Council almost accidentally rejects affordable housing rules

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

The Downtown Community Plan's (DCP) stringent new rules for affordable housing production were almost demolished last week when a pair of councilmembers cast protest votes against the procedural motion to update the city's zoning laws.

The DCP was ultimately approved during its second reading on Aug. 8 and will become the law of the land but not before a procedural speedbump threatened to derail the process.

Council was tasked with approving several individual ordinances connected to the DCP and to implement a set of requirements for affordable housing production, Council had to update the Zoning Ordinance.

The DCP will require affordable housing production on a per-project basis ranging from 20 – 35 percent affordable depending on the size and location of the project. Housing advocates have said those figures are prohibitively high and worry housing production will simply stop in the Downtown.

Several councilmembers were receptive to those arguments during the July debate including Terry O'Day and Gleam Davis who were present last week. O'Day asked for a renewed debate on the housing requirements but with only Davis' backing, was unable to secure a majority.

The vote then proceeded on updating the Ordinance with the new requirements. Sue Himmelrich, Tony Vazquez, and Kevin McKeown voted in favor and O'Day and Davis

False information alarming Lincoln parents

MARINA ANDALON
Daily Press Staff Writer

As local parents have expressed serious concerns about construction at Lincoln Middle School track and field, rumors have spread that the field will be closed to residents and the synthetic field is being made of used tires. These rumors are not true according to district officials.

The field and track at Lincoln Middle School is currently under renovation and will reopen when construction is complete. However, parents and local residents have shown concern by emailing Superintendent Ben Drati as well as posting signs near Lincoln Middle School.

At the recent Santa Monica - Malibu Unified School District School Board monthly meeting resident and parent Roger Diamond expressed his concern about Lincoln Middle School track and field.

"It is disheartening to see that Lincoln Middle School is basically disappearing in terms of access to the field or track. As we grow old we still like to play on the field and throw a ball around," said Diamond.

He said local residents are furious with the construction and the possibility they will no longer have access to the field, especially for those local weekend warriors.

Due to the Brown Act, school board members are not allowed to respond to items that are not part of the official agenda. However Superintendent Drati responded and said, "I am aware of the concerns, and have been receiving emails, also I have seen what has been posted out there about what people think that we are doing. I will say that is absolutely false."

The track will be reopened to the general public and everyone

Marathon group installs new bike racks

BIKES: L.A. Leggers contributed to the addition of 26 new bike racks at Palisades Park.

HANNAH JANNOL
Daily Press Intern

Palisades Park officially has 26 more bike racks as of last Saturday, thanks to the L.A. Leggers.

Celebrating their 28th birthday and first day of this year's training season for the 2018 Los Angeles marathon, the marathon training group hosted a ribbon cutting for the new bike racks on Aug. 5.

This is the second year in a row the Leggers have given back to Santa Monica, last year donating a water fountain on the southside of the Camera Obscura building. L.A. Leggers's Board of Directors President Barry Morrill said this year they donated the bike racks as a recommendation from the City.

The placement of the bike racks was configured by the City, based on where people need to park their bikes the most. The ribbon cutting occurred at six of the bike racks outside the Camera Obscura building, where the Leggers meet every week during training season.

Dressed in his regular purple kilt for raising awareness for Pancreatic Cancer research and treatment, Morrill thanked everyone for their support and for taking care of the park. An estimated 340 showed for the first training day and ribbon cutting.

"Today was excellent, we had a lot of first time runners," he said. "Not just to the club, but people running their first marathon. That's what we're here for, to let people be healthy."

The bike racks are convenient he said, not only because the City needed them, but also because the Board wanted to give back to Santa Monica for housing the Leggers for over two decades. In addition, many L.A. Leggers runners bike to the weekly training days. Previously, they had to lock their bikes to benches or other random, nearby poles.

"I think more people will commute that way now," said six year member and recent Leggers Board member Snow Lam-Hansel. She is also one of the runners who bikes to practices.

"Even if you're not part of the Leggers, what's great about it is anyone can use it," she added. "I love that the club donated back to the community. I hope that we can continue to give back every year."

Afterward, everyone stretched in circular, synchronized groups outside or taste-tested kombucha and grabbed a free Leggers bag in the Camera Obscura building.

Katie Lichtig Selected as Santa Monica's Next Assistant City Manager/Chief Operating Officer

SoCal municipal veteran returns to her Santa Monica roots. Recently City Manager Rick Cole announced that Katie Lichtig has been selected to join him in leading the City of Santa Monica as Assistant City Manager/Chief Operating Officer. After a rigorous national search, Lichtig returns to Santa Monica where she began her career in local government as the Assistant to the City Manager for Management Services from 1992 to 2001. She has served as the City Manager for San Luis Obispo for the past 7.5 years and in leading positions with the Cities of Malibu and Beverly Hills before that.

"I sought out Katie because I knew about her achievements and skills in public administration. After a rigorous process with stiff competition Katie rose to the top," said City Manager Rick Cole. "I am certain Katie is going to do great things in Santa Monica and I look forward to establishing a wonderful partnership with her as we create a 21st Century government."

The position was retitled to more accurately describe the role of Assistant City Manager, which is responsible for ensuring the effective operations of an organization of 11 departments and 2,300 staff, and as the hub for the City's leadership team. The COO will spearhead strategic and operational planning and performance management for the City.

"I am thrilled to re-join the team in Santa Monica," said Katie Lichtig. "The community and city staff are tackling important issues and it is exciting for me to be a part of the innovation and change that is envisioned. I look forward to bringing my skills, experience and knowledge of Santa Monica to help the team make the vision for a 21st Century city a reality."

As City Manager, Lichtig saw the City of San Luis Obispo through the Great Recession and made contributions, including:

- Leveraging existing funding to expand open space;
- Developing a public engagement manual and enhancing community participation through technology;
- Enhancing knowledge and confidence in the use of local sales tax measure revenues which resulted in passage of a renewal measure by more than 70% of voters in 2014;
- Overseeing major infrastructure improvements, including the Los Osos Valley Road Overpass expansion and a new Skate Park;
- Leading the Coalition of Cities to help ensure the regional and local economy remained strong after the closure of the Diablo Canyon Power Plant;
- Working with community partners to fund construction of the 40 Prado Road Homeless Services Center, and supporting an organizational culture that values collaboration, teamwork and caring for the community and each other.

During her nearly decade-long tenure with the City of Santa Monica, Lichtig helped recovery efforts after the Northridge Earthquake and was instrumental in building the Public Safety Facility. Lichtig has vast experience with neighboring communities. She served as Assistant City Manager/Chief Operating Officer for the City of Beverly Hills (2006 – 2010) and City Manager for the City of Malibu (2001 – 2006).

Lichtig has a Master of Public Administration from Syracuse University and a BA in political science from UC Davis. She will begin in early October with a salary of $275,508.

Clear the Shelters Pet Adoption Campaign

Save the date! On August 19, the Santa Monica Animal Shelter will be joining NBC4 Southern California and Telemundo 52 for the third annual pet adoption event 'Clear the Shelters'. Animal shelters throughout Southern California will open their doors from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. offering adoptions for $20 on all pets.

Clear the Shelters raises awareness about the benefits of pet adoption and aims to reduce the animal overpopulation at local shelters. During the campaign, NBC and Telemundo will feature coverage to spotlight the issue; including the importance of spaying/neutering, the benefits of micro-chipping, and guidance for families to find the right pet for their homes.

As part of the event, VCA – Santa Monica Animal Hospital will be onsite offering pet advice from expert veterinarians and their healthcare teams. All pets adopted during the event will receive a limited health guarantee and a gift bag filled with pet essentials.

As part of this initiative, the public is encouraged to share photographs with their pets on social media using the following hashtags: #LoveMyPet;#AmoAMiMascota; #ClearTheShelters; and #DesocuparLosAlbergues which will be shared in photo galleries by NBC and Telemundo 52. If you adopt in Santa Monica, share your photographs on the Santa Monica Animal Shelter's Facebook page with #AdoptSantaMonicaAnimalShelter.

This initiative seeks to place as many animals into loving homes. If you are considering a pet adoption, please visit the Santa Monica Animal Shelter located at 1640 9th St., Santa Monica, CA 90401.

Climate Reality Project

Dear EarthTalk:

What exactly is Al Gore's Climate Reality Project and how does it work to train activists?

Kelly G.
Washington, DC

The Climate Reality Project (CRP) is a non-profit launched in 2011 by Nobel laureate and former U.S. Vice President Al Gore to address climate change following up on the release of his influential book and documentary film, An Inconvenient Truth. CRP serves as the nerve center of Gore's advocacy and education efforts to spread the word about the need to ratchet down our greenhouse gas emissions to stave off the cataclysmic effects of global warming.

CRP's primary focus right now is in training volunteer advocates—so-called "Climate Reality Leaders"—to go out into their communities and educate policymakers and members of the public about the need to take action to mitigate climate change while countering so-called "climate denial" efforts funded by oil companies and perpetuated by right wing think tanks. So far, some 10,000 individuals from 135 countries have participated in CRP training events.

The primary tool these Climate Reality Leaders use to spread the word is a regularly updated slide show created by Gore in 2011 that lays out the facts behind climate change. It details example after example of human-induced global warming wreaking havoc by lashing low-lying areas with massive storms, killing thousands with blistering heat waves and turning human populations already marginalized by war and famine into migratory climate refugees searching for safer places to live.

Meanwhile, CRP's free "Reality Drop" news aggregator tool collects online news stories about climate change that activists can share on social media channels to dispel myths about global warming to help set the record straight for millions of friends, fans and followers.

Most recently, CRP has supported the creation and distribution of the follow-up to an Inconvenient Truth, a new documentary entitled An Inconvenient Sequel: Truth to Power. The film, released worldwide in July 2017, follows Gore around the world, documenting how global warming is already ravaging the planet. CRP is working to get the film in front of millions of viewers, as it did with the original film, in hopes it will inspire a new generation of citizen activists.

And come December, CRP will host its seventh annual "24 Hours of Reality," a free, live-streamed multimedia event that showcases what's being done to fight climate change in each of the world's top 24 greenhouse gas emitting countries. It aims to show viewers what they can do even if their country's leaders aren't as invested in positive change as they could be.

"When you talk, your friends and family listen," reports CRP. "That's why it's so important that every climate activist use their voice to spread the truth about the climate crisis." Even those who haven't attended a CRP event can download the free "I Am Still In" action kit which teaches people how to build support for clean energy and other climate solutions at the community level.

"There are many ways to use your voice, and whether you write a letter to the editor of your local paper or call your representative or talk to your neighbors, you can make a difference in sharing the truth and shaping public opinion right when your planet needs you," concludes CRP.

Soundwaves: Tom Peters Plays Tom Johnson

The Santa Monica Public Library Soundwaves concert series presents bassist Tom Peters playing the music of Tom Johnson on Wednesday August 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Library's Martin Luther King Jr. Auditorium at 601 Santa Monica Blvd.

Peters performs with the Long Beach Symphony, Southwest Chamber Music, and other groups, teaches at Cal State Long Beach, and is a published author.

He will be playing two solo pieces by former Village Voice music critic Tom Johnson: "Doublings" and "Failing, a Very Difficult Piece for String Bass." These pieces explore self-reference, in "Doublings" by generating an endlessly developing melody through repeated iterations of a formula and, in "Failing," requiring the performer to give a monologue about the performance as it happens. Like the plays of Tom Stoppard and drawings of M. C. Escher, the results can be humorous and mind-bending.

Soundwaves is a monthly concert series presenting artists who appear on the DRAM (Database of Recorded American Music) streaming service. The Santa Monica Public Library is the first public library to offer this service to its cardholders. Listings of past and upcoming Soundwaves shows as well as sound and video recordings are at SoundwavesNewMusic.com

This event is free and open to the public. Seating is limited and on a first-arrival basis. The Santa Monica Public Library is wheelchair accessible. For special disabled services, call Library Administration at (310) 458-8606 at least one week prior to event. For more information, visit smpl.org or contact the Santa Monica Public Library at (310) 458-8600.

SHINE Storytelling at Santa Monica Playhouse

On August 17 at 7 p.m. SHINE performers are tuning up for the show's annual "Music" event at the Santa Monica Playhouse. Storytellers and musical artists will share inspiring true tales of how music changed their lives. This special edition of SHINE includes live musical performances. Among the stories, we'll hear how a shy girl became a hero on the dance floor, how a bleak night abroad turned magical because of a saxophone, and how playing an instrument for a police officer changed the course of a man's life.

The evening's storytellers are: Sean Golightly, Munir Griffin, Kat Kambes, Zana Messia, Kate Romero, Alex Stein, Lisa Williams. SHINE "Music" will be hosted by Brenda Varda, an exciting singer/songwriter and award-winning playwright and actor. Brenda has had numerous works produced in Los Angeles both as playwright and composer/lyricist, including Fables Du Theatre, Wench, Liquid, and Things that Fall for the Sky. Her show Nine Dresses received acclaim at Sacred Fools as part of the 2016 Hollywood Fringe Festival. Her newest show This is my Garbage was featured in the Son of Semele Solo Creation Festival in July. She also creates collective works with other artists through Wordspace, a creative writer's organization. Storytellers for SHINE are chosen from some of the nation's top award-winning storytellers, writers, and performers. New storytellers from a variety of backgrounds also take the stage. SMC film program receives grant from Hollywood Foreign Press Association charitable trust

The Hollywood Foreign Press Association (HFPA)—best known for producing the star-studded Golden Globe Awards—has awarded the Santa Monica College Foundation (SMCF) a $30,000 fellowship grant for the Santa Monica College Film Production Program. Proceeds from the Golden Globe Awards help fund the HFPA Charitable Trust (HFPA Trust), which has contributed nearly $30 million for more than 25 years to entertainment-related charities and educational opportunities.

A first-time applicant, SMC was one of only five new grant recipients at HFPA's Annual Grants Banquet on August 2, where $2.8 million in grants went to more than 55 nonprofit organizations and scholarship programs that emphasize diversity and inclusiveness.

"Santa Monica College is very pleased and honored to have our film program be a first-time HFPA recipient," said Dr. Kathryn E. Jeffery, SMC Superintendent/President. "At the award event, SMC's film program was recognized along with other exceptional programs that work in earnest to prepare up-and-coming filmmakers. Many community college students must overcome overwhelming obstacles to pursue their career goals and dreams, and SMC's very mission of providing accessible, affordable, top-notch higher education aligns beautifully with the HFPA Charitable Trust's laudable undertaking."

The HFPA grant will fund production expenses for two films to be made by students during the Fall 2017 and Spring 2018 semesters for SMC's Film 33, "Making the Short Film," one of the culminating classes for both the Associate of Science Degree in Film Production and Associate of Arts Degree in Film Studies.

"This donation from the HFPA marks our largest first-time grant awarded to a college," said HFPA President Meher Tatna. "Santa Monica College directly serves the underrepresented students the HFPA aims to provide with equal opportunities to pursue their passion. With the gift of this grant which will go toward the school's Film Production Program, we look forward to the great accomplishments these aspiring filmmakers will achieve in their bright future."

Students collaborate on one short film every semester, shooting on location to emulate the professional environment as closely as possible. Three of those short films were accepted into competition in the American Pavilion Emerging Filmmaker Showcase during the Cannes Film Festival ("Solidarity," "Cora," "Spaghetti Romance"), and several others have won awards at international and regional film festivals.

"Unquestionably the biggest challenge for our students has been to raise the money to make these films," says Salvador Carrasco, Head of SMC's Film Production Program. "The HFPA grant will allow us to focus on creative issues and devote time to pre-production rather than to arduous crowd-funding campaigns. Our students make films that genuinely have something to say, and this grant is a validation of their talent, hard work, and great attitude. We are incredibly grateful for this invaluable support."

SMC's Film Studies Program has been an academic discipline within the Department of Communication/Media Studies for 15 years, and prepares students for transfer to four-year programs. To serve the growing number of students who want to pursue a career track and meet the industry's rising employment demand, the program was expanded in 2013 to include Film Production.

Students receive hands-on experience, with specialized classes in production, cinematography, screenwriting, editing, and sound design, offering a professional environment with state-of-the-art equipment. They study the art and craft of filmmaking and digital video production for narrative and documentary films, commercials, music videos and various forms of Internet content.

Many SMC students are first-generation—the first in their families to attend college—and the college attracts a diverse student population. In addition to preparation for transfer, the program also provides students with the skills and professional training to apply for entry level employment, at both above-the-line and below-the-line levels.

Experienced and committed faculty and strong partnerships with industry make SMC's Film Production Program uniquely positioned to address an unmet need for students with talent and promise by offering a high-quality education at a fraction of the cost of most four-year film schools.

The mission of the HFPA's Charitable Trust is to foster education, diversity, and creative expression in art and film through a variety of programs and special grants. Through the annual Grants Banquet, the HFPA continues to provide funds and resources to institutions and people that need it most.

For more information on the HFPA Annual Grants Banquet, visit the HFPA Golden Globes website or read this article on Variety magazine's website. To learn more about SMC's Film program, visit www.smc.edu/filmproduction or email Carrasco_Salvador@smc.edu. Student films are on YouTube under the "Santa Monica College Film Program" channel.

voted against the motion.

Mayor Ted Winterer and Councilwoman Pam O'Connor were absent from the meeting and it takes four votes to approve most council decisions, five when it comes to the budget.

"I just wanted to reflect that I very much support building to the maximum possible inclusionary affordable housing but all the testimony that I heard and subsequent discussion with the community suggests that we will have serious issues getting to actually build any housing under this plan and under other requirements in this code," said O'Day. "And I hope I'm wrong and I hope I'm proven wrong very quickly but my no vote reflects an opinion I've formed after that testimony."

Davis said she agreed with O'Day and while she supported the DCP, the inclusionary housing policy was important enough to warrant a "no" vote on her part.

Following the vote, staff informed Council that it requires a majority of the council, meaning four votes, to update an ordinance.

Faced with the realization they had just derailed a significant part of the DCP approval process, the Councilmembers present had the option to reconsider the issue at the next meeting or an individual member could change their vote.

Councilwoman Davis said she recognized there would be four votes for the plan if the council were all present and she said bringing the discussion back would be a waste of time for everyone involved.

"I will change my vote to yes as a recognition that if Mayor Winterer were here, he would have voted 'yes,'" she said.

CRIME WATCH
BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department.
These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON AUGUST 3, 2017 AT ABOUT 10:58 A.M.,

An officer responded to a radio call for service regarding a battery that just occurred. Officers determined the victim, a Santa Monica Downtown Ambassador, was walking southbound along the 1300 block of Palisades Park. The victim saw a subject closing a gate at the Arizona Bridge. The victim walked over to the subject to assist him. The subject began yelling loudly and walked towards the victim. The suspect unprovoked then kicked at the victim striking him in the hand and wrist area. The victim was desirous of prosecution. Additional officers at the 100 block of Broadway located the suspect. The suspect was uncooperative with officers and a brief struggle ensued. The suspect was eventually controlled and taken into custody. Bryce Erza Prosser,33, homeless was arrested for battery, resisting an officer. Bail was set at $20,000.

will continue to have access to the track and field when school is not session, or permitted sports are taking place. SMMUSD plans to reopen the track by January 2018.

In a recent press release from SMMUSD Superintendent Dr. Ben Drati said, "Our intent is to continue to provide time for use of the Lincoln field, track and basketball courts by the general public when it is not permitted for organized sports. Installation of field lighting will provide additional opportunities for permit groups and the general public to use this much-needed open space during non school hours."

Lincoln Middle School is one of the renovation projects SMMUSD is currently working on. The project consists of converting the existing grass field to synthetic turf with cork infill. There will be no crumb rubber. There will also be construction of the track to a synthetic track, along with upgraded restroom facilities and the return of field lights.

In 2003 the City and SMMUSD partnered together to prompt a Joint Use Agreement for recreational facilities at Lincoln Middle School.

The agreement allows the City to utilize SMMUSD facilities for community programs during non-school hours including permitting the fields for organized youth sports groups.

Parents, staff and community members may contact Carey Upton, Chief Operations Officer for more information, cupton@smmusd.org .

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Aug. 14)

It all happens rather quickly for you in the first three months of this solar return, a result of your wishes being aligned perfectly with the wishes of the universe. Whatever was keeping a relationship from progressing will be lifted. Love spills out into other parts of your life. Creative works and children will spawn travel. Aquarius and Libra adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 30, 33, 38 and 41.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
When you work alone there is less to distract you. You can focus and be prolific. However, solo work does bring with it a danger of becoming limited in perspective. Reach out periodically for different opinions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Instead of giving a person the benefit of the doubt, you do something more radically generous: You leave the doubt out altogether and give the entire benefit. In other words, you give all.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)
You'll be attracted to strange scenes. If it doesn't look like anything you've experienced, you want to sign up. You could find love, friendship, adventure or work by mingling in a new place.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)
You can make something out of nothing. This ability will amaze people. When "nothing" is the main ingredient, the result has endless possibilities. No one knows what it's going to be today, least of all you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
As an empathetic person, you acutely feel the pleasure and pain of others. Not everyone has this gift. Some simply can't relate to how others are feeling. That's why your talent will be so needed and appreciated today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You may be reluctant to talk about yourself today. You see life as a creative process, not a series of trophies to be toted out for company. Anyway, the most impressive thing will be that you don't feel a need to impress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
In today's case there are no adversaries, just people addressing individual needs. If you can get to the common ground and work together, it is possible you could find a solution that allows all to win.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)
Happiness will come in the realization that you've accomplished what you set out to do. For this reason, making small goals that are achievable within the day will be the joyful choice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
The numbers add up -- then fly by and blow out of the grasp of memory. Write down the time, costs, contact info and other relevant numbers to prevent having to chase them down later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Remember, the backup is only a backup if there's another copy of it. In the case where the original is no longer a viable option, be sure to back up the backup.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Steer clear of the battle. This is not a day to join the fight. For starters, there is no winning side. Also, after the warring parties make up, they'll shift the blame to others involved in the conflict.

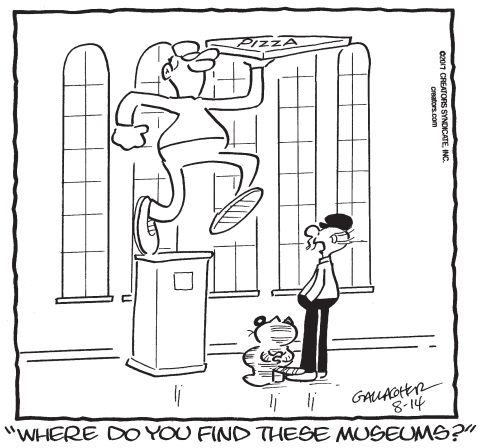

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
You feel your feelings at full strength now, but it's not such a good idea to show it. People will be frightened by intensity, and frightened people run the other way. But there's great and attractive power in restraint.

Tension Mounts for Venus

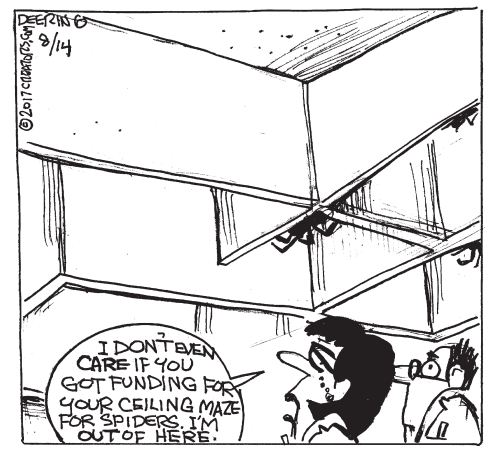

Love planet Venus is headed for some trouble this week that could be rooted in the communication breakdown of Mercury retrograde or the stubbornness implied by today's bullish moon. You may be able to prevent a later offense by making an extra effort to listen well and by releasing the need to be in the right.

WELL NEWS BY SCOTT LAFEE

Body of Knowledge

■ Serotonin is a neurotransmitter that plays a major role in managing moods (it makes you feel happy). Most of it is produced, however, in the gut, not the head.

Number Cruncher

■ A single serving of Wienerschnitzel's chili cheese fries (231grams) contains 540 calories, 342 from fat. It has 38 grams of total fat -- or 58 percent of the recommended total fat intake for a 2,000-calorie daily diet.

■ It also contains 55 milligrams of cholesterol (18 percent); 1,380 mg of sodium (57 percent); 39 grams of total carbohydrates (13 percent); 4 g of dietary fiber (16 percent); 1 g of sugar and 12 g of protein.
