NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPARD

University of Michigan football player Larry Harrison Jr., 20, was charged with four felony counts of indecent exposure in January, and is a suspect in 12 other incidents, after being identified by several victims and police officers as the man shocking Ann Arbor, Mich., during the last half of 2004 in a public masturbation spree. And Charles J. Henry, 20, was indicted for indecent exposure in Fairbanks, Alaska, in February after four teenagers said he was similarly enjoying himself in his car while parked at Lathrop High School. (Henry defended himself to officers, claiming that he was under stress and that it was actually the girls' responsibility to avert their eyes.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is the 108th day of 2005.
There are 257 days left in the year.

Fifty years ago, on April 18, 1955, physicist Albert Einstein died in Princeton, N.J., at age 76.

In 1775, Paul Revere began his famous ride from Charlestown to Lexington, Mass., warning American colonists that the British were coming. In 1983, 62 people, including 17 Americans, were killed at the U.S. Embassy in Beirut, Lebanon, by a suicide bomber.

Man falls to death from Palisades Bluffs

Alejandro Cesar Cantarero/Daily Press

The north end of the Palisades Bluffs can reach as high as 300 feet. A man fell between 150 feet and 200 feet on Sunday morning. He died at a local hospital.

PCH — A man fell nearly 200 feet down the Palisades Bluffs Sunday morning. He died at a local hospital more than an hour later.

A witness called police at about 8 a.m. reporting an injured person below Palisades Park. Although the investigation is in its preliminary stages, authorities believe the man either fell from the edge of the bluffs or jumped, said Santa Monica Police Lt. Frank Fabrega.

The man, whose identity isn't being released until his next of kin is notified, died at 9:40 a.m. at Santa Monica-UCLA Medical Center.

The victim, when found by emergency workers, was hanging from a tree upside down.

His leg had wrapped around a branch about three feet from the

RAND meeting rallies education advocates

BY RYAN HYATT

Daily Press Staff Writer

DOWNTOWN — The continued deterioration of the California public school system — and how to stop it — were the topics of discussion at a RAND Corp. conference on Saturday.

Hundreds of educational players and advocates showed up from across the state to hear and discuss a recent RAND report that suggested the state's public education system will continue to decline unless measures are taken to reinforce the education budget and provide learning opportunities necessary for the future success of one of the world's largest economies.

"When I moved to California from back east, I was struck by how tolerant and complacent we are to the conditions we are in," said John Deasy, superintendent of the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District and one of the meeting's panelists. "There is a divested share of responsibility in our state school system. We need targeted investment in our schools with a healthy accountability system."

The RAND report traced how California public schools, which ranked among the top public education systems in the country during the '70s, started a downward trend in 1978 that has continued to this day. Compared to the rest of the nation, school achievement in California now ranks above only Louisiana and Mississippi. The report concludes that much of the deterioration is due to education being less of a state priority.

The panel included local

California State Sen. Sheila Kuehl (D-23), Assemblymember Jackie Goldberg (D-45), Hewlett Foundation education director Marshall S. Smith, ACLU education attorney Catherine Lhamon and three Los Angeles County school officials. California Assemblymember Lynn Daucher (R-72), who serves on the state budget committee, was invited but did not attend, nor did Ray Reinhard, assistant secretary of education.

Jimmy Klein: Keeping a hospital healthy

BY LESLIE ANNE JONES

Special to the Daily Press

MID-CITY — St. John's Health Center is a key employer, medical care provider and community entity in Santa Monica — but its trustees are aging. So Jimmy Klein and a few friends got together and formed NexGen: an organization of young professionals dedicated to supporting the foundation and ensuring the future of St. John's.

NexGen, short for the Next Generation, expects to see future trustees rise from its ranks.

Its members, mostly aged 30 to 50, meet once a month to discuss fundraising and upcoming events. Klein, 33, is the chair of the organization, which was formed roughly a year and a half ago. Each year the group puts on two fundraising events.

Klein attributes his dedication to the health center to a history of quality health care received from St. John's.

"I received most all my medical care my entire life here," Klein

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS The stars show the kind of day you'll have:
★★★★-Dynamic   ★★★★★-Positive   ★★★-Average   ★★-So-so   ★-Difficult

 ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★★ Use this special day to mend bridges. With your energy levels running so high, you could easily become frustrated. Don't allow negativity to build. Use your enormous resources to funnel your energy. Tonight: Ever playful, seeking out the unique.

 TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ If you know your priorities, then you will make decisions easily. Family and security always star. Someone's demanding nature could create quite a tizzy if you permit it to. Remain grounded; be the practical Bull. Say "enough" when you need to. Tonight: Screen your calls, making time for that special someone.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 ★★★★★ Your extraordinary style of communicating must come forth. You might be put off by news, but you also might not be getting the whole story. Feelings run high. Take a walk when you're angry or frustrated. Detach, and you'll come out on top. Tonight: Hang out. Listen to others' news.

 CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 ★★★★★ Expenses go way out of whack. Pace yourself, because you need to revamp your schedule if you go on overload. Schedule a checkup, if necessary. Listen to an irate partner, as hard as it might be. In between the temperamental outbursts, there might be words of wisdom. Tonight: Use your imagination.

 LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ Push comes to shove with partners. You are best off backing away. Listen to a new perspective. Creativity oozes out of your pores. You can find solutions to nearly every hassle or problem. Others demand your attention, especially a child. Tonight: Let another person make the choice.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★ Take your time making decisions, especially if pressure builds and you feel frazzled. Racing around with your mind elsewhere could make you accident-prone. Listen to a family member who cares. Tonight: Do some yoga to relax.

 LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★★ Count on coming up with ideas when others cannot. You have a way with words that delights many and also conveys visual impressions. A child or loved one tugs on your time. Look at the bigger picture. Tonight: Find your pals.

 SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ You might want to revise your thinking as you handle a money issue. A Family or domestic matter might be grating on you. Handle responsibilities rather than get into emotional issues. Tonight: Up late.

 SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★★ Look beyond the obvious, and you'll get answers. When challenged by someone, don't take his or her actions or words personally. Use your ability to pull back and look at the whole picture. Listen and process. Tonight: Find experts.

 CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 ★★★★★ Work with an associate as carefully as possible. Sometimes you like to push your ideas on others, especially regarding money. Know when to pull away and let associates figure out what's what — for your sake! Tonight: Go along with another's opinion.

 AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ You could be a bit more bellicose than many. Know when to aim for more of what you want and when to lie back. Answers come to you if you don't push so hard. Think rather than act, if you can. Tonight: Just say "yes."

 PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★ Concentrate on achievement. Work out difficulty by concentrating on other matters. You find that answers will come once you relax. If possible, think before you act on an impulse. Revise your opinions as new information bubbles up. Tonight: Work out, jog or walk.

The not-so-humble abodes of Venice

By Daily Press staff

Think your house is old?

Come compare this Saturday at the fourth annual Venice Architectural Tour.

The tour will feature homes designed by Steven Ehrlich, Robert Glaus, William Pauli, Ron Radziner, Larry Scarpa and Toby Watson, among others. This is an opportunity to see examples of vintage California craftsman homes in their original or restored prime. Some of these homes date back as far as the early 1900s.

As a highlight, Jay Griffith, Venice-based landscape designer and Venice Garden Tour founder, will lead a private tour to select estates in Santa Monica Canyon and Pacific Palisades, including two homes listed on the National Register of Historic Places. One of the homes was designed in 1936 by Richard Neutra and featured in the movie Laurel Canyon. The other is a 1949 Cliff May home, restored by the Marmol Radziner architectural firm.

Tax-deductible tickets, which include lunch, are available for $300 each. Funds raised from the tours go to benefit the nonprofit neighborhood youth associations Las Doradas Children's Center and the Learning Center, both of which serve at-risk children and their families in Venice and Mar Vista.

The tours take place this Saturday, April 23, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For information call (310) 821-2429, or e-mail Venicegardentour@comcast.net, or visit www.venicegardentour.org.

Just what will become of the mall?

Editor:

(This letter was originally addressed as an open letter to the Santa Monica planning department and City Council.)

We are residents and/or business owners who love Santa Monica and want to ensure that the city applies responsible planning practices to major development projects. We are very concerned about the future of Santa Monica Place. We are writing to you now because we believe that our city's planning and decision-making process is seriously flawed.

It does not encourage sustainable growth — workable developments that are within existing zoning and the general plan and which do not impose substantial negative impacts on traffic and air quality

It does not enable our residents to have meaningful input into decisions about our city's growth.

If this flawed process is not fixed, our city will no longer feel like our home, and Santa Monica residents will be burdened with a city that is overdeveloped and overrun by intolerable traffic, worsening air quality, high density construction and a lack of open space.

We were alarmed by the recent city/Macerich community workshops on the future of Santa Monica Place, which provided one of the first opportunities for residents to express our views on the proposed project, even though Macerich had been quietly negotiating the project, with city staff, for almost two years.

What we would have expected was a close look at what has been under discussion for so long with a wide-ranging public discussion of its merits/demerits. Instead, the city and Macerich ignored the plan presented to the City Council only a few weeks earlier, ignored existing zoning and general plan requirements for the site, and made no attempt to posit a development for a sustainable community. Residents were told to act as though there were no planning rules, given children's building blocks and asked to become mall designers on the spot. Participants were not told how the blocks that were added to the site plan would increase the square footage of the existing mall; they were simply encouraged to add as many blocks as they wanted. At the end of each session, photographs of the site plans were taken — photographs we are concerned will now be used to imply that residents favor increased density at the site, something that most residents argued strongly against during the open forum portion of the workshops.

This "mall designer" exercise was presented in the name of "we're open to all ideas," but really was aimed at avoiding any reaction to or criticism of the very real, expedited project Macerich and the city have in mind. Fortunately, many residents rejected being manipulated like this and insisted upon being heard about the plan that previously had been proposed to the City Council.

What emerged from the community workshops is that the overwhelming majority of the residents who attended and voiced their views are strongly opposed to changes to Santa Monica Place that would violate existing zoning or which would have significant impacts. These residents asked vital questions, many of which simply were not answered.

Key unanswered question include:

GUEST COMMENTARY BY MICHAEL S. BERLINER

Environmentalism will make human life impossible

To save mankind requires the wholesale rejection of environmentalism as hatred of science, technology, progress and human life.

Earth Day approaches, and with it a grave danger faces mankind. The danger is not from acid rain, global warming, smog or the logging of rain forests, as environmentalists would have us believe. The danger to mankind is from environmentalism.

The fundamental goal of environmentalism is not clean air and clean water. Rather, it is the demolition of technological/industrial civilization. Environmentalism's goal is not the advancement of human health, human happiness and human life. Rather, it is a subhuman world where "nature" is worshipped like the totem of some primitive religion.

In a nation founded on the pioneer spirit, environmentalists have made "development" an evil word. They inhibit or prohibit the development of Alaskan oil, offshore drilling, nuclear power and every other practical form of energy. Housing, commerce and jobs are sacrificed to spotted owls and snail darters. Medical research is sacrificed to the "rights" of mice. Logging is sacrificed to the "rights" of trees. No instance of the progress that brought man out of the cave is safe from the onslaught of those "protecting" the environment from man, whom they consider a rapist and despoiler by his very essence.

Nature, they insist, has "intrinsic value," to be revered for its own sake, irrespective of any benefit to man. As a consequence, man is to be prohibited from using nature for his own ends. Since nature supposedly has value and goodness in itself, any human action that changes the environment is necessarily immoral. Of course, environmentalists invoke the doctrine of intrinsic value not against wolves that eat sheep or beavers that gnaw trees; they invoke it only against man, only when man wants something.

The ideal world of environmentalism is not 21st century Western civilization. It is the Garden of Eden, a world with no human intervention in nature, a world without innovation or change, a world without effort, a world where survival is somehow guaranteed, a world where man has mystically merged with the "environment." Had the environmentalist mentality prevailed in the 18th and 19th centuries, we would have had no Industrial Revolution, a situation that consistent environmentalists would cheer — at least those few who might have managed to survive without the life-saving benefits of modern science and technology.

The expressed goal of environmentalism is to prevent man from changing his environment, from intruding on nature. That is why environmentalism is fundamentally anti-man. Intrusion is necessary for human survival. Only by intrusion can man avoid pestilence and famine. Only by intrusion can man control his life and project long-range goals. Intrusion improves the environment, if by "environment" one means the surroundings of man — the external material conditions of human life. Intrusion is a requirement of human nature. But in the environmentalists' paean to "nature," human nature is omitted. For environmentalism, the "natural" world is a world without man. Man has no legitimate needs, but trees, ponds and bacteria somehow do.

They don't mean it? Heed the words of the consistent environmentalists. "The ending of the human epoch on Earth," writes philosopher Paul Taylor in "Respect for Nature: A Theory of Environmental Ethics," "would most likely be greeted with a hearty 'Good riddance!'" In a glowing review of Bill McKibben's The End of Nature, biologist David M. Graber writes (Los Angeles Times, Oct. 29, 1989): "Human happiness (is) not as important as a wild and healthy planet ... Until such time as Homo sapiens should decide to rejoin nature, some of us can only hope for the right virus to come along." Such is the naked essence of environmentalism: It mourns the death of one whale or tree but actually welcomes the death of billions of people. A more malevolent, man-hating philosophy is unimaginable.

The guiding principle of environmentalism is self-sacrifice, the sacrifice of longer lives, healthier lives, more prosperous lives, more enjoyable lives, i.e., the sacrifice of human lives. But an individual is not born in servitude. He has a moral right to live his own life for his own sake. He has no duty to sacrifice it to the needs of others and certainly not to the "needs" of the nonhuman.

To save mankind from environmentalism, what's needed is not the appeasing, compromising approach of those who urge a "balance" between the needs of man and the "needs" of the environment. To save mankind requires the wholesale rejection of environmentalism as hatred of science, technology, progress and human life. To save mankind requires the return to a philosophy of reason and individualism, a philosophy that makes life on earth possible.

One day, we'll get what's coming to us

HIP TO BE SQUARE

BY CAROLINE BODKIN

Yesterday morning I arrived peacefully at my computer, post-yoga class, coffee steaming at my side and ready to take advantage of a day set aside for writing — no work, no friends, no obligations.

Of course, before I could settle down, I had to check my e-mail: New York Times online, my horoscope, two e-mails from college girlfriends, a funny forward from my dad, and then ...

There, crouching at the bottom of my inbox like a heartless sniper, waiting in the bush to pummel my dreams, was a brief note from my ex-writing partner, Liza:

"Caroline — Just so you know, I'm no longer subleasing my apartment this summer. I've landed a job on a comedy pilot and will be staying in town. Are you around this weekend? Let's hang. Xoxo — Liza."

My response was three-part, each quickly following the other and all within about 10 seconds. First, stinging jealousy. Then, guilt about the jealousy. Finally, a deep breath of, "I'm so happy for her."

This is a normal response, no? Minor jealousy overruled by rational good will.

Still, the news stings — not just because only days ago I learned my weekly column will be canceled for next year, not because I don't like Liza. It's not because I don't think she's talented or hasn't worked hard. It's just because I wish, if it has anything to do with luck, I'd get some too.

So we made a date for coffee right away because, I said, I wanted to hear all about it. I knew the details would be lemon in the sting, but emotion No. 3 prevailed. I really was happy for her. Still am.

Starbucks was packed, but we found a spot on the cushy couch under the window and nestled in with our lattes.

"So," I said, wasting no time — I've always been one to rip off a Band-Aid. "Tell me about the new gig."

And she did. And it was exciting and though it wasn't the huge break we all dream of, it was a big step in the right direction. It was fantastic. She told me about the show, the show runner, the characters, how it came to be, who's in it and smiled optimistically at the idea that it could actually be picked up and become a regular, running, even successful show.

The thing is, I enjoyed listening to the good things in her life. And the more questions I asked, I realized, the happier I was for her and the less stung I felt.

When she'd said all there was to say, she asked about me.

So I switched gears and then told her all about my life since I'd last seen her. I was happy with the boyfriend, feeling good about a new project, my column was canceled, but when a door closes a window opens, etc., doing a lot of yoga ...

And then — at some point while I was speaking, I looked up at her and I witnessed as it happened, very clearly, in her face the familiar three-part response. Jealousy, guilt over jealousy, then "happy for her."

I don't know what part of my recap gave her the jealousy-to-good-will response. I'd feel strange even guessing. But my original, self-centered view shocked me and what I realized, as I saw her settle into the "I'm happy for her stage," and when she said, "That's really great," is this: Just because this one thing is really great for her doesn't mean everything has suddenly become really great. And just because one thing is hard for me doesn't mean everything is hard.

Maybe the thing that's good for me is hard for her.

Our lives are made up of many parts, and they all take different amounts of time and energy to develop.

If a good, full life comprises many things — family, work, love, friendships, spirituality, exploration, etc. — then all parts, being different, will not grow at the same rate. It's a staggered growth.

Our lives look like the grouping of many little blades of grass, each different heights, pushing upwards.

Maybe one blade gets more nutrients for a while and it shoots up quickly, but then it's left unattended while another gets its turn.

Eventually, they all see the sun. But only eventually.

***

Outside Starbucks, we hugged tightly, saying, "It's good to see you."

And as we parted company, we each walked away thinking, "It's OK, it'll be my turn someday."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

- What project is currently "on the table?"
- Why can't the existing mall simply be "refreshed" without adding more density?
- What is the city's total financial contribution to the project, given an expected city contribution of extremely valuable, city-owned land?
- What required agreements have been reached with the two department store tenants which have fee interests or long-term leases?
- What impacts will there be on traffic, congestion, noise, air pollution and open space?

Given this objectionable beginning, we residents of Santa Monica insist upon a meaningful and extensive public process preceded by a development proposal for Santa Monica Place that clearly shows the height and density of the proposed buildings, that is based upon reasonable and responsible planning practices, and that includes a comprehensive environmental report that accurately assesses the impacts of traffic, congestion, noise, water runoff, light and open space, during and after construction.

The city and Macerich must hold meaningful public meetings designed to encourage wide-ranging discussion and public comment, and to accommodate the community vision in response to the real project. All of the questions that were and will be raised must be answered, particularly what tangible benefits would our community accept, disregarding of applicable zoning, and the conversion of a shopping center into an extensive real estate development?

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

"Know before you go" is a weekly update on construction projects throughout Santa Monica.

Beach pedestrian access

Due to the recent rains and the saturated conditions of the bluffs, the Montana and Idaho avenue stairs are closed between Palisades Park and PCH. The closure is expected to last until early summer. A final geotech evaluation will be made at that time.

Civic Center parking structure

Construction of a new 900-space Civic Center public parking structure located on Fourth Street, next to the Public Safety Facility has begun. Parts of levels one and two along the north and east elevations of the building will be dedicated for retail/office use. Construction will require the closure of Avenida Mazatlan, and portions of the west side Fourth Street sidewalk. Utility crews will continue working on Fourth Street and Civic Center Drive, resulting in detours on Fourth Street while work is occurring.

Franklin Reservoir roof-strengthening project

This project involves the strengthening of the Franklin Reservoir roof. During the course of this project, Franklin Street will be closed to both vehicles and pedestrians between Lipton and Montana.

Gas main replacement

Southern California Gas Co. is replacing a 4-inch gas main on Maple Street between 14th Street and Euclid. There will be detours around work areas.

Main Library

Construction is underway on the new main library, located at 601 Santa Monica Blvd. During construction, visit the temporary library at 1324 Fifth St. or any of the branch libraries. There is currently no sidewalk access on Santa Monica Boulevard, Sixth Street and Seventh Street adjacent to the project.

Memorial and Los Amigos Park building replacement

Demolition of existing park buildings and construction of new restrooms, concession stands and storage buildings. Access to Los Amigos Park bleacher areas and baseball field has been restored. Pedestrian and disabled access through Memorial Park has been restored. Park buildings are still under construction and inaccessible to the public. Memorial Park is located at Olympic Boulevard and 14th Street, and Los Amigos Park is located at Fifth Street and Hollister Avenue.

Memorial Park skate park

Construction of a new skate park facility at Memorial Park, located at Olympic Boulevard and 14th Street, is underway. During construction there will not be access to the previous site of children's playground, which has been relocated northerly within the park.

Street and park lighting project

Work has begun on upgrading street lighting with new fixtures and circuits. Construction for the project occurs in the sidewalk area and may impact pedestrians. Parking restrictions also will be in place immediately adjacent to the work areas. The work is currently occurring on Ocean Avenue between Colorado Boulevard and Montana Avenue and on Colorado between Ocean Avenue and Sixth Street. There will be lane closures, turning restrictions and detours around the work area.

Virginia Avenue Park

Major renovations at the park, located at the corner of Pico and Cloverfield boulevards, are expected to continue through fall 2005. The park is closed. The project also includes construction of new turning lanes, traffic signals, striping, and irrigation and landscaping on Cloverfield and Pico boulevards adjacent to the park.

Water main construction

Centinela Ave. City water crews will be working on the water main in Centinela Avenue from Wilshire Boulevard to Lipton Avenue. There will be detours around the work area.

Klein and his immediate family were all born at St. John's: both parents, his wife and his son. Klein and his wife in late May are expecting their second child, who, of course, will be delivered at St. John's.

A true Westsider, Klein was raised in Pacific Palisades. After college, Klein spent seven years in Brentwood before settling in Santa Monica for the past four years.

Klein comes from an athletic ilk: His father played for the L.A. Rams.

"It was really neat as a grammar-school kid to have football cards with your dad's face on it," said Klein, who received a full-ride football scholarship to Stanford. He played for Stanford for two years, before he was injured and had the first of what would become seven knee surgeries, curtailing his sports career. His sister also went to Stanford on an athletic scholarship, for volleyball. She played in the Olympics in 1996 and was a four-time All-American at Stanford and later married an NBA player. Klein's brother also went to Stanford on a volleyball scholarship.

Klein is active in a variety of philanthropies. He serves on the board of the Buck Cardinal athletic scholarship at Stanford, and he is an active alum on the investment committee of Loyola High School in south central L.A. Klein served as chair of the Cahalan awards dinner, where Loyola High honors its distinguished alumni. Last September Klein flew in to Washington D.C. to meet the mayor, Anthony Williams — the 2004 honored alum of Loyola High.

This past weekend Klein was busy volunteering at the Jimmy Stewart Relay Marathon, which draws 10,000 runners and spectators. All proceeds from the event went to St. John's — since 1982, $8.5 million have been raised.

During the day, Klein is a private wealth advisor and first vice president of investments in the Merrill Lynch private banking and investment group in Century City. He took time out from his work day to chat with the Daily Press in the St. John's foundation office.

How long have you been involved with St. John's?

"Really the real involvement started with Next Generation, which — call it 16 or 18 months. But even before my parents — my grandparents were not born here, but received most of their medical care here as well. And so I've really gotten involved since the birth of the Next Generation group, which I chair."

What makes St. John's important to you?

"It's having such a great history of medical care here, my father also works here in the foundation. And so I've had more opportunity than most to be exposed to the events and to the people that make up St. John's. We have a large number of friends here now that are giving birth to children ... most everyone that comes through here comments on what a special place it is, and it's great that there's a new wing, and the birthing suites are really nice, people comment on that — but actually people spend more time talking about the nurses and the quality of the people that are caring for them, and I think that's a distinguishing factor of St. John's.

Why do most people get involved?

"Everyone on the board has had some tie to St. John's — they were born here, their parents were born here, they had their children here, and it really was started out with a core group of about five of us, and it wasn't too difficult to reach out and seek people that wanted to give their time and be involved. And it's grown to about 22 people."

What was the impetus for NexGen?

"The rationale or reason behind this group was the average person has a void from where they're born, obviously, hopefully if they're married they have kids, maybe after their kids are born, there's a period of time somewhere in their 30s to maybe their 50s where they don't really have a need to have a relationship with the hospital because they're in good health. And so there's a group of young professionals in their 30s to 50s who've come together to recognize that St. John's has played a valuable role in their lives, their families lives, and frankly the community's lives. And our mission is to help fill that void in the time where we hopefully wouldn't have reason to be here, and we come together to help support the efforts of the foundation and really help ensure that the St. John's that we know today, the center that provides top-notch health care, it will be there for us and for others in the future."

How many members of NexGen are there?

We are, on the steering committee, roughly 20 and, again, we're still in our infancy, but we're participating — we're not looking to recreate the wheel so to speak — so we have roughly two events a year that we put our own name on. The next such event is coming next month, we're having a wine tasting party in the Palisades at my sister and brother-in-law's house. But tomorrow and Sunday we are volunteering, we are volunteering tomorrow and participating Sunday in the Jimmy Stewart Relay Marathon. And so we'll have somewhere about 50 people, 50 to 100 actual active people that we've invited, and we've also sponsored a number of teams to run and race in the marathon on Sunday. I've sponsored a team in my office."

Are there physicians in NexGen?

"As NexGen evolves, one initiative we've taken in recent months was including physicians as members. So it's a good opportunity for all of us, we're all in different professions, but we're adding on the physicians, and one of the benefits we have as NexGen members is relationships with the hospital, relationships with the people that are working in the hospitals, so that if we walk in the door with some sort of emergency they will hopefully know us, as opposed to just another face off the street."

What do NexGen members do when they meet?

"It's essentially the board getting together and talking about what is it that we've done, where are we going, who are new interested members. We've essentially split ourselves into some sub-committees and a membership committee, special-events committee, and we talk about basically how we're doing and do we have any more ideas for the future. So we'll get together on Tuesday and talk about how the marathon went, but also focus on the upcoming wine-tasting reception, we're expecting about 100 people to that, so we're figuring out who those people are and making sure they receive the invitation and what not.

How does the group interact with the board of trustees?

"One thing I'd also like to mention that I neglected was the board of trustees has extended an offer to the board of NexGen to sit on their committees as ad hoc members. So we're in the process of selecting certain members of NexGen to actually go and participate as a full participating member on the finance committee ... and things of that nature. So that was something that will be a great experience for us all and also add to the allure of being part of NexGen.

"Over time, as part of a member of NexGen, if you were to spend 10 years, and ... sit on pretty much any and every committee, and by the end of that you're going to be pretty far ahead of even most of the current trustees."

How long do you plan to chair?

"That's a little bit undefined. I would say it's a couple years. Part of what we like to do is allow people who have the desire to have the opportunity to serve in whichever capacity they wish. There are some very motivated and qualified people that I think would like to be chair too. So I envision myself serving in this role for a couple years and then letting someone else take the reins so to speak. But it's very much of a democracy; this isn't at all a dictatorship or monarchy by any stretch."

What's the future of NexGen?

"I think that we have the framework now to move forward, and our goal is really to create or grow in membership of the NexGen at large. And frankly it's open to anyone and everyone who have an interest in being involved with St. John's. So it's really not a club or anything of that nature. We're looking for anyone and everyone who'd like to come and participate. Our motto really is for events that anyone is welcome to come, meet everybody, and kind of get a firsthand look at who we are and what we're doing. And if people come to a second event, we'll go and ask them if they want to become a full member of the NexGen. There is currently a $250 membership fee ... There is an open invitation to join NexGen."

What's your favorite thing about Santa Monica?

"I love Ocean Avenue ... one of the things my wife and I really became attached to is walking up and down Ocean Avenue and Montana. I think it's being close to the ocean and being outdoors. And it's a good mix of a nice neighborhood to raise a family, but also has a lot to offer in terms of restaurants and what's left of my night life."

What's the most critical issue in Santa Monica?

"I'm a pretty 'glass is half-full' kind of guy. I'm not a big complainer. If there was one thing that would be nice — and I don't know the answer — but it would be nice to figure out the homeless problem in this city. That would be something that would be nice to address and figure it out."

Are you curious about how they meditated in the middle ages? Come find out at the labyrinth walk at First United Methodist Church of Santa Monica this Sunday, April 24.

The labyrinth is an ancient meditation tool used for centering and prayer. The one at First United is a 30' x 30' canvas with the labyrinth design painted on it — a replica of the one laid in the floor of the Chartres Cathedral in the middle ages.

All are invited to participate, but bring white socks to protect the labyrinth's surface. Shoe covers are provided for those who prefer not to remove their shoes.

The labyrinth can be experienced from 10:30 a.m. to noon., with the last entry at 11:15 a.m., and from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., with the last entry at 3:45 p.m.

First United Methodist is located at 1008 11th St., between Washington and California avenues.

Students' work recognized through new council

By Daily Press staff

Local students have found liberty and justice through art. Thirty Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District students, ranging from fourth grade through high school, were recognized at the debut event of the newly organized Human Relations Council—Santa Monica Bay Area (HRC SMBA) last week.

The 45th annual celebration, held at First Presbyterian Church in Santa Monica, honored students whose works of either literature or art were created in response to the theme "For All — Liberty and Justice in a Diverse Community."

A committee at each school reviewed the submissions, which have been created since January.

School advocates seek reforms in policy, budget

In order to raise California to a higher educational level, panelists offered an array of suggestions. They emphasized the need for continued activism among citizens to pressure the state to develop a long-term reform policy, educational plan and budget. This would require the state to re-evaluate current student achievement measures, class sizes and financial sources.

Panelists also suggested the state school system should be decentralized so local districts can respond more easily to their own needs. They said classes need to be reinvigorated to increase critical thinking and student retention, and that classes needed to be provided to help people better understand the democratic process and how society works.

Santa Monica-based Community for Excellent Public Schools, a nonprofit educational advocacy group, will be taking part in "Caravan for Kids," a local and state rally to be held on April 27 and 28 to continue mustering support for state public education.

"I want the Governor to be inundated with letters," said Sen. Kuehl.

For more information on the rallies, visit www.caravanforkids.org.

PCH closed while SMFD extricates man who fell down face of Palisades Bluffs

ground. The victim's head was resting in the dirt when rescue workers from the Santa Monica Fire Department found him, said SMFD Battalion Chief Carl Bjerke.

"He was conscious and breathing and talking to us during the rescue," Bjerke said.

The victim was complaining of pain in his abdomen. It appeared he had a fractured arm and was suffering from internal bleeding, Bjerke said.

The area where the man fell — between the 200 and 300 blocks of Ocean Avenue — is at the north end of Palisades Park.

The bluffs on the north end extend about 300 feet to the Pacific Coast Highway and are steep with thick brush. However, the terrain where the victim landed was in a flat, clear area.

"That tree is really the only landmark in the area," Bjerke said.

SMFD personnel used about 275 feet of rope during the operation. An aerial ladder from a truck parked on the PCH was used to reach the victim. Firefighters descended from the top and loaded the man into a basket, which was then carried by other rescuers down the ladder to the truck, Bjerke said. Eighteen firefighters responded to the scene.

Police closed down one northbound lane of the PCH during the hour-long rescue. The victim, who lost consciousness during the rescue, was then transported by ambulance to the hospital, where he died shortly after, Bjerke said.

The victim is about 23 and from Los Angeles, Fabrega said.

Skater Nancy Kerrigan gives birth to son

By The Associated Press

BOSTON — There's a new addition to Olympic medal-winning figure skater Nancy Kerrigan's family.

Kerrigan gave birth to a son, Brian, on Thursday in a Boston-area hospital, according to her publicist. Brian weighed 7 pounds, 9 ounces and measured 21 inches at birth.

"It is the most rewarding thing in my life, so I could not be happier to be adding to the family," said Kerrigan, 35. "It has not been an easy road but the hard things are often the best things. We are looking forward to a lot of excitement."

Kerrigan lives in Lynnfield with husband Jerry Solomon and Brian's brother Matthew, 8, and half-brother Clay, 16.

HOUSTON — With an assault weapon in each hand, rocker and gun rights advocate Ted Nugent urged National Rifle Association members to be "hardcore, radical extremists demanding the right to self defense."

Speaking at the NRA's annual convention Saturday, Nugent said each NRA member should try to enroll 10 new members over the next year and associate only with other members.

"Let's next year sit here and say, 'Holy smokes, the NRA has 40 million members now,'" he said. "No one is allowed at our barbecues unless they are an NRA member. Do that in your life."

Nugent sang and played a guitar painted with red and white stripes for the crowd at Houston's downtown convention center.

He drew the most cheers when he told gun owners they should never give up their right to bear arms and should use their guns to protect themselves if needed.

"Remember the Alamo! Shoot 'em!" he screamed to applause. "To show you how radical I am, I want car-jackers dead. I want rapists dead. I want burglars dead. I want child molesters dead. I want the bad guys dead. No court case. No parole. No early release. I want 'em dead. Get a gun and when they attack you, shoot 'em."

LOS ANGELES — "Sideways" co-star Sandra Oh has filed for divorce from husband Alexander Payne, who directed and co-wrote the film.

Oh, 34, filed a petition for divorce Friday in Los Angeles Superior Court and asked for spousal support. She and Payne, 44, were married in January 2003 and have no children, court records said.

The couple met five years ago and announced their separation last month.

Payne won an Oscar for the screenplay of "Sideways," about two friends' wine-tasting trip through Santa Barbara County vineyards. He also directed "Election," "About Schmidt" and "Citizen Ruth."

Oh stars in ABC's television series "Grey's Anatomy."

LOS ANGELES — Keith Carradine as George W. Bush?

Carradine, who appeared in such cult Robert Altman films as "Nashville" and "Thieves Like Us" as well as on Broadway in "The Will Rogers Follies," will portray the president in the American premiere of David Hare's play about the lead-up to the American invasion of Iraq in 2003.

The drama, which will open June 5 at the Mark Taper Forum, also stars Julian Sands as British Prime Minister Tony Blair. Preview performances begin May 25.

"Stuff Happens" has its world premiere last

September at London's National Theatre, where it opened to positive reviews. The American production, directed by Gordon Davidson, will also feature Dakin Matthews as Vice President Dick Cheney, John Michael Higgins as Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld, Tyrees Allen as former Secretary of State Colin Powell and Lorraine Toussaint as Condoleezza Rice.

Hare, who based the play on public documents as well as his own imagination, has written such dramas as "Plenty," "Racing Demon," "The Blue Room," "Amy's View" and "The Judas Kiss."

The title comes from a comment made in April 2003 by Rumsfeld in response to looting in Baghdad: "Stuff happens ... and it's untidy, and free people are free to make mistakes and commit crimes and do bad things."

WEST POINT, N.Y. — Rhode Island Sen. Jack Reed married Julia Hart in a ceremony at the United States Military Academy, the senator's alma mater.

The 55-year-old Democrat, a former Army Ranger, wed 39-year-old Hart on Saturday in a ceremony officiated by the Rev. Raymond Malm of St. Michael's Church in Providence, R.I.

Reed met Hart on a trip to Afghanistan in 2002 — she is a coordinator in the office that handles the Senate's international travel and other contact with foreign governments.

They didn't begin dating until the next year after a chance meeting in Rhode Island, where Hart was visiting family.

They were engaged Nov. 24, 2004, during a visit to New York City. It was the first marriage for both.

The couple was not planning an immediate honeymoon trip. Reed was expected back at work in the Senate in the coming week.

SPECIAL REPORT

ARE YOU READY FOR THE BIG ONE? APRIL IS EARTHQUAKE PREPAREDNESS MONTH

BY FABIAN E. PADILLA
PRESIDENT, SAFE GAS SERVICES

CALIFORNIA— Fact: If you are reading this, you probably live in a Earthquake Hazard Zone.

Did you know:

- There are over 200 Earthquake Faults in So. California that are capable of a 6.0 magnitude or greater? Most people in So. California live within 30 miles of these faults. Are you ready for the big one?

- That the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) is now requiring communities in Southern California to prepare a Local Hazard Mitigation Plan? A Local Hazard Mitigation Plan is a new requirement from FEMA, which must be satisfied for jurisdiction to remain eligible for hazard mitigation funds and public assistance following disasters. Communities like Santa Monica have recently completed their mitigation plan and are requiring Earthquake Activated Gas Shut-off Valves as part of the plan.

- Los Angeles City Ordinance 174478 already mandates the installation of an activated gas shut-off valve on all new buildings built after 09-01-95. When pulling a building permit on work valued at $10,000 or more. Prior to entering an agreement for sale of residential or commercial property and prior to the close of escrow. Any alteration of your gas service or system will also require that you install one. Yes, if you repair your roof, add on, remodel, upgrade or change title to or sell property you must have an earthquake valve installed.

- The City of West Hollywood has also adopted a similar mandate. More and more cities are implementing the Earthquake Activated Gas Shut-off valve mandate. It is expected that soon the ordinance will become a statewide mandate, like water heater strapping and the installation of smoke detectors

- The last major earthquake in Southern California was the Northridge Quake in 1994. Experts say we are due for another major Quake.

Here are some facts from the 1994 Northridge Quake:

- Over $42 billion in property damage
- Over 20,000 left homeless
- 50 gas reported fires
- FEMA processed over 400,000 claims for water heater damage and over 700,000 claims for gas appliances

Why wait? Protect yourself now! Installing an earthquake valve saves lives, property, prevent gas fires and explosions caused by an earthquake.
