Council to debate building more, but less-affordable, housing

MADELEINE PAUKER
Daily Press Staff Writer

City Council will temporarily prevent developers from including affordable housing intended for extremely low-income households to increase the number of affordable units in the city overall.

The City of Santa Monica requires developers to include affordable units in their projects or pay into an affordable housing fund. Current rules have incentivized developers to include the smallest number of affordable units possible, preventing Santa Monica from reaching its affordable housing goals. Council will vote to alter those rules at its meeting Tuesday.

HISTORY SPOTLIGHT: OCEAN PARK PUBLIC LIBRARY

2901 Main Street. Built 1917-18, Designated 1977. This Neoclassical structure is the oldest public library in the City, and the only remaining example of a Carnegie library within the City and one of the few remaining in California. The structure, designed by architects Kegley & Garity, and since enlarged in 1985, was built with funding from the steel baron and philanthropist Andrew Carnegie who was responsible for financing the construction of more than 2,800 public libraries between the years 1886 and 1917. Santa Monica's first Carnegie library, built in 1904 at the corner of Fifth and Oregon (Santa Monica Blvd.), has since been replaced by more modern structures. The site for the Ocean Park library was donated to the City by the pioneering Tegner family, having been the site of the family's original home. The history spotlight features one local landmark per week.

Hit and run victim remembered as gentle, kind and helpful

MADELEINE PAUKER
Daily Press Staff Writer

The coroner's office has released the name of a 41-year-old man who was killed while riding a scooter in Ocean Park.

The man was identified as Michael Ramljak. He was riding a personally owned electric scooter on 3rd Street between Hill Street and Ashland Avenue after 8 p.m. on March 15 when he fell onto the road, according to the Santa Monica Police Department (SMPD). A vehicle also traveling south hit him. The driver got out of his vehicle but fled the scene before first responders arrived.

Ramljak suffered significant head and body trauma and was transported to a local hospital in critical condition. He died shortly after.

The vehicle that hit Ramljak is an older, off-white or tan sedan, possibly a Toyota Camry with damage to its front passenger's side. The driver, who has not yet been found, is a white man in his 30s and is 6 feet 2 inches tall with a medium build. He has a shaved head or short hair and was wearing prescription glasses.

The investigation is ongoing and investigators are interested in speaking with anyone who was in the area near the time of the collision. Anyone with additional information is encouraged to contact Investigator Scott Pace at (310) 458-8954 or SMPD at (310) 458-8495.

Ramljak was the owner of Giggling Machinist Mobile Welding and Machining and lived in Culver City, said his friend, Nicholas Prechter. He was also a board member of the German American Club of Santa Monica, said his friend and fellow board member, Andrea Fenninger.

Fenninger said Ramljak was

Barno of Kenya, Merachi of Ethiopia win Marathon

WINNERS: Askale Merachi and Elisha Barno won the Los Angeles Marathon on Sunday.

Elisha Barno (Kenya) and Askale Merachi (Ethiopia) won the 34th edition of the Skechers Performance Los Angeles Marathon on Sunday. These athletes bested a field of 24,000 registered runners over the iconic "Stadium to the Sea" race from the world famous Dodger Stadium to the beach in picturesque Santa Monica.

In a the closest men's race in LA history, Elisha Barno charged to the lead just past mile 26 and solidified the win in the time of 2:11:45, just seven seconds over second place. John Korir (Kenya), brother of two-time Kenyan-winner Wesley Korir, was second (2:11.52) and Juan Luis Barrios (Mexico) finished in third (2:11:59). The pack was together for 21 miles when the racing really started, hitting halfway in 1:08.11 with winner Barno. Barno closed out the race with a blazing 1:30:34 second half to earn second Skechers Performance Los Angeles Marathon victory following his previous win in 2017.

Askale Merachi took the lead in the women's race at 6k from Lucy Karimi (Kenya) and Cynthia Jerop (Kenya) winning with a new course record time of 2:24.11, a time that was Meskale's personal best by nearly six minutes. The previous course record of 2:25:10 was held by Lidiya Grigroyeva (Russia) in 2006. Cynthia Jerop and Lucy Karimi finished in second and third, respectively, with a personal best of 2:25.41 and 2:26.15.

In the wheelchair race, California native Katrina Gerhard (USA) took home the gold as the women's champion with a finishing time of 1:51.16. In the men's contest, Joshua Cassidy (Canada) bested the other competing athletes winning the race in 1:31.47.

The Los Angeles weather played out perfectly for a marathon with temperatures in the 60s and overcast conditions. The race's Stadium to the Sea Course celebrated its 10th Anniversary with live entertainment, including more than 50 bands, 500 cheerleaders, four entertainment centers and 90 cheer zones that set the stage for an exciting day.

"It was a great day out there today, but we couldn't have been more enthused by the way the pro races played out today", said Tracey Russell, Chief Executive of Conqur Endurance Group. "Once again, we are extremely proud of the amazing turnout we had from the community who eagerly cheered from the neighborhoods throughout Los Angeles, West Hollywood, Beverly Hills and Santa Monica. Congratulations to our winners and all the pro athlete who put it all on the line today."

The 17th Annual Carnival At The Pier Raises $132,000 For Child Abuse Prevention And Treatment

The Angelic Auxiliary of Children's Bureau hosted its 17th Annual Carnival at the Pier on Sunday, March 3, 2019 at Pacific Park on the Santa Monica Pier. Approximately 650 children and parents were in attendance for the event benefitting Children's Bureau, a nonprofit leader in child abuse prevention and treatment. The event raised $132,000 for child abuse treatment and prevention programs.

Admission included private use of the park, unlimited amusement park rides, free parking, and game tickets. Carnival treats were provided by Fresh Brothers Pizza, Shake Shack, Sweet Rose Creamery; beverages were supplied by La Colombe Coffee and wanu water.

"Carnival at the Pier is an event that families look forward to every year, not only because it is a day of fun, but because it is an opportunity to give back to the community. We are so proud that all of the funds raised will go toward helping the 40,000 at-risk children and parents that Children's Bureau serves," said Deepthi Brown, President of The Angelic Auxiliary.

In addition to access to the park rides and games, attendees enjoyed balloon art by The Soozi Show, face painting and the opportunity to win a variety of exciting raffle items and experiences.

The carnival's major corporate sponsor was AECOM, with special recognition to Keitha Russell, an Angel-level sponsor who is a longtime supporter of Children's Bureau. Additional sponsors included Deepthi and Patrick Brown, and Marianna and John Linfesty at the Crusader level; Mar Vista Charitable Foundation, The Pack Family, and Carleen and Bryant Riley at the Defender level, and many more. Angelic Auxiliary members to note include Cecily "Ceci" Dean, Tina Hindshaw, Nancy Messina, Mary Ryan and Carrie Shea Tilton all of whom are Santa Monica residents.

Since 1904, Children's Bureau (www.all4kids.org) has been a nonprofit leader in protecting vulnerable children through prevention, treatment and advocacy. The agency is unique in that it focuses on three key areas for creating impact: strengthening families and communities, building peer capacity and transforming systems and communities. Children's Bureau helps 40,000 children and parents each year throughout Southern California with services that include school readiness, parenting classes, family resource centers, support groups, mental health counseling, foster care and foster-adoption and more. Children's Bureau is one of the largest investors in child abuse prevention in the country and is developing a national model to transform an entire at-risk community through its Magnolia Community Initiative.

The future of green homes

Dear EarthTalk: Given all the advances in residential household efficiency, can you paint a picture of what the home of the future will look like? – Jennifer C., Valmeyer, IL

No doubt, homes in the future, whether single family dwellings or apartments in larger buildings, will be much greener than what we are all living in these days. For starters, the use of sustainable, locally sourced (and ideally recycled) materials will be the norm, not the exception, so as to avoid the unnecessary emissions and resource consumption required to make new stuff and ship it around the world.

Homes of the future will be energy efficient. Part of this efficiency will come from better insulation, doors and windows to keep the heat/cold inside where you want it. The other part will come in the form of using renewable energy generated on-site, whether from rooftop photovoltaic solar panels, thin-film window treatments, solar shingles, micro wind turbines, kinetic energy harvesters, or other newfangled technologies. And all this self-sustaining energy will be stored in your own high-capacity batteries probably not so different from Tesla's Powerwall array.

Homes of the future will also be smart. Your appliances, A/C, lighting, home security, motorized blinds, garage door openers and other systems will be connected to your network with controls available through apps over the Internet. And chances are, your future home will be smaller. The "tiny house" movement highlights how much homeowners can save on utility bills when space is limited. Efficiency can also be about the use of space as much as about use of energy. While we won't all live in tiny homes, downsizing will definitely continue to be "in."

And what about outside your home? Don't be surprised if your perfect lawn has been replaced by native plants attuned to the surrounding ecosystem. These hardy local plants won't need chemical fertilizers, herbicides or pesticides to thrive. Rainwater from your roof will be collected in cisterns, with the resulting "graywater" used to irrigate your landscaping. A green roof or vertical garden could top it all off.

While the picture painted above may seem far-fetched, it's really not, given that you could build a home that met all of the above criteria today for not much more than a conventional home. That said, it might be greener still to retrofit your existing old-school home with eco-friendly upgrades than to tear it down and build a new one, given the emissions associated with manufacturing, materials transport and assembly on a new structure. While the new home will be more efficient, it could take decades to "pay back" the "carbon debt" accrued by building from scratch.

Of course, all buildings run their course eventually, so when it is time to tear-down, it's good to know there are plenty of green options out there to replace the old homestead. And with California adopting new building codes that go into effect in 2020 calling on all new construction of single-family homes and low-rise apartments to meet zero net energy standards (whereby they generate as much power from on-site renewables as they consume from the grid), the future may be here sooner than we imagined.

temporarily eliminate the extremely low-income option to allow staff to continue to work on a more comprehensive update to the Affordable Housing Production Program (AHPP) so we can ensure we're balancing needs for affordable housing at a variety of income levels," said Roxanne Tanemori, the city's acting planning manager.

Voters passed Proposition R in 1990 to require that 30 percent of all new multi-family housing be affordable, but the AHPP gave developers the option to build fewer units for extremely low-income tenants instead of constructing more units for other low-income tenants. Council adopted that option in 2012 because 95 percent of households on the City's affordable housing waitlist were extremely or very low-income.

Depending on the project's size, developers can choose to set aside up to 7.5 percent of the units for households making 30 percent of the Los Angeles area's median income, 10 or 15 percent for households making 50 percent of the median income, or 20 or 30 percent for households making 80 percent of the median income.

Under those rules, the City is projected to fall short of the Measure R requirement between 2013 and 2021 by five percent, and has not met the requirement on an annual basis since fiscal year 2013-2014. City Council will vote Tuesday to temporarily suspend the extremely low-income option and begin drafting new affordable housing and density requirements.

"The financial incentive to allow a development to deed-restrict a low number of units for extremely-low income households has perhaps been too successful, and has ultimately impacted the City's ability to meet annual Proposition R targets," City staff wrote in a report on the proposed changes.

Staff will likely draw from the Downtown Community Plan (DCP), which requires a mix of units at appropriate sizes and affordability levels, in crafting changes to the AHPP. The City will engage HR&A Advisors, Inc. with $150,000 in a combination of local and state funding to recommend affordable housing requirements that would be financially feasible for developers. The study will take six to eight months to complete and review.

When Council first considered the idea in January, some questioned whether mandating that developers reserve more units for lower-income tenants could discourage them from building more housing of any kind. Supporters said a suspension of the extremely low-income option would probably be temporary and could be reinstated.

EDUCATION

During his time at Malibu High, Miller was a Spanish teacher, coach, World Languages department chair, and literacy teacher.

"I appreciate the opportunity to go back home," Miller began. "I'm humbled by the opportunity to return home for a second time and be trusted with the responsibility to care for a place that to me is so special … Thanks to Webster Elementary, who has been good to me… I remain committed to Webster these next few months in hopes I leave it better than I found it."

Andino currently serves as the Malibu High assistant principal for Malibu's middle school, residing on the same campus.

The middle school gets a new campus this fall with dedicated staff, of which Andino will manage as principal.

Andino worked at MHS for 12 years teaching middle school math before she was assistant principal. Started MHS's cheer program, coached varsity cheer for 8 years, and served as ASB advisor for 4 years as well as being a math department chair.

"I am thrilled to be given the opportunity to be principal at Malibu Middle School," Andino said. "In 12 years I've seen first-hand what a tremendous community we have here … I look forward to opening the middle school in Fall and building that middle school identity."

Lastly, Sinfield was named as the new director of special education, replacing Pam Kazee.

Sinfield has more than 26 years of experience in education, 20 of those in SMMUSD. She's been principal for Franklin elementary and a school psychologist and Special Education coordinator before that.

"I'm honored to continue with the district and elevate my knowledge in these areas and programs in the district. I've learned so much here, so thank you so much for this honor. I look forward to continuing with the district."

gentle, kind and helpful.

"He was always willing to help or volunteer to make things easier," she said. "What happened is really stunning and unexpected to everyone who knew him."

Prechter became friends with Ramljak while they were growing up together in Brentwood. They attended Westmark School, a private high school for children with learning differences in Encino.

Prechter also described Ramljak as generous with his time and resources.

Ramljak often went on camping trips Prechter organized. Once, Prechter asked him the night before a trip if he had firewood, and when he came to Ramljak's home the morning of the trip to get the firewood, he discovered that Ramljak had driven to his family's ranch near Riverside overnight to get firewood.

"I told him, "you don't have to drive hours at night to get me firewood," and he just said, "you needed firewood, so I drove to the ranch to get you some"," Prechter said. "He always wanted to be useful and needed."

Ramljak was a skilled welder, Prechter said, and the backyard of his house was full of tools and gadgets. He had never been interested in electric scooters until he bought the scooter he was riding when he was killed last December, Prechter added.

A funeral will be held at Ramljak's family's ranch on April 1.

"He was real silly and had a funny sense of humor," Prechter said. "If he knew his funeral was being held on April Fools' Day, he would have found it hysterical."

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 25)

Remember when you weren't sure what you really needed to be happy? Well, this year is like the opposite of that. You get really good at predicting what's going to work in your happiness recipe, and week after week, month after month, you put it together like a boss. You get plenty of help from a wide range of friends. Virgo and Scorpio adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 2, 20, 49, 18 and 45.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Young people have to learn to say "yes" in a world where everything is new and scary. Mature people have to learn to say "no" in a world that will use every last resource they have to give if they let it happen.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You're unique. As you work, those creative impulses you experience seem so natural that you assume anyone in your position would do the same thing. But that's not the case. Understand and protect your originality.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). One style of leadership you'll encounter is a superior's tendency to ignore the junior's ideas and concerns in hopes that such things will pass. They will. So will loyalty, contribution, engagement and more.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). One person who hears your message and listens well is better than a million people who hear it but don't listen. This is why it's so important to find a receptive audience.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). What you imagine you can do and what you can actually do won't always match up. Sometimes you're capable of much more, and other times far less. It will be a fun surprise how this shakes out. So keep trying.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Do you have enough? The determination will depend solely on what metric you use. If you measure in terms of material wealth, you will never have enough because there will always be someone with more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). The fact is that minds are not so fixed as you might think. People change their minds every minute. People even change their memories! Sometimes you can sense it's better to take "no" for an answer. Not today. Ask again.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You're constantly improving and updating your social skills and manners. These rules do change with the times, and you're excellent at keeping up with them, usually intuitively, but right now the effort is conscious and deliberate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Each person's soul possesses a lockbox of yearning. The yearning cannot exactly be erased, but it can be aired out and refreshed when someone with the right key comes along to open it up, as will be the case with you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Maybe it's too restrictive to see some emotions as bad and others as good. Of course, the bad ones hurt. But they also tell us when to change direction and hint to us about which way to go.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Sometimes extra is good, as in extraordinary. Sometimes it's not, as in the colloquialism "she's so extra." It's a day not to mute it just to fit in. Express your "extra" now, and assess it later.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Are people behaving in shallow and silly ways, or are you just more curious, creative and complex than they are right now? Don't waste time judging either state of mind. Go where you're comfortable.

Countdown to Venus Change

Gratitude, as a practice, isn't always a public display or a communication. Sometimes it's more of an attitude or a way of taking things in. It doesn't always feel appropriate to tell people how much you appreciate and like them. However, this is a good time to break the silence. Venus is getting ready to change signs. If not now, when?

A WORD ABOUT THE VENUS CHANGE

Tomorrow Venus will leave the reasonable, friendly realm of Aquarius to do a deep dive into Pisces. Essentially, Venus puts on her Lady Gaga voice and sings, "We're far from the shallows now." Things are about to get more emotional across the board. This is in no way a bad thing, though to be able to use emotions well takes practice.

We often think of feelings as a kind of uncontrollable, sometimes unpleasant visiting weather. This makes life harder than it has to be, as it creates a story about the emotions befalling us and happening to us when actually emotions very much come from inside us. Emotions are information produced by the body to help us move toward our own health and well-being. So basically, emotions are data for our built-in navigational system.

The hard part is that emotions speak one language (the language of the body and of the subconscious mind) and we speak in the language of words, stories and rationality. Therefore, misinterpretations will happen. In short, the language of feelings can be so hard to decode. But the first step, the one that will help during this Venus transit, is to recognize that feelings really are there to help, the caveat being that you have to feel them first.

CELEBRITY PROFILES

Sarah Jessica Parker is a child star turned style icon. Her natal Capricorn moon points to stellar business sense, and Parker has certainly lived up to the aspect. She's a movie producer with a clothing line, signature fragrances and a side gig as a spokesmodel for big beauty and beverage brands. Look for the passionate Aries actress in the new season of HBO's "Divorce," a show she's also an executive producer of.
