Local softball players heading to Italy

SANTA MONICA REBELS, AREA COACH CHRIS DRUCKMAN TO REPRESENT U.S. OVERSEAS

BY JEFFREY I. GOODMAN
Daily Press Staff Writer

They'll go, they'll see and maybe they'll even conquer.

Members of a local club softball team are heading to Italy next week for 10 days of international competition, sightseeing and camaraderie.

Seven players from the Santa Monica Rebels will become athletic ambassadors on the trip, which will pit them against Italian teams in three sets of double-headers in Padua, Rome and Florence.

"They'll get to represent America," said Rebels coach Chris Druckman, who was chosen as a coach for the Italy-bound squad. "It's an amazing opportunity for these girls."

The trip is organized by America's Team, a company that offers sports-centric travel opportunities to young athletes from across the country.

The journey was arranged after the company reached out to Druckman, whose local players will join athletes from Kentucky to create a full roster.

The Santa Monica contingent includes recent Pacifica Christian graduate Emma Miller, who will attend University of Puget Sound in Washington state, and three other area products: former Palisades High student Sydra Gianassi (Cal Poly San Luis Obispo) and Los Angeles-Hamilton alumnae Viveka Cousins (Wesleyan) and Emily Kalbrosky (Oregon).

The Italy-bound 19-and-under roster also features Santa Monica High junior Makensey Druckman, Palisades senior Daisy Jones and Los Angeles Center for Enriched Studies junior Dani Pechthalt.

Their overseas trip is part of a busy summer of softball.

Recently, the girls and their Rebels teammates earned a silver medal in what Druckman called a "nail-biting" district championship game in Rancho Cucamonga. The second-place finish qualified the Rebels for a state tournament July 10-12 in Lancaster.

The day after the state competition ends, seven players will fly to Italy. And when they return from abroad, they'll rejoin their Rebels teammates to compete in national championships in Spokane, Washington.

The Rebels have represented Santa Monica at the district, state and national levels every year since 2012, when they splintered from another Santa Monica-based softball club to play in more competitive games and leagues. Last year, they took second in districts and third in state to qualify for the national championships in Wyoming.

Druckman, a longtime softball coach in the area who has helmed Brentwood School's varsity program, was hoping to take more Rebels players on the Italian excursion.

"It came down to finances for a lot of the girls," said Druckman, who is still raising money through crowdfunding website Piggybackr. "That was my first goal — to give the same opportunity to everybody. A few had to drop out because they couldn't afford it, and we couldn't raise enough money."

The girls who make the trip will do much more than play softball. They'll also meet foreign players, sample local food and visit cultural and historical sites like Trevi Fountain, the Colosseum and Vatican City.

Outgoing planning commissioner honored for 'depth of expertise'

CITY HALL Jim Ries, who joined the Planning Commission in 2007, left the dais as a commissioner for the last time, urging future commissioners to reach across the aisle.

Ries was up for a third term — therefore requiring five City Council votes rather than the usual four — but was ultimately replaced by longtime Landmarks Commissioner Nina Fresco.

Jason Parry was reappointed and council will fill the seat of Carter Rubin, who is not seeking reappointment, later this year.

"We will all miss him," Commissioner Richard McKinnon said before Ries' last meeting, "and the depth of expertise and intelligence and application he's brought to us has, on many nights, saved this commission from

THREADS SECURES PARTNERSHIP TO EXPAND CLOTHING DONATION EFFORTS

BY JEFFREY I. GOODMAN
Daily Press Staff Writer

Contrary to what her garage might suggest, Suzanne Goldman isn't a hoarder.

The boxes and boxes of clothing she's collected represent the work of the nonprofit she and fellow school parent Jake Wachtel started a couple years ago.

But Santa Monica-based Threads has outgrown its temporary storage space.

Indeed, the success of the co-founders' efforts to clothe needy students in Santa Monica and Malibu has led to a major turning point: They no longer have room to house the clothing they've rounded up over many months, and they're now entering a partnership with a larger nonprofit organization to expand their reach and impact.

The group's clothing will be placed at area thrift shops run by the Los Angeles chapter of the National Council of Jewish Women, where local low-income students and their families can use vouchers to acquire clothes for free.

It was part of Threads' vision all along, Goldman said, to allow children to select their own clothes instead of being handed items that don't fit well or that don't mesh with their style preferences.

"They're going to be able to shop and pick out any type of clothing — not just things we've collected," Goldman said. "People can go in and shop for what they want. Families with vouchers can go to an actual store, go through the racks and get what they need."

Brown appoints Luis A. Lavin to Second District Court of Appeal

Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. recently announced the appointment of Luis A. Lavin as associate justice of the Second District Court of Appeal, Division Three.

Lavin, 56, of Los Angeles, has served as a judge at the Los Angeles County Superior Court since 2001. Lavin served as general counsel at the Los Angeles City Ethics Commission from 1999 to 2001 and as a trial attorney at the U.S. Department of Justice from 1995 to 1999. He was associate general counsel at the Directors Guild of America from 1992 to 1995 and served as an assistant attorney general at the Massachusetts Attorney General's Office from 1990 to 1992. Lavin was an associate at Widett, Slater and Goldman from 1988 to 1990, at Testa, Hurwitz and Thibeault from 1987 to 1988 and at McCutchen, Doyle, Brown and Enersen from 1985 to 1987. He earned a Juris Doctor degree from Harvard Law School and a Bachelor of Science degree from Cornell University.

Lavin fills the vacancy created by the death of Justice H. Walter Croskey. This position requires confirmation by the Commission on Judicial Appointments. The commission consists of Chief Justice Tani Cantil-Sakauye, Attorney General Kamala D. Harris and Senior Presiding Justice Paul Turner.

He will be the first openly gay justice to serve on the Second District Court of Appeal, if confirmed. Lavin is a Democrat.

The compensation for this position is $211,260.

Santa Monica Road Races, relived

Santa Monica will relive the historical 1911 Santa Monica Road Races on Friday, July 17 from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Fairmont Miramar Hotel & Bungalows who is sponsoring the event to benefit the Santa Monica History Museum. Admission is free and includes a rare opportunity to view an original 1911 Santa Monica Road Race car owned by Brian Blain which also raced in the very first Indy-500.

The evening includes a presentation of the history of the road races in Santa Monica, film and photo display by Harold Osmer, historian and author. An auction will be held for an overnight stay for two at the Fairmont Miramar Hotel & Bungalows, dinner for two at the FIG Restaurant and Spa Therapy at Exhale and rides in the original race car.

In 1909, the automobile was just coming into being. The City of Santa Monica was struggling to maintain its independence from Los Angeles and decided to stage road races to attract and increase its population. This worked. The biggest names in racing were here. The Start/Finish line was at Ocean Avenue. The course went uphill along Wilshire Boulevard to the Old Soldier's Home (Veterans' Center today) then back down on San Vicente. An estimated 50,000 people turned out on July 10, 1909 to watch two dozen entrants run the inaugural race. The first winner did the 8.4 miles course at an average speed of 55 mph. The American Grand Prix and Vanderbilt Cup Races were held at Santa Monica in 1914 and 1916. Had it not been for the Road Race and other enterprises that brought attention to the area, Santa Monica might have been annexed by the City of Los Angeles.

SMC's Drescher Planetarium features reusable rockets (and more) in July

The Santa Monica College John Drescher Planetarium invites residents to come find out what the latest developments are in the quest for a reusable rocket, and enjoy a preview that prepares to make the most of the Perseid Meteor Shower coming next month.

The planetarium's July schedule also offers an opportunity to gaze at the Moon and Saturn through telescopes. The feature shows and the evening telescope viewing session - as well as our popular Night Sky Show - will be held on Friday evenings.

The evening events are at 8 p.m. and are preceded by "The Night Sky Show" at 7 p.m., offering the latest news in astronomy and space exploration, a family-friendly "tour" of the constellations, and the chance to ask astronomy-related questions.

The July planetarium events are:

Reusable Rockets: A Progress Report on July 10 and 17. From the start of the Space Age, the one-shot nature of space boosters has been a major impediment to reducing the cost of space flight. Over the years, multiple public and private ventures have strived to crack this difficult problem. Come find out the latest news on the potentially revolutionary developments in the quest for reusable rockets.

Special Observing Event: 8-Day-Old Moon, The Straight Wall, and Saturn! on July 24. With guidance from our planetarium director, take a look through a variety of telescopes at an 8-day-old waxing gibbous Moon offering sights that include the sharply shadowed, 70-mile-long Rupes Recta (The Straight Wall), then enjoy a view of the solar system's crown jewel, lovely Saturn and its rings. Dress warmly!

The Meteors of Summer: August's Perseid Shower on July 31. Find out about the Perseid Meteor shower - which will present its annual spectacular streaks of light crossing the skies on August 12-13, as our planet moves through dust streams from comet Swift-Tuttle - and pick up tips on the best way to watch one of Nature's silent spectacles.

The John Drescher Planetarium, which features a Digistar projection system, is located near the elevators on the second floor of Drescher Hall (1900 Pico Blvd., Santa Monica). Tickets are available at the door and cost $11 ($9 seniors and children) for the evening's scheduled "double bill," or $6 ($5 seniors age 60+ and children age 12 and under) for a single show, guest lecture, or telescope-viewing session.

Call (310) 434-3005 or see www.smc.edu/eventsinfo or www.smc.edu/planetarium for information. All shows subject to change or cancellation without notice.

Living-wage wars to begin anew?

A FEW WEEKS AGO, CITY COUNCIL UNANI-mously authorized staff to pursue the drafting of a citywide minimum-wage ordinance with hopes of approving a living-wage measure by August. City Hall has already established $15.37 per hour minimum wage for city employees and contractors, as well as a condition for development agreements.

The Los Angeles City Council recently approved a citywide minimum wage ordinance that would increase the city's living wage in increments to $15 per hour by 2020.

Recently, Los Angeles County 3rd District Supervisor Sheila Kuehl asked her fellow supervisors to support drafting an ordinance raising the county's minimum wage incrementally over the next five years from $9/hour to $15/hour in unincorporated areas. She's asked for a proposed ordinance within 45 days.

Despite the sudden rush to raise minimum wages, Santa Monica has been waging the "Living Wage War" since the 1990s. A coalition led by Santa Monica Allied for Responsible Tourism (SMART) consisting of labor leaders, activist clergy and power players from the Santa Monica for Renters' Rights (SMRR) political organization were crusading for all-encompassing minimum wage legislation starting with low-wage hotel workers.

Well-heeled hospitality and other downtown business interests fought back. They formed Santa Monicans for a Living Wage and concocted ballot Measure KK for the November 2000 election to fight a proposed ordinance implementing minimum wage standards in the city. Measure KK asked voters to approve or rescind council's approval of amending the city charter to require minimum wage and employee benefit requirements for some employees working on city contracts. Most importantly, KK barred City Council from establishing, modifying, or regulating any wage and benefit requirements. After a nasty fight, KK was defeated nearly four to one at the polls.

In May 2001, City Council approved an ordinance (effective July 1, 2002) that established a new local minimum wage requirement up from $6.75/hour to $10.50/hour with health care benefits, or $12.25/hour without, applicable to city employees and its service contractors, and expanded the wage requirement to all private businesses in the coastal zone and downtown areas with annual gross receipts of over $5 million.

Restaurant, hotel and downtown businesses once again raised piles of money and floated ballot Measure JJ that required voter ratification of council's action. The measure was narrowly defeated in the November 2002 election, killing any living-wage mandate. 51.69 percent of the voters opposed it amid charges of deceptive and misleading campaign mailers by proponents. Sound familiar?

Had it been approved, Santa Monica would have been the first city to establish a minimum wage (affecting 2,000 low-wage workers) for employees of private businesses.

Since then, City Hall policy makers have resorted to other methods of promoting living-wage requirements. In March 2012, council approved plans by developer Alexander Gorby to renovate the historic Santa Monica Professional Building at 710 Wilshire and convert it into a hotel only after Gorby agreed to a $12.85/hour minimum wage for hotel workers.

In 2013, Council approved development agreements for two six-story hotels at Fifth Street and Colorado Avenue after that developer agreed to a living-wage rate of $15.37/hour as demanded by hospitality workers' union Unite Here, Local 11. It's no secret that unionized hotel workers have returned the favors by successfully campaigning for union-friendly SMRR candidates.

Tragically, we're in a county where 2.7 million residents live in poverty. Many county residents, despite working full-time, earn too little to cover the bare necessities such as adequate housing, food and basic health care. There are "pros" and "cons" for raising the minimum wage.

Yes, it raises the pay of the lowest-income workers and their families, but upping the minimum wage every few years by a buck or two doesn't erase poverty or provide the tools for low-wage workers to acquire skills needed to escape poverty's grip and begin climbing the economic ladder. Sadly, even a $15/hour minimum wage won't enable low-wage workers to live in Santa Monica or afford to shop here.

Worse yet, those on limited, fixed incomes such as Social Security, pensions and welfare get hurt by the inflation that usually results as wages increase. The burden of poverty hits the disabled and retired seniors — who find themselves even lower on the economic ladder — especially hard.

For the millions of employers whose businesses run on tight margins, increasing labor costs usually means charging more for goods and services or layoffs, cutbacks and business closures. About 15 years ago, I was told by a local restaurateur that if he had to raise a dishwasher's or busboy's pay from $6 to $10 per hour, he'd only hire experienced, documented, English-speaking workers.

He noted that as his lowest-paid employees' pay increased, everyone else's pay would also have to increase. He told me he couldn't pay a dishwasher or busboy $10/hour and still pay his trained cashier $8/hour or his prep chef $9/hour. Each employee will have to get commensurate raises, which could lead to shorter hours, reduction of benefits, cutting staff or closing the doors if his customers refused to pay the higher prices that would inevitably come because of the higher costs.

Such complicated issues defy Band-Aid solutions. There's nothing wrong with boosting minimum-wage requirements, but it must be done in association with providing tax incentives for job creators and training/educating workers, too. That way, entry-level workers are better equipped to escape poverty's grip and avoid a future of minimum-wage jobs.

third-grader at Grant Elementary, noticed that another student was wearing the same clothes to school every day.

Knowing that the school had a sizable collection of lost-and-found items that would likely be donated to and resold by charity organizations, Wachtel believed the clothes could serve a purpose without leaving the district.

Plans took root when Wachtel shared the idea with Goldman while the two worked on legislative issues as PTA Council representatives.

With the help of school officials and community liaisons who identified students in need while protecting their privacy, Wachtel and Goldman collected clothing, washed it at no cost thanks to the ongoing assistance of Fox Cleaners on Montana Avenue and and anonymously donated it throughout the district.

One recipient was a student from a single-parent home who went two weeks without wearing underwear or socks. Another was a student who didn't have the winter wear to attend a field trip to the snow. And there are parents in the district who have to choose between putting food on the table, paying the electric bill or buying clothes for their child.

"We've delivered clothing at almost every single school in the district," Wachtel said. "This is not just for one school or one area. There are people at all the schools who are really benefiting from what we've been doing ... And now we're going to have a place to bring clothing and an ability to give families in need a way to access it."

Threads has operated largely through word of mouth, but it has grown in popularity among members of the Santa Monica-Malibu school district community.

"It's a country-wide issues and a regional issue and a local issue," Wachtel said. "We're doing the best we can to help families in our community and, with the partnership, the extended community."

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

Threads' work with the National Council of Jewish Women began well before the new partnership.

When Goldman and Wachtel initially set up a clothing drive in the district to set their idea in motion, NCJW volunteers spent hours helping them sort donated items.

In return, when the Council offers clothes and supplies to children in need during its one-day Back 2 School Store event on July 19, Goldman and Wachtel will assist as volunteers.

Threads will continue to spearhead clothing drives throughout the year, and the items they collect will help to replenish the Council thrift shops' inventories. But for Goldman and Wachtel, the new model alleviates their storage burdens while still allowing them to connect with local families.

The partnership also empowers the students to select their own clothing.

"When you're in middle school, you have your own style," Goldman said. "You want to choose what you want to wear. Plus, the size small at Gap might fit differently than the small at Old Navy. When people were requesting sizes, we knew we might miss the mark on what actually fits. And since we've been giving the clothes away, nobody wanted to come back and say, 'This doesn't fit.'"

Now, instead of distributing clothing, Goldman and Wachtel will work with school officials and liaisons to get vouchers in the hands of needy families.

"Everyone thinks Franklin is this high-society school, but we've helped people at Franklin," said Goldman, a parent at the Montana Avenue elementary school. "It's such a misconception. There's need in every school."

CRIME WATCH

BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON JUNE 26, AT ABOUT 2:51 A.M.

A resident in the 1100 block of Pico Boulevard called to report that a bicycle had just been stolen from a neighbor's porch. The reporting party described the thief as a male, Black wearing a black hoodie and carrying a flashlight. He was last seen riding the purloined pink beach cruiser westbound on Pico Boulevard and out of sight. While the initial responding officers made contact with the witness and victim, other patrol officers located and detained the suspect at the corner of Lincoln and Pico. Officers transported the witness and victim to the location; the witness positively identifying the suspect, and the victim identifying her bicycle. The suspect, later identified as Ramziddin Rasheed, was searched subsequent to his arrest for petty theft and found to be in possession of narcotics and paraphernalia. He was subsequently booked for the theft and drugs at the Santa Monica Jail. Rasheed, 36, transient, had bail set at $1,000.

Heal the Bay is a nonprofit environmental organization making Southern California coastal waters and watersheds, including Santa Monica Bay, safe, healthy and clean. We use science, education, community action and advocacy to pursue our mission.

Heal the Bay's Beach Report Card® is based on weekly water quality monitoring data provided by the City of Los Angeles' Environmental Monitoring Division and the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services. Data is analyzed as soon as it is made available to us by the public agencies. Beaches are graded on an A-F scale based on the risk of ocean users becoming ill. Samples are analyzed for bacteria—enterococcus, total and fecal coliforms—that indicate biological pollution. A fact sheet detailing the exact methodology used in determining grades for each location is available from the office or on our web site. The report is not designed to measure the amount of trash or toxins found at local beaches.

The Beach Report Card is an indication of past water quality and is not a warranty of the current safety of those areas surveyed. Our lawyers are happy.

OFF THE WALL: Americans discard some 65 to 69 million gallons of paint every year.

The best ways to recycle old or unwanted paint

HAS ONE OF THE MANY POPULAR shows on HGTV inspired you to renovate your own home? If so, you're not alone! Home renovations have been on the rise the last few years in the U.S. and Canada, which can mean lots of leftover paint. Extra paint can last for years when properly sealed and stored away from extreme heat and cold, and if unneeded, can be donated to organizations like Habitat for Humanity and Keep America Beautiful. But if paint can no longer be used, what are some safe, environmentally responsible ways to dispose of it?

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency estimates that about 10 percent of the house paint purchased in the United States each year — about 65 to 69 million gallons — is discarded. Leftover and unusable paint wastes causes pollution when disposed of improperly, the EPA warns. Before you can decide how to dispose of old paint, you'll need to determine what kind of paint it is. There are two types of paint: oil-based and latex; and regulations on disposal of each type of paint vary by location.

In some areas, latex paint can be thrown out with the trash as long as it is completely dried. Keep in mind that some household waste haulers may not pick up latex paint even if it is completely dried, so always check with your local waste disposal service provider on rules and regulations applicable to your area.

Oil-based paints, as well as paint thinners and other paint solvents, are considered hazardous household waste (HHW) and are typically disposed of at HHW facilities. While many communities across the country will hold annual or semi-annual HHW collection days to make paint disposal easy for local residents, the new non-profit PaintCare is allowing residents of California, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Oregon, Minnesota and Vermont to have convenient disposal of house paint, primers, stains, sealers and clear coatings year-round. There is no charge for dropping off paint at a PaintCare drop-off site, and Paintcare's site locator (available on their website and app) allows residents of applicable states to quickly find their closest drop-off location. PaintCare locations can be found at select Sherwin-Williams, True Value, Ace Hardware and other retailers.

"Retailer support of the PaintCare program is not only good business practice, but also an extension of good customer service," says Scott Cassel, Chief Executive Officer of the Product Stewardship Institute, Inc., a nonprofit that in partnership with the paint industry, led the national dialogue that laid the foundation for the PaintCare program. "By providing paint drop-off locations, retailers not only encourage more foot traffic, but they also offer an important kind of community service that addresses both environmental protection and convenience."

PaintCare manages the leftover paint it receives according to a policy of "highest, best use." Their goal is to recycle as much as possible. Most of the oil-based paint is taken to a cement plant where it is blended into a fuel and burned to recover the energy value. Latex paint that is not rusty, molding or spoiled is sent to recycling companies and reprocessed into new paint. Some paint that the non-profit receives is nearly new and in excellent condition, and is given away at swap shops or to charitable organizations. Paintcare plans to expand its locations into Colorado in July of 2015, Maine in August of 2015 and the District of Columbia in January of 2016.

Traffic control measures will be employed in all work zones. Use alternate routes whenever possible. For all bus boarding information, please visit www.bigbluebus.com/bsip or call (310) 451-5444. For construction information, please contact Alex Parry, Project Manager at (310) 458-8981.

WATER MAIN REPLACEMENT PROJECT:

For the week of July 6, the contractor will be performing installation of water main pipe on 20th Court between Wilshire and Arizona and restoration. For more information, please contact Eric Schoenen, CM/Inspector, at (424) 625-3445 or the City's Carlos Rosales at (310) 458-8721, ext. 2620. During construction the roadway will be reduced to one lane of traffic in each direction. Please use alternate routes when possible and expect some delays.

WASTEWATER MAIN REPLACEMENT PROJECT:

For the week of July 6, the contractor will continue removal and replacement of the sewer main on Hill Place North between 23rd and 25th streets and on Navy Street between 18th and 23rd streets. On Saturday, July 11, the contractor will remove and replace sewer main at the intersection of 23rd Street at Marine Street. The southbound lane on 23rd Street will be closed and traffic will be detoured west on Pier Avenue, south on 21st Street, east on Navy and back to southbound 23rd Street. The alley and street will be closed to through traffic. Please use alternate routes when possible and expect some delays. Should you have any questions, please contact Carlos Rosales at (310) 458-8721, ext. 2620.

CALIFORNIA INCLINE BRIDGE REPLACEMENT PROJECT:

The California Incline will be closed until summer 2016 while construction crews demolish the existing structure and build the new bridge and roadway. Motorists are advised to use Ocean Avenue (via Moomat Ahiko Way) and Lincoln Boulevard as alternate routes. For more information on this project, contact 888-303-6026 or incline@smgov.net.

LEVEL 3 COMMUNICATIONS CONDUIT

For the week of July 6, the contractor will be installing communication conduit between 4th and 5th courts on the westbound side of Santa Monica Boulevard. Both 5th Court and 4th Court will be closed intermittently between those dates. East and west travel will be directed to the south side of Santa Monica Boulevard. Expect delays westbound. Should you have any questions, please contact Ramon Gutierrez at (310) 458-8721 ext. 5275.

SCE VAULT REMOVAL

For the week of July 6, the contractor will be removing an electrical vault at 4th Street and Arizona Avenue. East and west travel will be directed to the north side of Arizona between 4th and 5th streets. Should you have any questions, please contract Ramon Gutierrez at (310) 458-8721 ext. 5275.

SAFE ROUTES TO SAMOHI:

For the week of July 6, work will include saw-cutting and demolition of sidewalk and medians on 7th Street, Michigan Avenue, and Pico Boulevard. But impact to traffic should be minimal and one lane in each direction will remain open. City staff will work to minimize any inconvenience that this work may cause you and thank you for your cooperation. Should you have any questions, contact Hany Demitri, Civil Engineer, (310) 458-8721 ext. 5385.

RIES

going in the wrong direction. And I think he has been one of the more important commissioners in this city over a long period of time. Not everyone has agreed with some of his positions, and that's the way that it will always be in Santa Monica when it comes to planning, but he is consistent, he is forthright, and he is someone that we all rely on."

Commissioner Gerda Newbold said she was shocked that he was not reappointed, though she "sort of knew it was coming."

"He's actually the only person who actually works in land use, which I think is kind of problematic for our commission," she said. "His knowledge and his experience have been really important to us especially after we lost some architects."

Commissioner Jennifer Kennedy agreed.

"There have been times when we've had some really difficult decisions to make, things that were close, could have gone either way, or things that just needed further in depth analyses, and Commissioner Ries never hesitated to take out his calculator and do the math," she said, "and really help us through some difficult situations and he has been a leader on this commission."

McKinnon noted Ries' service on both a Land Use and Circulation Element (LUCE) and a Zoning Ordinance update is rare for a commissioner.

"The LUCE update was one of the highlights my career," he said, "just when we got through with all of that, and all the awards we got, and what a great document that was. Maybe the zoning code was or wasn't implemented in a perfect fashion but we went through that and that was a very difficult process."

In an era where development has been the center of city debate, Ries urged cooperation.

"Change is a scary thing for a community but we as a society and a community have to change the way we do our land use," he said. "We're not all going to agree on things and my only advice for future commissioners is: Try to work across the aisle and engage other people. There's always common ground and that's really what government's about is finding common ground and figuring out what change we can implement and there are things both sides won't agree to but over time we can work on those things."

Ries, who took to the dais for the last time less than 24 hours after council opted to appoint Fresco to his seat, said he wouldn't be leaving Santa Monica civic life.

"I think that community service is incredibly important and the city, whether you like it or not, you haven't seen the last of me," he said. "I don't know what I will do next, but I assure you I will stay involved in this community."

Sudoku

Fill in the blank cells using numbers 1 to 9. Each number can appear only once in each row, column, and 3x3 block. Use logic and process of elimination to solve the puzzle. The difficulty level ranges from (easiest) to (hardest).

Difficulty Level ★

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

TODAY IN HISTORY

1942 – Anne Frank and her family go into hiding in the "Secret Annexe" above her father's office in an Amsterdam warehouse.

1944 – Jackie Robinson refuses to move to the back of a bus, leading to a court martial.

1944 – The Hartford circus fire, one of America's worst fire disasters, kills approximately 168 people and injures over 700 in Hartford, Connecticut.

1947 – The AK-47 goes into production in the Soviet Union.

1957 – Althea Gibson wins the Wimbledon championships, becoming the first black athlete to do so.

1957 – John Lennon and Paul McCartney meet for the first time, as teenagers at Woolton Fete, three years before forming the Beatles.

1962 – As a part of Operation Plowshare, the Sedan nuclear test takes place.

1962 – The Late Late Show, the world's longest-running chat show by the same broadcaster, airs on RTÉ One for the first time.

1964 – Malawi declares its independence from the United Kingdom.

1966 – Malawi becomes a republic, with Hastings Banda as its first President.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPARD

■ California inventor Matt McMullen, who makes the world's most realistic life-sized female doll, the RealDoll (with exquisite skin texture and facial and body architecture, and which sells for $5,000 to $10,000, depending on customization), is working with engineers experienced in robotics to add animation -- but according to a June New York Times report, faces a built-in problem. As a pioneer Japanese robotics developer observed, robots that become too humanlike tend to disgust rather than satisfy. Hence, the more lifelike McMullen makes his RealDolls, the more likely the customer is to be creeped out rather than turned on -- perhaps forcing the virtuoso McMullen to leave enough imperfection to reassure the customer that it's just a doll.

■ A low-caste minor girl was beaten up by several higher-caste women in the village of Ganeshpura, India, in June (in retaliation for the girl's having disrespected a male relative of the women -- by allowing her shadow to partially cover the man). The girl's family managed to get to a police station to file charges, but in some remote villages like Ganeshpura, higher-caste aggressors can intimidate the victims into silence (and in this case, allegedly threatened to kill the girl and members of her family for the shadow-casting).

On Mondays, 'Celebrate This' lets you make every day count

Take Webmaster to Lunch Day
Monday, July 6
Support those who pave the information superhighway. Make fun of their grandiose title another day.
SCUD Day
Wednesday, July 8
"Savor the Comic, Unplug the Drama Day" … or, rather chill out! Save the drama for the stage.
Sugar Cookie Day
Thursday, July 9
In the 1700s, some German settlers combined sugar, butter, eggs, vanilla and baking soda and life was sweeter on the homestead. Eat a sugar cookie and try not to smile.
Don't Step on a Bee Day
Friday, July 10
Bee populations around the world are declining rapidly. We need the little fellas to keep pollinating and populating. Watch your Chuck Taylors.
World Population Day
Saturday, July 11
Hunger, disease, human rights and warfare -- global issues from rampant population growth threaten us all. Not the best night for making babies.
Etch a Sketch Day
Sunday, July 12
Don't get all literal. Today is about unleashing your creativity. Bring what's in your head out into the world.

C'mon, let's hug this out

By Mikey Tittinger

Holding a grudge isn't just unproductive, it's hazardous to your health. Mark Twain, that old-timey writer we learned about in school, author of Huckleberry Finn and one outrageous snow white mustache, knew you had to let your ya-yas out.

"Anger is an acid that can do more harm to the vessel in which it is stored than to anything on which it is poured," Twain said. No telling if he smirked through his mustache when he realized his words rhymed.

Tomorrow (July 7) is Global Forgiveness Day, a chance to set things right in our respective worlds.

Move beyond that petty (bleep) keeping you and your old friend from talking. Let your little brother off the hook for dropping your smartphone in the pool. Today, it's all cool. The rest of your life starts now, and it is decidedly bitter-free.

The past is past. A clean slate ... it feels good, doesn't it?

THROW US SOME FEEDBACK @GIIVE.ORG/CONTACT-US/

Pace yourself tonight, Libra

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★ Take your time when making decisions; some confusion seems to surround a situation. Events involving your personal life might enter your mind at inopportune moments. Though you might want to be direct and take on the matter, is that the best way? Tonight: Read between the lines.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ Others might misread a statement. However, you see the same message in the best possible light. Any attempt to rein in a friend who seems to be wearing rose-colored glasses will most likely fail. Go where your efforts count. Tonight: Avoid a conflict that is not yours.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Allow more creativity into the moment. A financial matter could be beyond your ability to handle. Go to someone in the know and get some feedback. A boss might be a visionary, but does his or her vision really work? Keep your thoughts to yourself for now. Tonight: All smiles.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ You'll be able to see where someone is coming from by looking at his or her actions. In fact, you will like this person's way of handling a personal matter. You see life from a different perspective. Your vision of what is possible could be challenged. Tonight: Avoid a skirmish.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ A partner will have a lot to share. You expect some far-out ideas from this person, but what you hear could surprise you. You might experience some difficulty with your schedule or with a health matter. Is it time for a checkup? Tonight: Listen to someone else's story.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ Defer to someone else, and you might be taken aback by how different his or her approach is. Open up to new possibilities, and remain in touch with this person's needs. Avoid a conflict or a power play with a loved one over long-term desires. Tonight: Say "yes" to an offer.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★ You could be surprised by your lack of organization right now. Open up to new possibilities that head your way. Understand what is happening with a loved one, but opt not to get into a conflict. You might be quite uncomfortable with the situation. Tonight: Pace yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★★ Reach out for more information. You might not be getting the whole story, which could result in a faulty decision. Choose your words with care; otherwise, you could anger someone. Tap into your creativity and look at the big picture. Tonight: Act as if there were no tomorrow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★ Tension builds. Remember that often it is a fundamental judgment you make about a situation that results in stress. Use caution with money agreements. Try not to sign any contracts, and be sure to count your change. You will be much happier as a result. Tonight: Head home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ You might be more demanding than you realize. If you find yourself in the middle of an argument, ask yourself why you are pushing others so hard; that attitude no longer works. Make amends by explaining the vision behind what you are fighting for. Tonight: Hang out and relax.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★ If you would rather go off and do something spontaneous, do so. You might need to work through the pros and cons of a potential argument first. Remember, everyone sees situations differently. When you return, you will be able to handle this matter. Tonight: Dinner for two.

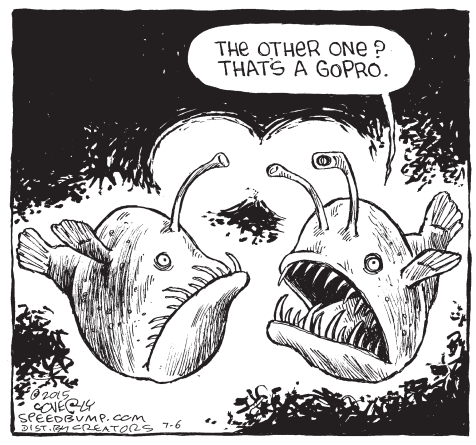

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★★ You might be able to bypass a hassle today, but is it possible that this issue could emerge again later on? Your imagination will allow you to do the impossible when working with an idea. Others enjoy your ingenuity and how it helps in various situations. Tonight: Just be you.

Monday, July 6, 2015

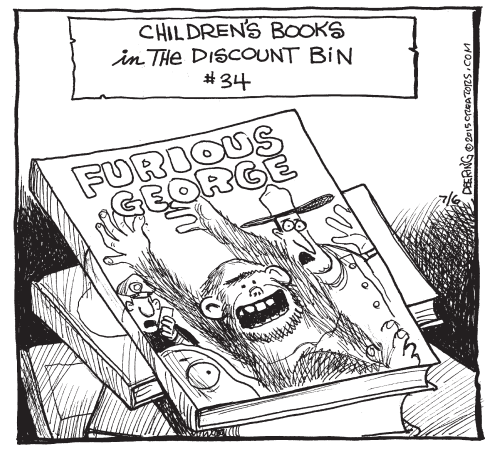

This year you find that others express their discontentment more often. Avoid getting into power plays by simply not playing. You have a vision that others cannot grasp. Trying to communicate sometimes might be difficult. If you are single, you seem to know when you meet the right person. After August, someone of interest is likely to walk through the door. If you are attached, the two of you find much of this year to be very special, particularly once summer passes. You and your sweetie will want to create situations where you can be alone with each other! PISCES might not be realistic, but you enjoy his or her far-out ideas.
