Los Angeles International Airport will experiment with a limited restoration of taxi pickups in the central terminal area beginning later this month.

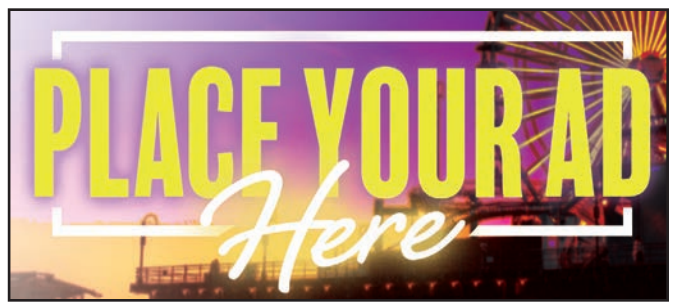

Taxi drivers have been pushing to resume pickups there since taxi and ride-hailing pickups were moved to a lot outside the terminal loop last fall to ease traffic amid major construction.

Airport officials said this week that one taxi pickup location will

Public Health Issues Guidance Related to COVID-19 for Participants and Spectators of the 2020 LA Marathon

The Los Angeles County Department of Public Health (Public Health) issued guidance for participants and spectators of the 2020 Los Angeles Marathon in an effort to inform the public about protecting themselves against novel coronavirus disease (COVID-19).

"We are not currently recommending the suspension of any large public events, including the LA Marathon," said Barbara Ferrer, PhD, MPH, MEd, Director of Public Health. "The public can continue to enjoy all that LA County has to offer, including this historic event. However, we do want people to take enhanced measures to protect themselves from the spread of respiratory illnesses, including COVID-19; this includes staying home if you are sick and frequently washing your hands," she added.

"We are actively monitoring the situation and communicating directly with participants via social channels, email and our website to update them as we learn more," said Murphy Reinschreiber, Chief Operating Officer of the McCourt Foundation, which organizes the event. "For runners traveling from impacted countries, we are offering a deferral program that will allow them to participate in next year's race. We continue to follow the guidance of local, state and federal authorities to implement necessary plans and protocols for the marathon. Runner safety is paramount and will continue to be our top priority."

Public Health offers the following guidance to reduce the spread of respiratory illnesses at the LA Marathon:

SPECTATORS

Public Health recommends that spectators who are sick with even mild illness remain at home. Those planning to attend should engage in social distancing - a term used to stop or slow the spread of a contagious disease - and keep a distance of at least 6 feet between you and another person who is not your family member or friend. Please do not share food or water bottles, avoid shaking hands, and frequently wash hands or use hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol, particularly before eating, after using the restroom and after blowing your nose, coughing, or sneezing.

RUNNERS

For runners planning to participate in the marathon, if you feel sick even with mild illness on the day of the marathon, please do not participate. The recommendations are that you wash your hands or use hand sanitizer prior to the start of the race, and do not shake hands with other participants or the public along the course. Please do not share water or food with other runners and frequently use hand sanitizer provided to you along the course.

Public Health is working closely with the organizers of the 2020 Los Angeles Marathon and the Keck School of Medicine to ensure that runners and spectators are able to enjoy this annual event while taking appropriate precautions to reduce the spread of respiratory illnesses. We are grateful for their support and urge all participants at this event to practice good public health hygiene: stay home if sick, wash hands or use hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol frequently and avoid unnecessary close contact with strangers.

At least 10 virus cases linked to cruise ship off California

OLGA R. RODRIGUEZ
Associated Press

Confined to their cabins, passengers aboard a mammoth cruise ship off the California coast awaited coronavirus test results Friday amid evidence the vessel was the breeding ground for a deadly cluster of at least 10 cases during its previous voyage.

On Thursday, a military helicopter crew lowered test kits onto the 951-foot (290-meter) Grand Princess by rope and later retrieved them for analysis as the vessel waited off San Francisco, under orders to keep its distance from shore. Princess Cruises said 45 of the more than 3,500 people on board were tested. Results were expected as early as Friday.

Health officials trying to establish whether the virus is circulating on the Grand Princess undertook the testing after reporting that a passenger on a previous voyage of the ship, in February, died of the disease. In the past few days, health authorities disclosed that at least nine other people who were on the same excursion were also found to be infected. And some passengers on that trip stayed aboard for the current voyage.

"The ship will not come on shore until we appropriately assess the passengers," California Gov. Gavin Newsom said Thursday. Depending on what they find, authorities could order a quarantine of all or some of those aboard.

Another Princess cruise ship, the Diamond Princess, was quarantined for two weeks in Yokohama, Japan, last month because of the virus, and ultimately about 700 of the 3,700 people aboard became infected in what experts pronounced a public-health failure, with the vessel essentially becoming a floating germ factory.

Meanwhile, the U.S. death toll from the coronavirus climbed to 14, with all but one victim in Washington state, while the number of infections swelled to over 200, scattered across about half the states. Pennsylvania, Indiana, Minnesota and Nebraska reported their first cases.

On Wall Street, stocks went into another slide as fears mounted over the potential damage to the global economy from factory shutdowns, travel bans, quarantines and cancellations of events big and small — a list that grew to include the world-famous South by Southwest arts festival in Austin, Texas, set to begin next week.

And President Donald Trump signed an $8.3 billion measure to help public health agencies deal with crisis and spur development of vaccines and treatments.

Worldwide, the virus has infected more than 100,000 people and killed over 3,400, the vast majority of them in China. Most cases have been mild, and more than half of those infected have recovered.

Most of the dead in the U.S. were from suburban Seattle's Life Care Center nursing home, now the subject of federal and state investigations that could lead to sanctions against it, including a possible takeover of its management. Washington state has the nation's biggest concentration of cases, with at least 70.

Also, 30 medical professionals from the U.S. Public Health Service will arrive Saturday at the nursing home to help care for the patients and provide relief to the exhausted staff, said Dow Constantine, executive in charge of Seattle's King County.

"We are grateful the cavalry is arriving. It will make rapid change in the conditions there," he said. The nursing home was down to 69 residents after 15 were taken to the hospital in the preceding 24 hours, Constantine said.

The state of Washington is also setting up a command center dedicated to nursing homes, Gov. Jay Inslee said.

Some major businesses in the Seattle metropolitan area, including Microsoft and Amazon, which together employ more than 100,000 people in the region. have shut down operations or urged employees to work from home. The University of Washington called off classes at its three Seattle-area campuses for the next two weeks and will instead teach its 57,000 students online. And a comics convention next week in Seattle that was expected to draw about 100,000 people was canceled.

The ship off California was returning to San Francisco after visiting Hawaii.

A Sacramento-area man who sailed aboard the Grand Princess in February on a visit to a series of Mexican ports later succumbed to the coronavirus, according to California authorities. Others who were on that voyage have also tested positive, with seven cases in Northern California and two in Canada, authorities said.

However, Mexico's top epidemiologist denied that the passenger who died in California was on a ship that visited Mexican ports. Dr. José Luis Alomía Zegarra said the passenger was on a different cruise that did not stop in Mexico.

Three dozen passengers on the Grand Princess have had flu-like symptoms over the past two weeks or so, said Mary Ellen Carroll, executive director of San Francisco's Department of Emergency Management.

An epidemiologist who studies the spread of virus particles said the recirculated air from a cruise ship's ventilation system, along with the close quarters and communal settings, make passengers vulnerable to infectious diseases.

"They're not designed as quarantine facilities, to put it mildly," said Don Milton of the University of Maryland. "You're going to amplify the infection by keeping people on the boat."

He said whether tests confirm 45 or even two cases of coronavirus on the Grand Princess, the fallout from the ship quarantined in Japan demonstrates the urgent need to move people off the ship.

"My advice is to get people off and into a safer quarantine environment than a cruise ship," Milton said.

Michele Smith, a Grand Princess passenger, posted video on Facebook of the helicopter that arrived at the ship. Another video showed

California aims to avoid 'Carmageddon' freeway closure

JOHN ROGERS
Associated Press

It could be "Carmageddon II," and it's coming to a major freeway near Los Angeles on the last weekend of April.

The question, as Southern Californians fire up their traffic apps, is whether this latest freeway shutdown — of a section of busy Interstate 5 through Burbank — might be subtitled "The Traffic Strikes Back." Or, as transportation officials hope, "The Motorist Awakens (And Takes an Alternate Route.)"

The section of the major interstate connecting Los Angeles and San Francisco is scheduled to be closed for 36 hours in both directions starting at 3 p.m. April 25, a Saturday. If all goes as planned it will reopen at 3 a.m. April 27, just ahead of the Monday rush hour.

"This will be the largest freeway closure in Los Angeles since September 2012 when we closed Interstate 405 in both directions," John Bulinski, the state Department of Transportation's local director, said Thursday. He was referring to the 2012 event that came to be known widely as Carmageddon for fears it would cause traffic chaos.

In the end, the traffic jams that officials feared could have gridlocked the entire city that weekend never materialized as people got the word and stayed away.

That's what officials were hoping will happen again when they scheduled a news conference Thursday on a hilltop parking lot in Burbank overlooking a section of Interstate 5 that, not surprisingly, was jammed with traffic.

"There is large potential to affect not only traffic in the Burbank area but in the greater Los Angeles area," said Capt. Tai Vong of the California Highway Patrol. "So if you absolutely do not need to be on the I-5 Freeway in this area during the closure, please just stay away.

"We've been through this ... with Carmageddon," Vong continued, noting how in 2012 the hundreds of thousands of people who normally use Interstate 405 every day just went elsewhere.

"And the mass traffic chaos everybody predicted never materialized."

As Interstate 405 was, Interstate 5 is being closed as construction workers tear down a bridge so they can widen the freeway and add a pair of carpool lanes.

The $350 million project will provide 13 miles of continuous carpool lanes through a notoriously congested roadway that 230,000 vehicles traverse daily.

As they did in 2012, transit officials will be posting freeway signs 50 miles or more away warning people to exit the 5 before they get to Burbank. Officials rattled off a number of alternate routes that will get motorists around Burbank or even get them there, although it may take a little longer than usual.

If they don't take the routes, officials say, they could end up backing up traffic so far it will block all of them, making it difficult to impossible to get to stores, hospitals and even the Hollywood Burbank Airport.

"We are a little concerned," said Jay Desai, one of the managers of Bob's Discount Furniture, which overlooks the section of freeway that will be closed. The store doesn't plan to close, however, but is getting the word out to customers to take other ways in.

Edgar Sanchez, who washes windows in the area, says he'll either stay away that weekend or plan another way in.

"It's always best to plan ahead and find solutions rather than problems," he said.

A second LAX screener is among 2 new LA County virus cases

Another health screener at Los Angeles International Airport is one of two new confirmed coronavirus cases in Los Angeles County, Public Health Director Barbara Ferrer announced Friday.

The new cases bring the county's total to 13, including one traveler from Wuhan, China, who has already recovered, she said.

Ferrer said the newly confirmed screener case is a person who worked at the same LAX quarantine station at the same time as a screener whose diagnosis was announced Wednesday.

They are likely to have had the same exposure, but the federal Centers for Disease Control has been asked to do the investigation because the quarantine station is under U.S. Customs and Border Protection jurisdiction, Ferrer said.

The second new case is person was in a group that traveled to northern Italy, she said. Eight members of that group have now tested positive and are in isolation.

"With these new cases we still do not have any known public exposure but we have identified a list of close contacts – families, friends, health care workers – that are all being interviewed and as appropriate they will be subject for quarantine for 14 days from their last exposure to a confirmed case," Ferrer said.

Michelangelo: Mind of the Master Exhibition at the Getty Center

Michelangelo Buonarroti (1475-1564), was an influential artist during the Italian Renaissance, and a new exhibition at the Getty Center — "Michelangelo: Mind of the Master" — brings together over 28 of his drawings, many of which have never been seen outside of Europe.

A new exhibition at the Getty Center, "Michelangelo: Mind of the Master", opened on Tuesday, Feb. 24. It was organized by the Getty in conjunction with the Cleveland Museum of Art and the Teylers Museum based in Haarlem, Netherlands.

Upon entering the exhibition, the lit pedestal displays illuminated the drawings in an otherwise dark room. Many of the double-sided displays are placed above freestanding pedestals throughout the room, effectively showcasing the beauty and genius of Michelangelo's work.

The exhibition cohesively captured Michelangelo's essence, however there were a few pieces in particular that really stood out. The intricately composed The Holy Family with Saint John the Baptist, reveals the artist's devotion to his craft.

Additionally, an architectural drawing of a section through the dome of St. Peter's Basilica shows the quality of the master's draughtsmanship, even when not rendering the human form.

In the last room, wall-sized copies of the Creation of Adam and The Last Judgment, originally from the Sistine Chapel, demonstrate Michelangelo's command of his craft on a large scale. The sheer majesty of these large images communicates to the viewer what words could not.

It's believed Michelangelo drew prolifically, however, he burned many of his drawings throughout his life. Analysis included at the Getty exhibit poses the possibility that he did this because he was distrustful of his rivals and colleagues, and didn't want his ideas stolen.

When he died, only a few drawings were found in his home, locked in a wooden chest, protected by wax seals. More were found at his other home in Florence but the number of drawings that survived are but a fraction of his original output. Seeing so many of his drawings in one place, and displayed so creatively, is a truly unique experience.

The exhibition will be open to the public through June 7 at the Getty Center.

LIONS MEMBERS: SM Lions president, Pam Andrews, Julia Abbott and student speaker chair, Carole Mullaney.

This year we are pleased to announce that Julia Abbott, from Palisades Charter High School, won the Santa Monica Lions Club Student Speaker Contest and will be advancing to the zone level. The topic for this year's competition was "Homelessness in California; What's the Solution?" Julia, a sophomore, presented a very compelling and insightful response. We will continue to watch her progress through the various levels of competition, and hopefully all the way to the state championship.

This month, on Thursday, March 5, Pam Andrews will be passing the president's gavel to Kingsley Fife at the Elks Lodge at our regular lunch meeting. In addition to the ceremony, we will also have a Lion from the Palos Verdes Club, Ken Marchand, talk about computers and technology. Since he is an instructor of computer science at Santa Monica High School, this should be a very informative presentation.

It is time for our 6th Annual Lions Eyes Across California vision screening at Virginia Avenue Park in Santa Monica. The event will be held on Saturday, March 21 right next to the Farmer's Market, from 9 a.m. – 1 p.m. Similar to last year, we will be doing free diabetes screenings and children's vision screenings, while also offering a selection of free readers for anyone that needs them. Children will receive their choice of a free book, once they have completed their eye screening. We only able to offer this double complimentary screening once a year, so please spread the word to those you think would benefit from it. This is a great time to drop off any used eyeglasses or hearing aids that may have collecting around the house.

Next up will be the Santa Monica Arts & Literacy Festival in Virginia Ave Park on Saturday, April 25 from 10 a.m. – 2 p.m. We will be helping children with a craft project and are looking for some volunteers. This is a particularly good project for any high school students looking to complete volunteer service hours before the end of the school year. If you are interested in learning more about Lions Clubs and serving the Santa Monica and Westside communities, please consider joining us at one of our twice monthly meetings or a service activity, which are currently scheduled for March, April and June. be established in a parking structure near the Tom Bradley International Terminal and adjacent Terminal 3.

Another taxi stand will be put back into service for travelers passing through Terminals 7 and 8.

Last October, the airport moved all taxi and ride-hailing pickups from curbside to a satellite lot dubbed LAX-it (pronounced LA-exit).

Airport officials said the move was necessitated to reduce traffic for construction of an automated people mover train and its stations as well as redevelopment of every terminal. Passengers can walk there or take constantly circulating shuttles.

Initially, there were numerous complaints about LAX-it but the airport says it has since been running smoothly.

Passengers from Terminals 1, 2, 4, 5, and 6, will continue to be directed to use LAX-it for pickups.

The pilot program for the two new taxi locations will run for 90 days as its impact on traffic is studied.

from San Vicente Blvd. to Moomat Ahiko Way.

A batch of closures will begin at 3 a.m. on Sunday including:

Main St. will be closed from Pico Blvd. to Colorado Ave.

Colorado Ave. will be closed between 5th St. and 4th St.

4th St. will be closed in both directions between Colorado Ave. and Broadway until noon.

Southbound 2nd St. will be closed between Wilshire Blvd. and Colorado Ave. Northbound traffic will not be permitted to turn right at each intersection.

Northbound 5th St. will have left turn restrictions between Colorado Ave. and Arizona Ave and all traffic will be directed to Wilshire Blvd. to access the parking garages via 4th St. on Sunday.

On Sunday at 6 a.m. Westbound Olympic Dr. will close between Main St. and 4th St. Eastbound and westbound Olympic Dr. will be closed between Ocean Ave. and Avenida Mazatlán.

Roads will reopen after the majority of runners have finished the race. Officials expect San Vicente to be open around 4 p.m., most others to be open by 6 p.m. with the final closures (Ocean Ave between Washington Ave. and Wilshire Blvd.) ending at about 9 p.m.

In addition to outright closures, roads in Downtown will be limited to one-way for the duration of the race. All traffic entering Downtown on 4th Street will be routed west on Colorado Avenue, then north on 2nd Street, then east on Wilshire Boulevard, then south on 4th Street.

While 5th street will be open, traffic may be heavy as the road has been designated as the post-race pickup location for ride-share services. Officials said the system will be similar to an airport terminal with no standing or parking allowed. Riders will have to wait along the sidewalk in a designated area to meet their ride when it arrives.

"We have crews constantly cleaning our ship," Smith was heard saying.

In a post, Smith said she and her husband were not quarantined and were told that only the people who had been on the Mexico voyage or those showing flu-like symptoms had to isolate themselves.

"Spirits are as high as can be under these circumstances. We are blessed to be healthy, comfortable and well-fed," she wrote.

But a late-night statement Thursday from the cruise line said all guests were asked to stay in their rooms while results were awaited, in keeping with guidelines from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Los Angeles deputies shoot suspect in leg after wild pursuit

Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies shot a suspect in the leg after he led them on a pursuit and fired at officers and a police helicopter before running across a freeway, authorities said Friday.

The suspect, who was not identified, was in stable condition with a single gunshot wound, according to the Sheriff's Department. The suspect's passenger was also taken into custody.

A deputy who chased the driver on foot across the Interstate 5 freeway was struck by another vehicle, the department said in a statement. The deputy was in good condition.

The incident began when deputies suspected the driver was operating the vehicle under the influence but he drove away, authorities said.

The driver crashed the vehicle through a number of gates and fences and then fired at deputies, , officials said.

Shots were also fired at a sheriff's helicopter overhead, authorities said. The driver lost control after deputies put spike strips on the roadway.

The driver got out with a semi-automatic pistol and at least one deputy fired, striking him once in the leg, the sheriff's department said. The suspect dropped the gun, ran down an embankment and tried to cross the freeway.

The suspect was hit by a vehicle and deputies arrested him, the statement said.

Authorities found a second handgun in the vehicle.

BASKETBALL

QUARTERFINALS RECAP

La Jolla Bishop's had the lead for much of the first quarter during Thursday night's game, which was a very high energy affair.

The Knights immediately started the game in a full-court press, which flustered the Vikings early, but like the previous round, Chantal Mowad went to work in the post where she was able to hit fadeaway after fadeaway to keep the game close.

Samohi would soon utilize a press of its own, and missed baskets and turnovers by Bishop's allowed the Vikings to tie it up at 12 following a basket by Reed to end the quarter.

Two quick baskets by Santa Monica to start the second helped the home team jump out to its first lead of the night, but Bishop's kept it close and would soon take a 17-16 lead with a little under 5 minutes in the second.

Players sacrificed their bodies as both sides dove after loose balls and took charges in an attempt to leave victorious. Baskets bounced in and out on both sides and the two-minute mark neared in the first half. Samohi would take a 31-26 lead and a Knight's miss just before the buzzer would keep the score steady heading into the second half.

Moawad would continue to go at the Knights in the interior during the third and a determined Allison Lee kept shooting to prevent Bishop's from honing in on the future Brown University attendee.

Soon, Samohi was up 7 with a little over three minutes remaining in the third quarter. An impressive effort by Moawad on the boards brought the lead to 9, and things would remain relatively steady until the quarter.

Bishop would again deploy a full-court press to start the fourth, which forced a few turnovers from the Vikings, but the local girls would recover and soon find themselves back up 10

With 2 minutes left, Bishop's attempted to intentional foul to catch up, but the Vikings hit their free throws and would extend the lead to as much as 17 at one point in the game. In the end, Santa Monica found itself victorious 57-40.

"Tomorrow's night's quarterfinals game will be against a very good team in San Clemente. They are 28-4 and they have a huge community following, so their side of the gym will be packed to the rafters," Samohi assistant basketball coach Mark Ulrich said Friday. "Hopefully, Santa Monica will come out to support this historic run by their Lady Vikings and give us the home-court advantage we worked all year to secure."

The staff called the police when they learned the individual did not have any means of paying for the meal. The staff requested a private person's arrest of the subject. Nicholas S. Porta, 22, from Los Angeles was arrested for defrauding an Innkeeper as two warrants. Porta was held on the warrants.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (MARCH 07)

You'll get special attention and soak it up, all the while knowing that none of this can contribute to your confidence the way the completion of a special project will. You will give yourself all the props you need and earn your own respect by checking off a series of small and meaningful personal goals. Leo and Libra adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 2, 29, 1, 40 and 38.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Not everyone knows what you know, is able to do what you can do or wants what you want. To think about it from another person's point of view will be invaluable today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You're happy to imagine some places you've not been with all the zest of one who has no intention of ever going. Other places you imagine carefully, knowing that when the time comes, you'll go all-in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Terribly embarrassing experiences usually come to the big risk takers. If you still think a past action was humiliating, count yourself among the most spectacularly brave ones, and move along.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Those who live within a very small scope of existence are sure to be extremely and harshly judgmental. The worldlier a person is, the fewer rules they are likely to impose on others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Whatever you're thinking that people will notice, most won't. So be choosy about the sorts of pressures you put on yourself. Be careful not to base them on what you think others are thinking.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You've dreamt of the future, painting a mental picture of your wishes. Use the skill in reverse now, dreaming of things that never were, re-writing history to your liking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Do you feel that smile at your back? You have no idea who is admiring you as you pass. Though one thing is certain; there's a special levity to your energy now, a brightness that will be noticed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You'll have an increased awareness of the roles people play in your life and get an inkling about how to make the most of your relationships.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). In a sense, what you're really after is a certain kind of glamour — a cinematic scene — and you're not wrong to think it's attainable. Seeing yourself in a different light helps you figure out who to be in a situation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Though big and fantastic displays of talent do have a way of being served up with a side of backlash, be brave. "Hide not your talents, they for use were made. What's a sundial in the shade?" — Your signmate, Ben Franklin

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). The hero's journey is a journey through humility and desperation and the long, dark night of the soul to a personal victory needed for the soul's growth.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). It's pretty easy for a person who is faced with a certain type of scenario to behave compassionately, but to proactively seek such a scenario is to take the heart to a whole different level.
