NEW CLINIC

Venice Family Clinic hosted the grand opening of the Lou Colen Children's Health & Wellness Center in Mar Vista last week. The Clinic welcomed local children and families, community leaders, and elected officials including Congressman Ted Lieu, for tours of the new children's health center. Named for Venice Family Clinic benefactor Lou Colen, who passed away in April at the age of 100, the clinic is Venice Family Clinic's most patient-centered and technologically advanced health center. The opening event was held on what would have been Lou Colen's 101st birthday. The center is located at Braddock Square Shopping Center, 700 Inglewood Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Average Santa Monican had 80 minutes of power outage last year

Edison replacing aging equipment

BY DAVID MARK SIMPSON
Daily Press Staff Writer

CITYWIDE On average, Santa Monicans sat in the dark for 80 minutes in 2014, according to reporting from Southern California Edison.

Edison is doing some work in the city rebuilding circuits and making underground vault replacements.

Santa Monica's reliability rankings have improved since last year, but they are down from 2011, when they were among the best in Southern California, according to the report.

On average, Santa Monicans experienced 1.1 sustained outages in 2014, slightly higher than the system-wide average but similar to the number of outages experienced in the year prior.

Santa Monicans experienced less than one (.7) momentary interruptions

The most common cause of sustained outages were animals and vegetation, like a tree branch, rodent, or bird causing a short circuit between conductors.

About 45 percent of all sustained outages in Santa Monica were caused by animals or vegetation.

More than a quarter were caused by equipment failure, like

Beach House the place for summer fun

BY SAMUEL CATANZARO
Daily Press Intern

Summer is here which for some means the beach, for others the pool and for yet others fun and games. Santa Monica's Annenberg Community Beach House, open to the public throughout the summer, allows guests to do all of these things plus a whole lot more.

"You can design your day. Whether you want to have a beach day, whether you want to have a pool day, or whether you want to be out playing beach volleyball," said Nan Friedman, Manager of the Beach House. "You have the opportunity to dip into history, dip

Local student Receives Fulbright Award

James Piacentini of Santa Monica has been offered a Fulbright U.S. Student Program grant to Italy in Urban Development & Planning, the United States Department of State and the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board announced recently.

Piacentini is one of over 1,900 U.S. citizens who will travel abroad for the 2015-2016 academic year through the Fulbright U.S. Student Program. Recipients of Fulbright grants are selected on the basis of academic and professional achievement, as well as demonstrated leadership potential.

The Fulbright Program is the flagship international educational exchange program sponsored by the U.S. government and is designed to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries. The primary source of funding for the Fulbright Program is an annual appropriation made by the U.S. Congress to the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. Participating governments and host institutions, corporations and foundations in foreign countries and in the United States also provide direct and indirect support. Recipients of Fulbright grants are selected on the basis of academic or professional achievement, as well as demonstrated leadership potential in their fields. The Program operates in over 160 countries worldwide.

Since its establishment in 1946 under legislation introduced by the late U.S. Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, the Fulbright Program has given approximately 360,000 students, scholars, teachers, artists, and scientists the opportunity to study, teach and conduct research, exchange ideas and contribute to finding solutions to shared international concerns.

Fulbright alumni have achieved distinction in government, science, the arts, business, philanthropy, education, and many other fields. Fifty-three Fulbright alumni from 12 countries have been awarded the Nobel Prize, and 82 alumni have received Pulitzer Prizes. Prominent Fulbright alumni include: Muhammad Yunus, founder, Grameen Bank, and 2006 Nobel Peace Prize recipient; Juan Manuel Santos, President of Colombia; John Hope Franklin, noted American historian and Presidential Medal of Freedom recipient; Riccardo Giacconi, physicist and 2002 Nobel Laureate; Amar Gopal Bose, founder, Bose Corporation; Renée Fleming, soprano; Jonathan Franzen, writer; and Daniel Libeskind, architect.

Fulbright recipients are among over 50,000 individuals participating in U.S. Department of State exchange programs each year. The Fulbright U.S. Student Program is administered by the Institute of International Education.

How can you mend a broken heart?

WHO BUT THE HARDCORE HATERS

amongst us did not weep for the Charleston Nine, and for our nation?

I had tears on a few occasions this past week, and much reflection. And sadness, pervasive sadness. It was the kind that usually comes with the loss of someone you knew but weren't really close to or didn't see very often, or sometimes a cherished public figure you felt you knew.

Of course I knew none of the nine. And I'm not black, nor South Carolinian (but was born in the South), nor of the AME faith, yet it affected me deeply. I'm not even a Christian, any more (though Jesus is just alright with me - Byrds, Doobie Brothers), and I'm pretty disdainful of religion and dismissive of those who follow mindlessly. Bible- or Koran-pushers of any persuasion make me crazy.

But being raised Catholic and having a passable acquaintance with faith and the Bible, I understand the mindset and am also sympathetic, and as long as someone is contemplative about their religion, and not didactic, I say, whatever blows your hair back, whatever gets you through the night.

Especially if you have a centuries-long family history of horrific, unthinkable nights (and days), as do almost all black Americans.

From what I heard on TV and Internet, the family, friends and fellow congregants of those slaughtered at Emanuel AME always made some mention of their religious faith, of it getting them through this unimaginable horror. God bless you, I say with all sincerity.

Their unified invocations of forgiveness for the killer, from those from whom he had stolen so much, have to be an inspiration of the highest order, no matter what your faith or lack of it. (Though I have spoken to some for whom that forgiveness, so soon, is so incomprehensible they dismiss it as crazy. We should all have hearts so crazy.)

So what could I do, to express some token support, to show that this white fellow American on the Other Coast cared deeply and was standing with them, emotionally, spiritually? Part of an amazing collective out pouring, that might be of some comfort?

I didn't come up with anything, until I got a Facebook message from my friend Craig Sunday morning, saying he was going with his family to the First AME Church by the Sea here in Santa Monica. It was a private message, not urging or even inviting, but I immediately decided to go.

I did have the thought, maybe I should go to the big AME church in South Central, the famous one. Everyone will be there. It will be memorable. But keeping it local seemed the right way to go.

After nearly three decades living here, I didn't even know that church existed, on a stretch of Michigan that dead ends near 20th and is hemmed in on the north by the freeway, until I came upon it on one of my walk-every-block-in-Santa Monica walks, maybe a year ago. It is tucked away, and because I had memorized an incorrect address, I had a lot of trouble finding it.

When I finally did, and scooted across the parking lot I saw a man and a woman in vestments standing on the steps to welcome people. "Sorry I'm a little late," I smiled, and they said, "Oh no, you're right on time," and escorted me in.

Considering that the service wasn't over for another two hours plus, and that some folks were still trickling in an hour later (they probably knew there was still more than half the service to go), I could see they were not just being kind, but also accurate.

I spotted Craig's family at the back and said hello, he and his son in their yarmulkes, but chose to sit farther up, to spread the few white folks there out a bit. One other gentleman of the Caucasian persuasion soon came in. The sparse crowd finally reached about 75 souls.

The 13-voice choir was good but could have used a few more microphones. The two keyboard players were very, very good. The youngish piano player was pounding away on the lively numbers and could get a job with Rev. Al Green in Memphis if he wanted, and the organist handled the slower hymns with properly muted jams, and made his creative most of a long, long vamp on "How Great Thou Art." Inspired. A hidden drummer was icing on the cake.

What can I say? I'm a music guy. I go to church, I review the music. It's also why when I do go to church, it's nearly always a black church. Music enlivens the emotions. Everyone knows God is a boogie chile, She's a boogie on reggae woman, I am sure.

It seemed to me probably their usual Sunday service, but with homilies, and a powerful guest preacher from Louisiana, Rev. Kemp, speaking to the tragedy in Charleston. The locals consider the Emanuel AME there to be their mother church. It has a history, tied in to African American issues, going back to 1791. That church was burned down, banned, knocked flat by an earthquake, and has carried on. They will carry on through this disaster.

Two moments pulled on me most: when the simple, very short but defining prayer was offered, "for gun control, we pray, O Lord"; and when a woman reading the usual Sunday announcements read a brief message of condolence and solidarity from Rabbi Neil Comess-Daniels of our local Temple Beth Shir Shalom, and she was clearly moved, her voice cracking, the only such display that day, not of letting the spirit slip, but of being so struck by the compassion of another soul who understood.

In a way, that moment said it all, and I was glad I was there.

SOMETHING ELSE YOU MIGHT NOT HAVE DONE BEFORE

Going to the monthly meeting of the Activists Support Circle, this Friday at 6:30 at the Friends Meeting Hall at 1440 Harvard. No charge, but you'll probably get one from their dynamic guest speaker, Ed Asner, one very interesting dude. Cookies and Kool-Aid will be served, yeah it is pretty kumbaya, but take a chance. Could be life changing, or at least the best thing by far that you could do early Friday evening.

Santa Monica authors release new book with Brown Girls Publishing

BY SEAN MCDONALD
Daily Press Intern

Santa Monica authors Marcy Winograd and Jackie Hirtz are back with a sequel to their tween novel "Lola Zola and the Lemonade Crush".

The new novel is titled "New Girl on Salt Flat Road" and it debuted May 21 from Brown Girls Publishing. The story centers on 11-year-old Lola Zola, a 6th grader struggling with her transition to womanhood. Her mother doesn't want her to grow up too quickly, but when a new girl from Malibu moves in next door she becomes caught up in a fast paced lifestyle that eventually gets her in trouble with the law. In this far more personal sequel, Lola deals with body image issues, mother-daughter conflict, and the police as she tries to race to womanhood, fearing she's growing up too slowly.

"I drew on a lot of my own experiences as a 6th grader," said co-author Marcy Winograd. "My mother didn't want me to go up too fast, but I had friends who were developing so quickly I felt like maybe I was too slow". She said the experience of writing the book with Hirtz was heartening, as writing is often solitary and can become lonely. "I'm glad to be working with an author whose style compliments my own writing." Jackie and Marcy have worked together before on a project about an 11 year old when they collaborated on the Nickelodeon show Doug.

Winograd says she is definitely working on the third book in the series, in fact she has already started. "It's called Lola Zola and the Bingo King. The story centers on a con man who sweeps into town selling pipe dreams and the towns people are all too willing to buy into his tricks, but Lola is onto him." Said Winograd.

Both authors credit Santa Monica as having an influence on their work, especially in the case of Lola Zola. "In Santa Monica there are kids like Lola Zola who aren't focused on being pop idols like Kim Kardashian," says Hirtz. "You see a lot in Santa Monica, you see kids acting out but you also see kids doing amazing things like raising money for earthquake victims in Nepal."

Hirtz and Winograd are working with Brown Girls Publishing for the first time and they're thrilled with the opportunity. "The publishing industry is changing so fast and in the midst of that they formed this company and it's really taken off," says Hirtz. "They're doing amazing things."

Awarded ICMA-RC Memorial Scholarship

Santa Monica resident Hanna Hone, 21, has been selected to receive an ICMA-RC Public Employee Memorial Scholarship (ICMA-RC Memorial Scholarship). The ICMA-RC Memorial Scholarship Fund Board of Directors presented 36 scholarships for the 2015-2016 academic year to recipients from 17 different states. Hone will attend the University of California, Davis.

ICMA-RC Memorial Scholarships are presented annually to surviving children and spouses of firefighters, police officers, and other public employees who have died in the line of duty. Jack Hone died in the line of duty while serving the Santa Monica Fire Department.

"The ICMA-RC Memorial Scholarship awards program was established in 2001 to honor the memory of public servants such as Mr. Hone who made the ultimate sacrifice in the line of duty," said ICMA-RC President and CEO and President of the ICMA-RC Memorial Scholarship Fund Bob Schultze. "We are pleased to recognize the accomplishments of Ms. Hone with an ICMA-RC Memorial Scholarship to help further her education during the 2015-2016 academic year."

Individuals are eligible to apply for the ICMA-RC Memorial Scholarship if they are the child or spouse of a local or state government employee who has died in the line of duty and planning to study full-time at an accredited two- or four-year college or university, or vocational-technical school. Applicants are selected based on factors such as financial need, academic record, demonstrated leadership in school and community activities, honors, and work experience.

Since the program's inception, more than 250 students have received more than $950,000 in scholarship awards. To learn more about the ICMA-RC Memorial Scholarship and the 2015-2016 recipients, visit www.vantagescholar.org.

The Fund is a Section 501(c)(3) public charity founded by ICMA-RC in 2001. Financial support for the scholarship is provided by individuals, foundations, organizations and ICMA-RC. Further information on making a donation and the application for future scholarships can be found at www.vantagescholar.org.

Founded in 1972, ICMA-RC is a non-profit independent financial services corporation based in Washington, D.C. focused on providing retirement plans and related services for more than one million public sector participant accounts and more than 9,000 retirement plans. Our mission is to help build retirement security for public sector employees. We deliver on our mission by focusing on service, quality and value. All of our retirement programs, administrative services and educational tools have been developed specifically for public sector retirement plan administrators and participants. into the water or dip into recreation.”

Located in Santa Monica off the Pacific Coast Highway on Beach House Way, admission to the pool is $10 for adults, $4 for kids and $5 for seniors. On Mondays, pool admission is only $1. Reservations are not required and passes are given in the form of wristbands giving guests access to the pool, changing rooms, showers and lockers.

The grounds, including the playground, beach area, courtyard, view deck, Marion Davies Guest House and restaurant are free and do not require pool admission.

The beach house has a wide range of special events planned for the summer that will please both old and young. Sunset Swims are perfect for adults looking for some kid-free relaxation. Held the second Friday of the month between 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. throughout the summer, Sunset Swims are a time where the pool is open for just adults. Each month, there is a different theme, including “Sunset Swim with a splash of the tropics” and “Sunset Swim goes to summer camp.”

“We are always looking for a way to accommodate our guests’ requests and we had a number of persistent requests for adult time only at the pool,” Friedman said. “Early on we tried lap swimming and morning swims but we have learned a lot about our site and how people use our site so we are giving this a try and we will see how it goes. We are very excited about it.”

But kids don’t always want to be left out of the fun and they will not be thanks to the Beach House’s annual Cardboard Yacht Regatta. Families and friends can pair up in teams of two to construct yachts to race in the pool from corrugated cardboard and duct tape.

“The teams get really into it, they create incredibly complex boats that are highly themed and decorated. They take it really seriously and go all out and produce really incredible cardboard yachts,” Friedman said.

If swimming and yachts sound too chaotic, guests can also check out the Beach = Cultural events, a series of free concerts, readings, talks and exhibits at the Beach House.

“We have an incredible array of really high quality artists,” Friedman said. “All of these are free. We just ask that you make an RSVP through our website.”

Guests are also invited to attend the Beach House’s 3rd Annual Community Picnic on July, 23 at 6 p.m. The event is free and friends and families are encouraged to pack a dinner for a fun and relaxing evening at the beach.

“It’s a really great opportunity to treat the Beach House like your neighborhood park. Everyone comes out and brings their own dinner. It’s a really lovely night to spend dining al fresco at the beach house with you community,” Friedman said.

At the end of the day Friedman believes that the Beach House is special in its ability to satisfy everybody, no matter what their age or interests are.

“Everybody comes here and creates their own day and finds a way to have a great day at the Beach House,” she said.

BUDGET

Members of the community can weigh in on the proposed budget — which includes a $1.29-million surplus in the general fund — before the board approves a final version, which is expected at its special meeting June 29.

REVENUE PROJECTIONS

The proposed SMMUSD budget reflects the latest estimates for state and federal revenues and comes as the district shoulders more responsibility in handling state money as part of the Local Control Funding Formula.

There was a projected $7.4-million deficit in the unrestricted general fund when the board evaluated the district budget in early May, but the budget was later updated to show a $1.07-million surplus in that fund. The change was due in large part to an influx of money reflected in Gov. Jerry Brown's revised state budget.

However, the district's multi-year projections still show a $5.1-million shortfall in the unrestricted general fund in 2016-17 and a $5.5-million shortfall in 2017-18.

In the proposed 2015-16 budget, revenues totaling more than $138 million include about $84 million through LCFF as well as another $14.5 million in other state money and close to $11.3 million in parcel taxes.

Projected income sources also include $7.5 million from the City of Santa Monica through Prop Y, another $8.6 million from the city through a joint-use agreement and $3.7 million through lease and rent agreements with the DoubleTree hotel and other entities.

The budget assumes a $2.2-million contribution from the Santa Monica-Malibu Education Foundation. The district's fundraising arm was tasked with raising $4 million by June 30.

The projected Regional Occupational Program revenue is $407,379. The program is undergoing major changes to meet new state standards for career technical education.

EXPECTED EXPENDITURES

Salaries and benefits for district employees amount to about $118 million — 86 percent of the $136.7 million in proposed 2015-16 expenditures.

The district is adding the equivalent of 18 full-time certificated positions, including the equivalent of 12 full-time teachers and 2.8 teaching positions in special education, according to a SMMUSD report. Placements are based on district enrollment, which is expected to be 11,173.

The budget also accounts for the addition of a special education psychologist, a facilities director and a construction supervisor.

Other planned expenditures include $14 million in operating costs, $3.7 million for books and supplies and $1.09 million in capital outlay.

in-service failure of transformers, switches, or conductors.

Outages caused by equipment failure lasted longer than those caused by any other issue, including animals and vegetation.

Weather, fires, or earthquakes were the third most common cause of outages.

Edison is in the midst rehabilitating circuits, a project that started, conceptually, in 2012. Construction began this year.

"Ongoing work includes service requests from customers, preventative maintenance, and repairs due to failures," city officials said in a report to council. "SCE is also making a significant investment to replace aging equipment through infrastructure replacement projects. These projects expand and upgrade transmission and distribution networks and improve reliability by replacing equipment before it fails."

These capital improvement projects cost about $4.5 million

Reviewing metrics from the last several years, it became clear that eight underground vaults needed replacement and two circuits needed to be rebuilt.

Three vaults have already been completed (on Arizona Avenue around Second Street, Marine and Main Street, and Broadway and Second Street) and two are scheduled for completion later this month (on Arizona around Fourth Court and San Vicente Boulevard around First Court).

A circuit rebuild on Ashland Avenue at Pearl Street is scheduled to be completed this month and the other, on Montana Avenue and San Vicente, is slated for completion by the end of the year.

Thanks to new requirements on electrical poles, Edison will also be checking out all of the city's poles over the next few months.

"Areas designated as potential high wind zones and high fire (meaning potential fire if loss of pole integrity), primarily in the northwest area of the City, will be prioritized first," city officials said in the report to council. "Based on the results of the assessment a prioritized schedule of necessary pole replacements will be developed and implemented over the next couple of years."

Heal the Bay is a nonprofit environmental organization making Southern California coastal waters and watersheds, including Santa Monica Bay, safe, healthy and clean. We use science, education, community action and advocacy to pursue our mission.

Heal the Bay's Beach Report Card™ is based on weekly water quality monitoring data provided by the City of Los Angeles' Environmental Monitoring Division and the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services. Data is analyzed as soon as it is made available to us by the public agencies. Beaches are graded on an A-F scale based on the risk of ocean users becoming ill. Samples are analyzed for bacteria—enterococcus, total and fecal coliforms—that indicate biological pollution. A fact sheet detailing the exact methodology used in determining grades for each location is available from the office or on our web site. The report is not designed to measure the amount of trash or toxins found at local beaches.

The Beach Report Card is an indication of past water quality and is not a warranty of the current safety of these areas surveyed. Our sleepers are happy.

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON JUNE 11 AT APPROXIMATELY 11 A.M.

Officers responded to the 2300 block of Ocean Park Boulevard in response to a domestic violence call. Upon arrival, officers were met by the victim, and she stated that she had stopped by to check in on her ex-fiancé, later identified as Shelton Lorick, 63 year old transient, because she was worried about his well-being. Soon after her arrival an argument ensued over relationship issues.

As the victim attempted to leave multiple times, Lorick physically stopped her and proceeded to push her. Lorick continued pushing the victim toward the restroom forcing her to lose her footing and fall inside the shower floor. Once the victim was inside the shower, Lorick began to punch the victim in the face. The victim began to yell for help, when a witness approached the door and asked if everything was okay and that he was going to call the police. When police arrived, the suspect was found sitting across the street. He was arrested for domestic violence. Bail was set at $50,000.

Sudoku

Fill in the blank cells using numbers 1 to 9. Each number can appear only once in each row, column, and 3x3 block. Use logic and process of elimination to solve the puzzle. The difficulty level ranges from (easiest) to (hardest).

Difficulty Level ★★

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

TODAY IN HISTORY

1982- "The Jakarta Incident": British Airways Flight 9 flies into a cloud of volcanic ash thrown up by the eruption of Mount Galunggung, resulting in the failure of all four engines.

1989- Jiang Zemin succeeds Zhao Ziyang to become the General Secretary of the Communist Party of China after 1989 Tiananmen Square Protests.

1995- "Rugby World Cup final": South Africa defeats New Zealand, Nelson Mandela presents Francois Pienaar with the Webb-Ellis trophy in an iconic post-apartheid moment.

2004- In New York, capital punishment is declared unconstitutional.

2010- John Isner of the United States defeats Nicolas Mahut of France at Wimbledon, in the longest match in professional tennis history.

2010- Julia Gillard assumed office as the first female Prime Minister of Australia.

2012- Lonesome George, the last known individual of Chelonoidis nigra abingdonii, a subspecies of the Galápagos tortoise, dies.

2013- Former Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi is found guilty of abusing his power and having sex with an underage prostitute, and is sentenced to seven years in prison.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPARD

■ The law of turkey-baster insemination took a turn in Virginia in April when mother Joyce Bruce was unable to keep sperm-provider Robert Boardwine out of her son's life. Bruce relied on a state statute that seemed to allow her sole parenthood if the pregnancy was based on assisted-reproduction medical technology. However, the Court of Appeals of Virginia declared that a "kitchen implement" is not "medical technology" and, considering Boardwine's genuine interest in fatherhood, ruled that he was entitled to joint custody and visitation rights.

■ Once again, in May, lawyers went to court trying to persuade a judge that some rights under the U.S. Constitution be extended to intelligent apes (here, chimpanzees, as "autonomous and self-determining beings" at least as perceptive as, for example, severely mentally ill people, who retain rights while institutionalized). Lawyers are once again asking for a writ of habeas corpus (now available only to humans) to take Hercules and Leo out of a lab and into a sanctuary. (Adding to the discussion, in the week after the court hearing, a Harvard professor and colleagues, writing in the journal Current Anthropology, hypothesized that chimps could cook foods if given the chance. Tests revealed that they resist raw food when they are able to place it into a device that made it taste better -- which in theory makes them more intelligent than children who eat cookie dough.)

‘Cause Celeb’ catches celebrities in the act of doing good
Down & dirty with Mike Rowe

By Colin Newton

Whatever happened to good old-fashioned hard work? That's exactly what Mike Rowe, host of Discovery Channel's Dirty Jobs and CNN's Somebody's Gotta Do It, wants to know. And that's why he made the mikeroweWORKS Foundation.

"Nobody else seems to celebrate work ethic," Rowe told Giive a (bleep). "We reward work ethic."

The mikeroweWORKS Foundation started during the recession as a PR campaign in defense of jobs that existed, but people seemed to be ignoring, Rowe said. Jobs like plumbers, carpenters and welders.

"We've told our kids those opportunities are for losers. That's the mindset that fuels the misconception," Rowe said.

So now, the foundation also supplies scholarships for people to work for companies like Ford and Caterpillar.

Where does the money for the scholarships come from, you ask?

From C.R.A.P., of course. That is, Collectibles Rare and Precious —the auctioning of Rowe's personal stuff collected during his TV work.

Anybody familiar with Dirty Jobs can guess some of the "precious" stuff.

"I had a box of fossilized polar bear (bleep) that people bid hundreds of dollars for," Rowe said. "I sold a baby bottle full of horse semen."

Rowe isn't anti-college, he just wants to see society embrace multiple paths to economic fulfillment.

"What I learned halfway through the first season was that the people I was profiling were a whole lot happier and more balanced than most of my friends," he said. "Certainly people in Hollywood."

"We don't value work," Rowe said. Consequently, we don't value the people who do it.

"As a result, we don't champion opportunities that really exist."

For more information, including how to bid on your own piece of C.R.A.P., visit his website at mikeroweWORKS.com/foundation.

OUT LATE TONIGHT, ARIES

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ You might want to get past others' attitudes. Just try to keep everything calm on the homefront, where a disagreement easily could explode. Consider your options and weigh them carefully, especially if they involve real estate or your domestic life. Tonight: Out late.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★ Weigh the pros and cons of a situation. Make an effort to be more in touch with your needs. You will be entering a period where you will be more likely to become angry or combative. Try to express your feelings in a way that they can be heard. Tonight: Pace yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ You might want to put more pep in your step and come from a place of happiness. Money might be a key priority, as you likely will want to funnel it into some fun. Be careful -- once you start spending, you will have difficulty reining yourself back in. Tonight: Very playful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★ Someone knows how to evoke a strong response from you, as you will see. Know that caring can translate into hurt, and then into anger. When you become a hot head, it might be difficult not to say the wrong thing. Tonight: Use your imagination no matter where you are.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★ Be aware of the costs of continuing as you have. You might enter a period where you want others to take the lead more often. You could feel awkward when dealing with an associate or a personal matter. Let your emotions point you in the right direction. Tonight: A force to behold.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ You'll have good reason to approach a situation in a different way. You are likely to get the results you have been hoping for. Don't allow money to become too much of a theme. A friend suddenly could become demanding. Pull back for now. Tonight: Your treat.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ Your patience seems to be wearing thin from dealing with a difficult associate or friend. Although you might like to spend time with this person, you could be hesitant. Refuse to make any decisions just yet. An older relative's temper is likely to flare. Tonight: Happy at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ Read between the lines when dealing with someone you care about. This person might not be revealing what is really going on, and you'll sense his or her inauthentic ways. Rather than get into an argument, say little. Use caution with anyone you meet today. Tonight: Not to be found.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ You could feel as if you need to take a different road. You might be insecure, but with the amount of supporters you have, you'll sense that the results will be excellent. Don't allow a loved one's display of anger stop you. Go for what you want. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Others have expectations that might surprise you. Avoid a disagreement, if possible, and don't minimize someone's goals or interests. You will want to understand this person's logic. You might need to defer to someone else to handle this. Tonight: In the limelight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

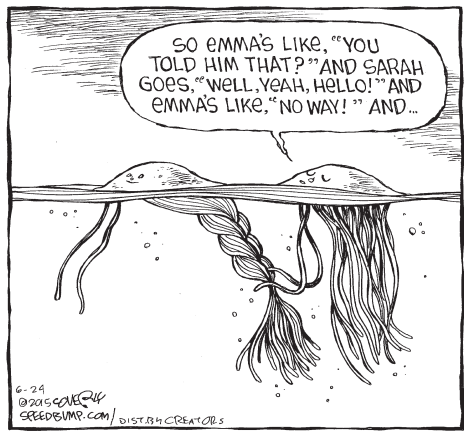

★★★★★ Be willing to take a walk on the wild side. As a result, you will lighten up and invigorate others to express their true selves. Use caution around money agreements. Count your change carefully. Be aware of the negatives as well as the positives. Tonight: Use your imagination.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ Be aware of what is happening around you. A partner's efforts will pay off in a way that neither of you had anticipated. Tap into your creativity for solutions. You will be amazed by how a situation can be transformed so that all parties are happy. Tonight: Reach out to a friend.

This year you tend to feel pressured. You often say one thing but do another. Others in your life might find your messages to be somewhat conflicting and difficult to understand. If you are single, you could meet someone of significance anytime from mid-August on. You might meet this person in your daily travels, perhaps even while running errands. This bond will be an active one. If you are attached, you both develop an increased desire to spend more time together. LIBRA is caring yet different from you.
