Downtown transformation continues as construction starts on 501 Broadway

SCOTT SNOWDEN
SMDP Staff Writer

More than two years after the design was approved, which itself was more than a year after its preliminary hearing, construction work has finally begun on the eight-story, mixed-use building at 501 Broadway.

With construction work already underway at the substantially-sized 710 Broadway location, formally the site of the Vons superstore, the downtown portion of Broadway at least is set to become a bustling hive of heavy machinery.

The site, located on the northeast corner of 5th and Broadway, will

Pop-up seafood eatery Isla finds a new permanent home on Main Street

Isla

POP-UP: Isla is a wood fired grill opening on Main Street.

SCOTT SNOWDEN

Celebrated seafood pop-up restaurant Isla, which has been alternating between two Santa Monica sites for over a month, has found its forever home on Main Street. Focusing on a wood-fired seafood and fowl menu, the outlet plans to open on March 29. It will move into the space currently occupied by Little Prince at 2424 Main Street, sandwiched between two already popular eateries, Augie's on Main and the Jinya Ramen Bar.

Isla is the second successful collaboration between chef Brian Bornemann and designer Leena Culhane, the duo that created Crudo e Nudo, another post-pandemic pop-up turned permanent restaurant. Ever since the Enterprise Fish Co. on Kinney Street fell victim to the pandemic and closed its doors in 2020 after 41 years, the Main Street strip has been missing a signature seafood restaurant, but thankfully that has begun to change.

Working in collaboration with Little Prince's current owner Shane Murphy, the plan is to undertake a quick overhaul that includes pulling out a temporary wall and restoring 20 seats in that space. Despite the City's significant outdoor dining fees, the site will retain 30 parklet seats for a total of 80 covers.

The menu promises an assortment of skewers, pasture-raised birds, sustainable locally-caught seafood, charcuterie and lots of grilled vegetables. It will also feature a full bar as unlike Crudo e Nudo, which only serves wine, Little Prince has a full liquor license, which means you can enjoy a delicious cocktail with your equally-as-delicious meal should you be so inclined.

"We are a raw bar inspired by the ethos of the Italian coast and the spirit of Los Angeles," the website

Warren Olney brings half a century of experience to his new role as a professor at Santa Monica College

GRACE INEZ ADAMS
SMDP Staff Writer

After 50 years working in journalism and broadcasting, KCRW host Warren Olney is now sharing some of what he learned throughout his career with students at Santa Monica College (SMC) by teaching a current affairs class in the school's Emeritus Program for older adults this semester.

SMC's Emeritus Program offers free, not-for-credit classes designed for individuals aged 50 and above. The class Olney is teaching aims to increase students' understanding of local, national and international current affairs and the way it affects their lives and shapes the world around them.

He has structured it to be primarily discussion based, with the students largely determining what they want to talk about. However, there are certain topics he said he will be sure to cover such as homelessness, Los Angeles politics and climate change.

"If you're talking about current events and current affairs, climate change is probably the most important thing we have going on," Olney said.

In addition to To the Point, Olney has also hosted and produced

8th Annual Flair Cares Food Drive, March 1 - 31

Flair Cleaners, Southern California's leading eco-friendly dry cleaner, will host its 8th Annual Flair Cares Food Drive, Hang Up Hunger, March 1 - 31, 2023. The drive benefits the Salvation Army Santa Monica food pantry. Flair Cleaners is matching donations up to 250 pounds of food donated by customers.

"Food insecurity is a growing challenge in our communities, especially with inflation and "shrinkflation," on almost every type of food product," said Gary Futterman, owner of Flair Cleaners. "We are proud to help address this challenge with the help of our generous customers by collecting and matching donations of critically needed food for local nonprofits."

Anyone may bring unopened, canned or boxed food to any Flair Cleaners in Santa Monica – 720 Montana Ave., 90403 (Between 7th and Lincoln). Do not bring any food past its expiration date or packaged in glass. Everyone who donates will receive a coupon for 50% off dry cleaning on a future visit to any Flair Cleaners location

Customers using Flair Cleaners Free Pickup and Delivery service can leave bags or boxes of food they wish to donate with their pickup orders in March. Donations will be delivered by Flair Cleaners to:

· The Salvation Army Santa Monica feeds meals to anyone in need - this includes homeless people of all ages, as well as individuals and families who may be down on their luck and in need of a helping hand.

Santa Monica Conservancy Seeks Nominations for 2023 Preservation Awards

The Santa Monica Conservancy seeks nominations for its 2023 Preservation Awards. Each year the Conservancy honors exemplary projects and contributors to the preservation of Santa Monica's architectural and cultural heritage. The Preservation Awards will be announced during a special presentation at the Annual Meeting in early summer.

Since 2004, winning projects have included residences as well as commercial and institutional buildings of all sizes. These projects have entailed restoration, renovation, rehabilitation, stewardship, and adaptive reuse as well as additions to historic buildings and homes. Awards are also presented to individuals for their stewardship of historic properties as well as to individuals and groups for community service as volunteers and advocates of preservation. Studies of historic districts and other preservation planning work is also eligible.

This year, the Conservancy has integrated the concept of resiliency into their stewardship award category in recognition of the fact that historic properties and associated projects often contribute to community resilience through their energy efficiency and preparedness for climate impacts.

Those interested in nominating a project, person, structure or group for a 2023 Preservation Award can download the 2023 Preservation Award Nomination Form. The deadline for nominations is April 6, 2023. Past awards can be viewed here. Questions and nominations should be addressed to awards@smconservancy.org.

Santa Monica College Presents Spring 2023 Social Justice Series

Santa Monica College (SMC) continues its Social Justice Lecture Series in spring 2023 with presentations, talks, and discussions that explore the concept of social justice and a variety of aspects, issues, and developments affecting and shaping it in today's world.

All presentations in the series are free. Unless otherwise noted, all presentations are sponsored by the SMC Associates (smc.edu/associates), a private organization that funds speakers and special programs on the Santa Monica College campus. Seating is strictly on a first-arrival basis.

The March 14 panel discussion will be presented online using the Zoom platform. The other presentations will be held at one of the SMC campuses. Seating is strictly on a first-arrival basis.

The spring 2023 series lineup is:

• March 14 at 11 a.m. Online (live link on event date/time at smc.edu/calendar) — Liora Paniz, MDR: "Inside the Mind of a Mediator: Strategic Conflict Intervention." Mediation provides dispute resolution. There is no dispute, disagreement, or misunderstanding that cannot benefit from conflict intervention and de-escalation skills. Guests will learn to think like a mediator from Liora Paniz, MDR, an expert who understands that conflict is not inherently bad, but rather an opportunity for learning and change. This workshop presents a unique combination of traditional mediation concepts and differing perspectives, and includes hands-on practice of mediation exercises in small groups. Sponsored by the SMC Associates.

• April 5 at 10 a.m. in Room 202 on the SMC Malibu Campus (23555 Civic Center Way, Malibu) — "We Were All Here: Documentary Screening and Q&A with Director Dan Kwong." Artist and director Dan Kwong will screen and discuss We Were All Here, a collaborative video project with artist Paulina Sahagun. The documentary examines the history of Santa Monica's Pico Neighborhood, the longtime home of the area's Latinx, Black, and Asian families. A Q&A and panel discussion with director Kwong and descendants of those featured in the documentary follows the screening. Sponsored by the SMC Associates (smc.edu/associates), SMC Communication and Media Studies Department, and SMC Design Technology Department. Part of the SMC Communication, Media & Design Series.

• May 23 at 11:15 a.m. at location noted in May 23 listing at smc.edu/calendar — Elliot Fletcher: "A Conversation about Transgender Representation in Media." Transgender actor Elliot Fletcher — critically praised for his roles in "The Fosters" and "Shameless" — will talk about the challenges of growing up without seeing on-screen possibilities for himself, and his efforts to change perspectives in the motion picture industry. Sponsored by the SMC Associates.

All programs are subject to change without notice, and new speakers may be added to the series. Up-to-date details are posted at smc.edu/calendar and available by calling 310-434-4100.

UCLA Health Receives $25.3 Million for Street Medicine Program Caring for Homeless

The UCLA Health Homeless Healthcare Collaborative has received a $25.3 million, two-year state grant to expand access and enhance coordination of medical and behavioral health care provided to people experiencing homelessness in Los Angeles.

The grant will fund new equipment and staff, including community health workers to assess patient needs, identify barriers to care and expand access to a variety of services in collaboration with other caregivers, social service agencies, health plans and the state.

Funding from the California Department of Health Care Services will also be used to develop and implement records management and communication systems allowing UCLA Health and other street medicine teams to coordinate care provided to unhoused people. This is important for continuity of treatment.

> “This visionary state grant will exponentially expand our coordinated efforts to meet the health care and wellness needs of individuals and families experiencing homelessness
> - Dr. Medell Briggs-Malonson

“We are grateful for the state’s support of our effort to leverage partnerships and provide high-quality, equitable health care to a highly underserved population,” said Johnese Spisso, president of UCLA Health and CEO of the UCLA Hospital System. “We’re eager to build on our considerable progress with the UCLA Health Homeless Healthcare Collaborative, a program that reflects our broader commitment to improving community health by providing care outside the walls of our hospitals and clinics.”

The grant is part of California’s effort to transform Medi-Cal, the state’s version of Medicaid, the federal government’s public health insurance program for those with limited income. The state effort, known as CalAIM, emphasizes preventive, personalized medicine and greater coordination among a network of health partners providing equitable care.

“This visionary state grant will exponentially expand our coordinated efforts to meet the health care and wellness needs of individuals and families experiencing homelessness,” said Dr. Medell Briggs-Malonson, chief of Health Equity, Diversity and Inclusion at UCLA Health, emergency department physician and co-executive sponsor of the Homeless Healthcare Collaborative.

The UCLA Health Homeless Healthcare Collaborative – made possible by philanthropic support –launched in early 2022 with two specially equipped mobile health vans traveling to encampments, shelters and other locations to provide free preventive, primary and urgent medical care, medical screenings and referrals to social services. Last year, the mobile vans recorded 6,000 encounters with unhoused patients and provided medications more than 1,500 times.

Four additional vans will be deployed soon, thanks to a $592,000 grant from a federal community projects funding program, sponsored by Rep. Ted Lieu, D-CA.

The UCLA Health Homeless Healthcare Collaborative provides free care to those who may not otherwise have access. The program also increases efficient use of resources; about 85% of UCLA Health emergency room visits made by people experiencing homelessness are due to primary- or urgent-care conditions that could be prevented or treated in the community, or the need for social services.

As part of the new state grant designed to enhance coordination, UCLA Health is planning to contract with Medi-Cal-managed care health plans with whom it already has relationships, including L.A. Care and HealthNet.

Federal Authorities Seize Internet Domain Selling Malware Used to Illegally Control and Steal Data from Victims' Computers

As part of an international law enforcement effort, federal authorities in Los Angeles this week seized an internet domain that was used to sell computer malware used by cybercriminals to take control of infected computers and steal a wide array of information.

A seizure warrant approved by a United States Magistrate Judge on March 3 and executed on Tuesday led to the seizure of www.worldwiredlabs.com, which offered the NetWire remote access trojan (RAT), a sophisticated program capable of targeting and infecting every major computer operating system. "A RAT is a type of malware that allows for covert surveillance, allowing a 'backdoor' for administrative control and unfettered and unauthorized remote access to a victim's computer, without the victim's knowledge or permission," according to court documents filed in Los Angeles.

As part of this week's law enforcement action, authorities in Croatia on Tuesday arrested a Croatian national who allegedly was the administrator of the website. This defendant will be prosecuted by Croatian authorities. Additionally, law enforcement in Switzerland on Tuesday seized the computer server hosting the NetWire RAT infrastructure.

The FBI in Los Angeles in 2020 opened an investigation into worldwidelabs, the only known online distributor of NetWire. Undercover investigators with the FBI created an account on the website, paid for a subscription plan, and "constructed a customized instance of the NetWire RAT using the product's Builder Tool," according to the affidavit in support of the seizure warrant.

While the website marketed NetWire as a legitimate business tool to maintain computer infrastructure, the affidavit states that NetWire is a malware used for malicious purposes, the software was advertised on hacking forums, and numerous cyber security companies and government agencies have documented instances of the NetWire RAT being used in criminal activity.

"Today's action is a testament to the innovation and flexibility necessary to fighting cybercriminals who operate without borders," said United States Attorney Martin Estrada. "Our office will continue to forge international alliances to protect our communities from cyber threats. Criminals used NetWire on a global scale, and we have responded by dismantling the infrastructure that has caused untold harm to victims around the world."

> "Today's action is a testament to the innovation and flexibility necessary to fighting cybercriminals who operate without borders"
> - Martin Estrada United States Attorney

"By removing the Netwire RAT, the FBI has impacted the criminal cyber ecosystem," said Donald Alway, the Assistant Director in Charge of the FBI's Los Angeles Field Office. "The global partnership that led to the arrest in Croatia also removed a popular tool used to hijack computers in order to perpetuate global fraud, data breaches and network intrusions by threat groups and cyber criminals."

This matter is the result of the United States' strong law enforcement cooperation with Croatia and other global partners. The FBI's Los Angeles Field Office; the Croatia Ministry of the Interior, Criminal Police Directorate; Zurich Cantonal Police in Switzerland; the Europol European Cybercrime Center; and the Australian Federal Police conducted the investigation in this matter.

Assistant United States Attorneys Lisa Feldman of the Cyber and Intellectual Property Crimes Section and Maxwell Coll of the Asset Forfeiture and Recovery Section obtained the seizure warrant for the internet domain. The Office of International Affairs in the Justice Department's Criminal Division provided substantial assistance during the investigation.

says. "Seafood is sourced from sustainable purveyors between Santa Barbara and Baja, and vegetables and herbs are from Santa Monica Farmers Markets. We believe in sustainability, beauty, and community."

Prior to this arrangement, Bornemann and Culhane had attempted a business partnership with nearby Chez Tex in October of last year, but that didn't work out.

"We are so excited for Isla to open, especially with Shane and many of our other friends from Little Prince. We see it as the next evolution for the space, our progressive goals, labor models, our culinary goals as established at Crudo and for Main Street in general," Bornemann said.

Back in August, the culinary-focused website Eater suggested that Santa Monica's Main Street was fast becoming the coolest place to eat in Los Angeles, "And now it's getting even better," Bornemann said. "We are especially thrilled to add the wood-fired element to our food, so if Crudo is our 'sashimi' bar, one can think of Isla as the 'yakitori' element."

Quantgene Hosts Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce & American Cancer Society

Quantgene, the innovative health platform used to detect cancer and other diseases early, is hosting three major events with key partners at the beginning of March to raise awareness on various topics, including the American Cancer Society and the Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce. These events will host a room full of healthcare and tech pioneers, entrepreneurs and local leaders, speaking on the next stages of the innovation of healthcare.

"Quantgene hosts important, collaborative events, focused on discussing the innovation of healthcare and the future of medicine, to drive crucial conversations in the health community," said Jo Bhakdi, founder & CEO of Quantgene. "We are lucky to have so many important partners that are focused on keeping Americans healthy."

March 1, 2023, Quantgene invited local leaders to a private event focused on celebrating the latest updates and product launches, including the '1000 Pioneers' and 'Can These 20 Questions Save Your Life?' campaigns, led by founder Jo Bhakdi.

March 2, 2023, Quantgene, in partnership with the American Cancer Society, hosted 'CEOs Against Cancer' which is the first of the LA Coastal CEOs Networking Mixer. KPMG's Los Angeles Managing Partner and CEOs Against Cancer chair, Michelle Wroan, led the discussions, along with Kristy Silverman from the American Cancer Society.

March 3, 2023, Quantgene, in partnership with the Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce, was set to host a private "Politics & Brunch" event with special guest, Supervisor Lindsay Horvath. Sponsors include SNAP Inc. and Greater LA Realtors. This event has been postponed due to illness and will take place on one of the next two Fridays.

> - Jo Bhakdi, founder & CEO of Quantgene

"We are delighted to be hosting Supervisor Lindsey Horvath at the Chamber's Policy Forum at a Chamber member company, Quantgene, and to hear about the Supervisor's priorities for a recovering and vibrant 3rd District," said Judy Kruger, CEO and president of Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce. "Representatives from Santa Monica's biotech, new tech, aerotech, hospitality and professional services will be engaging in this impact-focused policy dialogue. We've seen exciting events at QG HQ, including a German delegation, Santa Monica City, and an evening with Dr. Dahut, the American Cancer Society's Chief Science Officer - all events that are focused on discussing the future of healthcare in our community and beyond."

Quantgene Headquarters is located at 2940 Nebraska Ave Santa Monica, CA 90404. For more information, contact Fred Hulls at fredh@quantgene.com feature 7,260 square feet of ground-floor retail space and a three-story underground garage, apparently offering subterranean parking for 72 vehicles and 163 bicycles. Also included will be 61 one-bedroom units, 19 two-bedroom units and 14 three-bedroom units together with 19 on-site affordable apartments.

In addition to a publicly-accessible plaza at ground level, the project will also include private amenities for residents such as a rooftop deck and a central courtyard. It's expected to be completed at some point in 2025 and will also directly face another relatively recent contribution to Downtown gentrification, The Park, the seven-story, 249-apartment structure that's also home to Trader Joe's.

A flurry of additional projects are also all under way. Called the Santa Monica Collection, it's a portfolio of eight development sites across a total of 3.1 acres in the Downtown district and includes the site at 501 Broadway. The first phase of development encompasses four residential buildings with 340 rental apartments and approximately 18,700 square feet of street-level retail.

According to real estate agency Tishman Speyer, this initial first round of development will include 83 affordable apartments, 56 of which will be housed within a 100 percent affordable senior living building at 711 Colorado Ave, which is scheduled to be completed in late 2024.

"Downtown Santa Monica's proximity to beautiful beaches and mountains, along with its vibrant local lifestyle, make it one of the region's most attractive places to live and work," said Tishman Speyer Senior Managing Director Paul DeMartini. "We are proud to partner with the local community on the Santa Monica Collection, which will deliver a critical mass of quality new housing options for individuals and families across a wide spectrum of income levels."

To the Point's Climate Change update. He said he met and interviewed many interesting and knowledgeable individuals for both shows and has invited some to join his class's discussions throughout the semester.

"Hopefully I'll be able to call on them to come in and talk about things that seem timely and give people the opportunity to ask questions," he said.

This network of connections coupled with his desire to create a dynamic and engaging environment are what landed Olney the job, SMC Dean of non-credit and external programs Scott Silverman said.

"We were looking for a faculty member for this class because we had a vacancy and his name came up and it seemed like a really great opportunity," Silverman said. "He has this style and approach that students really resonate with and he has a way of presenting the material in a very compelling way that the students really love."

When Olney was approached about the position, he thought it seemed like a great fit.

"The idea of emeritus education I think is wonderful," he said. "I really have enormous respect for people who are, in this case, over 50 but feel that they still want to go back and study and learn more and be active in that way and so if I can help them to do that, I'm delighted."

Olney's class has proven to be popular, with approximately 140 students enrolled this spring, and he said he hopes to continue teaching in coming years.

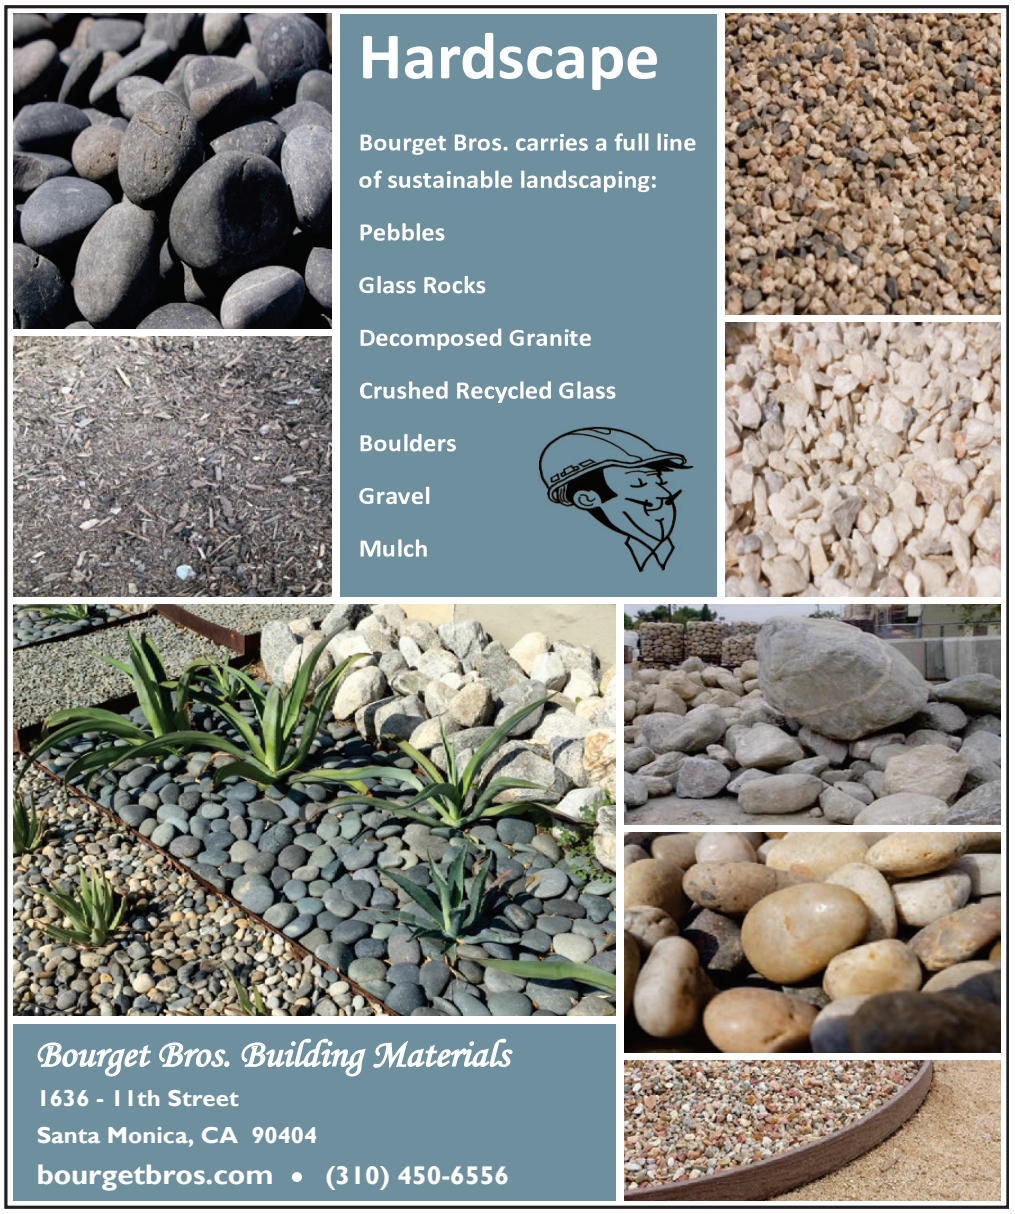

In addition to political science classes like Olney's, SMC Emeritus also offers art, health, literature and business classes among others. While they are designed for those 50 or older, Silverman said this is not a hard cut off and all interested students are welcome.

> - Scott Silverman

"It's open access for anyone – it's really Santa Monica, Malibu and beyond," he said. "And now that we're on Zoom people can join from wherever as long as they're in California."

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 13)

Welcome to your year of amplification. You'll feed energy to the best things you've got going — your talents, the most sustaining relationships and other high-yielding investments. You'll connect with your body and emotions at a level you haven't experienced before and become increasingly powerful over your circumstances. More highlights: an adoption of sorts, reinforcements when you need them and applause for something so simple for you. Sagittarius and Aquarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 5, 30, 9, 33 and 16.

HOROSCOPES

ARIES (March 21-April 19). It will save you time, money and energy to rigorously check your facts. An opinion you took for fact might be nothing more than an unsubstantiated feeling, and to act on it would be a waste at best.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The way things are now is how they have always been and not how they will always be. Slow change is change. Keep the faith and keep going, even if it's a tiny step, or even just a lean in your desired direction.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Completion gives you energy because it reduces the amount of open loops running at the back of your mind. When you finish something today, it will be the push that helps you gain a whole new momentum.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). If the things that concern you are unpredictable and out of your control, worrying is pointless. Today, your favorite distraction is not so much an indulgence as a tool to get you thinking along a more positive track.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Stick around too long in one place today and you'll get advice, directions and maybe more bossing around than you'd prefer. Get busy on your own thing so the know-it-alls can't catch you. The best directions to follow are the ones you give yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). "I have been a cloud, a river, and the air," says Thich Nhat Hanh. You have also taken many forms in this lifetime and will benefit from reflecting on a few of them today. Give yourself credit for how far you've come.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Self-discovery is different from other quests. It's not like you set sail to see what's out there in the big world. Rather, you set sail assuming you're in a boat and are surprised to find out this vehicle can actually fly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Giving back is the theme, though it should be noted that if you can't return help, favors or goodwill to the same ones who gave it to you, giving forward is the best way to give back.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). When you're around people who don't understand what you do, you have to do more inner work to stay confident. Remind yourself every so often that your skill set is valuable and your contribution is significant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Though fantasy versions of your goals may feel inspiring, ultimately, you're most motivated by what's doable. It's the step just above you that has you feeling willing to take a small risk or make a reasonable effort. Those will add up to your next win.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You know a subject very well and are able to see meaning in even the small things about it. The opposite is also true. Things you don't know well will bore you — an invitation to either dive deeper or keep moving.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You strive to stay current and endeavor to keep freshening up your knowledge. Don't forget to include knowledge of yourself. Like the ocean, you are deep and ever-changing, and there is much to be discovered.

SURF REPORT

WATER TEMP: 55.6

MONDAY FAIR	SURF: 2-3ft Thigh to waist	Could be a decent day of waves — watching for a playful round of mid-period W swell as smaller SSW swell will likely continue. Wind outlook is favorable.
TUESDAY POOR TO FAIR	SURF: 2-3ft Thigh to waist	Wind and conditions looking a little better. Leftover W swell blends with small SSW swell in the morning. Could see a fresh round of W swell building through the second half of the day — pending another storm approaching the West Coast.
