Local health officials discuss coronavirus

BRENNON DIXSON
SMDP Staff Writer

Despite confirmed cases of coronavirus in Los Angeles, Orange and Santa Clara counties this week, local health officials said residents have little to worry about as long as they take the necessary precautions.

THE VIRUS

Since December 2019, Chinese authorities have identified thousands of human infections and dozens of deaths that are associated with the coronavirus in an outbreak of pneumonia in Wuhan City, Hubei Province, China, the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health's website states.

However, officials believe there is no immediate threat to the general public; no special precautions are required; and people should not be excluded from activities based on their race, country of origin or recent travel if they do not have symptoms of respiratory illness, because — while there is much more to learn about the severity and other features associated with this novel coronavirus — based on current information, the risk from the coronavirus to spread in Los Angeles County residents is deemed to be low at this time.

As construction crews worked stories above in the towering beams, community members, district leaders and local students gathered Thursday at Santa Monica High School to celebrate the progress of its Discovery Building.

The clicks and clacks of hammers and drills rang throughout Thursday's topping out ceremony, which offered attendees an opportunity to sign a steel beam that was later placed at the top of the structure. The event is a longtime tradition among builders and is usually held when the final beam is placed atop a structure during its construction.

Most Loved Voting now open

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

Voting is now open in the annual Most Loved contest to choose the city's favorite businesses.

During the month of February, businesses will compete in 34 categories as part of the seventh iteration of the contest. Voters can vote in one or all of the categories but individuals that cast a vote in at least 15 categories will be entered to win a Most Loved Raffle Prize.

The contest began in 2014 as a partnership between Santa Monica's Buy Local Committee, the Daily Press, the City of Santa Monica and several business districts to encourage local shopping while rewarding businesses that have put down roots in the community.

Officials said locally operated businesses help return money to the community through sales and use tax revenue, business license taxes and transit occupancy taxes that pays for essential local services including police, fire, parks and libraries.

Jennifer Taylor, Buy Local SM Committee Chair and Economic Development Administrator with the City of Santa Monica said businesses earn their loyal customer base by offering great service, quality merchandise and services people want. She said the contest is a way to publicly recognize those traits in

Soundwaves concert

The Soundwaves new music series at the Santa Monica Public Library welcomes pianist Thomas Kotcheff Thursday February 27, at 7:30 p.m., to the Main Library Martin Luther King Jr. Auditorium at 601 Santa Monica Blvd.

A graduate of Johns Hopkins and USC, Kotcheff is a rising star as a soloist, a composer, and as half of the piano duo HOCKET, working with Eighth Blackbird, Bang on a Can, and performing at Disney Hall, the Carlsbad Music Festival, and many other prestigious venues.

This concert is an informal free preview and discussion of selections from "Songs of Insurrection," a concert-length work based on protest songs from around the world, written in 2018 by Frederic Rzewski. This is the latest in Rzewski's series of pieces based on political melodies and texts, including "Coming Together" (1971), "36 Variations on 'The People United Will Never be Defeated'" (1975), "Four North American Ballads" (1979), "De Profundis" (1991), and other landmark compositions.

"Songs of Insurrection" will be played in full at Zipper Hall on March 3, as part of the Pianospheres concert series. Founded in 1994 by Leonard Stein, a student of Arnold Schoenberg's, PianoSpheres presents a core group of four pianists plus guest artists in annual recitals. It is one of the pillars of the LA classical music scene. For more information, see pianospheres.org

Soundwaves is a concert series featuring composers and performers who appear on the DRAM (Database of Recorded American Music) streaming service. The Santa Monica Public Library is the first public library to offer this service to its cardholders. Listings of past and upcoming Soundwaves shows as well as sound and video recordings are at SoundwavesNewMusic.com

Admission is free and all are welcome. Seating is limited and on a first-arrival basis. The Santa Monica Public Library is wheelchair accessible. For other disabled services, call Library Administration at (310) 458-8606 at least one week prior to event. For more information, visit smpl.org or contact the Santa Monica Public Library at (310) 458-8600.

2020 State of the City Economic Sustainability Summit

The Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce presents its annual, Economic Sustainability Summit State of the City on Wednesday, February 12 from 5 - 7:30 p.m. at the SGI World Peace Auditorium, 525 Wilshire Blvd. In keeping with this year's theme, "Social Impact: Working Together to Shape Our Future," the Keynote Speaker will be Mick Ebeling, founder and CEO of Not Impossible Labs, a company committed to creating technology for the sake of humanity. Mayor Kevin McKeown will take the stage to deliver the 2020 State of the City Address and a networking reception with exhibitors, abundant small bites and beverages will take place immediately following the event.

"Celebrating twelve years, the Economic Summit, showcases the trends, projects, and individuals shaping our city's economic future," said Laurel Rosen, CEO and President of Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce "We have more than 9,500 businesses in Santa Monica. This forum will further help us collaborate with all types and sizes of businesses to help our community continue to thrive and prosper."

The event is expected to attract more than 700 residents and leaders of Santa Monica companies. Providence St. John's Health Center, Water Garden, Optimum Seismic, Plaza at Santa Monica and Santa Monica Place are among the sponsors scheduled to attend, representing an overview of Santa Monica's diverse industries. "The Economic Summit is one of our most important events of the year. I encourage Santa Monica's residents, business owners, non-profit organizations and anyone who has an interest in the future of our world-class city to attend," said Laura McIver, current chair of the Chamber board and GM of Shutters on the Beach.

Doors open at 4:30 p.m. and the program will begin at 5 p.m. The City has made it possible for Santa Monica residents to attend for free with proof of residency. Tickets are $50 for Chamber members, $60 for non-members, and $10 for students and seniors. More information is available by calling (310) 393-9825 or https://bit.ly/38tNcKO

Music Academy of the West award winners

Music Academy of the West has announced the winners of its third annual Alumni Enterprise Awards. Over $70,000 in cash prizes will be shared among eight alumni, funding four winning projects and two Innovation Awards.

Tenor and non-profit founder of Opera4Kids Bernardo Bermudez ('11) will use digital platforms to bring opera to young people through his program Musical Make Believe.

Violinist Clara Lyon ('03, '04) and violist Doyle Armbrust ('01, '03) of the Spektral Quartet (pictured above), will record and release a commissioned work, Enigma, with a 360-degree video screened in planetariums and viewed on VR headsets.

Cellist John Popham ('05, '06) of Longleash will create a meditative, active listening podcast, States of Listening.

Tenor Andy Zimmermann, who was born in Santa Monica, ('19) will bring opera to Broadway with Opera Jukebox, a concept that will reinvent popular arias for a wide audience with a $20,000 award.

An opera jukebox musical will showcase opera's greatest hits in a medium better suited to the 21st century audience. A new musical will be created with the greatest hits of opera. 60 minutes of music with a nine-piece band will be presented at Le Poisson Rouge in New York City. While the famous melodies will be taken from opera classics, the lyrics will be in English and the arrangements will be brand-new. All cast members are leaders in their respective industries of Broadway, modern dance, and opera. Andy Zimmermann will be hosting the evening to help guide the audience through a new musical experience.

All 7,000-plus Music Academy alumni are eligible to apply for the Award. Project proposals were vetted by members of the Music Academy Board of Directors, National Advisory Council, and administration, including President and CEO Scott Reed. Representing the Board were former executive vice president and chief administrative officer of Exelon and past chair of the Joffrey Ballet and Ravinia Festival Pamela Strobel, and Director, Strategy & Business Development for Disney Theatrical Group Clive Chang.

"The quality and creativity of the Award proposals were inspiring. Alumni continue to lead us to new thinking about how music is presented and how to reach new audiences," said Music Academy President & CEO Scott Reed.

New Sample Ballots in the Mail for the March 3 Presidential Primary Election

The Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder/County Clerk (RR/CC) began mailing 5,477,007 newly designed Sample Ballots to voters for the March 3 Presidential Primary Election.

The Sample Ballot contains critical election information on the new voting experience, step by step instructions on how to vote, expanded voting options, candidate and measure information and much more.

Following the Sample Ballots, the RR/CC will issue two additional mailings including a book listing Vote Center locations with dates/times open and a personalized Vote Center postcard showing the nearest six locations to the voter's residence.

The personalized Vote Center postcard will list the six locations nearest to the voter's residence; although voters can go to ANY Vote Center in L.A. County. Vote Centers can be easily viewed and navigated to with the new Vote Center Lookup Tool (https://locator.lavote.net/).

Voters can now save time at a Vote Center by accessing, reviewing and marking their selections prior to going to the Vote Center with the new Interactive Sample Ballot.

The Interactive Sample Ballot is an optional tool that lets voters make their selections prior to going to the Vote Center and securely transfers those selections to a paper ballot on the Ballot Marking Device. This is NOT online voting and still requires voters go to go to the Vote Center to cast a paper ballot.

For translated election materials in Armenian, Chinese, Farsi, Hindi, Japanese, Khmer, Korean, Russian, Spanish, Tagalog, Thai or Vietnamese, call (800) 815-2666, option 3.

Idle environmentalism

DEAR EARTHTALK: EVERY DAY WHEN I PICK UP MY KIDS AT SCHOOL, ALL THE PARENTS WAIT IN THEIR CARS WITH THE ENGINES RUNNING. IS ALL THIS IDLING A SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTOR TO THE ATMOSPHERE'S CARBON BURDEN OR AM I BEING A WORRY WART OVER NOTHING?

Mary B., Burlington, VT

Idling is indeed a scourge on the environment, given the noxious emissions coming out of our engines. Ac-cording to the U.S. Department of Energy (DoE), a single vehicle dropping off and picking up a kid at school each day adds three pounds of air pollution to the atmosphere per month from idling. The 250 million personal vehicles on the road in the U.S. alone generate about 30 million tons of carbon dioxide every year just by idling. DoE reports that eliminating unnecessary idling by personal vehicles would be equivalent in emissions reductions to taking five million vehicles off the road.

Personal cars are only part of the problem. About half of the six billion gallons of fuel we waste on idling each year in the U.S. comes from commercial vehicles. We've all seen those delivery trucks with their engines humming while the driver eats his lunch inside or makes his rounds of deliveries on foot. But this kind of irresponsible behavior is actually against the law in 41 U.S. states (some of these restrictions are in municipalities but not necessarily state-wide). The rules vary by jurisdiction: A few states have outlawed idling altogether with the majority of others limiting it to five minutes before fines kick in.

Environmental activist George Pakenham made news last year by collecting some $9,000 in bounty payments for reporting commercial vehicle idling around New York City as part of a new anti-idling ordinance (successful tattlers get 25 percent of the fines they call in, which range from $300-$2,000).

What's surprising is how much idling still goes on, given that most modern engines run better—and warm up faster—while in motion. And you won't cause any measurable wear-and-tear on your car or truck by turning it off and on instead of idling, given the sturdiness of modern-day starters and batteries.

The nonprofit Sustainable America launched its #TurnItOff campaign to spread awareness about the need to reduce or eliminate wasteful automotive idling. The group recommends that if you're pulled out of traffic and going to be waiting for more than 10 seconds, do everyone around you and the environment a favor by turning off your engine. (If you have a hybrid or electric car — or a newer internal combustion car with so-called "stop-start" technology — you're already part of the solution, as these vehicles shut themselves off when at a complete stop and then come back to life when the driver steps on the gas.)

While preventing automobile idling may be an up-hill battle, the shift to hybrid and electric engines is a step in the right direction. Maybe one day when all the vehicles on the road are zero-emission EVs, idling won't be an issue anymore. But until then, whether you're a mom at school pick-up or a delivery driver between drops, be responsible and shut it off while you wait.

VOTED SANTA MONICA'S MOST LOVED GROCER @coopportunitymarketdeli

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (FEBRUARY 03)

This solar return will be a self-esteem booster, a spiritual uplift and a real-world advocate. The fates favor you, and you pay it forward. Because of the adventure that is friendship, you'll wind up where you never imagined you'd be. In spring, your professionalism and passion go hand in hand toward promotion. Scorpio and Cancer adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 8, 30, 2, 33 and 1.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Though you may do your best work under the pressure of people watching, it is important to work alone, too. Solo repetition is how your muscles (including emotional and intellectual muscles) get their memory. Practice!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You thought you knew what you wanted out of life, and that framework was right for then. Things are different now. Ask yourself some questions today aimed at figuring out what is going to serve you best in the next 10 weeks.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). "My job is keeping faces clean, and nobody knows de stubble I've seen." – Burma-Shave advertisement, circa 1950. Relatedly, your job will revolve around keeping faces clean, or saving them, and you'll be mighty good at it.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Emotions drive thoughts as much as thoughts drive emotions. You can chip away at this from both sides. Decide to feel better, smile, sing a little, hug yourself. Also, tell yourself you're doing mighty fine, because you are.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). To prioritize current wants in such a way that they infringe on tomorrow's happiness – that's the stuff of child's play. Maturity offers the sort of well-rounded focus that keeps you from stealing from future you for a little pleasure now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The look of things matters to you. This isn't shallowness; in fact, it couldn't be further from it. The visual is a communication, and you care enough to make sure it's communicating the right thing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). It feels like you don't have time to do the regiment you want to do, but the bottom line is exercise gives you more energy than it takes. It's a keystone habit that holds you in good stead. Move and be happy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Ideally, you believe in your ability to permanently solve the problem, even if it's a deeply ingrained habit. If you don't believe, that's fine. Just act as though you do believe and one day you will.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). What allows you to be your best self? A fair amount of structure and a solid routine. Being in control of one sector of life gives you the confidence to learn, grow and take risks in other sectors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You get to choose what to believe. Some thoughts are trash drifting in with the tide. Some thoughts have been deliberately assembled and secured to form lighthouses of the mind. Some thoughts are destiny.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). The funny part about a revolution is that sometimes you don't know you're in one. It's like standing in a wave current and feeling that first tug: gentle enough, and yet, it's already too late.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Movements are not always progress. As it is in dance, movements can just as easily take the body back to an earlier position. In fact, a good dance will do this, as patterns are a key element in organization.

Mercury Warning

Mercury in Pisces comes with a gentle warning not to let moods overtake you. Yes, we can stumble into moods. We can also produce them by arranging sets of circumstances that are under our control. Take the time to put yourself in the mood you think will work best for the situation, because destiny is often determined by our attitudes.

ASTROLOGICAL TOPIC, JEALOUSY

"Holiday, how can social media be a positive thing in my life? Right now it's making me cry because I can't stop noticing how happy my exes seem to be, and yes, I've been creeping on the pages of their current girlfriends to see what's happening there, too. Sometimes I think I run on nothing but coffee and jealousy. Help! I'm a Capricorn." Ambitious Capricorn knows that you don't get anywhere in life by being unaware of what other people are doing. But being too aware comes with its own set of problems, especially if you're taking other people's business personally and doing a line-by-line, them-to-you comparison on matters. Regardless, I think there's an opportunity for you here. I used to regard jealousy as "the green-eyed monster." That is its common description, but I've come to develop a different relationship with this powerful emotion – one that allows for acceptance and even the welcoming of jealous feelings, which get integrated into my self-awareness. Jealousy is no longer a monster to be blamed; rather, jealousy is a friendly radiologist. I will expound on this tomorrow, so please come back!

CELEBRITY PROFILES

From Australian soap operas to blockbusters, Aquarius actress Isla Fisher takes her celebrity in stride, claiming to have a "laid-back attitude." Her chart says it's true, with natal sun in witty and progressive Aquarius, and Mercury and Venus in down-to-earth Capricorn. Look for Fisher in the upcoming "Blithe Spirit," a romantic comedy based on the beloved Noel Coward play. Write Holiday Mathis at HolidayMathis.com.

CRIME WATCH BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON JANUARY 22, AT 6:45 P.M.

Officers responded to the 800 block of Pacific Street for a tenant dispute. A tenant who was in the process of being evicted broke into the garage of the apartment building to retrieve property he believed was his. The suspect got involved with another on the property, threatened him with a knife and then started to break windows inside the residence. Officers stayed on the outside of the apartment and made contact with the suspect via one of the broken windows. As officers were talking with the suspect, he picked up a knife and walked towards the window the officers were talking to him through. Officers gave commands for the suspect to drop the knife to which he refused. The suspect turned away from the officers and hid the knife under the sheets of his bed. Officers were able to negotiate with the suspect to get him to come outside. He complied and was taken into custody without incident. The knife was recovered and was the same weapon used to threaten the other tenant. Jerome Diaz Romero, 57, from Santa Monica was arrested for assault with a deadly weapon. Bail was set at $30,000.

local businesses while also reminding shoppers of the local businesses they may not know about and giving visitors the inside scoop.

"The visitors to Santa Monica want to go where the locals go, and what better guide than the Most Loved Santa Monica publication and website," she said. "We all want to try the Most Loved Happy Hour place or visit the Most Loved SM Farmers Market vendor to see what makes them so special. Most Loved SM brings attention to our local business community and celebrates what makes our community special."

The contest has evolved with the city. New categories for this year's event include Most Loved Outdoor Dining Spot, Most Loved Event/Party Venue and Most Loved Bakery.

Winners are recognized in the Most Loved magazine, with plaques and at a ceremony at City Hall.

"The Most Loved Santa Monica Awards Ceremony is held at City Hall where the winners are announced and formally recognized," said Taylor. "It's a true partnership of the city and local business community. For me, this event is also about showing our businesses how much the City of Santa Monica (Mayor and Council, our city staff) and local leaders value them and the contributions that they collectively bring to making Santa Monica a special, vibrant place to live, work and play."

Voting is open through Feb. 29.

physician at the Nethercutt Emergency Center at UCLA Medical Center Santa Monica, agreed that local residents, students, workers, and tourists should continue to engage in their regular activities as long as they are practicing good public health hygiene.

"I don't think anybody needs to panic," Dabby said in an interview Friday. "I've seen a number of patients pulling into the ER wanting to get screened but I would encourage people if they aren't feeling a shortage of breath and you're not vomiting, then there's no need to come rushing over."

In fact, according to Dabby, the CDC has asked doctors not to screen unless a patient meets specific criteria, which includes travel to Wuhan City or close contact with somebody infected with the coronavirus.

The emergency physician said she understands why a lot of people are concerned about the novel coronavirus, "but I like to remind people that it's like any other virus," Dabby said, mentioning the flu kills hundreds of people a year, but it's rare for residents to stress when they come down with it.

And like the average strain of influenza or the multitude of other viral illnesses that affect humans on a daily basis, Dabby believes the coronavirus — and most other viruses — can be combated with hygiene.

"I don't think you need to walk around town with a mask," Dabby said, but it is recommended you wash your hands before you eat and touch your eyes or mouths. "And we do ask if you are sick with a fever or cough that you don't expose to the public because that's usually when these viruses are very infectious."

It's tricky to know when to go to the doctor because it could be something as simple as a regular viral infection, Dabby said, "but I would seek care if you are having shortness of breath, if you are feeling weak, if you are vomiting when you eat, then I think you should go see your medical provider."

Dabby added, "I think the biggest aspect to be mindful of is to be respectful of our community. If you're sick or coughing then stay at home and stop the spread of the infection. I also think preventative medicine is really important too."

cubic yards of concrete and 100,000 man-hours already used to assemble the building, almost every speaker who took the podium Thursday noted how quick the project was progressing.

Before he shared a possible origin of topping out ceremonies, Project Manager Nate Huntley said, "It's amazing what's going on here," and it's an honor and a privilege to be a part of such a close knit community.

"We are in awe of the magnitude of the building and what it will offer so many in the Samohi school community," principal Antonio Shelton added. "The excitement that this building has generated is contagious," and it's wonderful to know that in a few months — if not a year or so — students will begin to walk the halls of this learning space and enjoy a state-of-the-art learning atmosphere.

As attendees rushed to sign the white beam adorned by a small tree, some residents marveled at the building's design and questioned engineers about the novel concepts that were integrated into the structure.

"The way it is built is designed around what we know, which is that education is changing," said Carey Upton, SMMUSD's Chief Operations Officer.

Upton went on to explain the structure is an open building concept that's designed so officials can change and rearrange rooms and spaces to fit their needs.

"And this is going to give us a great opportunity to adjust and adapt this building over the 30, 40, 50, 100 years of its lifespan," Upton said, describing how the $133 million building will feature classrooms, labs, indoor and outdoor dining facilities, an Olympic-size swimming pool, a suite for medically fragile students, a rooftop garden classroom and a parking garage for nearly 300 cars.

Before the final steel beam was hoisted hundreds of feet into the air with the project's crane, which has amassed hundreds of followers on Instagram (https://www.instagram.com/samohi_crane/), board President Jon Kean thanked those who helped the building come to fruition.

"But most of all," he said, "we thank Santa Monica for believing in education."
