SMMUSD approves LCAP Plan

ANGEL CARRERAS
Daily Press Staff Writer

In a blink-and-you-miss-it approval motion, the Santa Monica Malibu Unified School District adopted an adjusted Local Control Accountability Plan expected to carry the district through the 2020 school year. The LCAP update adjusts the district's progress, needs, and plans to satiate those needs.

At a June 28 board meeting, the LCAP — which was preliminarily discussed on May 31 with a public hearing on June 19 — was

Scooter bill to change helmet requirement zips ahead

KATE CAGLE
Daily Press Staff Writer

A Bird-sponsored State Assembly Bill to rework the rules governing electric scooters by nixing the adults helmet requirement has cleared the Senate Transportation and Housing Committing, passing with a "yes" vote from Senator Ben Allen (D-Santa Monica), among others. The bill, AB 2989, bans motorized scooters from any highway with a speed limit greater than 35 miles per hour unless in a bike lane, but only requires helmets for riders under the age of 18.

Bird has argued the helmet requirement has a "chilling effect" on alternative forms of transportation, calling it "inconvenient," according to a Senate analysis of the bill.

"The helmet law is particularly problematic for the dockless electric scooter companies, who want consumers to be able to pick up one of their scooters and go, and to not have to worry about getting ticketed for not wearing a helmet, similar to how it is for the dockless bicycle companies," the analysis said.

The Daily Press could not reach Senator Allen, who was on a long flight, for a comment.

California law does not require adults to wear a helmet while biking. Under AB 2989, riders would still be required to have a license or instruction permit in order to ride a 2-wheeled electric scooter. Riders would still be banned from the

Two More Santa Monica Girls Softball Teams Advance to State Championship

Santa Monica Girls Fastpitch is sending two additional teams to the State softball championship in Lancaster in July.

The Santa Monica 14U Gold team won the LA/South Bay District Tournament in Downey last weekend, which earned them a top spot in the USA Softball Southern California "B" State Championship to be held in Lancaster. "It is a privilege to coach one of Santa Monica Girls Fastpitch's most successful All Star teams," said the 14U Gold team's head coach Spencer Schneider. "I attribute our success to the players' dedication and team chemistry, as the girls bond as a group both on and off the field." The 14U Gold team's successful season includes first place finishes at All-Star tournaments in Moorpark, Newbury Park, Penasquitos, Fountain Valley and Poway, prior to becoming the LA/South Bay District champions.

Also advancing to the State championship is the Santa Monica 12U Gold team, which placed 3rd in the LA/South Bay District Tournament last weekend. "I could not be more proud of this group's performance during our district qualifying tournament," said the 12U Gold team's head coach Tony Temblador. "We played team softball the entire weekend. All twelve girls contributed to the success of this team." Earlier in the season, the 12U Gold team won 2nd place at the San Dieguito Memorial Day Tournament, and the team also placed 2nd at the LA/South Bay St. Paddy's Day Select Tournament in March.

Both teams will represent the Santa Monica Girls Fastpitch League against other softball teams from Southern California for a chance to make it to the USA Softball National Championship later this summer.

These two teams join two other Santa Monica All-Star girls softball teams that competed this weekend in their State Championship in Lancaster after qualifying at their district tournament.

Former Astronaut Dr. Garrett Reisman to Discuss the Past and Future of Space Travel

The City of Malibu and the County of Los Angeles Public Library present the Malibu Library Speaker Series, featuring former astronaut Dr. Garrett Reisman on Tuesday, August 14, 7 p.m. at Malibu City Hall.

"We are very fortunate to welcome an astronaut to share his first-hand experience of space travel with our community," said Mayor Rick Mullen. "Dr. Reisman will inspire Malibu residents from 8 to 80 years old to dream about exploring the cosmos."

Dr. Reisman will present an insider's view of space exploration and describe what it was like to launch into space, see the Earth from orbit, experience spacewalks, live and work in space, and re-enter the Earth's atmosphere.

A NASA veteran, Dr. Reisman flew on three Space Shuttles. His first mission was aboard the Space Shuttle Endeavour, which dropped him off for a 95-day stay aboard the International Space Station after which he returned to Earth aboard the Space Shuttle Discovery. His second mission was aboard the Space Shuttle Atlantis. During these missions, Dr. Reisman performed three spacewalks, operated the Space Station Robot Arm, and was a flight engineer aboard the Space Shuttle.

He continues to play a major role in both the American space program's past and future. In 2011, Dr. Reisman left NASA. He is currently the Director of Space Operations for SpaceX in Hawthorne, California. In his new role, he is working with NASA to prepare SpaceX's Falcon 9 rocket and Dragon spacecraft, taking on the responsibility for all interfaces in the crew vehicle.

Malibu City Hall is located at 23825 Stuart Ranch Road, Malibu, CA 90265. The event is free, but RSVPs are required. RSVP online at www.MalibuCity.org/LibrarySpeakers or call (310) 456-6438.

The 2018 Malibu Library Speaker Series is a program of the County of Los Angeles Public Library, Malibu Branch, and the City of Malibu, featuring experts, authors and notable figures discussing a wide range of subjects, including the entertainment industry, literature, science, motivation, the arts, education, sports, travel, food and the environment.

Pesticide next door

Dear EarthTalk:

As a member of Joe Public, is it possible to monitor pesticide levels when my neighboring farmer sprays his fields? I have wild bees and am concerned that they are being affected.

Mickey Proctor, Ames, IA

In search of nectar and pollen, bees can be exposed to acutely toxic pesticide residues, resulting in both lethal and near-lethal consequences. Bees that come in direct contact with such chemicals can die immediately or succumb to short-term behavioral effects that eventually lead to death.

When not outright lethal, pesticides have been shown to give bees an increased susceptibility to the gut pathogen Nosema, inflict damage or death to parts of the bees' brains responsible for learning and memory, and cause optical lobe damage, which likely impacts visual acuity and thus the bees' ability to forage effectively.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that 70 million pounds of pesticides are lost to drift—or the movement of pesticide to any site other than the area intended—each year. While at times clouds of pesticides can be seen drifting off a field, some pesticides are invisible and odorless or continue to evaporate from fields for several days or weeks after application.

The non-profit Pesticide Action Network (PAN) reports that incidents of pesticide drift—regardless of whether people were directly exposed or any ecological damage or economic harm is immediately visible—should be promptly reported.

Finding the appropriate state agency to report pesticide incidents to is as easy as steering your web browser to the website of the National Pesticide Information Center. When reporting an incident with your state agency, PAN recommends that you ask for a formal investigation and for sampling to be done as quickly as possible, given that pesticide residue can degrade quickly.

Meanwhile, the non-profit Beyond Pesticides recommends collecting a handful of dead bees and putting them in the freezer in a clean, tightly sealed plastic bag for possible analysis. While honeybees typically only live five to six weeks—and it's normal to see dead bees in and around the hive—large numbers of bee deaths that result in piles around the hive can be the result of a pesticide poisoning.

Other signs that pesticides may be involved in bee deaths or other problems include increased aggressiveness, paralysis, rapid spinning or abnormally jerky, wobbly movements.

Another option to consider is PAN's Drift Catcher tool, which allows you to measure the concentration of pesticides in the air. The Drift Catcher uses a vacuum pump to pull air through two glass sampling tubes, which trap pesticide molecules as the air passes through. The tubes are sent to a laboratory for analysis. If high levels of pesticides are found, you can use the data to raise awareness of the problem and spur local authorities to mandate improvements. PAN's representatives are available to discuss costs and training associated with using the device and for general questions about monitoring pesticide levels in your local area.

Lifeguards to Be Honored at Medal of Valor Dinner

The 2018 International Surf Festival will honor eight Los Angeles County Fire Department Ocean Lifeguards for demonstrating extraordinary and exemplary bravery in the line of duty. These acts of heroism will be recognized at the ISF's Lifeguard Medal of Valor dinner on Aug. 1, 2018.

In addition to the Medal of Valor, the Distinguished Service Medal and a Lifetime Achievement Award will also be presented.

Medals of Valor will be awarded to Ocean Lifeguard Specialist Tucker Hopkins and Ocean Lifeguard Joe Rickabaugh.

Distinguished Service Medals will be presented to Rescue Boat Captain Chris Lallone, Captains Patrick O'Neill and Brandon Chapman, Ocean Lifeguard Specialist Greg Crum and Ocean Lifeguard Ignacio Pagliaro.

Retired Lifeguard Captain Dan Atkins will receive the Lifetime Achievement Award.

"We are delighted to recognize these individuals who demonstrated extraordinary acts of bravery," said Rob McGowan, president of the ISF. "They rose to the challenge, and their heroic acts are the embodiment of going above and beyond the call of duty."

Hopkins, Lallone and O'Neill will be honored for a harrowing rescue in large, powerful surf off Zuma Beach on June 24, 2017, where Hopkins – at great peril to his own safety – bear-hugged a delirious, incoherent and uncooperative swimmer during a rescue. Lallone's skillful placement of the rescue boat, and with O'Neill assisting Hopkins during the rescue and with medical treatment, assured the swimmer would make a recovery.

Rickabaugh will be honored for a May 24, 2018, rescue of an unconscious surfer during 3'-5' waves at County Line Beach. Though off-duty, Rickabaugh took command of the incident and placed the surfer, who regained consciousness, but complained of no feeling or movement in his arms and legs, on a surfboard and paddled him to shore. Rickabaugh provided appropriate medical treatment until the arrival of paramedics.

Crum and Pagliaro successfully revived a cardiac arrest victim on May 12, 2018, after multiple rounds of compressions and the use of an AED and oxygen. Additionally, they had to climb over a brick wall to reach the victim, as the rescue was off the beach near the El Porto parking lot.

Chapman led the rescue of a 14-year old male who had been buried by 3' of sand and was having difficulty breathing on Venice Beach on February 11, 2018. Chapman's rapid response and acute leadership were instrumental in the victim's complete recovery.

Lifetime Achievement Award recipient Atkins has had a long and distinguished career as an Ocean Lifeguard, with numerous notable accomplishments both on and off the sand. He became a lifeguard in 1973, and retired as a Captain after 37 years of service. Off the sand, as President of the LA County Lifeguard Assn. (LACoLA) he oversaw the integration of the Lifeguard Operation into the LA County Fire Department solidifying the public safety mission of the lifeguards. LACoLA also was instrumental in the transfer of title of the state beaches to the County, thereby ensuring continuity of lifeguard service and beachgoer safety throughout LA County.

The Medal of Valor dinner has been sponsored by the Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce since 1981. It has served as a signal to lifeguards that the public recognizes and appreciates their tremendous efforts.

"The Chamber is honored to recognize these courageous lifeguards, and to have served as the venue for the Festival kick-off for the past 37 years," said Mary McKenrick, Chair of the Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce. "We are fortunate to have such dedicated professionals protecting our beachgoers." Redondo Beach is also the host city for the 56th International Surf Festival.

The International Surf Festival is presented by BEACHSPORT.org, the Chambers of Commerce and Cities of Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach, Redondo Beach, and Torrance, as well as the Los Angeles County Fire Department and the Department of Beaches and Harbors.

approved after receiving feedback from the Los Angeles County Office of Education, who didn't provide substantial changes to the LCAP presented to public, save for minor wording changes and a few additional expenditures.

The LCAP outlines several goals for the district in upcoming years.

Items highlighted in the presentation at the June 19 board meeting included beginning implementation of the American Counseling Association national model at secondary schools, development of a Social Justice Framework and action plan and integrating those plans into practice, and developing a Family Engagement Framework to strengthen family and school partnerships.

Needs identified in the district had a strong emphasis on helping minority and underserved students, with increasing access and support for English Learners, Latino, African-American, Special Education, socioeconomically disadvantaged, and Homeless/Foster youth students being objects of discussion at the last LCAP discussion.

Mora said the district plans to increase these groups' state standards and decrease their truancy, absenteeism, and suspension and expulsion rates (which she added are low).

Additionally, the district hopes to ensure all students are "socially just and ready for college and careers," having all families and students engage in "safe, well-maintained schools that are culturally responsive and conducive to 21st-century learning."

The LCAP report also included budgetary information, including supplemental grants, general funds, and federal funds, with a total projected LCAP budget of $131,446,320.

The district plans to use this money in many ways, including increasing or improving services for many things such as programs and services focused on assisting minority and underserved students, ongoing costs including staff-related costs, updating software, providing school supplies, and maintaining and adding contracts and services.

CRIME WATCH

BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON JUNE 26 AT ABOUT 1:30 A.M.

While patrolling the area of 24th Street and Ocean Park Blvd., officers saw a truck stop in an eastbound lane in front of a motel and not proceed on a green traffic light. The truck remained in the traffic lane for some time and officers noticed the license plate to the car was obstructed. Officers stopped the truck in the 3100 block of Ocean Park Blvd. The car was occupied with a front passenger. Officers conducted a search of the truck. Officers located several shaved keys – commonly used to defeat various locks. Officers recovered additional items –pliers, bolt cutters, drill, drill bits and screwdrivers- in the truck commonly used to commit burglaries. The subjects were not from the area and were evasive with their responses. Both subjects were placed under arrest. Alejandro Desantos, 26, from Los Angeles was arrested for possession of burglary tools and driving on a suspended license. Bail was set at $50,000. Carlos Mandujano, from Lynwood, was arrested for possession of burglary tools. Bail was set at $500.

the Northern White Rhinoceros.

According to the WildAid website, 1,028 rhinos were poached in South Africa in 2017. The high-volume of poaching is largely due to the fact that it is widely believed in several African countries that Rhinoceros' horns have curative properties. Due to this, the world has lost 95% of its total Rhinoceros population over the last 40 years. Wildaid aims to remedy this issue through fundraising for conservation.

A passion animal-enthusiast since age three, Henry Langer, 9, became interested in Wildaid about year ago. Upon researching the organization's website, he noticed the dire urgency of Rhinoceros endangerment and knew that he wanted to support their work.

"I really love helping animals, I would maybe want to be an animal conservationist when I grow up, and wanted to help them" Henry said.

He said his efforts were prompted by the plight of the Northern White Rhino.

"I choose Rhinos because there's only two left in the whole world and they're both females. And so they're going to try and take a male Western White Rhino and breed them," he said.

Over two hours, the Langers raised $1,003 dollars. Their bake sale offered vegan and gluten-free options in addition to traditional baked goods. Henry said he approached local businesses for support. Products sold at the stand were donated by local eateries Sweet Lady Jane, Tocaya Organica, Kye's and The Butcher's Daughter.

The funds raised will be going towards stopping illegal poaching and trade. Donations like the Langers' are what make WildAid's progress possible. The organization has gotten over 100 Vietnamese CEOs to pledge never to buy/sell Rhinoceros products and has caused wholesale rhino horns to decrease by half in the Chinese market between 2013 and 2015. WildAid donations are tax-deductible and donations can be made via their website, www.wildaid.org.

Dark Sky Ordinance Aims to Protect Malibu's Rural Coastal Village Character, Wildlife and Habitats

With Malibu's Dark Sky Ordinance going into effect on October 15, 2018, the City Planning Department is rolling out an awareness campaign to offer information and resources to help residents and businesses comply with the requirements.

"I want my grandchildren to be able to experience the wonder and inspiration of seeing the star-filled night sky. In Malibu we are blessed to live surrounded by nature, the mountains and the ocean, and our dark, starry skies are a big part of that," said Mayor Rick Mullen. "I am proud to be able to say we took steps to protect that heritage."

A widespread messaging campaign including newspaper advertisements, announcements on the City website and social media, direct mail, and email messages will help ensure that residents and businesses have enough time to make any changes necessary to meet the new requirements. The City's project webpage at www.MalibuCity.org/DarkSky offers examples of compliant lighting methods as well as relevant deadlines and other information. The requirements of the ordinance include:

· Outdoor light fixtures that are fully shielded, directed downward and do not exceed 850 lumens

· Maximum Kelvin temperature of 3000 K

· Requirements for motion detectors, string lights and allowable light trespass from property lines

· Additional lighting requirements based on zoning districts

The City Council unanimously approved the ordinance in April 2018 in order to preserve Malibu's rural character and quality of life, protect wildlife and habitats from light pollution, preserve enjoyment of the night-time sky, and promote the City's goal of conserving energy and natural resources.

The goal of the Dark Sky Ordinance is to reduce nighttime light pollution to preserve night skies by adding comprehensive citywide outdoor lighting standards to the Malibu zoning code. The ordinance, which has been five years in the making, will go into effect in October 2018. Grace periods have been drafted into the ordinance to assist residents and business owners with the implementation process. Some provisions will take effect on October 15, 2018.

While developing the ordinance, the City held numerous community workshops and meetings, providing education about the impacts of light pollution on people and nature, model lighting ordinances that have been adopted in other cities, and light pollution-reducing lighting technologies.

The ordinance aims to provide safe and effective levels of outdoor lighting, mainly by ensuring lighting is used when and where it is needed so that it does not indiscriminately cause light pollution.

In 2013, the City Council enacted a citywide outdoor lighting ordinance that was created with assistance from the International Dark-Sky Association (IDA). The IDA is a United States-based non-profit organization started in 1988 by astronomers in an effort preserve the nighttime environment and reduce light pollution.

SMC Barrett Gallery Hosts Reception July 14 for StudioEleven Group Exhibition

The Santa Monica College Pete & Susan Barrett Art Gallery will present "StudioEleven at Work," an exhibition of more than 40 original works created by 22 artists of StudioEleven, an artist-run cooperative whose members work both independently and communally. The exhibit will include paintings, mixed media, and sculpture.

The exhibition will be open to the public from Tuesday, July 10, to Saturday, August 4, with a free gallery reception on Saturday, July 14, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The reception is sponsored by Pomar Junction Vineyard and Winery, a California-based company whose wines from Paso Robles are Sustainability in Practice (SIP)-certified and will be featured at the reception. The artists will be present at the reception.

The SMC Pete & Susan Barrett Gallery is located at the SMC Performing Arts Center, 1310 11th Street (at Santa Monica Boulevard), Santa Monica.

Prior to the public gallery reception, the SMC Foundation will host "StudioEleven at Work: A Fundraiser for the Arts," a special VIP reception and silent auction of the works on exhibit on July 14 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Net proceeds of art sales will benefit SMC's art programs and its students. The VIP reception – with complimentary wine tasting provided by Pomar Junction Vineyard and Winery – is free, but registration is required to attend. Registration is available at 501auctions.com/studioelevenatwork.

StudioEleven is a group of independent artists who have worked, studied, and periodically gather at the Los Angeles Arts District studio of artist Tom Wudl. When artists work over time in close proximity to each other, longterm artistic dialogues lead to work that is immediate, contemporary, and provocative.

Exhibiting artists include Tere Abdala-Romano, Mindy Alper, Anne Brilliant, Elaine Cohen, BJ Dockweiler, Jill Gefen, Joan Giammarco, Flora Golden, Hillary Gruenberg, Michele Jaffe, Monica Leal Cueva, Linda Levi-Baum, Tressa Miller, David Peters, Deborah Schiller-Hadl, Charlotte Schmid-Maybach, Lisa Segal, Margy Sievers, Margaret-Anne Smith, Elise Vazelakis, Tom Wudl, and Laurie Yehia.

"Our goal in supporting this legislation continues to be providing riders of shared scooters and e-bikes with more consistent ridership rules so that people can embrace sustainable shared mobility," a Bird spokesperson said in an email.

Despite the legislative effort, Bird has continued to issue free helmets to riders, sending out more than 35,000 since the program started. Bird's core competitor, Lime, also has a helmet program.

While the electric scooters provided by startups Bird and Lime are relatively new in Santa Monica, the injuries treated at the Nethercutt Emergency Center at UCLA Medical Center are all too familiar. Medical Director Dr. Wally Ghurabi told the Daily Press they remind him of the early 1990's when Rollerblades suddenly exploded in popularity, bringing an influx of patients with serious scrapes and broken bones.

Dr. Ghurabi says patients include users and pedestrians who have tripped on scooters left around town or been hit by riders zipping down sidewalks. He is appalled at the idea of loosening helmet requirements.

"The lobbyists who are trying to do it, let them come spend the day with us in the ER and they can see the outcome of smashed faces and what not," Ghurabi said. In the last month, four patients with head injuries received while riding a motorized scooter had to be transferred from Santa Monica to the trauma center at Ronald Reagan UCLA Medical Center in Westwood. Those patients had difficulty recalling events after the crash or repeatedly asked the same questions.

Ghurabi said in one case a 15-year-old scooter rider had broken bones in his face.

"Their bones are still growing," Ghurabi said of younger patients. "If they break their arm in the wrong place they could end up with a deformed arm for the rest of their lives."

Dr. Victor Candioty at Providence Saint John's Medical Center said a handful of patients visit their emergency room every day with minor to moderate injuries received while riding the scooters or by pedestrians hit by them.

"We've seen it all," Candioty said, recalling an instance Thursday of a four-year-old who busted his lip while riding an electric scooter with his dad. The same day, a 50-year-old man came to the ER after accidentally riding into a tree.

"We definitely have seen an increase in injuries with Bird scooters," Candioty said. "They're just ubiquitous and while the company may make an effort to encourage helmet use, clearly they don't have a mechanism to police it.'

Bird requires users to take a picture of a valid driver's license before using the app. Lime does not. The bill does not impose any new regulations on the scooter companies themselves. Both companies say users are required to follow local laws.

Santa Monica City Manager Rick Cole said Bird has shown responsiveness on safety issues in the community, recently tweeting "we expect Lime to do the same or lose their permit."

"It's the Wild West out there with underage riders, two on a scooter, riding on sidewalks and almost no one wearing helmets," Cole said.

Lime says they have a team of brand ambassadors stationed around Santa Monica to teach people how to operate their scooters and ride safely. Unlike Birds, Lime does not have a shut off time, allowing late night joyriders to hop on a glowing green Lime scooter and hit the streets (Bird scooters shut off around 9 p.m.).

Later this year, the City will select up to four vendors to operate during a 16-month pilot program for dockless devices, including scooters and e-bikes. The pilot will require operators to develop systems that will improve the current parking situation, where users leave scooters across the sidewalk, on driveways and on the beach path. Vendors will also be required to create an interactive education program for users. The City Council has also urged the companies to distribute helmets more quickly to first time users, suggesting partnerships with local hotels to have them on hand.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (July 9)

The love you give will double up on the return. There's no greater feeling than the overwhelm that comes with this exponential emotional equation! Excellent communication makes this possible. You'll actively work on being more effective in this regard. Listening and observing well will make all parts of your life better. Aquarius and Gemini adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 27, 11, 24 and 17.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Does it feel as if someone is pushing you from behind? That's you. But it's weird, because you're also the one digging in your heels because you want to stand your ground. Time for a you-to-you confab.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Laughter is, at its very roots, a social response. We laugh to support one another. However, not everyone gets the joke. So, if you find yourself laughing alone, it doesn't necessarily mean it's not funny.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)
Criticism isn't going to work for anyone who uses it as a tool. It's a blunt tool, for starters. Secondly, it puts the other person on the defensive and makes the person more apt to fight than learn. If instead of criticism you offer solutions, you'll be golden.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)
Though it's immature and intolerant to expect everyone to have the same moral code, you do expect people to uphold whichever moral code they have chosen. You accept differences, but not hypocrisy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Sometimes people agree with you but they still present a contrary opinion. Maybe they want your attention. Maybe it's their way of being playful. Just because you're invited to the argument doesn't mean you have to attend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Don't be quick to dismiss the endeavor that looks difficult. The best things are won through work. It's not a coincidence. It's the work that makes them the best things. Process fills things with life and gives them their value.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
If you sacrifice your health to make money, you'll have to sacrifice your money to regain your health. Put safety first and then health. Well-being of other sorts, including financial, will follow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)
To be in agreement with others may feel the most comfortable, but it's neither the best nor the only way to coexist peaceably. It's a tolerance of diversity (not lack of it) that makes the group stronger and more peaceful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
What's won through trial may not be won fair and square, but it's official, and the verdict will stick. Once it's handed down, it will be useless effort to retry. Move on to better things.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Opinions and beliefs will change with the times. You've experienced this a lot already, and you will continue to adapt beautifully to new places and circumstances. That's why you readily accept your friend's change of heart.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Prestige is an abstract, collective impression that would be foolish to value over the more tangible aspects of daily experience. No good will come of a thing that is prestigious but makes your life stressful.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Enjoying the talents of others will aggravate something in you — a desire to pursue your own talents with more commitment and fervor. Work hard until your abilities match your ambition.

Mercury Spills Secrets

If you tell people to keep information close to the vest, they will instead note that it's high-value social information and inevitably, possibly strategically, share it. That's just human nature. Most humans are as loyal as their opportunities. If it's really a secret, keep it to yourself. Mercury and Jupiter are pulling into a square that will make this challenging.

■ Q: Which of these is not an axial bone?

a) Cranium
