YOUTH: The local program provides career and employment support to foster youth.

GRACE INEZ ADAMS
SMDP Staff Writer

In 2106, local residents Patrick McCabe and Romi Lassally found themselves both asking the same question: what happens to foster students after they graduate college?

Only 3% of the over 400,000 foster youth in the US graduate college, and as McCabe and Lassally learned, there is little assistance available to help them transition to post-college life.

Brought together by a desire to support these students, they formed Ready To Succeed, a non-profit organization with the goal of providing support services to set foster students up for success upon graduation.

Eating clean and green at Santa Monica's new restaurants

SCOTT SNOWDEN
SMDP Staff Writer

This year has already seen a trio of new eateries opening in Santa Monica, each offering a selection that differs significantly from many, more conventional fast food outlets.

"I'm excited to see so many new restaurants opening because Santa Monica has such a strong focus on healthy living and exercise is the perfect market for opening health-focused, new dining options," said Susan Hojer, Vice President of Membership and Development for the Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce.

Located at 2200 Colorado Ave, Hummus Xpress offers exactly what the name suggests. And while the food there is really rather tasty, some confusion is commonplace since the store has chosen to adopt the phrase "a taste of Italy" as part of its branding.

Store owner Timmonique Burnett insists that garbanzo beans also known as chickpeas, the primary ingredient in hummus, originate from Italy.

"People don't do their research when it comes to the origin of chickpeas and garbanzo beans. So if you really look up where it comes from, that's where we got Italy," Burnett says.

Still, while the jury is out on the origin story, at the very least it gets customers looking up history,

The Masters of Dance workshops are free, and the public is invited to attend as participants or as observers. Seating is limited and on a first-arrival basis.

The workshops will be held in the SMC Core Performance Center (CPC) on the main SMC campus (1900 Pico Blvd., Santa Monica).

The series is sponsored by the SMC Associates (smc.edu/associates) — a private organization that funds speakers and special programs on the Santa Monica College campus — and the SMC Dance Department.

The Spring 2023 Masters of Dance line-up is:

• March 6 at 10:15 a.m.: Alyson Mattoon: "Banded Mobility and Strength" — CPC 304/308 (main SMC campus, 1900 Pico Blvd., Santa Monica). A Pilates-inspired workshop taught by Alyson ("Aly") Mattoon explains how to use resistance bands and other methods to tone up muscles. The multidisciplined Pilates teacher and movement educator was a principal dancer for a decade with The State Street Ballet of Santa Barbara, and holds a Pilates certification through Body Arts and Science International (BASI), a BA in Performing Arts from the Saint Mary's College LEAP program, and GYROTONIC® certification. • April 26 at 10:15 a.m.: Emiko Saraswati Susilo: "Balinese Movement" — CPC 304/308 (main SMC campus, 1900 Pico Blvd., Santa Monica). Emiko Saraswati Susilo introduces the fundamental techniques and philosophy of Balinese dance, including its relationship to music and culture in Bali. A dancer/choreographer, voice actor, and musician who revels in the meeting of movement, voice, and music, Susilo has dedicated her life to nurturing intercultural communication. She is the associate director of Çudamani — where she leads international programs and programs that advance opportunities for women in Balinese performing arts — and has taught in Bali and the U.S. and served as director and board chair for Gamelan Sekar Jaya for over 10 years. SMC Emeritus Gallery to Host Online Opening Reception for 2023 Annual Student Photography Exhibition March 2

The Santa Monica College Emeritus Art Gallery is pleased to present its 2023 Annual Student Photography Exhibition on Thursday, March 2. The exhibition will be presented online at the gallery's website at smc.edu/emeritusgallery.

A free, live Zoom Virtual Launch Event will be held online from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Thursday, March 2. A link at smc.edu/emeritusgallery takes guests directly to the exhibition's opening reception.

The opening reception will be hosted by Dean of Noncredit and External Programs Dr. Scott Silverman and Emeritus Art Gallery Curator Jesse Benson. The reception includes a live scroll through the exhibition and a discussion between Benson and several of the exhibit's photographers about selected images.

To see the photographs online at any time after 5 p.m. on March 2, viewers may go to smc.edu/emeritusgallery and click the 2023 Annual Emeritus Student Photography Exhibition link, available 24 hours a day. The link takes viewers directly to the exhibition album on a Facebook page that is open to public viewing (Facebook account not necessary).

"We count on photographs to document our past and present. We use them as reminders and to elicit the moods embedded in fleeting moments," said Benson. "Over the past three years, our Emeritus photographers have been telling the stories of their experiences as we navigate our constantly changing social conditions. It's exciting to see that the photographic results have shifted recently from being mostly at-home investigations back to being more worldly chronicles of life experience."

> "We count on photographs to document our past and present. We use them as reminders and to elicit the moods embedded in fleeting moments
> - Jesse Benson Emeritus Art Gallery Curator

"Through photography, Emeritus students are able to capture a story and show us a different lens through which to see the world," said Guadalupe Salgado, Associate Dean (Interim) of SMC Emeritus. "New or seasoned professional, we celebrate all our photographers who have submitted work for this show. Please join us in showcasing our student's perspective and artistry."

The salon-style group exhibition features a remarkable variety of recent photographic works created by 25 students. The students are: John Alcantara, Kathleen Battersby, Dorli Burge, Christine Chambers, John Dalton, Caroline Gerstley, Jim Gerstley, Caroline Gray, Trude Haas, Susan Hannan, Kathleen Higgins, Marilyn Kabakov, Fran Lyness, Vicki Maturo, Wendy Miller, Regina Pally, Allan Popelka, Doris Power, Judy Raffel, Linda Rosman, Karen Sandler, Ganna Shneydina, Marilyn Stern, Jo Tashima, and Michael Telerant.

SMC's widely praised Emeritus program — founded by Santa Monica College in 1975 as a noncredit program to serve the lifelong learning interests of older adults — offers more than 120 noncredit adult education classes and special programs that serve more than 3,000 students each year.

Underage Decoy Shoulder Tap Operation

On Friday, February 10, the Santa Monica Police Department (SMPD) conducted an underage Decoy Shoulder Tap operation. The operation utilized a decoy, under the age of 21 and supervised by SMPD Investigators. Underage Decoy Shoulder Tap operations are focused on adults who knowingly furnish alcoholic beverages to minors. The goal is to reduce substance abuse and enhance community welfare by limiting underage access to alcoholic beverages.

The SMPD enforcement team visited 4 Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) licensed retail establishments in the city of Santa Monica. The decoy remained outside of the establishments and solicited 47 adult patrons to act as proxies to purchase an alcoholic beverage on their behalf. There were no violations during the course of this operation.

This operation is part of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control's Minor Decoy/Shoulder Tap Grant Project funded by the California Office of Traffic Safety through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administratioin.

Long COVID Impacts Los Angeles County Residents; Three in Four Experience Limitations in Daily Activities

Although fewer Los Angeles County residents are getting severely ill from COVID-19, many still feel its lingering effects with conditions, such as fatigue, chronic coughing, or brain fog, that may last for days, months or even years after initial infection.

Two separate studies confirm that a significant percentage of people have experienced COVID-19 symptoms for four weeks or more after the initial phase of infection, a condition commonly known as long COVID.

Symptoms of long COVID can include extreme tiredness, a worsening of symptoms after physical or mental exertion, difficulty breathing, chest pain, sleep problems, changes in taste and smell, depression and brain fog, a condition characterized by confusion, forgetfulness and lack of clarity or focus.

In a study conducted by the University of Southern California (USC) Pandemic Research Center in collaboration with the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health (Public Health), more than half of the residents who said they had tested positive for COVID-19 at some point during the pandemic also reported having symptoms consistent with long COVID.

Three out of four people who reported symptoms lasting four weeks or more also reported that long COVID symptoms had limited them in going about their daily activities, such as going to work or school, socializing with loved ones or taking care of their personal needs. Of those, 25% reported significant limitations.

The findings from this study, closely resembled the results of a similar long COVID study, conducted by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) that surveyed California residents.

While healthy individuals, and those who only experienced mild COVID-19 illness can develop long COVID, the CDC identifies certain individuals at higher risk: people who had a more severe COVID-19 illness, especially if they were hospitalized or needed intensive care; people with underlying health conditions prior to getting infected; people who did not get a COVID-19 vaccine; and children who experience multisystem inflammatory syndrome (MIS-C) during or after COVID-19 illness.

The best way to prevent long COVID is to avoid getting infected or reinfected. The bivalent booster has been shown to reduce the likelihood of a severe infection, in turn potentially lowering the risk of developing long COVID.

Individuals with ongoing COVID-19 symptoms or severe limitations in daily activities extending more than four weeks after a COVID-19 infection, should contact their health care provider or a clinic specializing in Long-COVID recovery and rehabilitation.

The Public Health Call Center at 1-833-540-0473 also has well-trained staff who can answer questions about long COVID and provide a list of local clinics specializing in long COVID rehabilitation. The phone line is open seven days a week, between 8:00 a.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Currently, Los Angeles County remains in the CDC designated Low Community Level with a 7-day case rate of 69 new cases per 100,000 people, down slightly from the week prior. The 7-day total for new COVID-19 hospital admissions per 100,000 people is currently 7, also down slightly from 7.5 last week. And the 7-day average of the proportion of staffed inpatient beds occupied by COVID-19 patients remains at 3.9.

While the Low Community Level is encouraging, it remains important to still take practical steps to avoid infection, especially for people who are older, have underlying health conditions, or are at higher risk to develop long COVID.

2023 Malibu Library Speaker Series Continues with Author Harlan Lebo Discussing the Iconic Film "Citizen Kane"

The 2023 Malibu Library Speaker Series continues with author Harlan Lebo discussing his book "Citizen Kane: A Filmmaker's Journey" about the making of one the most impactful films in cinema history, Tuesday, February 28, 7 p.m. at the Malibu Library.

"For his first feature film, Orson Wells produced, directed, co-wrote and starred in 'Citizen Kane,' a film that is widely identified as one of the best movies of all time," said Mayor Bruce Silverstein. "For the second installment of the 2023 Library Speaker Series, we invite our friends, neighbors and community members to learn the behind-the-scenes details of this extraordinary accomplishment by a much-revered and often-misunderstood Hollywood icon."

Harlan Lebo's "Citizen Kane: A Filmmaker's Journey" is a movie-lover's history of the trials, tribulations, and triumphs behind the making of "Citizen Kane," considered one of the greatest films ever made. The 1941 film was nominated for Academy Awards in nine categories and won for Original Screenplay. It's cinematography, editing, music, and social commentary are considered innovative and precedent-setting.

"Citizen Kane: A Filmmaker's Journey," not only tells the story of the making of one of Hollywood's greatest films, but also presents a compelling tale of censorship, individual rights, and creative freedom and recounts one of the most exciting chapters in Hollywood history.

Lebo has written books on other iconic films, including "The Godfather" and "Casablanca" and served as a historical consultant to Paramount Pictures for the 50th anniversary of the release of "Citizen Kane." He writes about cultural history, science, the humanities, society, and the impact of digital technology.

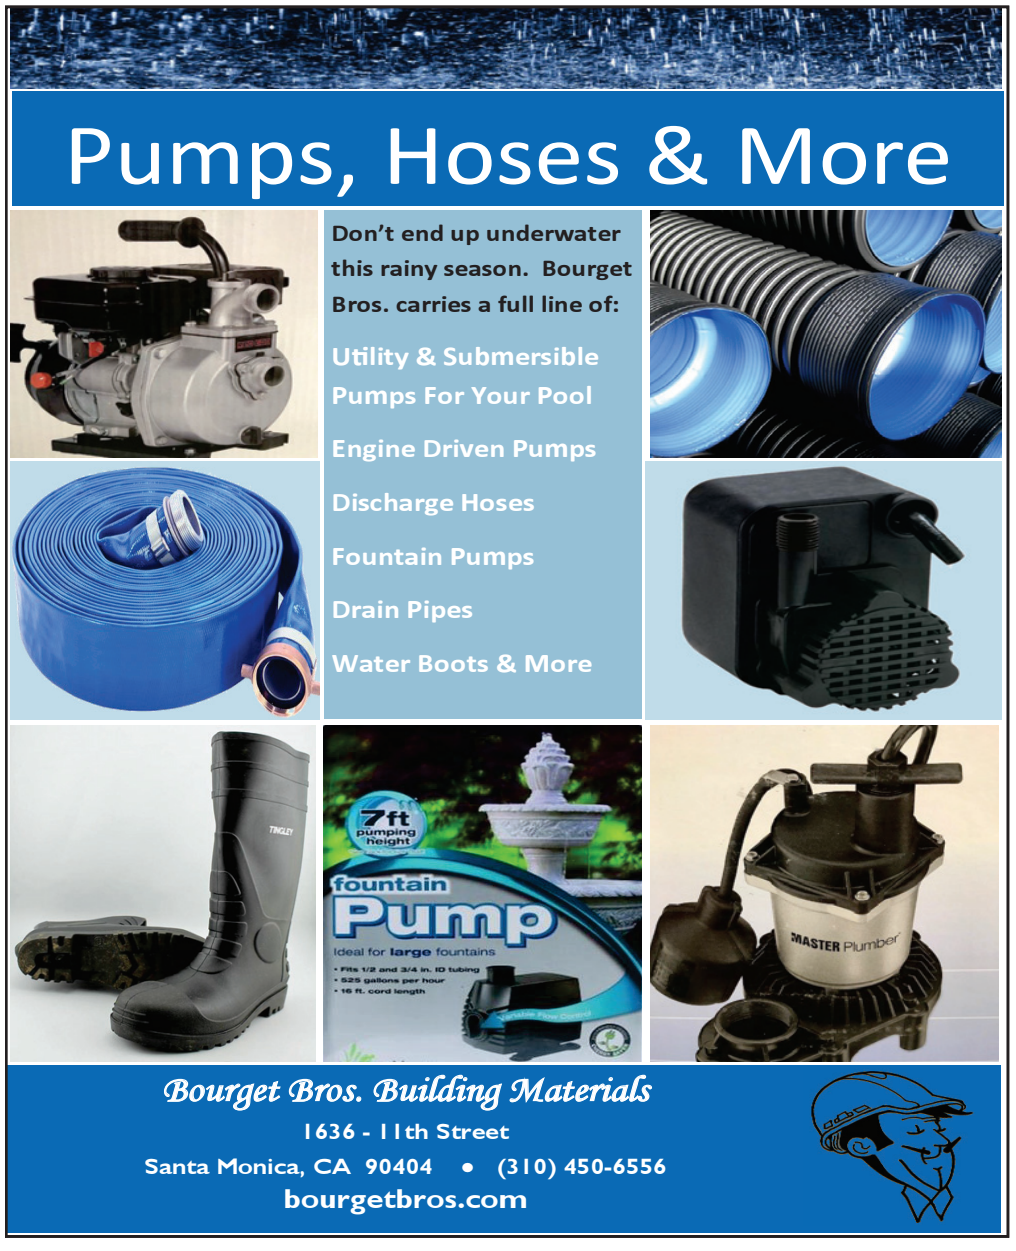

The Malibu Library is located at 23519 West Civic Center Way. Space is limited and RSVPs are required for this free event. For more information or to RSVP, visit www.MalibuCity.org/Speakers or call the Malibu Library at 310-456-6438.

Launched in 2013, the Malibu Library Speaker Series is a program in partnership with the Malibu Library, part of LA County Library, and the City of Malibu. It features experts, authors, and other notable figures discussing a wide range of subjects, including the entertainment industry, literature, science, motivation, the arts, education, sports, travel, food, and the environment.

foster youth is the greatest day of their life – they've overcome all these odds, it's amazing," McCabe said. "It's also the worst day of their life – they lose their food, they lose their housing, they lose their mental health service and they lose their social circle."

Starting with just six students, Lassally and McCabe – who both have extensive business experience – utilized their professional networks to help connect these students with internship and job opportunities after graduation.

"I said, let's write down everyone we know who's working and successful and we realized we had such deep benches and really deep networks that we wanted to leverage for good," Lassally said.

Ready To Succeed now has close to 400 participants, a 16 person staff, has expanded to include first generation students as well and has added additional services to address their needs through a comprehensive program.

"There were all these kinds of things that we saw very clearly, that sort of had to be addressed," McCabe said. "It wasn't just about internships, a LinkedIn profile, and a placement at HBO, it was really more about mental health, transportation, or whatever else."

He said they now have two volunteer therapists who work with the students regularly. Additionally, Lassally said they have opted for a proactive approach, meaning they start working with students years before they graduate, something she said not many schools currently offer.

"It's not like an add-on when you're a senior, you can't wait that long," she said. "It's sophomore year, start thinking about it, with the goal of getting an internship that summer."

Lassally and McCabe said the organization has been able to expand so significantly thanks to grants, partnerships and other donations and funding. Congressman Ted Lieu recently secured $1 million in federal funding for Ready To Succeed to help increase the program's enrollment by 15%.

McCabe added that the model they have created is self sustaining. Many of the students who go through their program later act as career coaches and even sit on the organization's board.

"Now they're in their mid to late 20s, seven years later, and they are acting as the models and mentors for the students that are in college…" he said. "These kids are very successful, they're at HBO, Lionsgate, Kayne Anderson – we've had students in all these places."

"That part's been great," Lasally said. "We seeded the network, but they will become the network."

Recycling (RRR) division is adequately funded. The City was scheduled for a solid waste rate adjustment in 2020 but opted to defer it to prevent additional financial burdens to residents during the COVID 19 pandemic.

RRR provides services including trash and recycling collection, street sweeping, hazardous waste collection and bulky item pickup among others.

Option one, which City staff recommend, would raise rates by 11% or more, but would allow the department to hire more staff and enhance services. Option two would result in a 10% increase for most customers, but staff say it would make it difficult for employees to keep up with the city's sanitation needs.

HOUSING ELEMENT UPDATES

Council members will also discuss several policy recommendations from the Planning Commission relating to the City's 6th Cycle Housing Element, which is a quota of housing assigned by the State every eight years that cities are required to plan for. Individual cities do not have to build any units themselves, but do need to ensure that zoning rules allow private developers to be able to build the assigned number of units.

There are several steps that the council must take to fulfill the requirements of the housing element, many of which they will be discussing over the coming months. At next week's meeting they will review recommendations from the planning commission relating to the Downtown Community Plan, Bergamot Area Plan, zoning ordinance and land use changes as well as several other policy questions.

FAST FOOD PROHIBITION ORDINANCE

Also on the agenda is an interim ordinance that could result in the temporary elimination of current restrictions that prohibit certain fast food restaurants on the Third Street Promenade. This would expand the types of businesses that are permitted on the Promenade with the hope of filling numerous currently vacant storefronts.

The City currently prohibits restaurants on the Promenade with more than 150 locations nationwide in an effort to distinguish the street from other shopping and dining areas. Council may also discuss raising that number to over 500 locations as an alternative to a full elimination of the prohibition.

The meeting will begin at 5:30 p.m on Feb 28 at City Hall Council Chambers. To view the full agenda visit: https://santamonicacityca.iqm2.com/Citizens/Detail_Meeting.aspx culture and foreign cuisine. And regardless of their origins, Burnett uses them in a wide variety of different and delicious ways, including a pizza with a base made from pita bread.

Originally from Compton, Burnett recently had to adjust her own diet and saw an opportunity in Santa Monica to open a business because "people here focus on healthy dining," and she has no intention of keeping to just one outlet.

"Our goal is to start franchising in 2024 and we already have some people on our radar who are interested in trying to partner with us. So right now I'm working with an attorney to get all the logistics together," she said.

Highlights from the menu include the lemon pepper pizza (pita bread pizza base, hummus spread, lemon pepper chicken, cheese and tomatoes) but for the best experience, ask what for whatever the chef recommends.

Meanwhile, on the Promenade, a new concept from Chipotle called Farmesa has opened at the Kitchen United Mix space (formally the Gallery Food Hall) at 1315 3rd Street and "features a robust, customizable menu of fresh ingredients served in bowls."

Customers can place an order either via onsite kiosks, on the Kitchen United website or for pickup and delivery through marketplace apps like DoorDash and Uber Eats. Farmesa serves a variety of bowls ranging in price from $11.95 to $16.95. Each bowl features a protein, green or grain, two sides, a choice of five sauces and a topping option.

"One of our strategic objectives is to create or invest in emerging culinary spaces and restaurant concepts that fit within Chipotle's food with integrity mission and make fresh food daily," said Brian Niccol, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer in a press release. "Our New Ventures team, which was created in 2022, developed a unique restaurant concept that uses classic culinary techniques with flavorful ingredients in a fast casual setting that we're excited to test and learn on before we determine a broader rollout strategy."

Farmesa launched with a limited run menu to begin with adopting the full menu that includes dishes like classic Santa Maria-style grilled tri-tip steak, spice-crusted ora king salmon, whipped potatoes, golden beets, sprouted cauliflower and sweet potato chips.

Finally, the popular, Southern Californian salad shop chain Health Nut is opening its fourth location in Los Angeles County, located at 1447 Lincoln Blvd. According to the website, it's scheduled to open sometime in the spring, although no official date has yet been confirmed.

What started in 1988 as a family-owned vitamin store, the chain has evolved into a successful series of healthy eating outlets and even has plans to open a fifth location after Santa Monica, in Culver City.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Feb. 27)

Hafez, the 14th century poet, wrote: "How did the rose ever open its heart and give to this world all its beauty? It felt the encouragement of light against its being." You will be the sun at times and the rose at other times. A windfall is imminent. Your idea will get funding. You'll spend months readying yourself for an event. Scorpio and Leo adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 5, 17, 3, 30 and 10.

HOROSCOPES

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The best way to figure out someone's motive is to put yourself in their shoes. As a detective working a case might, you'll conduct a recreation of sorts to tease your mind into coming up with answers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You'll become directly involved in the sort of scenario you once dreamed about. Things are different in this hands-on position. There are stressors you hadn't considered, and many benefits that surprise you as well.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You have a unique contribution to bring to the world, but it's not something that's fixed or a treasure hidden in you that you must discover. It's more like a meal that you make as you go with the ingredients available.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). The absurdity of life is not lost on you. You'll take the weird parts and weave them into your plan, and then sit back and be amused at the interesting way it all plays out.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Most things you can fall into (including luck, love, a rhythm, a rut, a mood, debt) require some sort of surrender. You've come to a slippery slope. Keep a tight grip as you assess the nature of what you could potentially be getting into.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Dramatic change due to large-scale efforts is rare compared to the change that comes of small daily moves in a particular direction. Results may be undetectable over the course of the week but radical given months and years.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). If you give someone a little extra pause after they are finished speaking an idea, they will often go further. You'll get more information by waiting for it than you will by asking for it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). What used to give you a charge now has very little emotional energy to it. Outgrowing certain influences is a natural progression of life. This might have to do with a teacher. Seek teachers that challenge and inspire you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The gatekeeper isn't necessarily an enemy or a friend, but merely the one who provides criteria for entry. You will learn about the expectation at hand and use it to strengthen your resolve and sharpen your skill.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Writing and transportation are two themes of the day. Through writing you can transport yourself and others to a different headspace. And through physical transportation you get the inspiration to write.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Like looking everywhere for the glasses that are sitting atop your head, sometimes thinking something is missing inspires futile searching. Check yourself. Chances are, what you're looking for is already inside you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). The next step is logical, and don't wait until you have the confidence to do it either. Don't worry, the courage might kick in or it might not, but you don't need to believe you can do it to accomplish it. You just need to move.
