L.A. remixed in Expo terminus station art

ART EXPO: PROLIFIC Judithe Hernández has produced several large works for the Expo terminus on Fourth Street.

BY DAVID MARK SIMPSON
Daily Press Staff Writer

Editor's note: This is the last installment of a three-part series about the artists selected to fill the incoming Expo Light Rail's three Santa Monica stations.

COLORADO AVE The terminus station of the incoming Expo Light Rail is arguably the most significant. Stopping at Fourth Street, it will be the first station dropping riders off at the edge of the Santa Monica Bay in decades.

Judithe Hernández, who has a storied career creating public (and smaller-scale) art and can remember when trains were more prevalent in the region, is the right artist for the job.

Taking THE station instead of a station meant doubling the amount of panels she'd planned on creating from 12 to 24, with only five and half months to finish them. Her pastel drawings were turned into glass mosaics.

Fortunately, Hernández, who cut her teeth as a muralist back in the late 1960s and early 1970s, has the experience and knows how to stay consistent (not unlike a train).

"I was producing a major piece of art a week," she said. "It was kind of crazy. But I'm very disciplined so as scary as it was, I knew I could do it as long as I stayed on my schedule."

Hernández's pastel works are evocative, colorful, and often political. Her Expo panels are designed to relate to everyone, but especially kids, and have been stripped of the nudity and religious references that can be seen in some of her other work.

She was drawn to the station work, in part, by her love for and personal history with trains.

"My dad and my grandfather worked for the Southern Pacific Railroad for decades," Hernández said, "and I've traveled on trains from the time I was an infant in this country and in Europe and in other coauntries and I love the train. I'll be 67 in March and I can remember Los Angeles when we had trains. And then they disappeared and it was very disappointing."

She explored several themes when creating the panels, which, collectively, are titled "L.A. Sonata" as they represent the movement of music.

"One of the interesting things that I

Council Preview: City to wrestle looming $2.9M deficit

BY DAVID MARK SIMPSON
Daily Press Staff Writer

CITY HALL By 2019, City Hall could be running a $6.5 million surplus or a $14 million deficit.

The most likely scenario, city officials said in a report to council, is a $2.9 million deficit.

City Council will review the mid-year budget and the five-year financial forecast on Tuesday and consider some fiscal tweaks as a result.

"The City's major tax revenues have recovered significantly and have exceeded pre-recession levels," city finance officials said in a report. "As outlined below, most of the City's revenues are expected to show

Measles case confirmed at Samohi

BY MATTHEW HALL
Editor-in-Chief

SAMOHI A baseball coach at Santa Monica High School has been diagnosed with measles.

In a letter sent to parents on Jan. 23, Samohi Principal Eva Mayoral said the school received confirmation that a freshman baseball coach had measles from The Department of Public Health. Officials told the school there is only a small possibility that students could have been exposed and that no further action was needed.

"We have reviewed immunization records for all baseball players and according to our records, all have been immunized against this preventable disease," said the letter.

In a separate communication released Jan. 22, the Santa Monica Malibu Unified School District encouraged parents to vaccinate their children.

Pacific Palisades

Composers from five countries featured in wind concert

A virtual UN of Music will be represented when works by composers from France, England, Germany, Spain, and Austria are performed in the second concert of Chamber Music Palisades' 18th consecutive season at St. Matthew's Parish in Pacific Palisades on Tuesday, Jan. 27.

The 8 p.m. program will begin with a "Sonata for bassoon and piano" by Hindemith (Germany), followed by a "Sonata for flute and piano" by Poulenc (France). "Temporal Variations for oboe and piano" by Britten (England) and a "Duo for flute and oboe" by Ginastera (Spain) will lead to intermission. The second half will open with the "Duo for flute and bassoon No. 1" by Wolfgang (Austria) setting the stage for the major work of the evening, the "Trio for oboe, bassoon and piano" by Poulenc.

Guest artists for the evening will be oboist Jennifer Johnson and bassoonist Judy Farmer. They will join CMP Co-Artistic Directors Susan Greenberg, flute, and Delores Stevens, piano. Blending the various compositions together into a commentary on music in the 20th Century will be KUSC's veteran classical music host, Alan Chapman.

Now in its 18th season, Chamber Music Palisades was founded by two local residents and two professional musicians, all longtime residents of the Palisades. In addition to bringing the familiar classic repertoire performed by outstanding musicians to the Westside, CMP has commissioned and premiered more than 15 new works primarily by local and regional musicians.

The concert will be in the sanctuary designed by Charles Moore at St. Matthew's Parish in Pacific Palisades at 1031 Bienveneda Avenue. For tickets to the concert or a season brochure call (310) 463-4388 or visit www.cmpalisades.org. Tickets at $30 will be available at the door and students with ID are admitted free.

Santa Monica church presents Community Values Award

Dr. Albert Nicholas, pastor of the Pilgrim Missionary Baptist Church in Los Angeles, will receive the "Community Values Award" from the Santa Monica Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The bronze award will be presented to Dr. Nicholas during a program and reception Thursday, Jan. 29 at 7 p.m. at the Santa Monica Stake Center, 3400 Sawtelle Blvd., Los Angeles. Light refreshments will be served. Dr. Nicholas is the second recipient of the award. In 2013, Los Angeles City Councilman Bob Rosenthal received the honor.

Levi Heath, president of the Santa Monica Stake, said Dr. Nicholas has been at the forefront of many collaborative initiatives involving a tutoring program for Los Angeles youth, health and fitness fairs and expositions, as well as interfaith service projects. "Dr. Nicholas is a giant in our city and like a good shepherd has always been focused on lifting others and doing good works wherever he goes," said Heath. "He is beloved by his congregants and fellow ministers alike and teaches us what it means to be a neighbor and friend."

Dr. Nicholas has been a pastor for more than 40 years and currently leads the Pilgrim Missionary Baptist Church in downtown Los Angeles, which has grown to more than 3,000 members.

The Santa Monica Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints covers a region from Pacific Palisades along the coast to Marina del Rey and as far inland as Topanga State Park, Brentwood and West Los Angeles. Eight wards, or congregations, comprise the Stake. Ecclesiastically, Levi Heath presides over the Stake as Stake President along with his two Stake Counselors as well as other church leaders.

Providence Saint John's Health Center receives award

For the ninth consecutive year, Providence Saint John's Health Center has received Healthgrades' Distinguished Hospital Award for Clinical Excellence.

Healthgrades, a consumer ratings company, awarded this distinction to hospitals that rank among the top 5 percent of more than 4,500 hospitals evaluated nationwide for outstanding clinical performance on at least 21 of 32 of the most common diagnoses and procedures. The results mean better outcomes for seriously ill patients.

For the second year in a row, Providence Health & Services, Southern California, is the only health care system in California to have all its eligible hospitals receive this national recognition.

"Health care has seen monumental changes in recent years and Providence is very fortunate to have physicians, nurses and other caregivers who have risen to the challenge of continuously providing the quality, compassionate and innovative care that is our tradition," said Karl Carrier, interim chief executive, Providence Health & Services, Southern California. "We are proud to be recognized by Healthgrades for our successes and honored to be named among the nation's best."

From 2011 through 2013, Healthgrades Distinguished Hospitals for Clinical Excellence, as a group, had a 27.7 percent lower risk adjusted mortality rate across 19 procedures and conditions where in-hospital mortality was the clinical outcome, compared to all other hospitals.

Variation in hospitals' performances exist locally as well as nationally. For example, of the 76 hospitals evaluated in the Los Angeles metropolitan area for treatment of sepsis, risk-adjusted in-hospital mortality rates ranged from 5.2 percent on the low end to 42.5 percent on the high end, more than an eight-fold difference in mortality rates.

An open letter to the Metro Board

Editor:

My name is Miriam Adams and I am writing the Metro Board to express my support for the naming of one of the Metro stations in Santa Monica in honor of my uncle Private Joe Gandara.

Joe Gandara fought and died in WWII in the 82nd Airborne, 507th Parachute Infantry Regiment: after parachuting behind enemy lines he voluntarily left his cover and helped destroy the advancing enemy; he was fatally wounded.

Last year, my uncle was honored and posthumously decorated with the Medal of Honor at a White House ceremony which I accepted from President Obama on my uncle's behalf.

During a commemoration ceremony held last year in France during the week of the 70th anniversary of D-Day, Major General John W. Nicholson, Jr. 82nd Airborne Div. spoke of Private Gandara's sacrifice:

"Despite his young age when he died, Gandara knew full well what would happen when he exposed himself. He knew he was likely to die and he did it anyway. He died protecting his comrades, but he also died to end oppression of the French people and prevent the oppression of his countrymen."

The Medal of Honor is bestowed upon a few of many thousands of men who gave their lives to serve their country heroically. Private Joe Gandara was not married nor had children but his family and his country meant everything. Born and raised in Santa Monica, his family brought his body home where he is buried, at his mother's feet, in Woodland Cemetery at 14th and Pico, in Santa Monica.

I ask that you please consider naming and honoring one of Santa Monica's Metro Terminals after our heroic Private Joe Gandara, Medal of Honor recipient.

Miriam Adams, niece of Private Joe Gandara

The homeless count is upon us

THIS COMING WEDNESDAY EVENING, hundreds of folks will fan out around the city to do the city's Annual Homeless Count. Teams will move through each and every neighborhood and count the number of people sleeping or camped on the street, in parks and on private property. The figures obtained will be combined with counts of the number of people in jails, motels, medical facilities, homeless shelters, vehicles and in institutional facilities operated by service providers for a complete tally.

Last year, 742 homeless people were counted in Santa Monica -- a five percent decrease from the 780 counted 2013. 769 individuals were counted in 2012, 740 in 2011, 742 in 2010 and 915 in 2009. The number of homeless in Santa Monica seems to have leveled off in the last four years according to the counts.

Coordinated private and public programs aimed at ending homelessness are a factor in stabilizing the homeless population. For example, last year 124 homeless people found permanent housing and City Hall's "Project Homecoming" reunited 147 homeless individuals with family and friends around the country who pledged to provide housing and support.

The local count also identifies locations within the city where homeless persons are. The counts also help determine services that may need tweaking or expanding for better effectiveness and applications for homeless services grants through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, state, county and private funding sources. In addition, an accurate count can tell policymakers whether City Hall's array of services (including permanent housing opportunities) are magnets attracting more individuals here than would come if services weren't available.

This year's Santa Monica count coincides with Los Angeles County's biannual count. Last year, 39,400 homeless men, women and children were counted countywide according to the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority (LAHSA).

If Santa Monica's count is up, you can bet your ocean-view condo that City Hall's Human Services Division (HSD) and the service providers working with City Hall will be scrambling to find out what went wrong. If the numbers are down, everyone will be praising the effectiveness of the city's "Action Plan to Address Homelessness."

NO HOMES FOR SALE (UNLESS YOU'RE RICH)

The Housing Commission is one of nineteen citizen boards and commissions whose members are mostly council appointees.

The Housing Commission's mission is to "improve the quality of life by supporting and helping to guide the production and preservation of affordable housing…"

Recently, commissioners decided to make changes in their Mission Statement. One change suggested deleted "language regarding opportunities for home ownership programs and replace with language about income targeting, monitoring and program compliance."

Since when do programs that may lead to home ownership (versus renting) have anything to do with "income targeting, monitoring and program compliance?"

Most municipalities include home ownership as part of their affordable housing programs. A qualifying person can buy either a new or older, rehabbed dwelling via low cost/low interest loans or favorable financing programs. Not in Santa Monica.

Our own city-affiliated affordable housing provider Community Corp of Santa Monica and other non-profit/governmental affordable housing suppliers only build apartments. Nowhere in town can a low-income family purchase a piece of the American dream: a small house or condo conversion. Renting is the only option.

Of course, the big benefit to the community of ownership is that a low-income owner with a family is likely to become more involved in the community and live in the community longer than a renter. But, none of that matters.

The reason why, year after year, decade after decade, only low income rental units are available for housing is to provide a constant and growing voter base of renters to support Santa Monicans for Renters' Rights candidates and ballot measures. I guess SMRR leaders think homeowners are less likely to vote for them than renters.

It's another deterrent to the return of Santa Monica's middle class that has already been decimated by flawed housing policies favoring only those on the far edges of the economic scale. In Santa Monica, you can buy and own your own market value house or condo if you're rich enough. But, if you're poor/mid-income and hope to own, you'll have to go elsewhere.

I WAS ALL WET

City Councilman Ted Winterer emailed that I erred last week when I wrote that businesses were exempt from the new water reductions. "Businesses are categorically not exempt from required water reductions. Quite to the contrary, while many residences will be exempt from a required 20% reduction, no businesses will be unless they apply for a modification to their water allowance."

"There are two stats to bear in mind. The first is the bimonthly water allowance, which is 20 percent less than the usage for the comparable period for 2013. Use less than the allowance and you're good. Use more and you pay surcharges." Winterer added that the other stat is the conservation threshold, which applies only to residences.

Dean Kubani, manager of the city's Office of Sustainability and the Environment told City Council recently, "Given the diversity of businesses in the city, it would be too complicated to develop a reasonable threshold…" Winterer added, "There are no conservation thresholds for businesses so they all have to meet the water allowance."

There. Everybody straight on that?

MY TWO CHOICES FOR NEW PLANNING COMMISSIONER

City council will eventually appoint a new Planning Commissioner to replace Sue Himmelrich who was elected to council last November. Two out of the ten applicants have my endorsement: Architect Mario-Fonda Bonardi and Northeast Neighbors Chair Amy Aukstikalnis.

Ed foundation far from goal, still 'optimistic'

BY JEFFREY I. GOODMAN
Daily Press Staff Writer

The Santa Monica-Malibu Education Foundation is less than halfway to its $4 million goal with just five months left in its fundraising campaign, but officials say they remain optimistic about reaching the target.

The foundation had raised $1,831,906 as of Jan. 15, including received gifts and pledged money, according to executive director Linda Greenberg. The funds will help in covering a variety of school costs through the district-wide Vision for Student Success program.

Greenberg updated the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District board of education on her agency's latest figures during its Jan. 20 meeting.

Her report to the board highlighted a recent bequest of about $450,000 from Judi Lynne, the third-largest gift in SMMEF history.

"We are very grateful to Judi Lynne and her estate for that amazing, amazing gift," Greenberg said.

Greenberg noted the assistance of local attorneys Sonya and Bruce Sultan, who have promoted the education foundation to their estate planning clients.

She added that there are ongoing conversations with other philanthropists and that major donations often take longer to secure than small gifts.

The fundraising deadline is June 30.

The school board was also presented with detailed data regarding the education foundation's $4 million drive.

More than 2,000 people have donated or pledged money so far, Greenberg said.

About 45 percent of the money in the current campaign has come from SMMUSD families, 32 percent is from community members, 8 percent is corporate contributions and 4 percent is donations from foundations. Events and investments yielded the remaining 11 percent.

Greenberg said she's planning to develop the foundation's corporate partners and expand the bond between the school district and the area business community.

The SMMEF director reported that about one-fifth of district employees have given to the campaign so far. That figure topped 66 percent at the management level.

Board member Maria Leon-Vazquez expressed concern at the low rates of giving among certificated and classified district staff, calling them "dismal" and urging better participation.

Meanwhile, less than 23 percent of SMMUSD families have contributed to the current effort as the district continues adjusting to a centralized fundraising model.

According to the education foundation, VSS money funds instructional assistants and literacy coaches as well as art instruction for every elementary grade, additional class sections for middle and high schools, professional development for teachers and discretionary grants for school-specific enrichment programs.

"Families are starting to make the connection that SMMEF money funds local programs," Greenberg said.

The foundation also expects a boost through its annual benefit concert Feb. 7, when Colin Hay, Stephen Bishop and Venice will join district music students at Santa Monica High School's Barnum Hall. The event has pulled in $100,000 in previous years.

"We have a lot of work to do," Greenberg said. "But I'm optimistic that we will make our goal."

SAFE? The chemicals in old furniture can be dangerous.

Dangers of toxic chemicals

Dear EarthTalk:

What is being done to get toxic flame retardants out of children's furniture and ot her products?

Mary Sweetland
Seminole, FL

PUTTING FLAME RETARDANTS IN FURNITURE seemed like a good idea back in the 1970s to help protect against the risk of fire, but our insistence on safety has come back to haunt us. The chemicals "off-gassing" from these flame-retardants can be toxic, especially to the kids they are meant to protect in the first place. "Scientists have found that exposure to toxic fire retardant chemicals at critical points in development can damage the reproductive system and cause deficits in motor skills, learning, memory and behavior," reports the non-profit Environmental Working Group (EWG). Some of these chemicals have even been linked to cancer.

Manufacturers started putting flame-retardants into their products in the mid-1970s after legislators in California passed a law requiring polyurethane foam in furniture to resist catching fire after exposure to an open flame for 12 seconds. Given the importance of the California market and the fact that other states soon enacted similar requirements, adding flame-retardants to furniture foam became standard practice across the country.

But a flurry of research in the early 2000s called into question both the effectiveness and safety of common flame retardants, and ever since environmentalists have been working hard to eliminate such questionable chemicals from our living rooms. In 2013, California finally updated its rule on flame retardants, replacing the old open flame test with a new smolder test that assesses the ability of the furniture covering - not the foam padding - to withstand catching fire. State regulators estimate that some 85 percent of furniture fabrics currently on the market can pass the new smolder test without the benefit of flame retardant chemicals. In addition, a wide variety of kids' products, including car seats, play mats, highchair pads and infant mattress pads, are no longer required to contain flame-retardants. Additionally, California now requires labels on upholstered furniture sold there detailing whether or not flame-retardants are present.

The Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC), another leading non-profit active in the effort to ban toxic flame retardants, recommends replacing not just the fabric but also the foam during reupholster projects, as most foam manufactured before 2004 is likely off-gassing toxic chemicals. Likewise, NRDC says to be careful removing old carpeting, as the degraded scrap foam in the underlying padding can also release copious amount of noxious flame retardants. Other ways to minimize flame retardant exposure include regular wet-mopping of the floors around the house and using a vacuum cleaner fitted with a HEPA filter. Consumers can also take a stand against toxic flame-retardants by signing onto NRDC's MoveOn.org petition calling on the U.S. Consumer Safety Product Commission to adopt a new nationwide standard to prevent the use of toxic chemicals in furniture foam and other everyday items.

Heal the Bay is a nonprofit environmental organization making Southern California coastal waters and watersheds, including Santa Monica Bay, safe, healthy and clean. We use science, education, community action and advocacy to pursue our mission.

Heal the Bay's Beach Report Card™ is based on weekly water quality monitoring data provided by the City of Los Angeles' Environmental Monitoring Division and the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services. Data is analyzed as soon as it is made available to us by the public agencies. Beaches are graded on an A–F scale based on the risk of ocean users becoming ill. Samples are analyzed for bacteria—enterococcus, total and fecal coliforms—that indicate biological pollution. A fact sheet detailing the exact methodology used in determining grades for each location is available from the office or on our web site. The report is not designed to measure the amount of trash or toxins found at local beaches.

The Beach Report Card is an indication of past water quality and is not a warranty of the current safety of those areas surveyed. Our lawyers are happy.

read is that, as people have migrated across the planet, there is a greater tendency for people to have migrated from east to west rather than north to south and I thought: How interesting is that," she said. "This train is going east to west."

She also strove to capture the diversity of Los Angeles, with its hundreds of cultures and languages spoken.

"I thought: That's a huge assignment, a five and a half month super-project, she decided to give herself a few more parameters.

"There are two movements that move across the station," Hernández said. "One is the passage of the day from morning until night and the other is the seasons, from winter to spring."

The panels are designed to grab most viewers' attention for a few seconds but she hopes that some will stop and stare.

"There's a whole generation of kids who've grown up in Los Angeles who don't know that experience," she said of the new train riders. "Now, they're going to get a very girl, because you can't completely address every single culture that lives here," Hernández said, laughing. "But I thought I'd make a good try and I thought the best way to do that was to take mythology and iconic images from as many cultures as I could grab and mix them in a sort of L.A. remix."

And as if she didn't have enough work for contemporary experience of what it's like to be on a train and travel and that hasn't existed here in a very long time. And when they step out of those trains I'm hoping that some little kid will look up at these and go, 'Oh, my teacher was just talking about that.'"

MEASLES

"SMMUSD has students in the district who are "immune deficient" due to a variety of medical conditions. Exposure to unimmunized children poses a risk to these students whose immune systems are unable to protect them. The more district and community members who are immunized, the safer the environment for these fragile students. Infants too young to be immunized and the elderly in the community are also at high risk by unimmunized students," said the statement.

The measles outbreak began in Orange County at the Disneyland theme parks. The disease has continued to spread throughout California, into other states and possibly into Mexico with 80 confirmed cases and more expected.

Measles is highly contagious and if left untreated can be deadly. Vaccines are readily available for measles, and other once common diseases, but vaccine rates in Santa Monica are below average, leaving some residents at risk for contracting, and then spreading, diseases.

SMMUSD said it has plans in place to handle outbreaks of this type.

"The district would like to remind families that during an outbreak of a preventable disease such as measles, unimmunized students (including those who have not provided documentation of immunization) may be excluded from school for the length of the incubation period, in some cases up to 21 days, according to Lora Morn, RN, MSN, SMMUSD coordinating nurse. The district has cooperated with the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health in the past and when they have recommended that students be excluded, the district has excluded," the district said in it's letter to parents.

The district said free vaccines are available at the Westside Family Clinic at 1711 Ocean Park Blvd in Santa Monica for children under 18 years old on the first Saturday of each month from 12-2 p.m. No appointment is necessary.

moderate to strong growth (this fiscal year)."

Property values increased 6 percent this year after rising 7 percent the year before.

Sales taxes are expected to grow about 3.5 percent per year, a half of a percent over the previous year's growth.

Tourism is strong. Business license taxes are growing.

Still, pension costs continue to rise. As a result, City Hall has increased employee cost sharing, requiring workers to contribute more of their paycheck toward their retirement benefits. City Hall has used extra savings to pay down the retirement benefits.

Health care costs are projected to rise 7 to 8 percent next fiscal year and 9 to 10 percent the fiscal year after that. Workers' compensation costs are expected to increase by 31 percent next fiscally year.

"The one-time increase is due to updated actuarial assumptions that take into account a large increase in workers' compensation claims over the past two years, as well as the effects of increased permanent disability costs as mandated by the state," city officials said.

Higher than expected health care and workers' comp costs, along with a possible recession, are the factors that could lead to the worst-case $14 million deficit in 2019.

POTENTIAL AUDIT COMMITTEE

Mayor Pro Tempore Tony Vazquez and Councilmember Sue Himmelrich would like City Hall to form an audit committee. In 2012, auditors recommended the move but the committee was not formed. The audit committee would, according to a letter from the auditors, "provide oversight and review of the City's financial reporting process, internal controls and the independent audit function."

If a majority of the council agrees, city officials will come back with a proposed ordinance to implement the recommendation.

PLANNING COMMISSION

When Sue Himmelrich was elected to City Council in November, she left a vacant seat on the Planning Commission.

Council was scheduled to pick a new commissioner to fill Himmelrich's seat on Tuesday but the decision will likely be postponed because Councilmember Gleam Davis is expected to miss the meeting.

"We don't make appointments of import like the one to the Planning Commission without a full Council," Mayor Kevin McKeown said, "so this means the decision will be continued until at least the second Tuesday in February."

The commission is important, not only for its role making land-use decisions, but also because it is the most consistent springboard for City Council hopefuls. A majority of the current council members sat previously on the Planning Commission.

There are currently 10 candidates who've thrown their hat in the ring. Nine of them applied after Himmelrich was elected.

GRANTS

Council will consider approving a slew of grant programs at Tuesday's meeting.

They'll consider green-lighting the Human Services Grants Program (HSGP), the Cultural/Art Organizational Support Program (OSP), and the Strategic Sustainability Initiative Funding Rationales.

Sudoku

Fill in the blank cells using numbers 1 to 9. Each number can appear only once in each row, column, and 3x3 block. Use logic and process of elimination to solve the puzzle. The difficulty level ranges from (easiest) to (hardest).

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPARD

■ The natural enemy of the "hawkmoth" (for 65 million years) is the bat, but thanks to a recent study by biologists at Boise State University and the University of Florida, we know the reason why so many hawkmoths are able to avoid their predator: They signal each other by rubbing their genitals on their abdomens, which somehow mimics bats' own high-frequency sounds, thus jamming the bats' aural ability to detect the hawkmoths' locations. Professors Jesse Barber and Akito Kawahara, working in Malaysia, tethered a hawkmoth to a wire and then tracked a bat, using slow-motion cameras and high-definition microphones, painstakingly examining the results for a 2014 journal article.

■ In a joint operation in December, police in Beijing and three provinces broke up two prostitution rings that specialized in supplying young lactating mothers to Chinese men who pay to be breastfed. Police said that women who provide sex with the "meal" earn higher fees. The women had either stopped breastfeeding their babies or cut back to favor their clients. Critics, according to the South China Morning Post, said this "lactophilia" showed "the moral degradation of China's rich."

Chat with a pal, Pisces

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ You are likely to indulge a loved one. At the same time, you might want to share a master plan that you would like to try out. Take into consideration the temperament of the person you choose to share with. Tonight: Act as if there were no tomorrow.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★★ You'll emerge from the weekend willing to greet whatever heads your way. Someone could drop by or email you with an idea that will be nothing less than inspirational. You might want to say less and listen to others' first impressions. Tonight: Wish upon a star.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★ You might not feel like your usual sociable self. Make that OK. Pull back and try to find the right solution to a problematic situation. You could be unsure about what to think as you hear others' different ideas. Try to be less spontaneous right now. Tonight: Vanish.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ You could be thinking about how you might want to present a new idea. The words one chooses often tend to be more important than the idea itself. Some people can't seem to get past the words. Be smart. Present a winning idea like it's already won. Tonight: Hang with friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ You are in the limelight, and you'll sparkle accordingly. You might not be aware of how much someone else listens to you and is able to respond with equally exciting statements. This person has an extraordinary imagination. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ Reach out for more information, especially if you feel as if someone's statement is incomplete. Try to look at the matter from a detached perspective. Someone who cares a lot about you will come through at the last minute. Tonight: Don't trigger a reaction.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★★ Deal with a loved one directly. This person will appreciate the attention and the way you interact with him or her. An associate in your daily life might irritate you with an obscure thought. Be polite and listen anyway. Tonight: Chat over dinner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ Others come forward, as they have a lot to share. You could be questioning the pros and cons of going along with someone else's idea. Sometimes you need to have this person take the lead; otherwise, he or she might not feel good about relating to you. Tonight: Say "yes."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★ You are likely to trudge into the day with the mentality of "same old, same old." Of all the signs, you have the best ability to spice up life, so why aren't you doing so? Make a point of not holding back. Tonight: Just be yourself!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ Someone might want to share more news, but you'll need to be up for it. This person could be a child or new friend. You will need to state your limits or time constraints before you give in to his or her whimsical needs. Tonight: Let the party go on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★★ You might feel worn out by what is happening around you. It wouldn't be inappropriate to consider taking the day off. Stay focused, and understand your limits and needs. You will be more resilient and responsive if you take a break. Tonight: Don't stray too far from home.

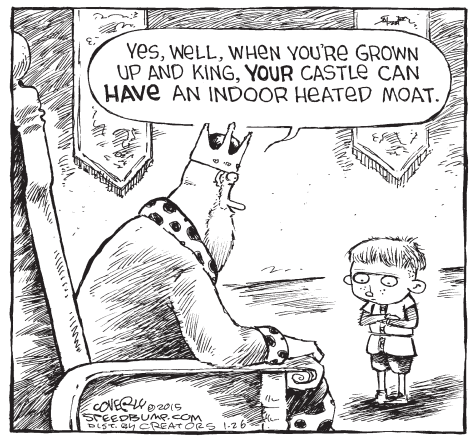

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ Focus on one thing at a time. You could be unusually tired and/or withdrawn. Know that you don't need to share everything that is on your mind. Listen to what others are saying. The conversation could trigger a wild idea. Tonight: Chat with a pal.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS
The stars show the kind of day you'll have:
★★★★★Dynamic ★★ So-So
★★★★ Positive ★ Difficult
★★★ Average

This year you have a strong sense of direction, and you tend to command others' attention and respect. Your home and domestic life will become far more important than in the past. You also might develop a home-based business. If you are single, it will become clear that you won't need to maintain that status. Someone quite special could enter your life sometime soon. If you are attached, your significant other demands a lot of your time. Make it your pleasure. Be careful not to overspend and make an impulse purchase. TAURUS is as stubborn as you are.

CRIME WATCH
BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON JAN. 17,
at approximately 11 a.m. officers were dispatched to Vons in the 700 block of Broadway regarding a possible fight in progress involving a male subject and six other individuals. Upon arrival, a store security guard led officers to a restrained subject, identified as Moses Gideon Flying, 25. A search of Flying revealed he was concealing a liquor bottle. Store staff and patrons had restrained him as he attempted to exit the store with the item. He was placed under arrest by officers for robbery. Witnesses also identified a female suspect who had fled the scene. Lucia Trejo, 51, was later arrested by officers and taken into custody. No bail was issued.
