost coverage. Details are available by calling Venice Family Clinic.

Venice Family Clinic's mission is to provide quality primary health care to people in need. Launched in 1970 by founder Phillip Rossman, MD, and co-founder Mayer B. Davidson, MD, the Clinic has grown from a small storefront operation into the largest community health center on the Westside of Los Angeles. With the help of more than 1,300 volunteers, including nearly 400 physicians, it provides comprehensive medical, behavioral health, dental, vision, child development, health education and health insurance enrollment services to 26,000 men, women and children annually through 12 sites in Venice, Santa Monica, Mar Vista, Inglewood and Culver City. Power Conjunction Countdown

The sun is getting closer to Venus and Pluto for a powerful conjunction that lines up perfectly tomorrow. In the meantime, enjoy the surge of anticipation. Tune in to your senses and let them guide you in a very visceral way toward the people and endeavors that will speak to your strengths and grow your capabilities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You'll be drawn to self-reflection and you can see yourself with greater clarity now too. This will allow you to analyze what just happened and draw conclusions you can powerfully act on.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Listening can be an act of love, but it can also be an act of martyrdom. There are some things so tedious or unnecessary, to listen to them would be a waste of life. Today will give you practice in setting healthy boundaries.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)
You will make a point of engaging the interesting people around you so you can have an effective and enlightening exchange. Brevity and levity are the guiding principles here.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)
You're not trying to be a superhero or a social wonder, either, and yet you'll get the chance to defend sacred things and befriend interesting people — and all within the span of a day!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You put out every signal that you care. You have taken the time to tend to the details that prove what matters to you. Rest assured: Your efforts are reading loud and clear. People can tell you're serious.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You might not guess who is finding you extremely attractive these days. It's the simple things, such as your good posture and excellent taste, that others will find most captivating.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You worry about finding the right people for your life, but you really don't have to. People who are a stellar match for your ideas and style will be naturally drawn to you in the weeks to come. Relax.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)
It's once again time to acquire new skills or to update and refine existing skills. There are many from whom you could learn. Look around and determine who's doing things in a way you admire.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
No one can live on shameless flattery alone, but add a sandwich or two to the mix and it'll certainly do for today. Besides, it feels good to finally be recognized for all you've been up to. Why not bask in it?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You choose your friends, but it's not like you can order them up as you would a sandwich, requesting all your favorite ingredients. They come ready-made. You may prefer they didn't have certain traits, but it's all part of the package.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
You're no chameleon. You might adapt to your environment, but you won't change your colors to fit in. Today you'll be around people whose opinions you disagree with. Luckily you don't have to agree to get along.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
You can see so much of a person with direct eye contact. It's why people avoid looking at each other. They are afraid. You're not. It's an essential part of effective dealing. It's respectful. It's why you make the connection.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Jan. 8)

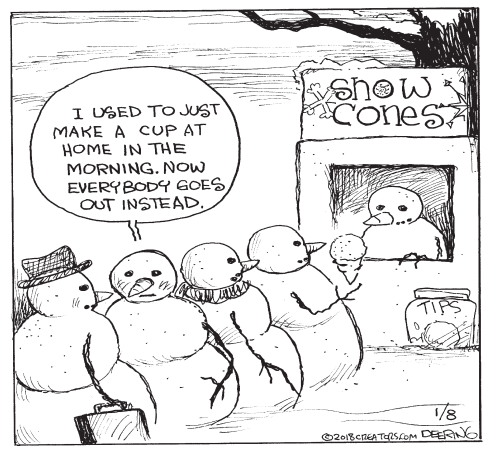

Keep track of your wins, your new friends, your efforts, your successes. You'll have hundreds over the next 12 months. A leap of faith will precede an important gain in March. May will illuminate new aspects of your heart. Relationships get deeper. You're getting better at a key skill, and you'll be paid big for it. Cancer and Libra adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 49, 31, 27 and 14.

Never Say Diet

■ The Major League Eating record for turducken is 7.75 pounds in 12 minutes, held by Sonya Thomas. Turducken consists of a deboned chicken stuffed inside a deboned duck stuffed inside a deboned turkey stuffed, in this case, inside Thomas. It's an example of engastration, a recipe method in which one animal is inserted into the gastric passage of another, which sounds really tasty.
