In Haiti, a humbling experience

LOCAL RESIDENT VOLUNTEERS ON WEEKLONG SERVICE TRIP

BY JEFFREY I. GOODMAN
Daily Press Staff Writer

HAITI Sleeping with a mosquito net in a facility with no air conditioning was an unusual experience for Leonard Anderson. It was also a reminder.

Anderson has a place to live comfortably in Santa Monica. He has a job in finance in Century City. He has access to medical care. He doesn't have to worry about his next meal.

But in Thomazeau, Haiti, where he recently spent a week as a volunteer on a service trip, he came to see those resources as luxuries.

"It would make one appreciate how organized things are in the United States and how good we really have it," he said. "People there generally live in squalor. Most people have dirt floors. Housing is built with aluminum or metal plating. There's a lot of poverty, a lot of people who are legitimately hungry. Any time you see anything like that, you are of course reminded of the abundance of where we live."

Anderson, 40, served as an assistant in a medical clinic, helped out in a local school and visited residents in their homes during his trip to Thomazeau, which is about 25 miles northeast of Port-au-Prince.

The mission was organized by LiveBeyond, a Nashville-based humanitarian organization with a base in Thomazeau. The Christian nonprofit group provides medical care, clean water and education to impoverished Haitians.

Anderson decided to get involved after hearing about the trip from clients and friends who work as doctors in Santa Barbara.

"This was my first time really doing anything like this," he said. "It sounded interesting."

Anderson covered his own travel expenses and eschewed his phone to immerse himself in the community.

In the mornings he worked in medical clinics, where hundreds of patients were treated for common skin infections like ringworm and scabies as well as sexually transmitted diseases and other ailments. In the afternoons he made home visits, bringing food and hope to people who were sick, injured or shunned by their neighbors.

Anderson and his fellow volunteers also assisted at a school, where children learned in English

PYFC faces total funding cut

BY DAVID MARK SIMPSON
Daily Press Staff Writer

CITY HALL It's budget time so that means it's also time for drama surrounding the future of the Pico Youth and Family Center (PYFC).

This time around, City Council is considering completely cutting the funding for the nonprofit youth organization run by Board of Education member Oscar de la Torre.

At the start of the current fiscal year, council agreed to cut a one-time check of $190,000 to keep the organization afloat.

Human Services Manager Setareh Yavari told council the one-time payment would "help them close that gap so that they could continue to look at ways to diversify their funding stream, and we feel that's one of the issues that continues to remain."

She said PYFC requested another $190,000 and the combined total would make up about 40 percent of PYFC's programming

SAMOHI There's a new man in charge of the Santa Monica High football team.

Drawn by the location of the school and the history of the program, Ramsey Lambert will be tasked with leading the Vikings after a one-year stint at La Canada.

Lambert inherits a Samohi squad that went 5-6 overall and 3-2 in Ocean League play last year, when it finished behind El Segundo and Lawndale in the conference standings and fell to Torrance-West in the first round of the CIF Southern Section playoffs.

"It's a great, diverse community and school, which is something I'm very familiar with," he said during a phone interview Friday. "It was a great fit and a great location.

budget. She also said documents provided to City Hall show that half the organization's board turned over this year, something she called a consistent issue.

"As you know some of the historical and ongoing issues and concerns continue to remain," Yavari told council, "and in reviewing the current proposal that was submitted, we continue to have concerns about some of their governance and administrative functions as well as some of the fiscal stability and concerns around the financial ability of the organization to continue to sustain itself."

In recent years, City Hall has said repeatedly said that the PYFC fails to provide adequate financial documentation. De la Torre has repeatedly denied this.

On Thursday, when discussing the city budget, council had a chance to ask questions of the PYFC's treasurer. She had some but not all of the data that council was looking for.

Dozens of member of the community came out to speak in support of the after school programming, with many individuals detailing the way in which it changed or saved their lives.

Aside from asking questions of the treasurer, few council members spoke one way or the other on the topic of the PYFC. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the proposed budget. Any changes to the budget, like a decision to continue funding the PYFC, would come later this month.

Councilmember Sue Himmelrich, however, called the PYFC funding issue the "elephant in the room" and expressed a desire to see more financial information from the nonprofit.

"It has been an integral member of our community for 13 years," she said.

The public testimony, she said, had more credibility than she'd seen at past public hearings.

PYFC officials said they'd provide the necessary financial documentation.

In 2012, philanthropist Peggy Bergmann bequeathed $1.6 million to the PYFC but a member of the nonprofit's board attempted to return the check amidst internal strife over the mission of the organization and accusations of financial mismanagement.

Ultimately, the PYFC won a legal battle, granting them the rights to the money in $165,000 increments. The organization said that between Bergmann's money, cash from the city, and some fundraising, they could stay afloat.

"We see what's happening throughout the nation in city's like Baltimore, Ferguson, and Chicago are showing us that divesting from historically marginalized neighborhoods leads to greater poverty, hopelessness and violence," de la Torre told council.

Council is scheduled to vote on the final budget at its June 23 meeting.

Bigger, bolder and badder

THE PLANNING COMMISSION meets Wednesday evening (in City Council chambers) to discuss and review a highly controversial development planned for Downtown Santa Monica — the Plaza at Santa Monica.

It's a 12-story (148 feet), 420,000 square foot multi-use development consists of about 225 hotel rooms, up to 220,000 square feet of office space, up to 40,000 square feet of retail space, 48 affordable apartments, approximately 12,000 square feet of cultural space with a proposed 4,800 square-foot mezzanine, approximately 51,000 square feet of public open space, and an estimated 1,100 parking spaces within a four-level subterranean parking garage.

All of this is to be built on city-owned land — currently home to ICE skating rink, parking lots and a couple of banks. The City of Santa Monica owns the site and spent well over $100-million including interest and other payments for the land between Fourth and Fifth Streets and Arizona Avenue. When purchased a few years ago, city officials had no use in mind for the space.

By way of a refresher, this was the project that consisted of one large contiguous structure set diagonally on the property featuring angled, upper floorplates. It's an impressive and massive proposal and absolutely in the wrong place. Most residents want a project more in scale with the present Downtown area - one with a maximum 84 feet height, preferably lower.

A nervous City Council asked the developer, well-connected Metropolitan Pacific Capital, to come back with an alternate 84-foot high proposal. But, with the alternate design, "public benefits" such as the 48 units of low-income housing were pared back along with other favored elements. Council unanimously instructed the developer to proceed with its 12 floor proposal as it offered so much more - affordable housing?

To make things worse, this major project has City Hall momentum without a Downtown Specific Plan in place. The opposition to this project is growing by the day and it will become as big, if not bigger, lightning rod than the Hines project in the Bergamot area became.

Between recently approved business-friendly zoning code revisions and now, a Downtown development that far exceeds the public's desire for a lower level, less dense and less imposing development, I predict that there will be a referendum/ballot measure constructed around a "two, three, four" model - two floor maximum height in residential areas, three floor maximums on major streets and four floors maximum height in the Downtown area.

Why do I predict this? Because our city leaders ignore us at their own peril.

THE DEVIL WAS IN THE DETAILS

The updates to the city's zoning codes have been completed and few people are happy with the final results. We're going to have to live with these codes for the next 25 years or whenever the city's master plan is updated, again. It's unlikely that council will revisit some of the more controversial codes to better protect and preserve our neighborhoods in the near future considering that it unanimously approved the new codes to begin with.

The major complaint has to do with revised zoning codes that would allow commercial developers to provide less parking on new commercial buildings built on or near transit stops and major thoroughfares "well served by transit." The term for downsizing parking is sometimes called "unbundling" because tenants can lease space - office or commercial space in this case — without leasing on-site parking. Tenants can lease on-site parking by paying extra for parking - like ordering ala carte.

The thinking is that charging tenants for parking will incentivize them to (1) stop driving private vehicles, (2) drive less often and (3) use transit, walk or bicycle. Unfortunately. that's wishful thinking. Persons leasing space in developments without free on-site parking end up parking on neighboring streets for free thus contributing to traffic, noise pollution and exacerbating an already serious shortage of parking space in many neighborhoods.

In a recent news release, the slow growth Santa Monica Coalition for a Livable City (SMCLC) called reducing parking requirements, "a gift to developers in the guise of innovation. Thinking that "If people don't have parking, supposedly they won't drive cars… is magical thinking" and will only exacerbate our city's current traffic and parking problems.

Other concerns center on commercial intrusion into single-family neighborhoods that had always been "off limits." These changes include permitting for-profit daycare centers to operate seven days a week in single family neighborhoods — with expanded hours. Despite dropping of larger "Tier 3" developments on Wilshire Boulevard and eliminating destination developments such as shopping centers disguised as "activity centers," the new codes allow more density on Wilshire and other major streets than before.

Two medical marijuana dispensaries on Wilshire is still a questionable zoning practice. I wonder if the Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce had pot shops in mind when they called for more development on the street to increase its vibrancy and zest as a destination.

Conditional Use Permits (CUP) that permit beer, wine or full bar alcohol service in commercial businesses will be approved by the Director of Planning without any public discussion. Bad move. Previously alcohol CUPs were reviewed in public before the Planning Commission. Knowing city staff, this is another curse that will come back to haunt residents.

An ordinance authorizing all the new codes will be subject to a second council reading in three weeks. After a mandatory 30-day wait period, the new codes will be considered "official" unless a public referendum or a court action halts it.

Smaller Class Size

IN CLASSROOMS ALL AROUND Los Angeles, many teachers, parents, and students alike-myself included - often ask themselves "Are there too many students in this class?" However, despite asking myself that simple question which could easily be answered, I had yet to seek a more in depth answer. I recently had the opportunity to pick a topic for my English final group project and as one can guess, my group and I had decided to look deeper into this topic by focusing on the learning environment as well as the impact it has on students.

While researching the average class sizes throughout LA County, I was astonished at my findings. In the Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD) the average elementary classroom size for the 2013-2014 school year was approximately 32 students. The middle school classrooms had an average of 37 students and high school classrooms had around 36 students.

In the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District (SMMUSD), for the upcoming 2015-2016 school year, the average elementary classroom will have 27 students, the middle school classrooms will have 34 students and 35 students in high school classrooms.

With the significant amount of students currently enrolled and the amount of students that soon will be enrolled, I immediately sought to figure out what the students thoughts were about the very issue at hand.

To further expand my research, my group mate Tylyne Hoddison and I conducted a survey amongst 90 Santa Monica High School students, of different grade levels. In doing so, I finally had the opportunity to access the various opinions high school students had about their own classroom environment.

When asking what the ideal class size is, 37 percent of students reported wanting 15-20 students maximum in a classroom and 28 percent wished for a class size of 25 students. With only 23 percent of the students wanting their classroom size to remain the same and 12 percent had other input on their classroom environments. The survey reveals the true nature of how students feel about their classrooms.

When asked whether or not they believe classroom sizes have an impact on grades and classroom performance, 58 percent of students agreed with this statement and further expanded on the lack of one on one instructional time that is being allocated per student. An additional concern that was raised was geared toward the many distractions that occur throughout the day which significantly reduce the amount of classroom instruction.

However, despite the various responses to wanting smaller class sizes, there are many factors that impede this from happening. The primary factor is district budget. Without sufficient funds, school districts are often left with hiring less teachers, which leads to an increase in the number of students per classroom.

Not only does school budget come into play, but also the school attendance itself. The amount of students attending for the school

Fuel efficiency

Dear EarthTalk:

Summer is near and I am planning a big road trip. Do you have any tips for boosting my car's fuel efficiency on long, hot drives?

Esther McCoy
Burlington, VT

AH, THE SUMMER ROAD TRIP, THAT classic American experience. But long drives through steamy weather can burn through a lot of gas and cause untold wear and tear on your car's engine and systems while putting you at risk for overheating. Doubling down on tactics to help your car run better will not only improve fuel efficiency, but could also help you avoid spending a large chunk of your vacation time in the breakdown lane waiting for a tow.

According to the American Automobile Association (AAA), there are lots of ways to conserve fuel on hot weather road trips that also will help prolong the life of your car. "In summer, drive during cooler parts of the day," reports the group. "Cooler, denser air can boost power and mileage."

While it may seem counterintuitive, using your car's air conditioning is actually a smart idea in hot weather. "Today's air conditioners create less drag on the engine than driving with the windows open," says AAA. Meanwhile, if you have a hybrid, pre-cool it before you get in so it can devote more electricity to driving when you are out on the road. But don't warm-up (or pre-cool) a conventional car, as the extra idling doesn't do the car any good and just wastes fuel and creates extra heat. Another key tip for hot weather driving is to park in the shade when you can.

The Green Car Reports website suggests utilizing cruise control and overdrive features on cars that offer them on long summer roads trips; these features help normalize the energy demands of the engine which in turn helps conserve fuel.

According to AA1car.com, a leading online information resource on auto repair and maintenance, placing a sunshade under the windshield and cracking the windows when parked can help keep the interior cool between drives. This can also "lighten the cooling load on the air conditioner when the vehicle is first started." The website also reports that changing old dirty motor oil with a fresh higher viscosity one will help keep your car's engine lubricated and running smoothly on those summer road trips. "For example, you might want to change from 5W-30 to 10W-30, 10W-40 or 20W-30 for hot weather driving," reports AA1car.com. "Synthetic motor oils are even better for high temperature protection."

Of course, some fuel saving tips apply any time of year. For instance, jackrabbit starts are a big no-no; drivers should always try to accelerate gradually. Taking your foot off the gas as early as possible when approaching a red light is another way to save gas. Keeping filters clean, maintaining recommended tire pressure and driving at the speed limit are additional ways to conserve fuel, reduce emissions and treat your ride nicely.

Of course, summertime road trips can also be hard on drivers and passengers, so pack plenty of sunscreen - especially if you plan to have the windows open (or top down)-and bring along a cooler with healthy drinks so everyone can stay hydrated.

"My impression was that the kids really liked it, they wanted to come and they were happy to be there," he said. "I was surprised at how well the kids did. There seemed to be a real interest."

Anderson spent nights in LiveBeyond's house for volunteers, but he felt busy and engaged during the days. Interpreters allowed him to communicate with patients and students, and he was able to interact with local residents more than he originally expected.

"There are a lot of great people just in a bad situation," he said.

Anderson, who attended Texas Christian University, is not a regular churchgoer but said he was impressed by the organization's dedication to helping people in need.

"It's admirable for people to work so hard and so selflessly," he said. "They would welcome anyone, and I would consider going again. It was very rewarding."

CLASS

year also determines the number of teachers that will be hired for the school year. Considerably, why should one wait for school to receive more students to be able to hire teachers, rather than to act now?

Setting aside budget costs and allowing to think about the benefits that come for students, such as more interaction with their teachers as well as being able to comfortably socialize and bond with their fellow classmates, hiring more teachers to reduce class sizes would allow one to not only ask "Are there too many students in this class," but as well ask themselves "Are there enough teachers?"

FOOTBALL

Southern California is a great place to be, and Santa Monica — I don't think it gets much better than that.

"They have a really rich tradition of football success, and they compete for a league title year in and year out. Even last year, they had so many close losses. There's a lot of potential there. And there's a lot of support."

Lambert arrives after finding success in his first head-coaching gig, leading La Canada to its first winning campaign since 2006 with a 7-4 record that included a win by forfeit.

Although he had previously served as an assistant at Victorville-Silverado and Hesperia-Oak Hills, he had never been first in command until last year.

Lambert said he gained experience in the managerial facets of the job, working with boosters, putting on fundraisers, ordering equipment and crafting practice plans.

"It was the missing piece in my resume ... and La Canada gave me a wonderful opportunity," he said. "I learned a lot along the way. It gave me the chance to undertake all those aspects and put them into practice."

Lambert fills the coaching vacancy left by Travis Clark, who stepped down after six years at the helm to take the same position at Lawndale.

Clark posted an overall record of 41-28 (.594) during his tenure at Samohi, including a mark of 23-7 (.766) in conference play. The team regressed in the playoffs over its last four campaigns, reaching the section semifinals in 2011, losing in the quarterfinals the next two years and bowing out in the first round this past season.

Lambert will be a full-time employee of the Santa Monica-Malibu school district and will teach a freshman seminar in addition to his coaching duties. Clark was not a full-time SMMUSD employee, but district officials have said they prefer athletic coaches who work on campus.

Lambert said his coaching staff has not been finalized but added he's been in touch with several recent assistants and plans to meet with them this week.

Pat Dunn, Douglas Kim and James Makris oversaw the football program as the district searched for Clark's replacement, according to district spokeswoman Gail Pinsker.

Born in Hawaii and raised in California, Lambert played football at Hesperia High and turned to coaching after sustaining an injury at Victor Valley College in Victorville. He studied kinesiology at the University of Hawaii.

Lambert said he's looking forward to the challenge of preparing his new players for the 2015 season.

"I'm extremely excited and fortunate," he said. "We have a big fan base really rooting for Santa Monica. I can't wait to get on campus and meet our kids and show up for game one ready to go."

CRIME WATCH
BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON MAY 21, AT ABOUT 9:45 A.M.

The manager at DK Donuts, 1614 Santa Monica Boulevard, called to report that someone had just stolen a cup of coffee. A male, White, about 60 years old, wearing a gray hoodie walked into the store, poured himself a cup of coffee and walked out without paying. When officers arrived, they found the man with the still-hot coffee standing in front of a nearby business. Initially, the man refused to follow the officers' instructions to set down the coffee and speak with them. The man tried to walk away and had to be detained and handcuffed. The man, later identified as Matthew Rogers, spontaneously asked the officers to let him go with a warning, insisting that he would go pay for the coffee if they released him. The DK's manager signed a Private Person's Arrest, and Rogers, 58, homeless, was taken to jail for shoplifting. Bail was set at $5,000.

Heal the Bay is a nonprofit environmental organization making Southern California coastal waters and watersheds, including Santa Monica Bay, safe, healthy and clean. We use science, education, community action and advocacy to pursue our mission.

Heal the Bay's Beach Report Card® is based on weekly water quality monitoring data provided by the City of Los Angeles' Environmental Monitoring Division and the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services. Data is analyzed as soon as it is made available to us by the public agencies. Beaches are graded on an A-F scale based on the risk of ocean users becoming ill. Samples are analyzed for bacteria—enterococcus, total and fecal coliforms—that indicate biological pollution. A fact sheet detailing the exact methodology used in determining grades for each location is available from the office or on our web site. The report is not designed to measure the amount of trash or toxins found at local beaches.

The Beach Report Card is an indication of past water quality and is not a warranty of the current safety of those areas surveyed. Our lawyers are happy.

Los Angeles to share data with state regulators

The California State Board of Equalization (BOE) and the City of Los Angeles Office of Finance have reached a reciprocal data-sharing agreement in an effort to expand tax discovery resources within the Los Angeles city limits according to BOE Chairman Jerome E. Horton.

The purpose of the program is to identify businesses operating in the city without a business tax registration certificate and thus not paying their fair share of city and state taxes. A similar data-sharing agreement with the FTB has generated more than $192,330,374 in general fund revenue since program inception and added 181,777 business accounts to the City of Los Angeles' tax rolls to date. Proponents expect similar success from this new agreement.

The Los Angeles City Council approved, then BOE Executive Director, Cynthia Bridges, and Finance General Manager, Antoinette Christovale, signed and executed the agreement. Under this agreement, the BOE will exchange limited taxpayer non-financial business registration information twice each year, starting immediately. The agreement will remain in effect through December 31, 2017.

"I applaud the recent motion advanced by the Los Angeles City Council and approved by Mayor Eric Garcetti to enter into an agreement with the Board of Equalization for the reciprocal exchange of business taxpayer information that will identify businesses that may be operating without the required permits and registration certificates," said Chairman Horton. "This mutually beneficial agreement forges our relationship to educate and empower Los Angeles business owners by minimizing their burden through compliance."

"The City of Los Angeles Office of Finance thanks Chairman Horton, members of the Board of Equalization and staff for this new partnership," stated Antoinette Christovale, Director of Finance/City Treasurer. "This agreement will assist the Office of Finance's efforts to simplify compliance through outreach and education of the City of Los Angeles tax laws for businesses at the local level. The sharing of data will also help grow the tax base and ensure a level playing field for all businesses operating in the City of Los Angeles."

The exchange of taxpayer information is predicated upon the assurance of taxpayer confidentiality by both parties. Finance intends to utilize data obtained from the BOE to identify businesses that are operating without a business tax registration certificate. No financial payments for the exchange of data will be required by either party per the agreement.

The five-member California State Board of Equalization (BOE) is a publicly elected tax board. The BOE collects $60 billion annually in taxes and fees supporting state and local government services. It hears business tax appeals, acts as the appellate body for franchise and personal income tax appeals, and serves a significant role in the assessment and administration of property taxes. For more information on other taxes and fees in California, visit www.taxes.ca.gov.

Sudoku

Fill in the blank cells using numbers 1 to 9. Each number can appear only once in each row, column, and 3x3 block. Use logic and process of elimination to solve the puzzle. The difficulty level ranges from (easiest) to (hardest).

Difficulty Level ★

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPARD

■ Last Words: (1) "Go ahead and shoot me," said Rodney Gilbert, 57, who was embroiled in a domestic tiff with his girlfriend, Kimberly Gustafson, in Ocala, Florida, in February (2011). According to police, Gustafson, after cocking the gun in front of witnesses, turned to walk away without firing until Gilbert pursued her, shouting his final words several more times. (2) "You're going to shoot? Right here," said now-deceased Roberto Corona, pointing to his chest. Corona was refusing to reveal the whereabouts of his sister in January (2011) to her husband, David Sanchez-Dominguez, who was pointing his handgun at Corona.

■ When officials in Richmond, California, learned in 2009 that 70 percent of the city's murders and firearms assaults were directly linked to 17 people, they decided on a bold program: to pay off those 17 to behave themselves. For a budget of about $1.2 million a year, the program offers individual coaching, health care coverage and several hundred dollars a month in stipends to former thugs who stick to their "life map" of personal goals and conflict-resolution training. According to an April report on National Public Radio's "This American Life," Richmond is no longer among the most dangerous towns in America, with the murder rate in fact having fallen from its all-time yearly high of 62 to 11 last year.

Your path is the right path

By Katharine Romefelt

Pessimism is easy. But the ability to see the light in the darkness is what lifts your spirit and helps to create change in the world. On Audacity to Hope Day (this Thursday), challenge yourself to think positively about your life and the world despite all the negative influences surrounding you.

"It can definitely take some bravery to be hopeful in today's world, especially when it comes to making changes," said Alina Slavick, as she enjoyed the view at Annenberg Beach House in Malibu.

"People might not always agree with your opinions, so it can take courage to be hopeful about changes taking place that are against what the majority thinks."

Dare to be hopeful about your personal goals and dreams, as well as those you might have for your community or country this Thursday. Without hope, most seemingly impossible things would never have been accomplished.

THROW US SOME FEEDBACK @GIIVE.ORG/CONTACT-US/

Out and about tonight, Libra

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Communication will be most successful in the morning. A gentle touch could end nearly any problem. You might want to reach out for more feedback from someone who is more knowledgeable than you are. Tonight: Put on your headphones and listen to great music.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ Others will come toward you before you even make it out the door this morning. Eye a financial arrangement with cynicism, and don't jump into any legal agreements right now. You might feel as though something is a good deal, but it likely isn't. Tonight: Chat over dinner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Don't allow others to distract you. Maintaining this stance will take a lot of self-discipline. You could be challenged by a partner later in the day. You'll wonder what is happening with this person. Stay cool. Keep your opinions to yourself for now. Tonight: Accept an invitation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ You might be in the position to find out more information about a loved one. Your attitude will help this person reveal him- or herself more completely. Don't get so distracted that you are unable to complete errands or return calls. Tonight: Get some extra R and R.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ You might be slow to get going, but once the afternoon hits, you can't be stopped. Be aware of what someone lets slip, and try not to take it personally. Lighten up the moment, and let your imagination flow. Tonight: Love the one you are with.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★ Return calls in the morning -- you have a lot of ground to cover. Schedule as much as you can for later in week. You could be surprised by what comes out in a conversation. Focus on a domestic matter; the issue only will get bigger if you don't. Tonight: Order in.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ You will need to handle a personal matter before the day grows old. You won't want this issue to undermine your thinking. Listen to what you are hearing. A conversation might need to be revisited in the afternoon, when others can hear you better. Tonight: Out and about.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ Handle anything important in the morning, when you feel more upbeat. Your ability to get past a problem allows a misunderstanding to melt away. You could be overwhelmed by a choice you have to make. Use caution with spending. Tonight: Pay bills first.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ As off as you might feel in the morning, you will feel much better by midafternoon. Take your time getting started, and worry less about your choices and where you are going. Laughter surrounds a loved one whom you care a lot about. Tonight: Let the fun begin!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ You could be faced with a major change you might not have been expecting. Don't worry -- you probably will like what you are seeing. Make fewer judgments, and enjoy the experience. Sometimes it is best to turn off your mind. Tonight: Take some much-needed personal time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ You might be in the mood to initiate a change. How you plan to handle this matter could vary significantly as the day ages. Success comes to you in the mid-afternoon, once you have accepted what must be done. Tonight: Find a friend and enjoy his or her news.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ You might be wondering what approach would be best under the present circumstances. You have the ability to see past the obvious and to understand the implications of what is happening. You will need to take the lead in the afternoon. Tonight: A must appearance.

Monday, June 1, 2015

This year you open up to many different approaches. You are willing to do the work to achieve your long-term goals. You also become more in tune with the people in your immediate circle. If you are single, through mid-August you'll attract several admirers. One of them could be significant to your life. If you are attached, your ability to communicate evolves and enhances your bond. You and your significant other will enjoy each other far more than you have in the recent past. Come fall, you will add to the quality of your life together. SAGITTARIUS often challenges you!
