Local news outlets to host Supervisor Forum on May 19

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

This Thursday, four local news outlets will come together to educate readers about candidates looking to fill the Third Supervisorial District seat.

Five LA County Supervisors are responsible for a $38.5 billion budget, which includes line items for mental health, foster care, LA Metro Rail, the Board of Education and the Sheriff's Department, among others.

The Board of Supervisors acts as a city council of sorts for 125 unincorporated areas in Los Angeles, including Marina del Rey, Cornell, Malibu Canyon and Calabasas but it has some authority over incorporated areas such as the power to appoint the directors of the LA County Public Health Department whose rules govern Santa Monica.

LA County's Third Supervisorial District – long considered a progressive bastion among the county's five – has been redrawn. The new borders contain Santa Monica and neighboring areas like West LA, the lower San Fernando Valley, Malibu and West Hollywood. The new district will lose certain

Parklet program extended through summer

EMILY SAWICKI

Like eating dinner outside on Main Street? Enjoy taking a fitness class on the beach? These programs aren't going anywhere — at least not yet.

Last Tuesday, May 10, City Council voted unanimously, 5-0, to allow the current outdoor "parklet" program, which includes dining, retail and gyms, plus other outdoor uses such as fitness classes in parks, to continue to operate fee-free for another summer.

The current extension — which runs through Sept. 30, 2022 — grants city staff time to formulate a potential fee structure and new regulations for parklets, which currently operate without much City oversight.

"We really do appreciate the city's flexibility and speed in

Student art on display

EMILY SAWICKI
SMDP Staff Writer

A glossy stack of ceramic pancakes. A vibrant goldfish on a large canvas. A color photo of two young skaters reflected in a side-view mirror.

Samohi artists have been refining their images of the world throughout the pandemic, but Thursday evening was the first time many of them were able to put their hard work on display.

Joined by friends, parents and school community members, Samohi's Roberts Art Gallery (in its new home, the former textbook room) bustled with activity around dozens of pieces of art including ceramics, photography, drawings, acrylic paintings, textiles and more.

"To be able to show your art to people in person is a remarkable event," 12th grade painter Meira Tuller later shared in an email with the Daily Press. "It is one thing to see a piece digitally, yet you can't exactly reach it with your full vision as you can see it right in front of your face. I am extremely grateful for this opportunity that I could partake in, and hope in the future to have more art shows at the University I plan to attend."

Photography teacher and art department chair Martin Ledrum estimated a couple hundred people attended the gallery opening on Thursday, May 12, to show support for the young artists and see the work they created during the school year. The celebratory in-person show left an impression on the young creators, many of whom hadn't been able to show their pieces in person for more than two years — if ever.

Junior Alyssa Cirelli, a photographer, said she has spent the past year navigating a new digital medium in her AP art class. Both she and another junior, Colette Zighelboim, said it had been a year of creative growth.

"I've mainly been focusing on developing my technical skills but now I'm trying to stylize my work and express myself artistically, which I think I've started to do, as with works like those at the art show with which I hope to demonstrate growth," Cirelli wrote in a message to the Daily Press following the opening.

"It's a stark difference from being online — that's for sure," Zighelboim said of the gallery show. She later added that she really appreciated being able to push herself individually over the course of the last school year, while also enjoying a collaborative atmosphere in her art classes.

"I think that, as artists, it's important to encourage each other and to make each other feel supported and appreciated," Zighelboim said. "It is not a competitive environment — it's a loving and supportive one. And I think that is really crucial to having these shows, to have that element to it."

Other students agreed.

"Art is super interactive, so to experience this art show in person and watch people connect to different pieces was so ethereal," 12th grade painter and printer River Weill shared. "Like, 'Ahh you want to look at my work!' A lot of my friends are in the art program and it was nice to see them getting attention for their work as well."

Cirelli described the transition back to in-person events as a "bumpy ride," but said being able to experience things like the gallery opening after being apart for so long made her "value those moments all the more."

The two-hour opening also featured refreshments furnished by ceramics teacher (and track coach) Tania Fischer, who said that as a teacher it was really gratifying to see her students get excited about showing their sculptures.

Students were also happy to share their work, not only with fellow students but their teachers as well.

"It was really special to have an in person opening instead of a digital art event. It was nice to actually interact with the people who had work up and ask them questions," Matthew Alas, a 12th grade photographer, said in a message to the Daily Press following the show. "Art always looks good when it's physical and right in front of you. It was also refreshing to see old art teachers I had in the past who taught me a lot and very nice to show them the work I'm doing right now."

Alas was also able to share the afternoon with his older brother, who had also been an art student at Samohi, and with older family friends.

"It was definitely a full circle moment because when they were in high school I used to go to their art shows and it was very special to have them see something I made," Alas shared. "It was also crazy because the school in general has changed so much since they graduated and they were eager to check everything out like the new building."

Artwork will be on display at the new Roberts Art Gallery on the Samohi campus through the end of May.

Blood donations needed ahead of summer

When schools let out for summer and families set off on vacation, the American Red Cross typically sees a decline in donors, which can impact patient care. It's critically important that donors make an appointment to give now before heading out for summer activities to help maintain a stable blood supply in the coming months.

Unfortunately, the need for blood doesn't take a summer break. Volunteer donors are the only source of blood and platelets for patients with blood disorders, trauma victims and those experiencing difficult childbirths.

In thanks for helping boost the blood supply, all who come to give through May 19, 2022, will receive a $10 e-gift card to a merchant of choice and will also be automatically entered to win a travel trailer camper that sleeps eight. Details are available at rcblood.org/camper. Those who come to give May 20-31 will receive an exclusive 20-ounce Red Cross aluminum water bottle and customizable sticker set, while supplies last.

Donors can help save a life in just an hour. To schedule an appointment to donate blood, platelets or plasma, download the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

The Red Cross is testing all donations for COVID-19 antibodies for a limited time. Results may indicate if the donor's immune system has produced antibodies to this coronavirus after vaccination or past exposure, regardless of whether they developed symptoms.

Plasma from routine blood, platelet and plasma donations that have high levels of COVID-19 antibodies may be used as convalescent plasma to meet potential future needs of COVID-19 patients with a weakened immune system.

The Red Cross is not testing donors to diagnose infection, referred to as a diagnostic test. To protect the health and safety of Red Cross staff and donors, it is important that individuals who have been asked to quarantine or believe they may be ill with COVID-19 postpone donation until they are symptom free for 10 days and feeling well and healthy.

At a time when health information has never been more important, the Red Cross is screening all blood, platelet and plasma donations from self-identified African American donors for the sickle cell trait. This additional screening will provide Black donors with an additional health insight and help the Red Cross identify compatible blood types more quickly to help patients with sickle cell disease. Blood transfusion is an essential treatment for those with sickle cell disease, and blood donations from individuals of the same race, ethnicity and blood type have a unique ability to help patients fighting sickle cell disease.

Donors can expect to receive antibody testing results and sickle cell trait screening results, if applicable, within one to two weeks through the Red Cross Blood Donor App and the online donor portal at RedCrossBlood.org.

The Red Cross follows a high standard of safety and infection control. The Red cross will continue to socially distance wherever possible at blood drives, donation centers and facilities. While donors are no longer required to wear a face mask, individuals may choose to continue to wear a mask for any reason. The Red Cross will also adhere to more stringent face mask requirements per state and/or local guidance, or at the request of blood drive sponsors. Donors are asked to schedule an appointment prior to arriving at a drive.

Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org, call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or enable the Blood Donor Skill on any Alexa Echo device to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood and platelet donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass® to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, before arriving at the blood drive. To get started, follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

SMC to Stage Treasure Island Performances at Main Stage May 20-29

The Santa Monica College Theatre Arts Department is pleased to present Treasure Island May 20-29 in the Theatre Arts Main Stage on the main SMC campus, 1900 Pico Blvd., Santa Monica.

Written and adapted by Alex Bryant from the novel by Robert Louis Stevenson, the high-energy adventure centers on Hawk, a courageous young protagonist who has been gifted with a mysterious map. In the play — a game quest of exploration and piracy — all must journey to a magical island and battle with unsavory characters. The SMC production is directed by Terrin Adair-Lynch.

Show times are 7:30 p.m. on Friday, May 20 and May 27, and Saturday, May 21 and May 28. Matinees are at 2 p.m. on Sunday, May 22 and May 29.

Advance (pre-sale) tickets range from $12 to $15 ($10 for SMC students and staff), plus a modest service charge, and can be purchased online at smc.edu/tickets at any time, or by calling 310-434-4319 Monday through Friday. Tickets purchased on performance weekends at the Events Box Office (at the Theatre Arts building) are $3 higher. Parking is free.

Guests should visit smc.edu/coronavirus before heading to the performance for up-to-date details on vaccine and mask requirements, as the requirements are subject to change.

areas like Los Feliz and parts of Hollywood. It will now also contain some of the area's more conservative neighborhoods in the north San Fernando Valley like Chatsworth, Porter Ranch and Granada Hills.

The District is considered one of the most powerful seats in California. With nearly two million residents, the Third District has a population larger than 14 states and Washington DC. The territory extends to the western boundary of both Los Angeles City and Los Angeles County.

Current Supervisor Sheila Kuehl, one of five LA County supervisors, is termed out this year, having served three consecutive four-year terms. Candidates looking to fill her seat will find themselves in the middle of some of the most substantial and controversial (and intertwined) problems facing the County, including homelessness, mental illness, public safety and the closure of the Men's Central Jail.

During Kuehl's time in office, she helped create a Sheriff's Oversight Commission and oversight of the Probation Department. Kuehl also helped support the creation of the Office of Child Protection and was instrumental in increasing the minimum wage.

The race to fill the seat of Kuehl comes down to six candidates: State Senator Henry Stern, State Senator Robert Hertzberg, West Hollywood City Councilmember Lindsey Horvath, Craig Brill, Jeffi Girgenti and Roxanne Beckford Hoge.

You can learn more about the candidates and their positions on the issues important to the district at a combined online candidate forum on Thursday, May 19.

The Acorn, Circling the News, the Santa Monica Daily Press and the Westside Current will be co-hosting the forum. The public can participate online and are asked to register in advance at https://www.eventbrite.com/e/supervisor-3-candidate-virtual-forum-tickets-337496189187) to secure your (virtual) spot. The event will be May 19 from 7 - 8:30 p.m.

CANDIDATES INCLUDE:

Craig A. Brill (Independent): Retail sales professional and small business owner from the Beverly Grove neighborhood. He decided to run for office after a neighbor was stabbed to death by a mentally ill homeless man and lists enhanced enforcement. He is critical of establishment politics, supports the current Sheriff and wants to increase mental health services as part of a plan to end homelessness.

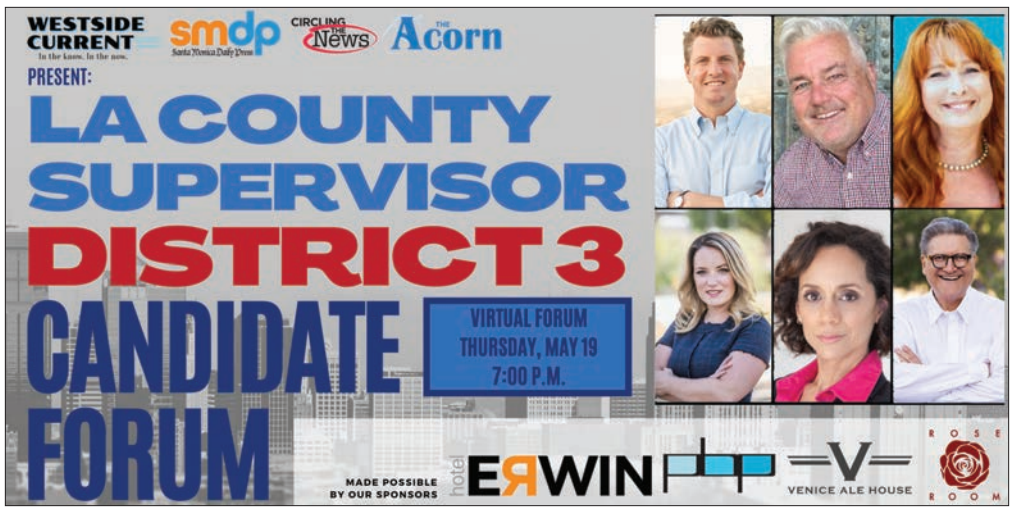

Jeffi Girgenti (Republican): A salon owner from Woodland Hills, she is an avid equestrian and said she supports the rights of individuals to maintain that lifestyle and protect property rights. She is an outspoken opponent of all vaccine and mask mandates.

Robert Hertzberg (Democrat): A longtime politician representing the San Fernando Valley who was first elected to the California State Assembly in 1996 and served two years as speaker. He currently serves in the State Senate and touts his work in education, healthcare, public safety, housing and the environment as major achievements. Outside government, he has worked in the clean energy field.

Roxanne Beckford Hoge (Republican): A Jamaican born former actress with a line of maternity clothing. She adamantly opposed many of the education-related Covid protocols and criticized vaccine/mask mandates. She supports the current Sheriff and has said medical freedom / public safety are her top priorities.

Lindsey Horvath (Democrat): An entertainment/marketing/advertising executive and Councilwoman from West Hollywood who has been endorsed by the Los Angeles Times and outgoing Supervisor Kuehl. She lists combating homelessness, increasing affordable housing, fighting climate change, improving regional transportation, public safety and economic recovery as her top priorities.

Henry Stern (Democrat): Stern is a state senator representing people in the San Fernando Valley, the Conejo Valley, the Santa Monica Mountains, Topanga, and Malibu. He references state gun control legislation and efforts to guarantee mental health and drug treatment services alongside housing as successes in Sacramento.

implementing this program, and we further appreciate the city's willingness to make it permanent, because that's clearly what the vast majority of businesses and people want," Hunter Hall, president of the Main Street Business Owners Association, said following the vote to extend the program.

Hall helped spearhead an earlier version of the current parklet program, which was first piloted years before the pandemic. It was because of this early experiment with al fresco street-side dining, Hall said, that the City was so nimble in its introduction of the current parklet plan.

"When COVID hit, we were already kind of refining what a parklet program would look like street-wide," Hall described. "And that's why we were able to successfully lobby for it and get it approved and paid for by the City so quickly. Because it was literally on the shelf. We just dusted it off … a little bit."

Speaking during the council meeting, City of Santa Monica Economic Development Manager Jennifer Taylor said the extension would provide "critical and continued support" to small businesses.

"We're on the road to economic recovery, but it's still — it's a slow road for many of our small businesses who are still struggling to pay deferred rents, and so this would be a much needed relief effort to help support them," Taylor told council.

Extending the current program is also designed to help ease the transition into a new parklet program that is still in the works but will most likely include monthly fees, and other regulations.

DINING: Council has extended fee waivers for businesses using the street as part of a Covid recovery package.

Hall said he was not sure what the new program may look like, but predicted "adjustments to the spacing and perhaps size and construction of some of the parklets," especially in relations to crosswalks and red curbs. In prior conversations, Taylor also said new rules would likely regulate parklets to better ensure safety.

Staff was planning to come back to council in June with a proposal for how to shape the future of the parklet program moving forward.

City council did not discuss the extension prior to their vote, but Councilmember Oscar de la Torre weighed in, saying it was difficult to imagine going back to a time before the parklet program was in place. De la Torre said he recently dined at Gilberts El Indio in the Pico neighborhood.

"It's just kind of hard to imagine El Indio not having that option, that outdoor — I think if we work with businesses, they can turn that into something just a little bit nicer than just an older parking lot," de la Torre said, adding that the new emphasis on walkability and outdoor dining was "one of the few good things that COVID has given us."

When staff return before council with a proposal in June, it will include input from two simultaneous surveys of businesses and residents/visitors, who were asked to weigh in on the program's future. Results from those surveys were set to be available around late May, according to Taylor.

SMC Emeritus Annual Student Art Exhibition 2022 Online – Part 2 Opening Celebration May 26

The Santa Monica College (SMC) Emeritus Art Gallery is pleased to present its SMC Emeritus Annual Student Art Exhibition 2022 Online — Part 2 starting May 26. This year, the popular group exhibition attracted so many participants that it was divided into two parts. Part 2 will feature more than 80 works created by 42 student artists in SMC's noncredit Emeritus program for older adults. (A link to the online exhibition and reception video for Part 1, which opened April 21, can be found at smc.edu/emeritusgallery.)

A free, live Zoom Virtual Launch Event for Part 2 of the exhibition will be held online from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 26. A link atsmc.edu/emeritusgallery goes live at event time and takes guests directly to the exhibition's opening reception.

To see the Part 2 artworks online at any time after 5 p.m. on May 26, viewers may go to smc.edu/emeritusgallery and click the Emeritus Student Art Exhibition 2022 Part 2 link, available 24 hours a day. The link takes viewers directly to the exhibition album on a Facebook page that is open to public viewing (Facebook account not necessary).

The opening reception will be hosted by Dean of Noncredit and External Programs Dr. Scott Silverman and Emeritus Art Gallery Curator Jesse Benson, who will highlight and discuss a selection of individual artworks. Several of the exhibiting artists will also hold brief discussions about their work.

"The Emeritus art community is like a family," said Benson. "Every year we receive more enthusiasm and support for our annual exhibitions from the student body, as well as from our fantastic faculty and staff. The contributions continue to surprise and delight, and viewers tune in online from around the globe to share in the experience."

"I have always been impressed by the work of our Emeritus students," said Silverman. "The talent they bring to our program, and cultivate while they are here, proves to be really striking on the canvas."

SMC's widely praised Emeritus program — founded by Santa Monica College in 1975 as a noncredit program to serve the lifelong learning interests of older adults — offers more than 120 noncredit adult education classes and special programs that serve more than 3,000 students each year.

More information is available by visiting smc.edu/emeritusgallery or calling 310-434-4306.

REALTORS Invest in Community Educational Organizations

Members of the Malibu Association of REALTORS (MAR) make it a priority to continue their support of diverse local educational organizations. Education remains in the forefront of their generous annual giving.

A donation of $1,000 was given to the Topanga Enrichment Program (TEP) which supports educational opportunities to students at Topanga Elementary Charter School.

Donations such as these pay for additional teachers, classroom aides, PE program, computer equipment and materials, among other areas, that exceeds what LAUSD provides.

"The Topanga Elementary community is so grateful for support from the Malibu Association of Realtors. With this contribution, we are able to expand enrichments at our public school --including having a designated art teacher, PE classes, science enrichments, as well as computer tech classes for all students" said Treasurer Kathleen Beegle.

MAR also presented two $500 donations to the Boys and Girls Club Malibu (BGCM). The first was given to their general fund which assists with their STEM-based programs and activities to elementary students as well as Teen programs at Malibu High School.

The second $500 donation was made to their wellness program. These programs have been designed to provide engaging activities and mentoring services to children and teens, including services to underrepresented low-income families who commute to Malibu for work.

Each year MAR also donates a $1,000 scholarship to Malibu High School for a graduating senior who has demonstrated an interest in entrepreneurial activities. It is the desire of the Malibu Association of REALTORS to foster curiosity and creativity in the business world. The recipient of this donation is announced in May each year.

REALTORS are the leading professional organization to promote home ownership and property rights. Members of the Malibu Association of REALTORS take pride in promoting excellence in education and value the importance of helping build the communities in which they serve. .

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 16)

The influence of one loving person will make a beautiful difference in your days. Someone who wants only your happiness can actually help by merely sharing experiences with you. You will expand an area of expertise, and your income grows along with the territory. A purchase will be part of your legacy. Virgo and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 9, 15, 3, 38 and 19.

HOROSCOPES

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The Latin phrase "amor fati" -- "love of fate" -- describes how you're living. You'll not only accept what comes but you'll quickly find what's beautiful and favorable about it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). In most cases, perfectionism isn't realistic, necessary, useful or timely. You'll opt for a relaxed approach and move steadily, easily and imperfectly forward.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Communicate casually and often today. The action is moved with conversations that seem to be about nothing and yet reveal everything. You'll learn important news, intriguing facts and small but relevant details.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll benefit from adding new faces to your social swirl. A little competition for your attention can be a good thing. It keeps familiar people from taking you for granted.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Doodling is a form of meditation that could help you solve a problem today. Whether you believe you possess drawing talent is irrelevant to the helpfulness of what your brain reveals to you as you drag a pen across paper.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). When someone is asking for the truth, you will not let emotions get in the way of hearing or telling it. Often, people don't ask. They have their reasons. You'll be judicious with your communication.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). While it does feel safe and secure in an environment where everyone agrees with you, you'd rather be where you can grow. Disagreement is what helps you sharpen your skills and strengthen your case.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You'll learn the sum total of what's possible -- the good, the bad and the ugly. Despite everything you learn, you will not be jaded. The power of love makes it possible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Some questions feel like a hug. "How are you really?" "What can I help you with?" Other questions feel like an invasion, and you're justified in throwing up a polite defense and distancing yourself from the source.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). When you're a superhero, a lot of the gig is hiding your identity until it's time to shine. Blending in is the fun part. You'll enjoy it even more, as you now sense the action sequence is around the bend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Your mind is opening to new possibilities. Learning about the world helps you see that there is much more available to you than the choices most people around you are making.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Those who have power without a healthy sense of duty will ultimately be unseated from their position. Those who assume responsibility will eventually become more powerful.
