Learn guitar in a day at SMC

CLASS: Marlene Hutchinson will teach you to play guitar in a single class.

BY JEFFREY I. GOODMAN
Daily Press Staff Writer

SMC You don't have to be an expert in particle physics to get behind Marlene Hutchinson's string theory.

She believes anyone can - and should - learn how to play guitar in a day, and she's returning to town to help area residents do just that.

In a 5-hour workshop March 28 at Santa Monica College, Hutchinson will aim to provide beginners with essential skills and give them a working foundation in the popular instrument.

"You're not going to be Eric Clapton when you leave the workshop — that's not possible," she said, referring to the legendary guitarist. "But there's a realistic expectation that you can play several chords, several songs, in several different ways, different styles. In the first few minutes, I say, 'Let's be realistic.' But it is very possible to retain what I teach during the workshop. And I have a good understanding of what it's like to learn as an adult."

That's because Hutchinson, who lives in Laguna Hills, was an adult when she picked up the guitar. She started playing 12 years ago, following through on a New Year's resolution by joining a group class.

"I could not stop playing," she said. "It was awesome."

Hutchinson incorporated her new skills into her work as an elementary school teacher and also began bringing her guitar to church.

"About a year in people said, 'You picked it up fast. Would you show me how to play?'" she said. "That wasn't my mission, but it grew from there. And when I started doing private lessons, I had a lot of adults say, 'I want to learn, but I don't have time for a weekly lesson.'"

The feedback led Hutchinson to develop a one-day guitar seminar, which she launched in 2009. She now travels around the country, offering the workshops about 20 times each year.

Hutchinson first reached out to the local community college at the suggestion of a business coach who recommended utilizing the networks of established educational institutions to build her brand. She has taught occasionally at SMC over the last five years.

The course is being offered through SMC's community education program, which hosts short-term, not-for-credit classes in a wide variety of fields.

Calder Quartet and Impro Theatre join forces for Fairytale UnScripted

Continuing a two-year residency at The Broad Stage, Calder Quartet lends their musical talents to an afternoon of improvised zaniness with Los Angeles' famed improvisational troupe Impro Theatre. Children of all ages will be amazed by what unfolds when the wit and energy of Impro Theatre is combined with the dynamic music of Calder Quartet, and inspired by the imaginations of young audience members. This all-new, completely improvised story has never been and will never be seen again.

Calder Quartet, performs a broad range of repertoire at an exceptional level, always striving to channel and fulfill the composer's vision. The group's distinctive approach is exemplified by a musical curiosity brought to everything they perform, whether it's Beethoven, Mozart, Haydn, or sold-out rock shows with bands like The National or The Airborne Toxic Event. The quartet regularly conducts master classes and has been featured in this capacity at the Colburn School (where the quartet was in residence for three years), the Juilliard School, Cleveland Institute of Music, University of Cincinnati College Conservatory, and USC Thornton School of Music.

Impro Theatre creates completely improvised, full-length plays in the styles of the world's greatest playwrights, authors, and composers. With no pre-planning or prepared scenarios, the performers combine verbal dexterity and dynamic physicality to bring character and plot to life in an instant, making each Impro Theatre show unique and unlike any other theatrical experience.

The performance will be Sunday, March 22, at 2 p.m. at the Broad Stage, 1310 11th St.

Tickets: $15-$25, visit www.thebroadstage.com or call (310) 434-3200 for more information.

Community give-away

The Church in Ocean Park, in conjunction with the L.A. Peace Society will host a community give-away on March 22 from 12:30 - 3:30 p.m. at the church, 235 Hill Street.

This event is based upon a Native American ceremony called "Giveaway" and its purpose is to create balance in the community.

Residents are asked to bring items that they no longer use or have use for such as small appliances, picture frames, toys, clothing, electronics, musical instruments, books or home decor.

The idea is that everyone walks away with at least one "gift" of his or her own choosing (something someone else brought to the event) whether or not they brought anything. Participants do not have to give in order to receive. When the event is complete, items that are not taken away will be donated to a charitable organization. Organizers said participants should come prepared to take stuff home in their own boxes and bags that were used to carry items to the event.

Item drop-off will be from 11 a.m. - 12 p.m. in the playground area (fenced-in area adjacent to the church).

Kevin McCarthy, longtime resident and RAND researcher

Kevin Farley McCarthy, a RAND Corporation researcher who worked on projects ranging from immigration to the arts, died March 17, 2015, after a brief illness. He was 70.

McCarthy is survived by his wife Susan McCarthy, a longtime employee of the City of Santa Monica who served as city manager from 1999 to 2005.

"Kevin's work helped cities, states, judiciaries and museums address some of their most difficult issues," said Michael D. Rich, RAND's president and CEO. "He was one of RAND's most versatile researchers in terms of the range of public policy issues he tackled in his career."

McCarthy joined RAND in 1976 and retired in 2007 but continued to contribute to RAND research in an adjunct capacity until 2013. He began his career working on housing policies, an area where he developed tools to help predict family mobility and its impact on housing. He later directed the RAND Institute for Civil Justice and headed an initiative at RAND that studied the role of the arts in the American economy and society.

He also authored a series of studies examining the impact of immigration on California's economy and studied options for rebuilding housing in the Gulf Coast region after Hurricane Katrina. In addition, McCarthy conducted analyses of demographic and economic trends in Mexico and the Caribbean Basin, the Middle East and Russia.

Prior to RAND, McCarthy was an instructor at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and a consultant with the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. McCarthy received his doctorate and a master's degree in sociology from the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

LANDMARK

Landmark designation.

The label would make it harder for owners to change or demolish the building on the 500 block of Georgina.

In February, the commission considered designation but asked for more information about the original owner, Maurice Hellman and the architecture firm Sumner P. Hunt and Silas R. Burns.

Hellman was a significant Los Angeles banker in the early part of the 1900s. The Hellmans lived in the home until the 1960s.

Hunt and Burns constructed several well-known buildings in Los Angeles, city officials told the commission in a report.

They designed The Children's Hospital, Southwestern Museum, and the Automobile Club of Southern California among many others.

"The residence is defined by its wood shingle cladding and its front-facing gable roof with stepped support beams," city officials said of the Hellman house. "Vertical vents, accented by battens, fill the front-facing gable end. Stepped brackets, echoing the roof detail, carry a window box that runs beneath a band of five casement windows on the second floor. Narrower, single casements are set on either side. A recessed porch, defined by a brick porch wall and piers, occupies the east half of the lower story facade."

Few changes have been made to the home over the years and it represents two increasingly rare architectural styles in the area: Swiss Chalet and Craftsman.

"While there are a handful of other Craftsman style residences within the Palisades Tract, it appears the M.S. Hellman house is the only residence with Swiss Chalet inspired architectural details and the once ubiquitous style has declined in numbers in recent years," city officials said. "The architectural style also appears rare within the City."

The structure, city officials said, is also a significant work of builder G.D. Snyder, who constructed more than 500 buildings citywide.

"Not only was G.D. Snyder a contractor who shaped the built landscape of Santa Monica, he was also a leader in the community," historical consultants said in a report. "In 1907, He was made a candidate for the office of Trustee of Santa Monica city and nominated for councilman of First Ward under the new Freeholder's Charter. In 1911, he ran for the seat of mayor in Santa Monica, however, he was not elected."

City officials recommend the building's designation as a landmark. The commission will consider this again at a later date.

At least 114 structures have been designated as City Landmarks since landmarking began in 1975. At least three of those were demolished. Another seven building have been designated as Structures of Merit, with one designation nullified months later.

Reduce salaries for city employees

Editor:

David Zepeda's column in your March 4 issue ("Cut executive compensation") served to remind us of the burden imposed upon Santa Monica residents by the high cost of our city employees.

Are Santa Monica residents paying excessively for city employees? According to information found on the transparent.california.com website, the total compensation cost for Santa Monica city employees came in at $266.4 million in 2013. That breaks down to $5,610 for each household in Santa Monica, compared to $3,870 in Pasadena and $3,550 in Santa Barbara.

Santa Monica seems to require more city employees than either of these two comparable cities. We had 2,765 people on payroll in that year, representing 30.5 city employees for each 1,000 residents. Pasadena and Santa Barbara operated with ratios of only 17.5 and 22.6, respectively.

Santa Monica also appears to be quite generous with employee compensation. Our city manager in 2013 was paid $366,684 ($483,954, including benefits); by comparison, Pasadena's city manager was paid $277,854. We paid $324,884 to our city attorney; Pasadena paid $233,351. The next 10 highest-paid employees on payroll cost Santa Monica $3.83 million, including pay and benefits; total payroll cost for Pasadena's next 10: $2.89 million.

How did we get into this lofty position? Who has approved city staffing levels and the Wall Street-like compensation arrangements to put this burden on residents? More importantly, how can we climb down to more reasonable levels?

According to the latest Santa Monica city budget, two-thirds of General Fund revenues are used to cover employee compensation costs, an amount equivalent to all local taxes collected by the City. The savings that could be made by reducing employee costs to Pasadena levels, for example, would amount to around $83 million yearly. These savings in turn would enable a 40-percent reduction in the need for local taxes without affecting other programs.

Rather than just raise taxes or fees to cover rising budget costs, perhaps City Council should begin to share these burdens by making corresponding reductions to its budget for city employees.

Hutchinson's class, which will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., is designed for busy adults who feel they don't have time for regular lessons.

She'll cover basic chords as well as strumming, picking and tuning techniques. She also teaches attendees how to play familiar songs and how to take care of their instruments.

Hutchinson starts out by teaching "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" and slowly incorporates additional chords throughout the session. Her workshop also introduces to participants musical time and tablature.

"They come in like deer in headlights," she said. "But I expect that — that's what I'm assuming. I'll get you there. I take it from a very basic level and just build all day. It's pretty cool to watch these people who attend the workshop evolve. They're looking at me like, 'I can't believe I'm doing this.'

"It's an intense day, but it's fun and everyone loves it."

The class costs $79 with an additional $30 fee for materials, including a book and an electronic tuner. Attendees are asked to bring their own acoustic guitars.

Monica during her organization's March for Meals campaign.

"The nutrition is the entry into the home. But what really makes a difference is the companionship, the friendly visit. ... (The seniors) might not see anyone else in their day besides that volunteer or staff member. So it's also a safety check, a wellness check - eyes and ears inside the home."

The nonprofit group's 13th annual March for Meals initiative comes at a time of substantial growth for Meals on Wheels West, which serves Los Angeles County's coastal communities from its headquarters on Michigan Avenue in Santa Monica.

The local branch delivered more than 39,744 meals to clients over the last six months of 2014, a 32-percent increase over the same six-month period in 2013.

And Meals on Wheels West is still finding new ways to reach out to those in need.

Last year it launched Heal Healthy at Home, a program that provides meals to people who have recently been discharged from hospitals.

The initiative is predicated on partnerships with UCLA Santa Monica Medical Center, Saint John's Health Center, Kaiser Permanente West Los Angeles Medical Center and Marina Del Rey Hospital as well as the Venice Family Clinic and the VA West Los Angeles Medical Center.

"It really targets a different audience," chapter director Chris Baca said.

Meals on Wheels West is also planning to expand its coverage area south towards Venice and Marina del Rey, from Lincoln Boulevard to the beach. The additional territory could be served as early as mid-April, according to Baca.

The planned growth underscored Baca's appreciation of the roughly 400 volunteers who deliver food for Meals on Wheels West. They're part of a network of 2 million volunteers that serves 2.5 million clients across the country, Hollander said.

"Some people deliver once a year, some once a month, once a week or more often," Baca said. "They're the heart and soul of this organization."

Although people don't often associate communities like Santa Monica, Malibu and Pacific Palisades with hunger, Baca said, there is a consistent need among people who are unemployed, retired, homebound and disabled.

Meals on Wheels officials argue that their efforts have an economic advantage, saying their deliveries reduce food insecurity and curb health care costs among senior citizens.

"It keeps people out of emergency rooms, hospitals and long-term institutions," Hollander said. "They're able to stay in their own homes. We can create healthier communities by enabling seniors to stay in their own homes."

Heal the Bay is a nonprofit environmental organization making Southern California coastal waters and watersheds, including Santa Monica Bay, safe, healthy and clean. We use science, education, community action and advocacy to pursue our mission.

Heal the Bay's Beach Report Card™ is based on weekly water quality monitoring data provided by the City of Los Angeles' Environmental Monitoring Division and the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services. Data is analyzed as soon as it is made available to us by the public agencies. Beaches are graded on an A-F scale based on the risk of ocean users becoming ill. Samples are analyzed for bacteria—enterococcus, total and fecal coliforms—that indicate biological pollution. A fact sheet detailing the exact methodology used in determining grades for each location is available from the office or on our web site. The report is not designed to measure the amount of trash or toxins found at local beaches.

The Beach Report Card is an indication of past water quality and is not a warranty of the current safety of those areas surveyed. Our lawyers are happy.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
BEFORE THE SANTA MONICA CITY COUNCIL
FOR THE PROPOSED BIG BLUE BUS/EXPO SERVICE INTEGRATION STUDY

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Santa Monica City Council at the Santa Monica City Hall, 1685 Main Street, Santa Monica, California for patrons of the Big Blue Bus. The hearing will be held as an agendized part of the City Council meeting.

THIS HEARING HAS BEEN RESCHEDULED UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE.

The City Council will consider the Expo Integration Plan (available at bigbluebus.com/expo) which seeks to capitalize on the opening of seven new rail stations in the Big Blue Bus service area. This is a significant change of conditions for a system that has served rail only at the periphery until now. Alterations of bus routes to attract new rail-to-bus transfers have the potential to increase ridership, make more efficient use of transit resources, and reduce overall levels of congestion. The Expo Integration Study includes extensive public outreach, a survey of existing conditions, and a recommended plan of action.

The primary objectives of the Plan are: creating first-and-last mile connectivity; more north-south corridor service to serve the stations; reducing redundancy with other transit providers; eliminating inefficient routing; improving speed and reliability; and maximizing resources; while acknowledging that current BBB service must continue to serve markets and customers that do not interface with Expo.

The revised plan includes an increase of approximately 9% in revenue service hours and associated costs.

Interested parties may comment in person at the hearing, or may submit written comments prior to the hearing: Big Blue Bus, 1660 7th St., Santa Monica, CA 90401, Attn: Community Relations, or by email at bus-info@bigbluebus.com. For additional information contact Suja Lowenthal, Government and Community Relations Manager, at 310-451-5444.

City Hall is wheelchair accessible. For disability-related accommodations, please contact 310-451-5444 at least three (3) days prior to the hearing. All written materials are available in alternate formats upon request. Big Blue Bus Routes 2, 3, Rapid 3, 3M, 4, 7, Rapid 7, 8 and 9 service City Hall and the Civic Center. Visit BigBlueBus.com for schedule information.

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPARD

■ For Arthur Mondella, 57, a successful maraschino cherry supplier in Brooklyn, New York, the inspection by the district attorney's office in February was to be routine, concerning possible pollution of local waters from discharges of cherry syrup. Mondella was cooperative until the investigator discovered odd shelving "attached" to a wall with magnets, revealing a "secret" room, and then the smell of marijuana -- at which point Mondella calmly left the room and shot himself in the head. Ultimately, police found that the 75-year-old company was merely a side business to Mondella's substantial marijuana-growing operation in the basement.

■ Use What You Have: (1) Morrison Wilson, 58, was convicted of assault in Belfast (Northern Ireland) Magistrates Court in February for using his admittedly "big belly" to "bounce" an aggressive neighbor lady out of his garden in a dispute. The lady was injured as she fell backward. (2) In a March skirmish over a handicapped- parking space at a Walmart in Greenfield, Wisconsin, Ms. Kezia Perkins, 32, was charged with assaulting a 71-year-old woman by, said a witness, "chest-butt(ing) her," knocking her to the ground. Said Perkins, "It's not my fault (she) bounced off my big (chest)." (The euphemism "chest" was substituted by WITI-TV of Milwaukee.)

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ You might want some time for yourself. Reflect on the possibilities at hand. First, you'll need to admit to yourself that you need a break from the here and now. Find out why you're feeling this way, and then seek out a solution. Tonight: Play it low-key.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★★ You like to be with friends and having fun, so make it happen. Allow Lady Luck to land on your shoulder, even if you are concerned with other matters. A friend might push you so hard that you'll need to put a stop to what is happening. Tonight: Follow the fun.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ You could be exhausted from someone else's demands. Be willing to ask for what you need, too. Give yourself plenty of time to think through your options. Your knee-jerk response might not be the best course of action. Honor your boundaries. Tonight: Be noticed.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★★ Reach out to a new friend or someone else you can be real with. Many people expect a lot from you, whether it is to make them laugh or tell them great stories. You can't always be charming or entertaining. Tonight: Take off for a concert or movie.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★★ You could be delighted by the attention you get from a key person in your life. One-on-one relating keeps the emotional waters at bay. You might be a little more likely to take a risk than you usually are. Tonight: Go along with another person's suggestion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ You are ready for a change, and you're likely to make it happen. Others seem most friendly and will invite you to join them. Don't be coerced by others. Say "yes" only if you want to. Deal with an important matter in the afternoon. Tonight: Forget restraint.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ You could be taken aback by a child or loved one's unexpected warm reception. You might wonder whether you really want to join in on the diversity and outside-the-box fun happening around you. Let go, and you'll be glad you did. Tonight: And the party goes on.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★★ Sometimes you can be very chatty, and today is an excellent example. You might question where someone is coming from. Why not just let go of all the internalizing and follow your instincts? The results could be quite spectacular. Tonight: Where your friends are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ Remain sensitive to your budget. Before you make a purchase for you or your home, do some intense price comparison. You might see an alternative or decide to wait. Trust your decision-making ability. Tonight: Time with a family member.

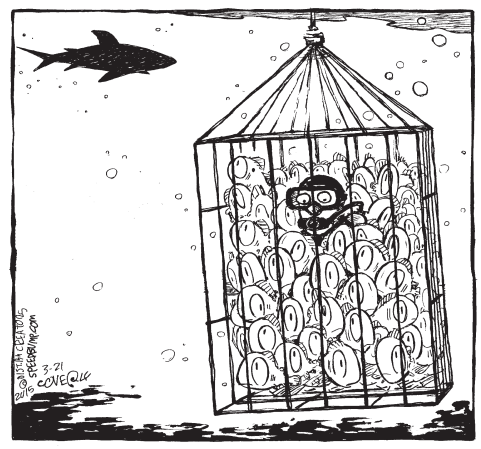

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ You might feel awkward when relating to someone who is a fire or air sign. Remain open to ideas that are somewhat foreign, and use caution and self-discipline when it comes to frivolous spending. You have a tendency to go overboard! Tonight: Let someone rein you in.

CRIME WATCH
BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON MARCH 10
Day watch patrol officers responded to a radio call of a burglary in progress in the 1100 block of 22nd Street. The building manager reported seeing a man trying to break into a vacant apartment in a multi-unit building. Officers surrounded the building and made announcements to the suspect to exit the location. Receiving no response, the officers entered the unit and began a sweep of the lower and then upper floors. The suspect, identified as Leo Valenzuela, 36, homeless, was located in a back bedroom holding a roll of toilet paper. The apartment manager believed that Valenzuela might be responsible for previous trespasses at the same location. When the suspect was questioned by officers he told them he was riding by the building and needed to use the bathroom. He noticed that the unit was unoccupied and when he tried the door it was unlocked. He was subsequently arrested for trespassing and transported to the Santa Monica Jail where his bail was set at $5,500.
