Council poised to approve construction contract for new downtown fire station

KATE CAGLE
Daily Press Staff Writer

The City Council is expected to approve a $26.5 million contract (with a ten percent contingency) with Bernards Bros. construction Tuesday to break ground on Fire Station No. 1, beginning the end of a decade-long ordeal to replace a cramped and seismically unsafe but vital city facility.

A 2007 study found the wood frame and stucco fire station that serves downtown in dire need of a seismic retrofit, upgrades and various improves to come up to code. The report said an earthquake could cripple the building badly enough to trap or even kill firefighters and damage lifesaving equipment.

The total cost of the new fire station is expected to be $41.6 million, according to a report by senior architect Alex Parry. A portion of the project will come from the

Introducing Santa Monica's Dolphins

RUGBY: Santa Monica's local rugby club, The Dolphins, wants to increase community awareness of their sport.

Dark clouds swarm over Dodson Middle School's grass field, where Santa Monica's rugby team, the Dolphins, played their fourth game of the season this month. They travel from Santa Monica all the way to Palos Verdes, California, to play — an hour-long drive. The crowd mostly consists of family members coming to watch the game.

"We've been here for 45 years, we're Santa Monica Rugby Club, you know, that name represents the city, and we deserve to have a little more support from the city," said head coach Riaz Fredericks.

Founded in 1972, The Dolphins are still struggling to get a footprint in the community.

"We just don't get enough numbers I guess at the gate, people watching," Fredericks said.

The team has been kicked off of various fields, and due to not having their own field to play at, they have to travel as far as San Diego and San Francisco to play.

"We got kicked off a field that we've been playing on for four to five years, and we got kicked off it because soccer has a better connection to the principal who decided we're not gonna play here anymore," says Fredericks and continued, "We are pretty much bootstrapping this sport in the U.S."

The team has players coming in from all around the world to play.

"I've come over from England just to play some rugby here," says Conor Clancy, a member of Santa Monica's rugby team.

Rugby is originally from England, but the sport has been around in the United States since 1874. Even though it has similarities to American football, they are two very different sports. Rugby is a continuous game that runs for two halves of 40 minutes each.

"It's a contact sport, it's about the only real connection," Fredericks said.

A game is set up with two teams, each consisting of 15 players — eight forward players and seven backward.

To compete for the ball, the players tackle and run through their opponents to score in the opponent's in-goal, similar to the end zone in football. The ball can never be passed forward, only backward. For a score to count, the ball must touch the ground of the in-goal by the attacking team, known as the try, which is similar to a touchdown in football. They can then attempt a two-point conversion, with a player kicking the ball over the crossbar and between the goal posts, similar to a field goal in football.

Players are allowed to tackle their

Pastry chef Clemence Gossett is a tour de force at the Wednesday farmers market. The Paris native and Santa Monica resident expertly weaves through the crowd to familiar stands where the farmers and bakers know her by name. Recently, a small group followed her path, eagerly listening as she picked up a loaf of bread and described its journey from seed to slice.

The half dozen aspiring cooks following Gossett were students at The Gourmandise School of Sweets and Savories, which teaches everything from how to crack an egg to how to transform a cocoa bean into a chocolate bar. In a town full of self-described foodies, Gossett is on a mission to elevate the conversation surrounding food. Gossett's classes emphasize using the best ingredients: local, fresh and organic when possible.

"Explaining to people where the food comes from, how it affects us economically and environmentally and showing the difference in flavor and texture is really a big part of it," Gossett said leaning over a stainless steel counter in the school's current location. Soon the school inside Santa Monica Place will quadruple in size, as Gossett and her business partner Sabrina Ironside make room for more courses, private classes and summer camps for teenagers.

Gossett, a pastry chef, opened the Gourmandise (which means a craving for sweets in French) in 2011, emphasizing cooking technique over recipes. A glance at the course calendar reveals the phrase

Soundwaves concert

On Wednesday April 4, at 7:30 p.m., the Soundwaves new music series at the Santa Monica Public Library hosts a publication concert for Elana Mann and John Burtle's new anthology "Propositional Attitudes: What Do We Do Next?" at the Martin Luther King Jr. Auditorium at the Main Library, 601 Santa Monica Blvd.

Published by the acclaimed local artist book press Golden Spike, "Propositional Attitudes" is a collection of performance texts intersecting conceptual art, poetry, and experimental music, in the tradition of John Cage, Yoko Ono, LaMonte Young, Pauline Oliveros, and Nam June Paik.

Mann and Burtle are visual, performance, and conceptual artists whose work has appeared in venues from the Getty Museum to sidewalks and postcards. They will discuss their book, followed by live interpretations of pieces by Michael Hopper and Mark So and a performance by Dana Reason via Skype.

Soundwaves is a concert series presenting artists who appear on the DRAM (Database of Recorded American Music) streaming service. The Santa Monica Public Library is the first public library to offer this service to its cardholders. Listings of past and upcoming Soundwaves shows as well as sound and video recordings are at SoundwavesNewMusic.com

This event is free and open to the public. Seating is limited and on a first-arrival basis. The Santa Monica Public Library is wheelchair accessible. For other disabled services, call Library Administration at (310) 458-8606 at least one week prior to event. GRID Alternatives Installs Solar Photovoltaic System on Low-Income Housing

GRID Alternatives Greater Los Angeles, the largest solar nonprofit in Southern California, has announced that it would construct multiple solar arrays in March on one of Community Corporation of Santa Monica's Broadway properties serving low-income residents. The solar photovoltaic system, which adds a significant source of new, clean power to the area's electrical grid, benefits an important local nonprofit providing housing during a countywide shortage. Utility costs lowered through of the GRID Alternatives installation directly allow Community Corp of Santa Monica to channel more funds into its core mission of providing environmentally sustainable homes for people of modest means.

"I'm pleased that we're working with CCSM to bring 26 kilowatts DC of solar for affordable housing in Santa Monica," said Michael Kadish, Executive Director of GRID Alternatives. "If we are going to tackle climate change we need solutions that involve everyone."

About a dozen members of CCSM, including low-income tenants, will have the opportunity to go on the roof with Solar Installation Supervisors throughout the project and do hands-on construction training. Media access to CCSM's roof to cover the training is also available; outlets can use visuals from the worksite, photos of modules and inverters, and interviews with installers. GRID Alternatives' unique workforce development model utilizes multifamily solar construction projects like this one as "classrooms on the roof" where community members interested in careers in solar construction get skills to increase their chances of being hired in the booming industry. The primary cohort of installers in Santa Monica is made up of L.A. County residents who have experienced homelessness or incarceration. With the March 2018 Santa Monica Homeless County showing a 4% increase in unhoused individuals, and the County as a whole experiencing crisis-level problems meeting the need for permanent shelter, GRID Alternatives training provides not just an important route to living-wage employment, but long-term assistance for affordable housing providers.

Historic Music Photos On Display

The California Heritage Museum will present Rock & Roll Legends, The Lost Negatives Of Michael Friedman.

Michael Friedman, former Manager and Music Producer, found himself standing quite literally in the hurricane's eye of America's folk, rock and roll, and pop music industry during the late 60s through the early 80s. Friedman will present a remarkable collection of his never-before-seen, candid, black and white photos of iconic musicians and performers, including The Rolling Stones, Janis Joplin, The Band, and others, at the Santa Monica-based California Heritage Museum, from April 14 – July 15.

During the 1960s and early '70s era, Michael Friedman had the good fortune of working, traveling, and befriending dozens of highly respected and legendary musical artists. While initially working as a publicist, and later as a manager and music producer, he was also an avid photographer. Due to his unique access to dozens of top musicians and performers, his candid photography was able to capture the essence of that historic period in American folk, rock, and pop music.

Between 1969 and 1973 Friedman shot over 1,000 photographs, but before he even printed most of the photos, he packed the negatives away, and then lost track of them, eventually considering them lost. Then, in 2017, after 45 years, the long lost negatives were discovered in Friedman's attic.

Now fully restored, they turn out to be a remarkable collection of candid shots of legendary musicians including The Rolling Stones, Janis Joplin, The Band, Todd Rundgren, Gordon Lightfoot, Paul Butterfield, James Cotton, Kris Kristofferson, Rita Coolidge, and other musicians.

The California Heritage Museum has selected a collection of more than 60 stunning images for the exhibition. The exhibition is scheduled to open on April 14 and continue through July 15. The Opening Reception will be April 13 from 6 to 9:30 p.m. The California Heritage Museum is open Wednesday thru Sunday, 11 a.m. – 4 p.m., and is located at 2612 Main Street in Santa Monica.

Waterproofing problems

Dear EarthTalk:

Just when I finally purged my kitchen of non-stick cookware due to the risks posed by Teflon, I now learn that my rain jacket and waterproof boots are also putting my health at risk from exposure to similar "hydrophobic" chemicals. What's a concerned outdoors person to do about staying dry and comfortable on a rainy hike?

Alex Walker
Philadelphia, PA

Most of us remember when GORE-Tex first appeared and revolutionized outdoor clothing and gear by infusing products with a waterproof treatment that could also "breathe" so we wouldn't get clammy on the inside as our outerwear repelled the elements. Since then, this synthetic chemical-based weatherproofing has become ubiquitous throughout the outdoor industry, not only in jackets, but also in boots and shoes, backpacks, tents, swimsuits and just about everything else that gets exposed to the wet and wild.

And while we've all been happily making our way through the rain and snow, we might not have realized that there is a dark underbelly to all of this weatherproof outdoor gear: perfluorinated compounds (PFCs). These synthetic chemicals are related to the "hydrophobic" PFOA formulations that make non-stick cookware easy to clean by encouraging liquids to bead up and roll away. And like their chemical cousins on cookware, the PFCs in your jacket could be making you sick and polluting the environment.

"PFCs are environmentally hazardous substances, which are persistent in the environment," reports Greenpeace, which launched its Detox Outdoor campaign in 2012 to convince outdoor gear makers to stop using toxic chemicals in their products. "Studies show that some PFCs can accumulate in living organisms such as the livers of polar bears in the Arctic and are also detected in human blood." Meanwhile, animal studies indicate that PFCs can harm reproductive processes, negatively impact hormonal balances and promote the growth of tumors.

Once released into the environment PFCs break down very slowly. They remain in the environment for several hundred years and are dispersed over the entire globe. Some are found in secluded mountain lakes or accumulated in wildlife. Some are also found in human blood.

If you have waterproof shoes or a rain jacket that is more than a year or two old, chances are it was treated with a PFC-laced Durable Water Repellent (DWR) finish before it left the factory—and could be leaching trace amounts of these toxic carcinogenic chemicals into your body and the environment. And PFCs never break down entirely, so they can continue to cause harm indefinitely.

Luckily, given Greenpeace's advocacy and resulting consumer awareness, the majority of gear makers have started to phase out PFCs. Smaller brands including Paramo, Pyua, Rotauf, Fjällräven, R'ADYS and Dannah were the first to commit to PFC-free product lines, but the bigger players are coming around, too. W.L. Gore, Patagonia, The North Face, Marmot, Columbia and others have voluntarily committed to phasing out PFC-based DWR formulations by 2020 per Greenpeace's original ask.

But getting there depends on finding suitable alternatives. Many companies have temporarily switched to less toxic while still fluorocarbon-based DWR formulations while they look for greener formulations. For its part, Patagonia is betting big through its corporate investment fund Tin Shed Ventures on Switzerland-based start-up Beyond Surface Technologies, a company founded in 2008 by scientists who left careers at big chemical companies to make DWR-like textile treatments using natural raw materials.

CRIME WATCH

BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department.
These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON MARCH 14, 2018 AT ABOUT 5:50 A.M.

While conducting a periodic check in parking Structure #9 – 1136 4th Street – officers located a subject camped out with his property strewn around. The subject did not have a vehicle parked in the lot. A computer check of the subject revealed several outstanding warrants for his arrest. The subject was taken into custody. A search of his property led to the recovery of personal items- credit cards, bank cards, identification cards belonging to others. Also recovered were narcotics smoking pipes and hypodermic needles. The subject was transported to SMPD Jail. William Joseph Bright, 46, homeless, was arrested for loitering in a structure, possession of narcotics paraphernalia, misappropriation of lost property and warrants. Bail was set at $35,500.

These funds may be released to the depositor, their heir, beneficiary or duly appointed representative provided a claim form has been completed with the required information detailed below and an original signature.

Required claim information includes name, address, phone number, tax identification number, amount of claim, and grounds on which claim is founded. Claims must be submitted to the Finance Department, Attn: Financial Operations, 1717 4th Street, Suite 250, Santa Monica, CA. 90401 or by email to Jason.Duvall@smgov.net. Once a claim is submitted; the Finance Department will determine the validity of the claim and if additional information is required to process the claim. The City of Santa Monica reserves the right to deny any claim that is submitted with incomplete or invalid information.

Dockwalker Training through May across SoCal

The statewide Dockwalker program continues its multi-year boater-education efforts with five free local Dockwalker workshops March through May. Dockwalkers increase boater awareness about clean and safe boating practices, thus improving the recreation experience in California while helping to preserve its wildlife habitat and water quality. The Dockwalker program is coordinated by The Bay Foundation (TBF), California State Parks Division of Boating and Waterways (DBW), and California Coastal Commission's Boating Clean and Green Program.

As face-to-face interaction, in addition to the Boater Kits, has proven to be a highly effective way to provide information to boaters, Dockwalkers connect to the boating community in local harbors and at boating events. This boating season, approximately 150 active Dockwalkers will promote clean boating through education all across the state, with the goal of improving the quality of harbor and inland waters.

"Boat owners appreciate the opportunity to fill out the questionnaire and receive information about environmentally-responsible boating," states certified Dockwalker John Carroll. "[Boaters] are also thankful that someone is taking the time to spread the word about environmental safeguards among the boating community."

The updated 2018 Boater Kits include extensive boating information, clean and safe boating education resources, a Tide Calendar, along with an oil absorbent sheet, oil absorbent pillow, and a fuel bib, a pollution prevention tool that is placed around the nozzle of the fuel pump and captures accidental spills and leaks while fueling.

"In the true spirit of our pollution prevention efforts, we developed environmentally responsible Boater Kits," states Vivian Matuk of DBW, and the Coastal Commission's Boating Clean and Green Program Manager. "All the materials included in the kits are made from non- or low-toxic materials and printed on recycled paper with soy-based inks."

The Dockwalkers also inform boaters about additional tools that TBF's Boater Education Program and its partners continue to create for boaters, including the free downloadable "Pumpout Nav" app (iOs or Android), which gives details of the nearest sewage pumpout stations, and provides information on environmental risks and regulations regarding sewage discharge.

"The Dockwalker program is a fun and valuable way to engage with boaters and further develop community ties. Dockwalkers are out on the water, in harbors, and at local events, conveniently bringing clean boating tips and resources to where the boaters already are," states Victoria Gambale, TBF's Water Quality Programs Manager. "Since 2000 when the statewide Dockwalker program launched, over 100,000 boaters have been educated about clean boating practices by our network of volunteer Dockwalkers."

To become a Dockwalker volunteer, please contact Victoria Gambale at vgambale@santamonicabay.org, or sign up for a Dockwalker training online. Find more information, visit http://www.santamonicabay.org/explore/our-communities/clean-boating/volunteer-us/. Training is free. Registration is required.

The Bay Foundation (TBF) is a 501(c)(3) non-profit environmental group founded in 1990 to restore and enhance the Santa Monica Bay and local coastal waters (from the LA-Ventura county line to the Palos Verdes Peninsula). The Bay Foundation is a partner in the Santa Monica Bay National Estuary Program along with the Santa Monica Bay Restoration Commission and many other organizations. TBF works collaboratively with a broad group of stakeholders, including government agencies, industry, environmental groups, and community members. TBF engages scientists and conducts research while mentoring student interns and volunteers in conjunction with the Frank R. Seaver College of Science and Engineering through the Coastal Research Institute at Loyola Marymount University.

Capital Improvement Program budget with the rest financed with a lease revenue bond. Staff will return to the Council in May to seek approval for bond issuance.

When it's complete, the dangerous 1950's era facility will be replaced with a state-of-the-art three-story, 27,000 square-foot fire station with underground parking. The top floor features dorms for up to 20 firefighters, a kitchen, fitness area, men's and women's restrooms and a public community room. Pedestrians walking by the building will be able to see fire engines and crews through four retractable glass bay doors on the first floor. The project aims for a minimum LEED Silver certification.

"The significant amount of display area visible from the street and the siting of the lobby and community room near the public entrance provide an inviting element to the general public and enhances the pedestrian experience," said the planning commission report on the building from April 2016. "The fire station would expand upon the existing civic character of the area established by the adjacent public library."

Late February, the city finalized a land swap with controversial developer NMS Properties to exchange public property at 1338 and 1321 5th street for a lot big enough for the station at 1337 7th Street. The land swap involved moving spaces from a private parking easement at the 7th Street location to a separate NMS property at 1430 Lincoln Blvd, where the developer is building a 5-story 100-unit apartment complex.

The existing 11,000-square-foot Fire Station No. 1 at 1444 7th Street will remain operational throughout construction, with a potential move-in date in early 2020. The station currently houses Engine 1, Engine 6, a 100-foot ladder truck with a five person crew, an air/light/rescue unit and a command vehicle with a battalion chief. The city has no current plans for the old building or property once it becomes vacant.

Bernards was not the lowest bidder for the project, which includes a $2.6 million contingency, "but offered comprehensive knowledge and experience having previously successfully completed two fire station projects," according to the staff report submitted to City Council.

Bernards provides in-house management services which documents building system conflicts to aid in future maintenance of facilities.

SCHOOL

"waiting list" under a variety of options: the basics of baking, exploring regional cuisines and kids baking: cream puffs and eclairs. The business partners say the nearby Expo line has been a boon for business but they also get students from all over the West Coast, including Canada and Mexico. Their team of instructors have helped countless students who represent the full spectrum - from the delivery dependent to Food Network know-it-alls.

"It's a really interesting time in food," Ironside said. "There's so much convenience now that people simply don't know what to do in the kitchen anymore but they are starting to understand that it's healthier to cook your own meals and cheaper."

Ironside came to the business with a background in entertainment marketing and little experience in the culinary arts. Together, the two women have grown the school from a few classes a week to a dessert, dinner and jam-packed schedule. A single class usually lasts a few hours and costs upwards of $100 but students are encouraged to bring their own take home containers for the copious amount of food they will cook. (The Gourmandise invited this reporter to take a class and I took home four boxes of dinners and knowledge on how to properly prepare, season, sear, braze and fry chicken.)

"We just want people to enjoy the process," Ironside said. "Bring your own wine and enjoy yourself. It doesn't matter what skill level you're at."

The new space will include two kitchens giving the duo an opportunity to run two classes simultaneously. It will also launch the school's new partnership with KitchenAid, which supplied the tools and equipment for the expansion.

Locals who want to learn more about what the Gourmandise is all about can follow them on social media or check out their website at thegourmandiseschool.com where Gossett posts free recipes and baking advice. The school even runs a "baking hotline" for home cooks in a pinch: (310) 656-8800.

RUGBY

opponents anywhere below the shoulders, using their arms to get them to the ground. It is not allowed in rugby to use shoulders or tackling anywhere above them. In open play, the players on defense form a straight line across the field, while the opposite team passes the ball down, trying to find a gap in the defense. If the offense cannot find a gap, the player carrying the ball can run straight into the defensive line to break them up, which is called a line break. Each game lasts for 80 minutes and the team with most points win.

Even with the sport growing rapidly, not many people know about Santa Monica's own rugby team.

"I meet people every week that are Santa Monica locals, they have been in the community for their whole life and they have never heard of the Santa Monica Rugby club. They don't even know we have a rugby club," Fredericks said.

Fredericks has been in email contact with the Santa Monica mayor about getting their own field to practice on but has not yet received a response.

Visit http://www.santamonicarugby.com for more information.

"It's exciting you know, and to back that up, it's free. You can come and watch games for free and be entertained," Fredericks said.

April at SMC'S Drescher Planetarium

The Santa Monica College John Drescher Planetarium will present two special feature shows and a telescope-observing event in April. The feature shows – as well as their popular Night Sky Show – will be held on Friday evenings.

The evening events are at 8 p.m. and are preceded by "The Night Sky Show" at 7 p.m., offering the latest news in astronomy and space exploration, a family-friendly "tour" of the constellations, and the chance to ask astronomy-related questions.

THE APRIL EVENTS ARE:

• Messier Marathon Observing Report on April 6. Show takes a look at the work of French 18th-century comet hunter Charles Messier, whose nuisance list of fuzzy, nonmoving, cometlike objects led to the development of one of the best-known astronomical catalogs of the northern sky. The planetarium director will also report on his efforts March 17 to complete a dusk-to-dawn "Messier Marathon" to view all 110 objects in a single session, possible only in March and April.

• Special Observing Event: Crescent Moon and Famous Double Star on April 20. This feature show is an opportunity to view the Moon and its dramatically lit crater Theophilus – and gaze at the famous visual binary of Mizar and Alcor, the middle stars in the handle of the Big Dipper – through a variety of telescopes, with guidance from the planetarium's director.

• Mars INSIGHT Mission Preview on April 27. Show previews the Mars INSIGHT mission, which is scheduled to launch May 5 for a November 26 landing on the Red Planet, and carries a suite of instruments designed to probe the interior structure and heat flow characteristics of Mars.

The John Drescher Planetarium, which features a Digistar projection system, is located near the elevators on the second floor of Drescher Hall (1900 Pico Blvd., Santa Monica). Tickets are available at the door and cost $11 ($9 seniors and children) for the evening's scheduled "double bill," or $6 ($5 seniors age 60+ and children age 12 and under) for a single show or telescope-viewing session.

Please call (310) 434-3005 or see www.smc.edu/eventsinfo or www.smc.edu/planetarium for information. All shows subject to change or cancellation without notice.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 26)

This year, close relationships will call forth your highest good. It takes another human being to reflect back to you your personality so that you can know yourself. Collaborations will earn you big bucks over the next 10 weeks. July brings inspiration through travel. The needs of family will also motivate you. Cancer and Capricorn adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 9, 40, 3, 33 and 28.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

There's a wild enthusiasm generating in you now, and it's creating a fairly irresistible charisma. You can use this primal gift to go beyond what can be accomplished through emotion or through reasonable persuasion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

The sad truth is that most people are just waiting for their turn to speak instead of listening to what's being said. You'll prove that you're not "most people," and you'll shine.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)

This day's success will depend on how you preload it, so don't worry if it seems to be taking you forever to get ready for it. Be thorough. The details will matter, including the way you're dressed for this.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)

You like to stay busy, but not with the same thing all of the time. That's why it will be so fun when today's focus takes a turn. Bonus: Your involvement will mean everything to someone.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Some would say there are important things at stake. Others would debate it. If you just try to have some fun, it's an intention that will make your life better. The levity you provide will help everyone around you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

There's a sweet spot in regard to how much you really should care about what others think. Believe in yourself while being open to constructive help. Hold your ground, but let others share it sometimes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

You take pleasure in the happiness and success of others. One thing you'll like about today? You'll get more than one chance at this kind of pleasure, and your own success is not far behind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)

Because most of today's important communication will not be about the words, the texts and emails won't be nearly so important as the nonverbal messages you get by just being around a person.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Meaningful bonds are important, but appropriate bonds are even more so today. The social landscape will call for boundaries, which you'll instate graciously without interrupting the flow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

No one grows in theory. Even mathematicians and quantum physicians must, at some point, put the numbers to practical use. You're ready to grow and willing to get brave and experimental and test things out in real life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

For today, it will just be a lot better for you if you don't care what anyone thinks. Of course, there may be some part of you that can't help but care. Turn your mental shrink ray on it, and flick it out of the way.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

The flounder can change in both color and pattern to blend in with its background and escape detection of both predators and prey. Beware of bottom feeders of all sorts, as they can be extremely clever at hiding their true intentions.

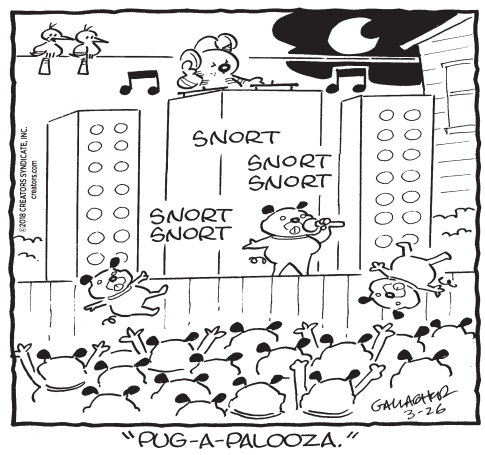

Moon Change

The moon's shifting from Cancer to Leo can seem like a before-and-after shot in which it is impossible to see any improvement at all and you just see a difference that's strikingly obvious and entirely subject to individual preference. Recognize that neither way is objectively better or worse, and choose what's appropriate for the moment.

WELL NEWS BY SCOTT LAFEE

Tax Cheetos

■ Some taxes may be good for your health. In a new study, researchers say a national junk food tax might achieve two desirable goals: 1. It could reduce the amount of junk food consumed by making it more expensive, thus helping in the fight against diseases blamed on unhealthy foods, and 2. the (excise) tax revenue could be used to fund public health initiatives.

■ Previous research has already found that taxes on sugary drinks and subsidies to promote the consumption of produce have been associated with reductions in cardiovascular deaths.
