A center for discovery

Crossroads School science facility nearing completion

BY JEFFREY I. GOODMAN
Daily Press Staff Writer

Editor's note: This is the first installment of a multi-part series about the new science complex at Crossroads School.

21ST ST Lamenting a smudge of wet gray paint on his hand, Bob Riddle quickly realized he shouldn't have grabbed the railing as he climbed an exterior flight of stairs on the building under construction at Crossroads School.

But the longtime educator and current principal wasn't going to let such a minor annoyance dampen his spirits for long — not on a day when the sun was shining, a light breeze was blowing and crews were working on one of the most ambitious projects in the 44-year-history of the Santa Monica private school.

At the back of what the Crossroads community affectionately calls "the Alley" stands a $20-million, 25,000-square-foot Science Education & Research Facility that is scheduled for completion this summer.

The building will house the middle school and high school science programs, and campus officials envision it as a center for discovery, experimentation and collaboration, a place for students to grapple with complex problems in an era of innovation and rapid technological progress.

"The big question is, 'Where is science moving?'" project manager Elaine Nesbit said during a walk-through of the unfinished building. "The idea was to build this for the future of teaching science, to make it as flexible and changeable as possible. Very few people know

Surf wars in summer of 1915

Editor's note: This is part of a monthly feature that tracks Santa Monica's history by compiling notable city happenings from a century ago. The stories are found in old newspaper archives.

SANTA MONICA OF YORE Shots rang out in a battle between rival fishermen in the summer of 1915, according to the Los Angeles Times archives.

A Japanese fisherman was stepping off a pier ladder and onto his dory when Austrian fisherman on the pier began to chuck trash and fish boxes at the man.

He pushed off and rowed quickly out of their range so the Austrians turned on residents of the Japanese fishing village.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Send comments to editor@smdp.com

Madness is …

Editor:

Gridlock in downtown Santa Monica was complained about by Nora Hamill in yesterday's SMDP. She tells us that she sat in her car for seven minutes and traveled just two blocks. Also your regular writer Davis Pisarra told us a similar tale not too long ago. I think he managed a whole six blocks in half an hour. But they don't tell us why or the true total cost of each mile they drive in downtown Santa Monica.

Surely everybody knows that traffic in Santa Monica is saturated? So why do they keep driving into it? Drivers in downtown Santa Monica are masochists who are part of a mutual persecution society. They are all persecuting each other. As Pogo said, a long time ago, "We have met the enemy and he is us!"

Everybody is looking to City Hall to enable them to take their car, 2,000 lbs of metal and plastic, everywhere they go, no matter how short the trip and City Hall, as far as I can see, is saying "If those people are dumb enough to use their car every time they go anywhere then let them stew in their own juice (or rather in their own pollution)."

What is wrong with walking? I can walk two blocks in one minute – not seven! I can walk six blocks in five minutes – not half an hour! The laughable thing is that some of them will be driving to the gym to pay good money to exercise. Why don't people walk to the gym and walk back. It's free!

Why don't people drive on the basis of even or odd license plate days and halve the traffic at a stroke?

If you live in S.M. you need to learn to walk, cycle ,skate or to take a bus.

Is it snobbery? "Oh I am a very successful person. I have a lovely car and I must go everywhere in it. You can't expect very-important-me to go on a bus with all these ordinary people. Yes, I'm in gridlock. I'm getting nowhere. I'm wasting gas. I'm polluting the air but look at my beautiful car with all its options and my GPS display which lets me see exactly where I am in the gridlock and all the places I can't get to. I'm a success!"

As Sophocles said (you remember him – used to drive an ox cart – he could do six blocks in four minutes) "Whom the Gods wish to destroy they first make mad."

2-3-4-No More

IT'S TIME TO STOP THE MADNESS IN Santa Monica! Even with the adoption of the new zoning code, the battle over height and density continues. This Zoning Code, along with the Land Use and Circulation Element, has formed an imperfect blueprint for the future growth of a significant portion of our bayside city. Still to come will be verbal volleys and pitched battles over the Downtown Specific Plan and the Memorial Park Neighborhood Plan. The passionate discussions over the height, density and positioning of future change are not cooling down. Indeed, as one newspaper editor opined recently, we are a balkanized city. Rife with special interest groups, all concerned with small fiefdoms, our residents are not taking a holistic view, a "big picture" view, of our combined destiny as a community.

The pressure to be more like our behemoth sprawling neighbor Los Angeles has become more intense. We hear cries to build higher, build denser, add more commerce to our neighborhoods, add private enterprise to city-owned land and, generally, to increase the intensity of our Santa Monica. We hear that we must blend into the metropolis, we must add more housing, add more buildings, more office space, more attractions, more, more, just more.

Visitors to our city treasure our world-class ambiance with its breezy beach town feel. We residents treasure these elements as well, and we have a deep love for Santa Monica. That's the reason so many of us are incredibly passionate about this special place. And with that love, with that passion, comes responsibility. Every one of us must become a responsible steward of Santa Monica's future, a future where we do not allow more height, more density, more stress on our infrastructure, and more traffic. We now have an opportunity - an obligation, to control the form and shape our city will take — we can take control of our shared future, our destiny.

In our 2014 columns of May 20 and again on July 23, SM.a.r.t proposed that Santa Monica height limits be set at four stories or 50 feet in the densest zones (downtown), three stories or 40 feet in the mid-density zones (boulevards) and two stories or 30 feet in the low-density zones (streets and avenues). Today, we call on our residents to take the choice out of developers' hands, to stop relying on the ever-changing voting alignments in the Planning Commission and City Council to safeguard our interests.

We can follow the success of other small cities in Southern California, which have protected their ambiance and quality of life through the ballot box. In 2008 the citizens of Sierra Madre voted for strict downtown height limits. Their Voter Empowerment Ordinance states that, "No City Council or City Staff can possess the necessary community-wide sensitivity to make decisions to ensure that the small town character … will be preserved." The document concludes, "development decisions that could deviate from our long standing goals should be made by the entire city after a public debate and election, and not by a few city hall insiders." These are brave words by the organizers in this San Gabriel Valley city. The measure won!

The cities of Yorba Linda and Encinitas have followed up with their own voter-mandated initiatives limiting height and density in their cities. The crafters of the Encinitas Right To Vote Amendment state, "It is the intent of this measure to protect our natural resources, our children's lives and future generations, prevent the urbanization of our small town character and maintain the individual character of our … communities."

Any developer in these three cities who wishes to build higher and denser than the ordinance allows, has only one choice: turn to the voters of their community to ask that their project be exempted. The SMa.r.t. Group urges that we let the voters of Santa Monica decide whether to approve the next huge "Hines" project, the next "Miramar Hotel" skyscraper expansion, or the next proposal to build tall, dense buildings on city land. We're no longer willing to let our Planning Department and City Council make those decisions.

We know this: our current planning codes are too confusing — for city personnel and for developers, and these codes provide too many loopholes. An overly large and cumbersome Planning Department bureaucracy exists in City Hall. If we put simple height and density guidelines in place it would reduce the number of necessary city staff and it would make decisions simpler for developers, staff and residents. Limiting height and density would reduce speculation and would foster a livable, human-scale beach community. These new guidelines would enable us to encourage the adaptive reuse of buildings, include verifiable open space requirements in each development envelope, demand creativity in the design process, and endeavor to preserve our existing housing stock. Our activists would be able to devote more time to charitable pursuits and less time to bird-dogging planning meetings. And, significantly, as residents, we would be able to breathe.

Santa Barbara, Manhattan Beach and other Southern California beach cities have even lower height limits than we are proposing for Santa Monica. Their established limits have proven reasonable and effective. The proposed building heights that would be adopted in our voter approved initiative would be the maximum allowable heights and not subject to modification without voter approval.

We want to be clear. This is not a no-growth, no-change initiative. It would champion intelligent, smart growth. The heights we recommend would allow developers to profit from their purchase, and would promote the natural evolution of housing and commercial stock and thus the economic health of our city. If we reduce the amount of "cramming" a developer can bundle into a property, speculative buying and selling would both be dampened.

As one of the densest cities in our state, Santa Monica can no longer sustain more people and more traffic with the infrastructure we currently have in place. Far and away, the absolute best way to prevent even more desensitization in our city is to limit the height and floor area ratio of new construction. Rather than let our quality of life be corrupted, rather than see our city become urbanized to "blend in" with the Los Angeles metropolis, the height initiative we propose would allow Santa Monica to continue to be a distinct and refreshing environment.

Remember, those who come to our city to invest in and develop property are likely to put their business interests ahead of preserving our beach town ambiance and quality of life. They will not see the significance of protecting the unique authenticity of place that we value in Santa Monica. It's time for the residents of our city take a strong stand.

SMa.r.t believes it's time establish a clear and definitive "Line in the Sand". It's time for the "2-3-4-No More" Initiative to blossom!

LA artist to be honored at Free Arts Day

Free Arts Los Angeles has announced Free Arts' Fun Day 2015, scheduled for Saturday, June 6, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at The Victorian Santa Monica, 2640 Main Street. This annual fundraising event helps Free Arts bring hope and empowerment to abused, neglected, homeless and impoverished children by providing year-round creative arts programs led by positive adult volunteer mentors in safe, encouraging environments.

This year, Free Arts Los Angeles is proud to honor Los Angeles artist Lawrence C. Carroll with the 2015 Free Arts Volunteer Mentor of the Year Award. Upon moving to Los Angeles four years ago, Lawrence immediately connected with the mission of Free Arts, and has since spent a bulk of his time volunteering within the Free Arts organization to better serve the community.

"Having always been a creative child myself and utilizing art to express my feelings, I knew it was a natural relationship to become a volunteer. In the three years I've served as a volunteer, Free Arts has remained a wonderful outlet for me to continue being a creative child, and to connect with young people who are transitioning through life while enduring some extremely hard circumstances. I appreciate Free Arts so much for all the children and adults they support, including me."

Additional honorees include a line up of notables in the local, national and international design industry, including: Art Swagger Los Angeles, Debra Haas of Herman Miller, Patrice Hironimus of Gensler, Angela Lee & Mark Bryant of Interior Architects Kimball Office's Holly Rau and Mata Construction's Anne Alexander.

Free Arts Fun Day sponsors include Team One, Battista Co, LLC., Mulholland Luggage, Letter Four, Blick Art Materials, California Press, Mobile Mural Lab, Otis School of Design, Hornburg Jaguar & Dylan's Candy Bar.

Free Arts' Fun Day 2015 will bring together individuals and families throughout Los Angeles for a day of music, art activities for all ages, art galleries, silent auction, various food trucks and two Dylan's Candy Bars, refreshments and much more. Complimentary valet is provided and casual attire is recommended. For more information and to purchase tickets, please visit freearts.org.

SMC alum and muralist Andrew Hem leaves artistic tribute on campus

Renowned muralist and Santa Monica College alum Andrew Hem returned to donate an artistic tribute to the place that helped him hone his craft. On adjoining walls of the SMC Science building - located on the east side of SMC's main campus at 1900 Pico Boulevard - are two tall murals: one of a girl standing in an ocean with a hoodie pulled over her head, and around the corner, one of a boy in a snowy mountain setting.

"It stands for me and my sister - we haven't seen each other in a while," says Hem. "The ocean scene is a nod to Santa Monica beach, and the mountains represent Big Bear." On the amorphous nature of his characters' features, Hem said it was a deliberate choice - he did not want viewers to look at the mural and see a person of a particular race.

"How wonderful it is to grace our campus with a major piece of public art created by one of our accomplished alumni," said SMC President Dr. Chui L. Tsang. "Even more, we are grateful that he donated his work to show his appreciation for SMC helping him achieve his dreams."

Born during his parents' flight from Cambodia in the wake of the Khmer Rouge genocide, Hem grew up balancing two cultures: the rural animistic society of his Khmer ancestors, and the dynamic urban arts of the tough Los Angeles neighborhood where his family eventually came to live.

Fascinated by graffiti at an early age, he honed his skills with graphics and composition on the walls of the city before following his passion to SMC - where he took his first figure drawing class - and went on to obtain a B.F.A. degree in Illustration from Art Center College of Design in Pasadena.

"It was an easy transition for me. Before that I only did graffiti, and I mainly did lettering," says Hem, explaining why he decided to focus his education on fine art. "It was easy for me to change to figure drawing because of the shapes and cylinders in graffiti." Hem credits several SMC art professors - particularly artist and SMC instructor Marc Trujillo, a Guggenheim Fellowship recipient - for helping him hone his craft.

"I'm both proud of Andrew and gratified to have such a significant piece by Andrew become a part of my daily life on campus," said Trujillo. "He's what you hope for when you're teaching and exemplifies what SMC is striving to foster, both as a person and in his work: a kind, thoughtful, generous citizen of the world."

Hem works in gouache, oil, and acrylic, and his haunting impressions of culture and landscape evoke the life of the spirit through the visionary manifestation of memories and dreams.

He has exhibited in venues worldwide, such as Portsmouth Museum of Art in New Hampshire, Honolulu Museum of Art School, Fort Wayne Museum, Worcester Art Museum, and Oakland Museum of California. He has also had solo and group exhibitions in Los Angeles, New York, San Francisco, San Diego, Seattle, Portland, Nashville, Miami, Toronto, Zurich, Berlin, and Lecce, Italy.

Hem has lectured at Otis College of Art and Design in Los Angeles; Art Center College of Design in Pasadena; Ringling College of Art and Design in Florida; Transylvania University in Lexington, Kentucky; California State University, Northridge; and Rio Laboratorio in Colombia.

His personal work has been featured in Beyond Illustration, the Society of Illustrators annual, Communication Arts, Spectrum, American Illustration, 3x3, and Swallow, among others, and his illustration clients have included Apple Inc., eBay Inc., Sony, TBWA, 42 entertainment, Scholastic, Geo Photoredaktion, DPI, St. Anthony Messenger, Three Legged Legs, Matchbox Studios, Weekly Reader, Chicago Time out, The Atlantic, New Scientist, the Los Angeles Times, Adidas, and Lucky Brand Jeans. Hem lives and works in Los Angeles.

Hem was one of 10 artists to be invited to the White House for a celebration of American Art. He will also be recognized as one of two distinguished alumni at SMC's annual graduation ceremony on June 16, along with Dr. Nathan Myhrvold who was named by Foreign Policy magazine to its list of top 100 global thinkers and was the co-founder of Intellectual Ventures after retiring as chief strategist and chief technology officer of Microsoft Corporation.

CONSTRUCTION: The new building will expand the school's science offerings.

SCIENCE

where science is headed. If you make a building that's flexible, hopefully that will work."

The complex, which was designed by Los Angeles-based Frederick Fisher and Partners Architects, features a dozen classrooms and laboratories as well as study spaces, prep and storage areas, a special projects pavilion and a science-focused outdoor garden. It is tracking towards LEED Gold sustainability certification.

The building can be seen from the Interstate 10 freeway and 20th Street, and the architects wanted it to stand out while simultaneously fitting in with the industrial feel of the surrounding area.

The polished, glass-paneled facade is oriented towards the highway, leaving a rougher collection of concrete and exterior staircases for the eyes of the students and teachers who will approach and occupy the structure on a daily basis.

"It reflects the duality of the nature of the campus itself," Fisher said. "It's turning the city inside-out and creating an informal back-of-house environment."

Fisher's firm was selected to design the Crossroads science building about three years ago. Its portfolio already included local projects like Annenberg Community Beach House, Bergamot Station, Tongva Park and Ken Genser Square as well as facilities at educational institutions across the country.

Construction of the science center at the local private school's 21st Street campus, south of Olympic Boulevard, began in early 2014.

The space previously hosted two smaller buildings, including a storage facility for the school's theater department. But soon, architect Joseph Coriaty said, the new structure will serve as an interactive show for the school community.

"The idea was to make it as open as possible to the rest of the campus," he said. "It's encouraging students to engage with the building. You're curious about it."

HISTORY

Neutral parties intervened breaking up the fight. The article did not explain what the beef was over.

Earlier in the day, the sheriff had raided homes in the village, turning up liquor but not the prostitutes they'd been expecting to find.

PROPERTY SWAP

In June of 1915, property magnates swapped two massive plots of land.

King Gillette, the razor baron, gave up the famous Miramar property on Ocean Avenue and substantial cash for the Ivins apartments in Downtown Los Angeles.

The Miramar property had originally been owned by Senator John P. Jones, who founded Santa Monica.

The mansion had 30 rooms and an elevator.

J.C. Ivins took over the property.

The news came in an article about million-dollar development and real estate deals in Santa Monica. Resort and hotels, the article said, were coming to the oceanfront areas north and south of the municipal pier.

RACERS

Apparently, in the summer of 1915 there was nothing newsworthy about attempting unofficial road records until someone drove into a canyon.

One hundred years ago this month, O.F. Jewett and Miss M. Lockhart of Santa Monica, trying to break a road record between Santa Monica and San Diego when their Mercer roadster blew a tire, skidded 100 feet off the road, into a ditch, and then struck a 600-pound rock in Laguna Canyon. It took an hour and 15 minutes for them to make it that far and both individuals survived the crash with injuries.

COYOTE CRASH

Santa Monica residents, especially those with small pets, know that coyotes haunt the city by the sea but in June of 1915, coyotes were pets, at least for Milton Morgan, an 18-year-old who turtled his auto thanks, in part to his coyote cub.

Milton, according to the Times' archives, turned to check on his little pet, who was perched on the edge of the backseat and "frisking about." Milton's interest in the cub caused the car to swerve and ultimately flip, injuring, but not killing, many of the car's passengers.

GOODBYE ARCH ROCK

A famous rock arch, called Arch Rock, that appeared along the primitive path between Santa Monica and Malibu was scheduled for full demolition in the summer of 1915. The rock tunnel had been taken out of commission years earlier but country workers were scheduled to finish it off in efforts to widen the beach road.

DRIFTWOOD DRIFTER

A century ago this summer, police were investigating some genius hobo who was trying to charge beachgoers a 50 cent toll for driftwood.

TALKING TREES

Santa Monica resident Henry Heinelle, famous for finding singing sand dunes in Malibu, reported the discovery of talking trees in Los Tunas Canyon. The Times' apparently sent a reporter to the canyon because there are several paragraphs describing the sounds made by the whispering leaves.

COACH

Clark, who left the Vikings after six years at the helm to take the same position at Lawndale.

Lambert will be employed full-time by the district and will be teaching a freshman seminar in addition to his coaching duties. Salary details were not immediately available.

The search for Clark's replacement involved a selection committee of 10 people who discussed the attributes they sought in a new football coach.

The committee included Samohi athletic director Al Trundle, an administrator, a former coach (not Clark) and an assistant coach as well as three players, a parent, an athletics official and a representative of the Viking Fund, the school's athletics booster club.

"We warmly welcome Ramsey to the Samohi family," school house principal Elias Miles said in a statement. "After assessing our school and school district's vision, along with the core values of our community, we created a list of characteristics and qualities we wanted in our next head coach. We conducted an extensive coaching search that identified Ramsey as the perfect person to lead our program."

Lambert was drawn to Santa Monica by the size and location of the school and the tradition of the football program. The Vikings went 5-6 overall and 3-2 in conference play last year, losing in the first round of the section playoffs.

"The expectations are going to be lofty," he said. "There's good spirit. We have to be able to compete for a league title. I know they were senior-laden last year, and there's going to be a building process, but you can coach, and by the time you hit league everyone's pretty experienced. I want us to be battling for one of the top two spots."

Lambert, who was born in Hawaii and raised in California, played football at Hesperia High and turned to coaching after sustaining an injury at Victor Valley College in Victorville. He studied kinesiology at the University of Hawaii.

The 32-year-old served as an assistant at Victorville-Silverado and Hesperia-Oak Hills before taking the top job at La Canada.

Lambert made his new position Twitter-official, changing his handle from @LCfootballcoach to @SamohiFBcoach.

Lambert said he's already started reviewing game film of the Vikings online to get a sense for the kinds of athletes he'll have on the team this coming season.

He said he wants to analyze his players' strengths further before committing to particular schemes on offense and defense.

"I've always been an option team with a strong offensive line — with size, we like the power run game," he said. "A few times, with thinner groups up front, we were able to run some zone read. ... I'd like to evaluate the personnel more first."

COMMUNITY BRIEFS

CITYWIDE

274 Greater Los Angeles Girls Go Gold

This year, a whopping 274 greater Los Angeles high school Girl Scouts, including Santa Monica residents Phoebe Abramowitz, Emma Kohut, Mirai Miura and Kaitlyn Pastoriza-Plukas have channeled the skills they've gained as members of the nation's premier leadership development organization to identify issues in their community (and beyond) and lead sustainable projects addressing those needs. For their work, they have earned Girl Scouts' highest honor, the Girl Scout Gold Award, which they will receive in a ceremony in Pasadena on June 6.

Nationally, only six percent of all eligible Girl Scouts achieve the Gold Award. And out of 112 Girl Scout councils, Girl Scouts of Greater Los Angeles (GSGLA) has the highest number of girls reaching Gold. Girls who earn the Gold Award automatically enter the military one rank higher, and qualify for college scholarships, additional national service awards, and more. As a Gold Awardee, these girls are part of an elite group of women; the Gold Award - formerly called the Golden Eaglet, Curved Bar, and First Class - was established in 1916, four years after Girl Scouts was established in the U.S.

Earning the Gold Award requires the planning and implementation of a challenging, large-scale project that is innovative, engages others, and has a lasting impact on its targeted community.

In greater LA today, Gold Award projects are as diverse as the membership GSGLA serves. This year, one girl restored the LAX Coastal Dunes by removing non-native plants; another traveled to Peru to deliver dental care packages and teach good oral hygiene to children; and another girl created STEM curriculum for elementary school girls, which will be duplicated by Girl Scout staff at summer camps.

"In Girl Scouts, girls don't just talk about change - they step up and take action to make the world a better place on a personal, community, state, national, or international level," said Girl Scouts of Greater Los Angeles Chief Executive Officer Lise L. Luttgens. "We are so very proud of these 274 remarkable young women and are amazed by their ambition, commitment, and good will. They have made the world a better place."

Have You Been Injured in an Auto Accident?

If you believe that you or a family member are entitled to compensation for an injury, the best thing you can do is speak to an experienced personal injury attorney. You may be entitled to compensation for your injury including lost wages.

Find out how much your claim is worth right now!

Get immediate consultation 24/7. This a cost free, no obligation call.

Negligence and Auto Accidents

To have a valid car accident claim, you must first determine the negligent party or parties that caused the car crash. You may suspect that another driver, pedestrian, motorcyclist etc. acted carelessly, but cannot identify what traffic laws they violated. A skilled car accident attorney, however, can examine police reports and state traffic laws and speak to witnesses to determine who was at fault for your motor vehicle accident.

Tip: Act Quickly

If you seek legal advice, it's important that you do so as soon as possible after an accident. You're more likely to get the compensation due to you if your attorney is able to act quickly. Our state attorney's are available 24/7 to discuss your claim.

City of Santa Monica

THE CITY OF SANTA MONICA NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING FOR THE PROPOSED FY 2015-17 BIENNIAL BUDGET AND ADOPTION OF THE RESOLUTION ESTABLISHING THE CITY'S GANN APPROPRIATIONS LIMIT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2015-16

The City Council, Housing Authority, Successor Agency, and Parking Authority of the City of Santa Monica will hold a public budget hearing on June 23, 2015. The Council meeting will begin at 5:30 p.m. in the City Hall Council Chambers, 1685 Main Street, Santa Monica, California. All citizens are invited to attend and provide the Council with written and oral comments and ask questions concerning the City's entire proposed budget. At the meeting on June 23, the City Council will also adopt a resolution for the determination of the Gann Appropriations Limit for Fiscal Year 2015-16. A copy of the documentation used in calculating the limit is presented in the FY 2015-17 Proposed Biennial Budget.

The FY 2015-17 Proposed Biennial Budget can be inspected by the public in the City Clerk's Office at City Hall or viewed on the Internet at http://www.smgov.net/Departments/Finance/content.aspx?id=52296. Unless otherwise noted, City Hall is open Monday through Thursday 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Fridays 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. On alternate Fridays, City Hall is open for limited services only. A copy of the FY 2015-17 Proposed Biennial Budget is also available to view at the City's Main Library located at 601 Santa Monica Boulevard.

LEGEND

DRY -- each location is graded on an A - F scale based on bacterial pollution levels present in the surf zone
WET -- grades for days of recorded rainfall and the following 3 days
ns -- no sample taken

Heal the Bay's Beach Report Card™ is based on weekly water quality monitoring data provided by the City of Los Angeles' Environmental Monitoring Division and the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services. Data is analyzed as soon as it is made available to us by the public agencies. Beaches are graded on an A-F scale based on the risk of ocean users becoming ill. Samples are analyzed for bacteria—enterococcus, total and fecal coliforms—that indicate biological pollution. A fact sheet detailing the exact methodology used in determining grades for each location is available from the office or on our web site. The report is not designed to measure the amount of trash or toxins found at local beaches.

The Beach Report Card is an indication of past water quality and is not a warranty of the current safety of those areas surveyed. Our lawyers are happy.

Heal the Bay is a nonprofit environmental organization making Southern California coastal waters and watersheds, including Santa Monica Bay, safe, healthy and clean. We use science, education, community action and advocacy to pursue our mission.

CRIME WATCH

BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON MAY 30, AT APPROXIMATELY 4:30 A.M.

Santa Monica Police Officers responded to an arson call at a gas station located in the 300 block of Pico Boulevard. Officers were advised by the dispatcher that the suspect, a male in black clothing carrying a backpack had started a fire by the propane tanks. Upon arriving on the scene, officers made contact with a subject, later identified as Otto Marion, 46 of Arleta, walking around the gas station lot by a pile of smoldering garbage near a propane tank. Officers detained Marion as they proceeded to speak with the store's clerk and a witness. According to the witness, the station's clerk walked outside and woke Marion up, as he was sleeping by a gas pump. As the clerk entered the store, Marion began to collect papers and garbage and proceeded to set them on fire. Upon detaining and searching Marion, he was in possession of a lighter and book of matches. During the transport to jail, Marion admitted to setting the fire. Marion was booked for arson of property and bail was set at $50,000.

Sudoku

Fill in the blank cells using numbers 1 to 9. Each number can appear only once in each row, column, and 3x3 block. Use logic and process of elimination to solve the puzzle. The difficulty level ranges from (easiest) to (hardest).

Difficulty Level ★★★★

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

TODAY IN HISTORY

1833 – Andrew Jackson becomes the first U.S. President to ride on a train.

1844 – The Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA) is founded in London.

1857 – Sophia of Nassau marries the future King Oscar II of Sweden–Norway.

1859 – Australia: Queensland is established as a separate colony from New South Wales (Queensland Day).

1862 – American Civil War: Battle of Memphis – Union forces capture Memphis, Tennessee, from the Confederates.

1882 – More than 100,000 inhabitants of Bombay are killed when a cyclone in the Arabian Sea pushes huge waves into the harbour.

1882 – The Shewan forces of Menelik II of Ethiopia defeat the Gojjame army in the Battle of Embabo. The Shewans capture Negus Tekle Haymanot of Gojjam, and their victory leads to a Shewan hegemony over the territories south of the Abay River.

1892 – The Chicago "L" commuter rail system begins operation

1894 – Governor Davis H. Waite orders the Colorado state militia to protect and support the miners engaged in the Cripple Creek miners' strike.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPARD

■ "I'm doing what God wants," Mike Holpin, 56, told British TV's Channel 5 in April. "In the Bible, God says go forth and multiply," said the unemployed former carny who claims to have fathered at least 40 children (now aged from 3 to 37) by 20 different women. Holpin has been married three times, and lives with his fiancee Diane and two kids in the Welsh town of Cwm. "I (will) never stop," Holpin said. "I'm as fertile as sin..."

■ Police in eastern South Africa were searching in May for the three women who accosted a man in Kwazakhele Township, near Port Elizabeth, raped him in the back seat of a black BMW, collected his semen in a cooler, and sped away without him. Constable Mncedi Mbombo told the Sowetan Live website, "This is really confusing to us because we have never heard of such a thing before."

■ The Key Underwood Memorial Graveyard near Cherokee, Alabama, is reserved as hallowed ground for burial of genuine coon dogs, which must be judged authentic before their carcasses can be accepted, according to a December (2010) report in the Birmingham News. The Tennessee Valley Coon Hunters Association must attest to the dog's having had the ability "to tree a raccoon." (In March 2010, a funeral for one coon dog at Key Underwood drew 200 mourners.)

Every Weekend, 'Claudia's Corner' shows kids how to rock their world

Rock 'n roll all night long

By Megan Tambio

Fact: Sleepovers are the best. You get to stay up late and play with your friends, all in the comfort of your p.j.'s. Want your next sleepover to be even cooler? Come to the Skirball Cultural Center's Midnight Rambler on June 13!

Make like Ben Stiller and spend a night at the museum with your friends and family. Play in interactive exhibits like Skirball's immersive Noah's Ark. Have the most awesome dance party ever in the liquid lightshow exhibit. You'll also get to listen to some rockin' music, decorate your own guitar handmade by artist/musician Jason Varley and learn about the history of rock n' roll!

Did I mention there will be pizza and a breakfast buffet?

The experience is not only fun and informative, but unique too.

"It's very exciting (and rare) for children and families to spend the night in a museum when there are no other visitors," explains Jen Maxcy, Head of Family Programs. "The various spaces can be seen in a whole different light."

The event also helps kids make new friends (How could you not in a liquid lightshow dance party?).

General Admission is $55 and $45 for Skirball Members. The event kicks off at 6 p.m. next Saturday and runs until 9 a.m. Sunday morning.

For tickets, go to skirball.org.

Why settle for the usual sleepover when you can ramble all night long?

THROW US SOME FEEDBACK @GIIVE.ORG/CONTACT-US/

Go where your friends are, Aries

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Goodwill naturally flows from you to others and back again. You finally will be able to make an impression on someone who has been somewhat distant as of late. You will have a great time finding a friend to frolic and play with. Tonight: Go where your friends are.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ Deal with a loved one directly, as this person affects your life in many ways. You might want to invite him or her out for a fun happening where the two of you can relax and shoot the breeze. Remember to maintain your sense of humor. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★★ Keep reaching out to someone at a distance whom you care a lot about. You could find this person to be more remote than you probably expected. Drawing him or her in could take a bit of charm and persuasion. You like challenges, don't you? Tonight: Try something new.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Be willing to defer to a close friend. You have great ideas, but letting go of the need for control will be a lot healthier for you than you realize. Honor a change in your feelings when relating to a very special person in your life. Tonight: Don't hesitate to get a little romantic.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★★ Relax now, as you likely won't have a second to yourself once your day gets going. Be available for a spontaneous invitation when you are out. Consider what is going on with a child or loved one. Tonight: So many invitations. Be sure to say "yes" to at least one.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★ You will be very forthright and direct. Share your strong feelings with a friend you spend time with on a regular basis. You might not realize how deep this friendship really is. Make a point of getting more exercise. Tonight: Whatever your pleasure is, go for it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ You might want to try a more romantic approach with someone you have your eye on, but only if you don't want to hurt your friendship. In any case, your fun and flirtatious side emerges. Few can resist you. Know that, and make decisions accordingly. Tonight: Full of fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ Consider taking some alone time. An older friend or key associate will seek you out. You have little choice but to stop and visit with this person. Recognize the results of recent networking. Tonight: Stay on top of a fun happening in which you could be instrumental.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★★ Finally you will let go of some of the resistance that pushes others away. Be more concerned about the costs of that attitude. Open up and work on being more optimistic. Others will be more appreciative of your creativity. Tonight: Whatever knocks your socks off.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★ Slow down some and calculate the damages of proceeding as you have been. You might decide to make a change that has been brewing for quite a while. Know how it is likely to affect a personal matter. Loosen up and relax. Tonight: Out at a favorite restaurant.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ You might be challenged by a situation that arises from out of the blue. Step away from this potential problem and let a friend work it out. You will be happiest if you stay uninvolved. Make the most of a few hours away from the maddening scene. Tonight: As you like it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★ You might be best off taking some much-needed personal time. You have worked hard and socialized intensely lately. Make it OK to vanish or do the unexpected. Liberate yourself. Take a long-overdue nap. Tonight: Act as if you don't have to do anything.

Weekend Edition, June 6-7, 2015

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS
The stars show the kind of day you'll have:
★★★★★Dynamic ★★ So-So
★★★★ Positive ★ Difficult
★★★ Average

This year you have great potential for fun and risk-taking, no matter what age you are. You see and experience the lighter side of life. You have a natural optimism that emanates from you. Others cannot help but be drawn to you. Be ready to adapt to a changing domestic life. If you are single, you could attract a potential suitor with ease in the next few months. You will know when you meet this person. If you are attached, the two of you naturally enrich each other's lives. It seems as if you always have a good time together. AQUARIUS knows how to make you laugh.
