Santa Monica Conservancy announces 2020 Preservation Awards winners

BRENNON DIXSON
SMDP Staff Writer

The Santa Monica Conservancy recently recognized eight exemplary contributors who excelled in preserving Santa Monica's architectural and cultural heritage thanks to work related to restoration, adaptive reuse or renovation.

For more than 15 years, the conservancy has awarded residents with various awards for their contributions to preserving Santa Monica during a celebration at its Annual Meeting. And even though Covid-19 forced the postponement of this year's gathering, the Conservancy chose to move forward with the awards announcement and offer virtual tours of the award-winning properties. They can all be found online at smconservancy.org, according to Executive Director Carol Lemlein, who said Friday that residents should be proud of the preservation currently underway throughout the Westside, particularly at the places that took home the respected President's and Cultural Landscape awards.

AWARD: The Santa Monica Conservancy recognized the work done by the Proper Hotel and the work done by past advocates to recognize the Bay Street Beach Historic District.

PRESIDENT'S AWARD

"This year, we gave the President's Award to the Proper Hotel project, which incorporated a historic building that was underutilized and in very significant need of rehabilitation and seismic work in order to ensure that it was going to survive the next 100 years," Lemlein said as she described how a 1928 landmark building was rehabilitated and adapted into 55 rooms with ground floor commercial space.

The five-story building was refurbished to include rehabilitated steel windows and storefronts, restored interior circulation spaces and significant seismic improvements, according to the awards page. The historic building has also been linked to a much larger development on the remainder of the block and is a great example of what one can do to bring modernity to a historic building.

"It was a very difficult project from the point of view of getting all of the required approvals," because it was a project that encompassed the

SMMUSD to celebrate Black Lives Matter Week of Action

BRENNON DIXSON
SMDP Staff Writer

Black Lives Matter Week of Action will now be celebrated during the first week of February by the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District.

In June, Santa Monica High School alumni Leilah Franklin and Chandler Kennedy began a petition that has since garnered more than 800 signatures. As alumni of Franklin Elementary, Lincoln Middle School and Samohi, Franklin and Kennedy previously said they have witnessed the impacts of stereotyping and prejudice firsthand while they recounted tales of pep rallies and other school-sanctioned events that today would come across as insensitive.

In recent weeks, Franklin and Kennedy have been joined by residents who also wish to see SMMUSD declare black lives matter, and the group got their wish Thursday when the board unanimously voted to pass a resolution declaring the first week of February as "Black Lives Matter at School Week of Action."

Council abandons board reorganizing ballot measure

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

The City Council has abandoned plans to amend the city charter this year that would have restructured authorization for various boards and commissions.

Council said the current political climate did not allow enough time to educate the public on the measure and restrictions on in-person contact had made it impossible to talk with the volunteers who would be impacted by the change.

As it stands today, Santa Monica's boards and commissions are not regulated the same way. Some draw their authority from the charter while others are rooted in the municipal code. Making changes to the groups that are authorized by the charter requires a public vote to amend the document while changes to the municipal code can be done at council's discretion. The two systems make it impossible to initiate universal changes and Council asked staff to work on a ballot measure that would reorganize all groups into the Municipal Code in December of last year.

However, several councilmembers said the world had changed so significantly in the past

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (JULY 18)

Your body becomes stronger, and your emotional body follows suit. There will be a sense that a pressure is off of you for now and you're able to do what makes you feel most complete. It was a luxury before, and now it's just part of your life. A power shift will be most favorable for you. Give it a little time to settle in. Virgo and Capricorn adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 30, 22, 1 and 17

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Don't know where to start? The best place is here and now. The trouble with here and now is, sometimes, it can be hard to accept. Then again, it's really the best and only thing worth accepting.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You could save someone from making a mistake, but if they really want to, they'll make it anyway. You feel a strong sense of responsibility for others, and the world is better for it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). As you respond predictably, you'll earn someone's trust. This is good. You want the person to be comfortable but should not let him or her get too comfortable. An impulsive twist will come to mind.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Seek the best in all things but especially in people. No matter who you deal with this week, you'll resonate with their better angels. There will be a teacher for whatever you want to learn. To get help, all you have to do is ask.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You don't need courage to do brave things. Act as if you are that fearless warrior. Make a habit of it. Follow through time and again. Boom! You're brave.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Belonging isn't about fitting together perfectly; rather, it's about accepting one another and being willing to rub against those rough parts that don't quite fit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You like those who, like you, lack pretension, are adverse to striving and are too chill for social climbing. Your values are right in line with all that it takes to create meaningful, lasting friendships.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Psychologically, you are large and in charge today, while other systems may be trying to catch up with that vibe. Your mind is powerful and will lead all.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Be proud of the little steps; they'll add up. Small improvements make a big difference. The person who makes slow progress makes progress indeed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You give all the stuff they need. You tend to the matters that matter to them. You need a return on this investment. It's not a shallow thing to expect.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Pressing emotional needs crop up. It's vital that your presence be not only known but also understood. Stick close to nurturing types. You require tenderness.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Your ability to take care of yourself is usually a given, but when things get very busy, everything changes. The parts that you sometimes take for granted need attention.

six months that 2020 was no longer the right time to pursue the change.

All civic meetings have moved to online platforms and many of the City's boards and commissions are meeting on a limited basis for essential work only.

Councilwoman Sue Himmelrich said the situation made it difficult to engage with the impacted residents in a meaningful way.

"Well, we can't get together with people, we can't do the kind of networking that we would do to carry a measure like this forward and deal with the mistrust it's causing among people," she said. "The other problem is that without our boards operating right now, I think that our residents are feeling more and more disconnected from the work we're doing and from everything that's going on in the city."

Councilman Ted Winterer said the City might want to pursue a different ballot measure this year that would be of far greater importance to the city and given the anger and polarization of the electorate, 2020 was not the right time for a change.

"We did ask for this back in, you know, pre-Covid, but we have not had the opportunity to go around and talk to all the potentially impacted boards and Commissions and make them understand the purpose of this ballot measure in person, and allow them to think about it and provide their opinions to the council," he said. "I think, in a way, we're circumventing what would have been our normal process to do something like this."

Councilmembers Terry O'Day and Kevin McKeown supported pursuing the measure.

O'Day said the city has spent years trying to make it's rules more efficient and that while it may be difficult to have the conversations now, he said the delay would have repercussions that will make it more difficult in the future to modernize city rules.

Mayor McKeown said fears that the Council was trying to eliminate the boards and commissions were unfounded. He said council is reconsidering how local government should work and the delay was a missed opportunity.

"It's not that I don't care about the input we get from those talented skilled volunteers on our boards and commissions," he said. "It's that I think we have ahead of us a couple of years of rebuilding the city and this is a tool that we could and should have had to help us in that."

"Although we have a lot of work to do, I'm really proud of the youth of all ages, (who) really took this mantle on and wanted to address racism," Drati said. "There was a group of alumni that approached us about this resolution and we happily accept it as adopted."

After a short video depicting the Black Americans' fight for equality, Franklin took the podium to express her feelings on the long-awaited action.

"This is a small step," but one that is necessary if America is to ever achieve the bright future it seeks," Franklin said. "Black Lives Matter at School Week of Action demands us to look at ourselves, acknowledge our ignorances and learn for the better... I look forward to future collaborations and have been honored and impressed by the district's receptivity. So, thank you," because this is certainly a step in the right direction.

"It is an absolutely necessary step because no educational institution should be a place that makes you fearful," Kennedy previously said as she described campuses as places that should uplift and empower children.

Local parents agreed when they spoke during public comment. One noted there is still a ways to go but she is very happy to see Black opinions being validated and that the district is offering every voice a seat at the table.

Board member Richard Tahvildaran-Jesswein thanked students and the community for being supportive and patient with the process.

"Black Lives Matter — BLM," Tahvildaran-Jesswein said as he described the value of social justice. "And this means together we will continue our walk down the path of justice."

Drati added before the conclusion of Thursday's vote that the district intends to have a further discussion on race and social justice during a board of education meeting scheduled for Aug. 25.

Landmarks Commission and the Architectural Review Board's interest. "So that project is truly extraordinary in my mind and represents an excellent outcome and a lot of dedication, both from the owners and other people who were supporters of the project at a time when not all development in Santa Monica was necessarily supported by the community."

CULTURAL LANDSCAPE AWARD

The Bay Street Beach's placement on the National Register of Historic Places in 2019 is also a feat to be recognized, according to Lemlein.

"There are very few properties associated with communities of color on the National Register and this is an important one right here in Santa Monica," Lemlein added before detailing the work of historian Alison Rose Jefferson and Michael Blum.

The Bay Street Beach is a 53-acre district that recognizes and celebrates an intact African American seaside cultural landscape, according to the awards page. During the Jim Crow era, the beach was self-selected by African Americans as a place of recreation and leisure since its visitors felt relatively safe from racist harassment.

Currently, fewer than five percent of the listings in the National Register are associated with communities of color, but the successful nomination exemplifies how hard Blum, the Executive Director of Sea of Clouds — a nonprofit focusing on coastal heritage conservation/historic preservation and environmental conservation — and Jefferson worked to ensure Bay Street Beach was recognized as the important landmark it is.

Community Service in Santa Monica

Rotary Opens Opportunities

By Lisa C. Alexander

I am the incoming President of the Rotary Club of Santa Monica. My term runs from July 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021, and I am so excited for the coming year! The theme of my year is Opportunities. We are finding opportunities at every turn.

First and foremost, we are finding opportunities to "do" Rotary differently. If you have heard of Rotary, but never quite knew what it was about, or were too shy to come to a meeting, or found it difficult to fit a Friday lunch meeting into your day, now is the perfect opportunity to check us out. We are meeting remotely by Zoom on Fridays from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. We continue to have great programs. I promise it will be worth your while to Zoom with us!

Second, Rotary is a service club. We provide endless opportunities to provide service to our community, locally and globally. During this time of "safe distancing," some of our favorite service projects are postponed, but we are finding opportunities to do all kinds of service remotely, from making health and wellness phone calls to clients of Meals on Wheels West, donating and helping to sort food at the Westside Food Bank, and helping the Salvation Army with food boxes provided to families in need. Our Emergency Covid-19 Fund continues to give grants to our local nonprofits so they can fund critical needs while donations are low. We hope to be back building houses with Habitat For Humanity as soon as possible.

If you have wondered how to get involved in the community, where to find a service project to join with, or a fun activity to do with your friends or family, Rotary is your answer. Come "play" with us!

Third, Rotary is about friendship. We are friends with a shared desire to do good in the world. Even when we can't meet in person, we are creating opportunities to meet and stay connected through happy hours, health and wellness events, (we've done cooking classes, fitness classes, learned how to start and maintain wellness habits), game nights, book club, movie night and other activities still to come. We enjoy each other's company and we love to have fun. When friends get together to serve, it is more play than work. If you have wanted to make new friends and form deeper connections in Santa Monica, Rotary may be perfect for you. You are welcome to meet us on Zoom, and hopefully you will come again.

The Santa Monica Rotary Club is active and welcoming. Check out our website at www.rotaryclubof santamonica.org. And, if you would like to join us for a Zoom meeting, I personally invite you to contact Savi at rotaryclub ofsantamonica@verzon.net for more details.

Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club Update

By Karen Miller

Our normally very busy members are still sheltering at home and staying safe while the Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club is closed and activities are on hold. The members have been busy helping the community in many ways. Our social group, called Club M & M, is looking for virtual events or activities that are fun, like our annual summer pajama party or a potluck that could potentially be held outdoors.

Election of our new Board was held on May 31 by voting remotely via an online website. The newly-elected board is Becky Upchurch, President; Marcia Stein, 1st VP; Holly Franke, 2nd VP; Alicia Syres, Events Chair; Susan Barry, Projects Chair; Nipper Sorensen, Communications Chair; Pat Webber, Archives Chair; and Mary Spata, Corresponding Secretary. The board has been meeting regularly each month through zoom.

During our stay at home time, many members are reading avidly, and not just books, but articles, magazines, and audio of various types. Books can be a great source of distraction from the downside of our current reality, where, for a short time we can immerse ourselves in someone else's reality. The book for June was The Dutch House by Anne Patchett, and in July they will discuss The Devil in the White City by Erik Larson.

Our bridge players are a determined bunch, and many of them play regularly at tables with their friends through a bridge website. Others use their creative talents by exchanging easy and delicious recipes in the monthly newsletter.

The mission of the club to "advance in all lines of culture, education, service, welfare and civic affairs" has not been easy in these times, but it is certainly not forgotten by our many members who are finding relevance and meaning in these difficult times.

For questions about programs, or renting the Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club in the future, please contact us at 310-398-1308.

Santa Monica Rotarians Present Scholarships to Local Students

By Sharon Gavin

One of the most rewarding aspects of being part of the Rotary Club of Santa Monica is helping to support our local students. Last month, our club was pleased to distribute $21,000 in scholarships and citizenship awards to 13 deserving college, high school, and middle school students. These awards are given annually to students who have excelled in academics, community service, and leadership.

Santa Monica Lions Club Carrying On As Usual

By Linda Levee

It is with great pleasure that the Santa Monica Lions Club has been able to carry on our usual business with the help of Zoom. We are still providing assistance to those organizations who have made requests this year.

The COVID-19 has not altered our ability to carry on our Lions work and Mission. It may have slowed us down a bit to regroup our resources and continue on.

While many high schools and middle schools cancelled live graduations, they still happened through the Internet in real time. We were able to present The Young Leaders in Service Awards, which are given to students who have accumulated an established number of community service hours within a 12-month period.

Silver Level- 50-99 hours:
Quentin Corbel - Lincoln Middle School; Bethan Hughes - Lincoln Middle School; and Sara Ty - Lincoln Middle School.

Gold Level- 100 hours or more- (Many double or more the minimum requirement)
Alexa Frcek - Lincoln Middle School; Jordan Klein - Lincoln Middle School; Valentina Manco - Lincoln Middle School; Mihret Melaku - New Roads School; and Zoe Yu - New Roads School.

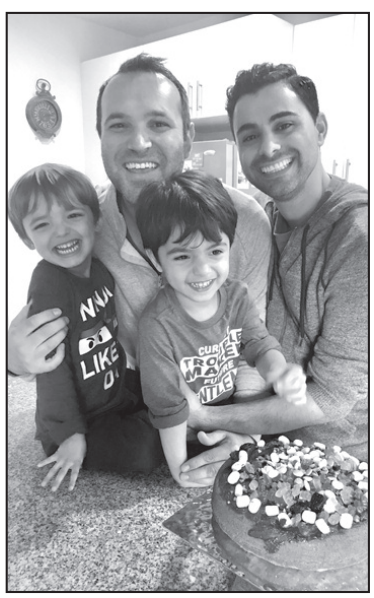

All recipients received a certificate and Santa Monica Lions pin via the U.S. Postal Service.

If you are interested in participating, please have your middle or high school contact Lion Pam at santamonicalion@gmail.com.

Hoping you all follow the guidelines of masks and hand sanitizer and stay well.

We are still here willing to help so, you can contact Preident Lion King at 310-454-2960 or Lion Yoriko Fisher at 443-883-1101.

My Hen Has a Reduced Appetite

By Dr. Frank Lavac MS, DVM,VCA

Q: I have six laying hens in my backyard. Recently, my three-year-old hen is not laying eggs, has a reduced appetite, and is puffed up? What could be wrong?

A: First of all, the Newcastles Disease quarantine has been recently lifted in LA County. Therefore, chickens can now be legally transported to the veterinarian's office.

A three-year-old laying hen is considered elderly. She could have a wide variety of diseases. The most likely considerations are egg binding, ovarian cancer or systemic infection. We start off by performing a complete physical exam. Often, we take a blood sample and/or abdominal radiographs. Sometimes an abdominal ultrasound can tell us if ovarian cancer or egg yolk peritonitis is present.

In some cases, I have a discussion with a client about the bird's quality of life, and we may humanely euthanize the chicken. If this is the outcome, I recommend sending the body to the California State lab (CAHFS) to determine the exact cause of illness. This is important to make sure that the remaining birds are not at risk.

All veterinarians that treat chickens are challenged by the limited number of medications that we are legally allowed to use. Inappropriate use of antibiotics and other medications can pass through to the egg and subsequently enter into the human food chain.

Raising backyard chickens has become increasingly popular over the past decade. Appropriate husbandry and feeding are the cornerstone for a healthy flock. UC Davis is a good resource for backyard flocks. For details, go to https://ucanr.edu/sites/poultry/Resources/type/backyard/.

Dr. Frank Lavac can be reached by calling 310-828-4587.

Mar Vista: Neighbor to Neighbor

Learning About Old Mar Vista

By Tesi Treuenfels

July is here. I expect to see the dragons of fog rolling in from the Pacific.

Life is out of kilter lately, like my meatloaf, which after my third attempt, is again a pile of meat crumbles. Useful, but I am unable to slice it. So, I've been attempting to broaden my horizons in the kitchen and spending my in-house time reading about old Mar Vista.

Busby Drug Store on the southwest corner of Venice and Grand View was the first commercial building in Mar Vista. Floyd's Barbershop, Time Warp Records, and Black Diamond Tattoo now stand where Busby used to be.

Heading south on Grandview Blvd. on the west side of the street is another barbershop, L&R Barbershop. It's a small classic shop that has been here for over 40 years. Rafael A. Victorin has been running his business here in Mar Vista longer than anyone. He has many stories of the old Mar Vista.

Before the historic Moreton Bay Fig Tree was planted in 1875 (at 11000 National Blvd, still there, still thriving), there was the Rancho La Ballona. Originally, Rancho La Ballona was patented in 1821 at 13,920 acres to four claimants, Augustin Machado, Augustin's brother Ygnacio, Felipe Talamentes, and Felipe's son Tomas in 1821. Over the next hundred years, the ranch was divided.

Moving north on Grandview Blvd from Venice Blvd is one of the oldest homes in Mar Vista. It was built in 1901. I have no idea which house it is. Until the late 1940s, Grand View Blvd. north of Palms was a narrow dirt road through a dumpsite. Large trash pits on the top of the hill were used by local teenagers with model-T Fords (the first off-road vehicle) to see if they could get through the pits during a rain. It was not unusual to see a stuck car being rescued by a team of horses. (According to Glen Howell, Mar Vista Historical Society).

History is my new hobby. I'm also delving into inventing new foods like my meatloaf empanadas. Yum. If you are Zooming I'll see you out there on the local meet-up events. I am, like everyone is, navigating a new lifestyle under this pandemic. It's a challenge to responsibly re-enter our brave new world. People establish their own sense of safety. This is real. Stay safe and please keep others safe as well.

Selling Online - Part Four

By Mark Presky

This is a continuation of my Selling Online discussion in our June Santa Monica Star 2020 issue.

Okay, once you've selected your item to sell, you've cleaned and fixed up your sale item, and have good photos, and you are ready to post your listing. I want to discuss an important set of subjects BEFORE you list your items: Fraud, payments, warranty, and buyer discourtesy. Due to space limitations, some of these will have to be discussed next month.

There is a lot of fraud out there regarding selling and buying online, and one needs to be careful. If you continue to sell online, you WILL encounter several attempts to defraud you. Each online selling platform (e.g. Craigslist, Nextdoor, eBay, Amazon), has important warnings about fraud. I know that you REEEALLY want to sell your item, but control your enthusiasm to complete the sale. Read and heed the warnings!

One common technique I've experienced many times is the potential buyer who emails or messages you stating that he/she wants your item, but is in another part of the country, and/or is in the military or is disabled, etc.; is unable to pick up the item, but wants to send you a money order with more payment than you have requested, in advance, to hold the item. They may state that after you have deposited/cashed the money order, they will arrange for someone to pick up the item. Beware, the money order is likely fraudulent, and after depositing it, your bank will later debit your account, and that will likely happen after you have parted with the sale item.

ACCEPT ONLY CASH! Do NOT accept checks, money orders, payment via Venmo (even the Venmo website advises one not to accept Venmo payment from someone you don't know) or any payment method other than cash. On eBay, you can use PayPal for payments; but don't use PayPal for payment of items sold on Craigslist or Nextdoor. I've had buyers phone or email to tell me that they are halfway to my house, and they forgot their cash on their kitchen table and don't want to return home (perhaps a half hour drive or more) and ask/plead with me to accept a personal check. I suggested they use a local ATM to obtain cash.

I know that it seems that I'll never get to the end of this, but we will – be patient. I want you to have positive online selling experiences.

The July 14 general meeting, via Zoom, of the Los Angeles Computer Society, of which I am a board member, is on "Saving Your Life with Wearable Technology." For more information, please contact LACS at lacspc.org.

From Me to You...

By Diane Margolin

Wow, what a month this has been! So much to think about. Just as many were preparing to open their businesses or return to their offices, we had numerous protest marches all over our country, and unexpected looting in many cities, including Santa Monica. We've taken time with our friends and family to discuss what changes need to be made in our police department policies and how we treat those who are different than we are. Those of us who were educators reflected upon how we taught our students to respect different ethnic groups and what has happened since then. Schools are trying to figure when and how to open for classes. With warmer days, officials are dealing with opening beaches, parks, hiking trails, and more and setting guidelines since we are still dealing with the pandemic. (Although it seems that some people, of all ages, have forgotten.)

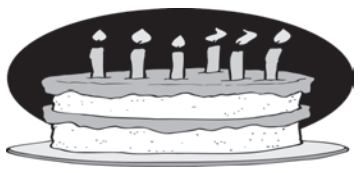

One idea that often comes up is that we need to remember self care in our daily plans. It's easy to be overwhelmed by all that is going on all around us. We still need to take care of our health and well-being. Reading is a wonderful way to discover a change of scenery for even a short time.

When I started Julie Clark's second novel, The Last Flight, I couldn't put it down. Read about her on Page 3. It was so exciting to read.

This is a time for some to clean their closets. There are magazine articles available with hints on how to declutter. Read them and choose what works for you. Is it to set aside ten minutes a day to toss and sort, or to restructure what is in your drawers?

Remember, your car could use a checkup. George at Santa Monica Brakes is the best mechanic. Contact him at 310-394-2076 for whatever you've been wanting to do for your car, and finally have the time.

Visit Terri at Acology on Wilshire Blvd., between 14th St. and 15th St. for help with home fitness equipment. She will also help with supplies for dealing with Covid-19. Her knowledge and supplies are amazing. Be sure to take good care of yourself.

Happy July Birthdays to

SMC student Louis Gossart was awarded the $3000 scholarship given in honor of former member Nick Holt who, unfortunately, passed away at the young age of 38.

The Club gives two $2500 scholarships in honor of former member and SMC administrator Archie Morrison. These went to SMC students Liz Laing and Kevin Galvin.

Two $2000 scholarships are given to graduating seniors at Santa Monica High School in honor of former Club President and member of the SAMOHI Hall of Fame Russell Hart, and another in remembrance of former member Clyde Smith who passed in 2009. These were given to Roxy Ong, Tupelo Sullivan, and Kimiya Aframian, respectively.

Ally Vasquez was the winner of the $2000 scholarship given to a graduating senior at Saint Monica High School in honor of former Club President and owner of Fisher Lumber, Tom Fox. Gian Gladous received the $2000 award given to an Olympic High School, also in the name of former Club President Tom Fox.

Each year, the law firm of Harding Larmore Kutcher & Kozal funds a $2000 scholarship to a graduating senior at New Roads High School. This year, the award was given to Christian Contreras.

All of these students and their families are to be congratulated for their achievements.
