HOUSING: Santa Monica has funded several affordable housing projects.

Pico housing project receives $8M in City funding

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

The City of Santa Monica has approved $8.3 million in funding for a new affordable housing development at 14th and Michigan by developer EAH Housing.

Total costs for the project are estimated at $29.5 million and the money recently approved by City Hall is for land acquisition, closing and predevelopment costs. An additional round of city funding is expected once permits for the project are in process with a total projected contribution of about $14.8 million.

EAH submitted a Housing Trust Fund application to the City of Santa Monica earlier this year for a proposed supportive affordable housing development of approximately 41 studio residences targeted to very low-income persons experiencing homelessness. The project will include one two-bedroom on-site manager's residence.

Santa Monica provides "gap financing" through the Housing Trust Fund. Affordable housing developers must first exhaust other financing options before approaching the city for the remainder of the costs.

While affordable housing projects do take on small traditional loans from banks, the majority of their funding comes from other sources

SMC's Swimming Season Ends with a Splash

MARTHA RAMIREZ
SMC/Daily Press Staff Writer

In spite of injuries, Santa Monica College (SMC) men's swimming and diving team placed seventh at the State Championships this month at De Anza College in Cupertino.

The Corsairs won second place in the 400-medley relay, and third in the 200-medley relay. All five freestyles were All-American. Oliver Kabilka won third place in the 100-meter butterfly. Colin Casey won second place in the 100-meter butterfly and first place in the 200-meter butterfly.

"That's his [Casey's] best event...He's been really close to winning a state championship and he finally does in his last event. So the 200-butterfly, he finally pulled it off," said Head Coach Brian Eskridge. "Had an amazing swim. And, you know, got his state championship that we've been waiting for for two years."

Matt Holt, who was the top-seeded swimmer in the mile event, was out with a concussion, while Alonso Escobido had a shoulder injury.

On the women's side, the Corsairs placed sixteenth. "They did really well," Eskridge said. "Best girls' team we've had in a while." Shayna Simmer won second place in the 400-meter individual medley,

Vogel introduction caught up in ongoing Lakers drama

JOE REEDY
AP Sports Writer

Frank Vogel's goal to build "organizational togetherness" within the Los Angeles Lakers met the reality of the team's current dysfunction Monday.

Vogel's introduction as the Lakers' latest coach was almost overshadowed by comments made earlier by Magic Johnson. The former Lakers great appeared on ESPN's "First Take" and said general manager Rob Pelinka was largely responsible for his resignation as president of basketball operations and that Pelinka was talking behind his back, putting the GM in the position of using the Vogel news conference to respond.

Pelinka said he has talked to Johnson several times since his resignation on April 9 and said Johnson's comments surprised him. Pelinka said the last time the two had talked was over the weekend.

"It's saddening and disheartening to think he believes things are a misperception," Pelinka said. "I think all of us in life probably have been through things where maybe there's third party whispers or 'he said, she said' things that aren't true."

Vogel, who replaced Luke Walton, said the news conference took on a different tone than he imagined at the start of the day.

"It was definitely different than I expected and different than I've ever been a part of," he said. "But I understand the line of questioning in light of the events of this morning. So you just roll with the punches."

LeBron James watched the news conference from the back of the gym at the team's facility, but did not shake hands with Vogel and declined interview requests. He shot baskets on another court while Vogel did one-on-one interviews with television reporters.

Vogel takes over a team that has been in turmoil on and off the court. The Lakers have missed the playoffs for six straight seasons, a drought that was expected to end in James' first season. But injuries to James, Lonzo Ball and Brandon Ingram, as well as the internal discord, resulted in a 37-45 record. Vogel will be the Lakers' sixth coach since Phil Jackson stepped down after the 2010-11 season.

The 45-year old Vogel worked for the organization before as an advance scout during the 2005-06 season. He did not coach last season following two years with the Orlando Magic. Vogel went to Orlando following five-plus seasons leading the Indiana Pacers, including trips to the Eastern Conference finals in 2013 and '14. He has a career record of 304-291.

Vogel confirmed Jason Kidd will join his staff as an assistant and said it was something Pelinka brought up during the job interview.

SMPD looking for additional scam victims

The Santa Monica Police Department is asking the public's assistance in locating additional victims who may have been targeted by Diana George and a male suspect believed to be Richard Ely.

Diana George has been identified in two incidents targeting elderly victims in the City of Santa Monica during January and February of 2019. During these incidents, George and a male suspect entered the victim's homes by either posing as gardeners or by pretending to be new neighbors. Once inside the residence, George would distract the resident by asking for a glass of water, while the male suspect scoured the house for jewelry and cash.

Diana George and Richard Ely (possible second suspect in the Santa Monica incidents) were recently arrested in Illinois for a burglary committed to an elderly victim's residence. Both suspects have a criminal history of thefts involving elderly victims, and have felony warrants for similar crimes in other states.

The Santa Monica Police Department is seeking additional information regarding incidents with similar circumstances involving the above suspects. Anyone who may have been a target of such crime, is encouraged to contact Detective Tavera at (310) 458-2256 or the Watch Commander (24 hours) at (310) 458-2249.

Late spring wintry weather brings more snow to California

Late spring wintry weather has brought rain, wind and snow to California, including a dusting of white on mountain peaks east of Los Angeles.

The National Weather Service says there were small accumulations of snow Monday in Southern California mountains.

To the north, winter-like weather is expected to return Monday night into Tuesday in the northern Sierra Nevada.

Among other notable weather events on Sunday, downtown Sacramento set a new mark for wettest May on record with an accumulation of 3.28 inches (8.33 centimeters) of rain.

Along the Eastern Sierra, Caltrans has lifted a ban on high-profile vehicles on part of U.S. 395 where big-rigs were overturned by winds Sunday.

Small craft advisories blanket the entire coast, with gale warnings for waters farther off Northern and Central California.

Beach Water Use Advisory for all Los Angeles County beaches extended until

Because of the recent rainfall, Los Angeles County Health Officer, Muntu Davis, MD, MPH, is cautioning residents who are planning to visit Los Angeles County beaches to avoid swimming, surfing, and playing in ocean waters around discharging storm drains, creeks, and rivers. Bacteria, chemicals, debris, trash, and other public health hazards from city streets and mountain areas are likely to contaminate ocean waters at and around these outlets after a rainfall. Individuals who enter the water in these areas could become ill.

Discharging storm drains, creeks, and rivers only comprise a small portion of the beach; therefore, anybody who wants to go to other areas at the beach can still enjoy their beach outing.

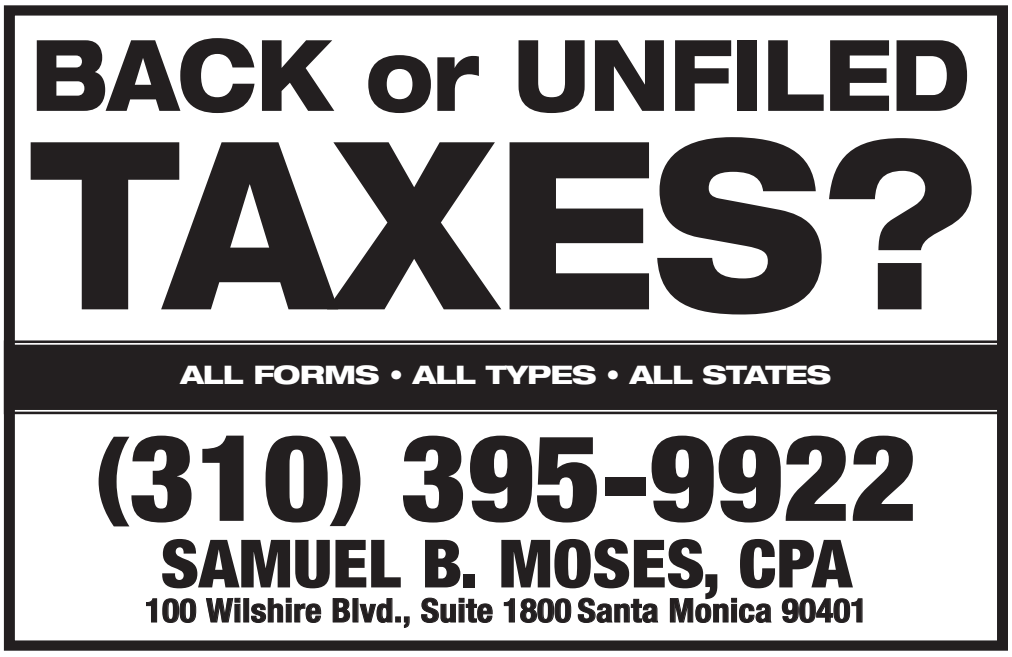

Areas of the beach apart from discharging storm drains, creeks, and rivers are exempted from this advisory. This advisory will be in effect until at least Wednesday, May 22 at 8:30 a.m. This advisory may be extended depending on further rainfall.

Recorded information on beach conditions is available 24 hours a day on the County's beach closure hotline: 1-800-525-5662. Information is also available online at: PublicHealth.LACounty.gov/Beach

Huawei apt to be stripped of Google services after US ban

FRANK BAJAK AND JOE MCDONALD
Associated Press

Huawei could quickly lose its grip on the No. 2 ranking in worldwide cellphone sales after Google announced it would comply with U.S. government restrictions meant to punish the Chinese tech powerhouse.

The Trump administration's move, which effectively bars U.S. firms from selling components and software to Huawei, ups the ante in a trade war between Washington and Beijing that partly reflects a struggle for global economic and technological dominance.

Google said it would continue to support existing Huawei smartphones but future devices will not have its flagship apps and services, including maps, Gmail and search. Only basic services would be available for future versions of the Android operating system on Huawei's smartphones.

Though the U.S. Commerce Department grants exceptions, the ban announced last week on all purchases of U.S. technology is thus apt to badly hurt Huawei, analysts say.

Washington claims Huawei poses a national security threat, and its placement on the so-called Entity List by the Trump administration last week is widely seen as intended to persuade resistant U.S. allies in Europe to exclude Huawei equipment from their next-generation wireless networks, known as 5G.

"This is major crisis for Huawei. Instead of being the world's largest handset manufacturer this year, it will struggle to stay two, but probably fall behind," analyst Roger Entner said. "How competitive is a smartphone without the most well-known and popular apps?"

Huawei will likely use its own, stripped-down version of Android, whose basic code is provided free of charge by Google. But the Mountain View, California, company said Huawei would not be authorized to use other Google software and services if the sanctions go forward as announced.

Google could seek exemptions, but would not comment on whether it planned to do so.

Entner, founder of Recon Analytics, said Google itself won't feel a large direct impact, "as consumers will shift to other Android devices. The biggest concern is not to be caught in the crossfire of two governments."

Gartner analyst Tuong Nguyen said 48% of Huawei's phone shipments last year were outside of China and the company will need to scramble not to lose market share.

Samsung led global smartphone sales in the first quarter of this year with a 23.1% share. Huawei was second with 19%, followed by Apple at 11.7%, according to IDC.

Huawei's smartphone sales in the U.S. are tiny — and the Chinese company's footprint in telecommunications networks is limited to smaller wireless and internet providers— so any impact on U.S. consumers of a Google services cutoff would be slight.

Hardware suppliers led by Qualcomm, Broadcom and Intel would also be forced to halt shipments to Huawei under the Commerce Department rule, which requires all U.S. technology sales to the company to obtain U.S. government approval unless exceptions are made.

The global risk assessment outfit Eurasia Group said the Commerce Department was expected to set a 90-day grace period this week. Department officials did not immediately return phone calls and emails seeking comment.

In a report, Eurasia Group said that if the Commerce Department sanction process helps persuade European carriers to shun Huawei equipment, a full ban on purchases of U.S. technology products and services could be avoided.

Google, a unit of Alphabet Inc., said in a statement late Sunday that it was complying with and "reviewing the implications" of the requirement for export licenses for technology sales to Huawei, which took effect Thursday. "For users of our services, Google Play and the security protections from Google Play Protect will continue to function on existing Huawei devices," it added.

The U.S. government says Chinese suppliers including Huawei and its smaller rival, ZTE Corp., pose an espionage threat because they are beholden to China's ruling Communist Party. But American officials have presented no evidence of any Huawei equipment serving as intentional conduits for espionage by Beijing.

Huawei, headquartered in the southern city of Shenzhen near Hong Kong, reported earlier that its worldwide sales rose 19.5% last year over 2017 to 721.2 billion ($105.2 billion). Profit rose 25.1% to 59.3 billion yuan ($8.6 billion).

Huawei smartphone shipments rose 50% in the first three months of 2019 to 59.1 million, compared with a year earlier, while the global industry's total fell 6.6%, according to IDC. Shipments from Samsung and Apple both declined.

Huawei defended itself Monday as "one of Android's key global partners." The company said it helped to develop a system that "benefited both users and the industry."

"We will continue to build a safe and sustainable software ecosystem, in order to provide the best experience for all users globally," the company said.

A foreign ministry spokesman, Lu Kang, said China will "monitor the development of the situation" but gave no indication how Beijing might respond.

The U.S. order took effect Thursday and requires government approval for all purchases of American microchips, software and other components globally by Huawei and 68 affiliated businesses. Huawei says that amounted to $11 billion in goods last year.

That could certainly create some collateral damage for U.S. companies.

The California chipmaker Xilinx Inc. tumbled 4% Monday. David Wong, an analyst with Nomura, said Xilinx has benefited from demand in next-generation, 5G technologies and "action against a major maker of communications infrastructure equipment like Huawei likely poses risk for Xilinx."

In addition to being selected as the Western State Conference Head Coach of the Year last month, Eskridge has been offered a full-time aquatics position at SMC after ten years of being a part-time staff member.

Eskridge offered a positive retrospective on the season.

"It was really, really successful...It was kind of what we've been building to the last few years, just kind of getting better and better each year and the kids just put in a ton of work. They know, for the guys, how close we were last year to winning conference and they just put in the work to make sure we got the job done this year ... A nice ending to real special year."

and it's the elimination of the need to repay large mortgages enables developers to charge below market rate rents.

"The proposed City subsidy would be leveraged by approximately $8,756,000 in tax credit equity from the Low Income Housing Tax Credit program, $4,486,000 in California Multifamily Housing Program funds, and a $1,508,000 bank loan. The combined leveraging totals 50% of the estimated development cost," said the city in approving the loan.

Tax credits are issued to nonprofits by who are able to sell those credits to for-profit companies to offset their tax bills.

In approving the loan, officials said the project provides needed housing in the Pico neighborhood, an area without an existing facility.

"Existing supportive housing developments are located in the Wilshire/ Montana, Sunset Park, Oceanfront District, and downtown areas," said the city's approval document. "Given the proximity to transit (both the Expo Line and bus routes), bike lanes, schools, supermarkets, parks, and other services, the proposed development would provide new affordable housing opportunities for very low-income households as well as convenient access to valuable community amenities."

While the Santa Monica contribution is considered a loan, the terms of the deal do not require the borrower to repay the money unless the building starts to turn a profit. Additional local funding will be available once the land is acquired and the permitting process begins.

"The City's anticipated permanent loan is $14,837,000 or $353,262 per residence or $345,047 per bedroom," said the document. "The estimated total development cost is $29,587,000 or $704,452 per residence or $688,070 per bedroom. The development cost includes rehabilitating an existing historic building for common area amenities such as community room, laundry room, and private meeting space."

EAH has several projects in the local pipeline and has worked in other parts of California and Hawaii.

EAH will hold a community meeting at 6 p.m. on Monday June 3, 2019 at Virginia Avenue Park, Patio Room. This is the first of two meetings and is intended to be an information session/community design meeting. EAH will introduce the project and the design team.

Meeting participants will be presented with early stage conceptual designs and will be able to give feedback on the design, size, units and other proposed programming.

In February Council approved $15M from the fund for another project in the Pico neighborhood. The cluster of 55 units on 14th street will be available to households that make between 30 - 80 percent of the City's median income.

A meeting for the 14th Street project will be held Tuesday night at the Virginia Ave. Park Thelma Terry Building, 2200 Virginia Ave, from 6:30 - 8 p.m.

CREATORS SYNDICATE © 2019 STANLEY NEWMAN STANXWORDS@AOL.COM 5/21/19

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 21)

You'll build yourself, forming strength through repeated actions. There's a comfortable stretch of fun and friends before the August adventure featuring a stimulating environment. You'll get to learn new skills and relearn old ones. The windfall comes in November. Your inner circle will enjoy your gifts. Libra and Pisces adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 1, 18, 3, 30 and 45.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You've been thinking of your problem as though it were an uphill slog, but a change has occurred so you can stop that. Now this is more of a gravitational process. You're at the top, and your aim is at the bottom. Enjoy the slide.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). In a tight group that functions well, it's easy to lose track of who gave and got what. This is how it should be and how it will be today; everyone giving what's easy and affordable for the betterment of the group.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). The time to give a good long think as to what the rules should be is before the game begins. That's where you are today. What you establish now will make all the difference.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll expend emotional labor. You'll give gifts, and you're overflowing with other ways to help people. So, the thing to watch out for is need. Set priorities. Who needs you more, and where can you do the most good?

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You're a leader in some way. Do you know it fully? You'll get clues about this today that you can apply in the weeks to come to help bring the group forward. A vision is coming together.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). It's a strange but true fact of reality that as hard as you're working to forward the agenda you believe is so correct, there's another faction working just as hard at an opposite "correct" agenda. So how can you outsmart them?

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Though experience can make a person wise, it doesn't always. And there are those who are inexperienced and yet, inexplicably, very wise. An open and curious mind is the key component to wisdom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). The nutrients gotten from eating with loved ones goes far beyond actual vitamins, proteins and the like. The shared ritual, the conversation and the animal bond of eating together fortifies the soul.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Note that people with a lot of skin in the game will go into the playing arena ready to take offense at whatever the opposition has to dish, even if that dish is congeniality and sportsmanship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). It's good salesmanship to close the deal. It's great salesmanship to build such a strong case that the customer is the one closing it. The second type is who you'll be today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Maybe the aim is impossible to achieve, but that doesn't make the tasks that lead up to it any less worthwhile, especially if the thing also happens to be a pleasure to work on. Work can be its own reward.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You learn from people who aren't afraid of confrontation. It doesn't always have to end in conflict. Take notes as they head right into the heart of it, ready to communicate and work something out.

Gemini Sun Day One

The Gemini sun floats in on a cloud of ideas, some brightly optimistic, others jittery and trepidatious. Then Mercury doubles the number of thoughts a few hours later, also joining the realm of the twins. The secret to happiness today will be a selective focus. Decide how you want to feel, and then lean into that, ignoring anything to the contrary.

YOUR MOON SIGN (Part five):

If you don't know which moon you were born under, finding out is as easy as keying "moon sign" into the search engine on a computer. Astrology books will also offer tables to help you find out where the moon stationed at your time and place of birth. Sagittarian moon people love to explore. They were voted the most likely to read the encyclopedia, or clock in hours on television shows that will take them into different cultures or, better yet, planets. Their love of adventure won't always compel them to travel physically, but mentally and emotionally, they are able to push their consciousness into different places through reading, socializing and the arts. Capricorn moon people have a deep and abiding respect for authority, so much so that they often become the authority. Early in their lives, they declare what is sacred for them and will honor it, even if it becomes inconvenient or unpopular to do so. Loyalty is the core of their being. Aquarius moon people have an affinity for the outsiders of the world. They recognize genius, admire free-thinkers and revel in creative expression. With practice, they will embody that which they appreciate.

CELEBRITY PROFILES

Mr. T, who famously pitied fools in "Rocky III" and the 1980s television series "The A-Team," is the second-youngest child in a family of 12 children. The legendary tough guy is quoted as saying, "Any man who don't love his momma can't be no friend of mine." Mr. T is a bright Gemini with four important luminaries in strong, stable, stamina-inducing Taurus.
