Libraries to expand staffing and hours after years of reduced service

SMDP Image

EMILY SAWICKI
SMDP Staff Writer

Residents frustrated over reduced staffing and limited hours at local libraries see hope on the horizon this week, with all five Santa Monica Public Library branches in line for potential staff increases and operating hour expansion; however, even if the proposal is approved, hours would still amount to less than half the total service time provided prior to the pandemic.

The economic fallout from COVID-19 caused the City to slash staffing in several municipal departments including the library system, which saw a 58% reduction in staff in 2020 — going from 112 full-time equivalent employees to 47. In the years that followed, the library has slowly begun adding additional staff and, as of this week, Santa Monica employs the equivalent of 61.2 full time employees (meaning enough staff to cover the work of that many employees, although some are part-time hires).

Before the pandemic, Santa Monica's five library branches were open for a cumulative 251.5 hours each week and no library operated fewer than 49 hours each week — four libraries were open six days a week and the Main Branch was open all seven.

Currently, the Main Library and Pico Branch are open five days a week with limited hours at all other branches; cumulatively, libraries are open for 98 hours each week across town, although over a quarter of those hours (28 hours per week) are at branches with curbside or self-service hours only.

The proposed expansion would include reopening all branches for standard in-person services for a cumulative total of 116 operating hours citywide per week, although they would cut down on the hours

EMILY SAWICKI
SMDP Staff Writer

Longtime Santa Monica resident and Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District music and math teacher Darrell Mettler died last month at the age of 81.

Mettler spent more than two decades teaching instrumental music to elementary school students across the District before finishing his career as a math and computer science teacher at Samohi, where he taught for 11 years.

Mettler's daughter, Janelle Mettler, said she believed her dad would be remembered by his students for the "peace and gentle acceptance" he shared.

"He's just a solid, really kind, generous, religious, family man," Janelle said. "To me, the environment [he] created in his career ... It feels really safe."

"I'm hoping that the mark he leaves on each of his students is security and peace and feelings of knowing a little bit about what the frameworks of society are and that they belong," she added.

Darrell Mettler was born in Bakersfield on Nov. 26, 1940, baptized at Ebeneezer Reformed Church in Shafter, California, and Confirmed at Grace Reformed Church in Bakersfield. He was a

Governor Newsom rejects plans for legal drug injection sites

DON THOMPSON
Associated Press

California Gov. Gavin Newsom vetoed a bill Monday that he said could have brought "a world of unintended consequences" by allowing Los Angeles, Oakland and San Francisco to set up sites where opioid users could legally inject drugs under supervision.

"The unlimited number of safe injection sites that this bill would authorize — facilities which could exist well into the later part of this decade — could induce a world of unintended consequences," Newsom said.

While he said they could be helpful, he worried that "if done without a strong plan, they could work against this purpose. ... Worsening drug consumption challenges in these areas is not a risk we can take."

It was one of the most watched and most controversial measures of this legislative session.

Proponents wanted to give people who already would use drugs a place to inject them while trained staff stand by to help if they suffer accidental overdoses.

The proposal came amid a spike in overdose deaths amid a national opioid crisis. But opponents said the move in effect would have condoned the use of dangerous drugs.

"Each year this legislation is delayed, more people die of drug overdoses," said state Sen. Scott Wiener, a Democrat from San Francisco who authored the California legislation.

Newsom, a Democrat, had previously said he was open to the idea. But his decision comes as he faces increased national scrutiny as he is perceived as a possible presidential contender, though he has frequently denied any interest in running.

He said he has long supported cutting edge harm reduction strategies, but not without "well-documented, vetted, and thoughtful operational and sustainability plans."

Newsom ordered his secretary of Health and Human Services to meet with city and county officials to discuss standards and best practices, and said he remains open to the concept once they come back to lawmakers with recommendations for how the sites could be run safely.

Wiener called Newsom's veto "tragic," and San Francisco Mayor London Breed said the veto by the former mayor of San Francisco is "disappointing."

"We don't need additional studies or working groups to determine whether safe consumption sites are effective," Wiener said. "These sites are a proven strategy to reduce overdose deaths, pressure on emergency rooms, and public drug use, while expanding access to drug treatment."

But Senate GOP Leader Scott Wilk said in a statement at the same time that the bill amounts to "giving people free needles and a safe place to shoot up."

Wilk and other Senate Republicans sent a letter to Newsom, a Democrat, urging him to reject creating "drug dens" that they said could potentially subject local providers to federal charges, though U.S. officials have said they are considering allowing the sites with " appropriate guardrails."

"Allowing people to get higher than a kite on heroin and other dangerous drugs, then turning them loose afterwards onto the streets is just crazy," objected Republican Sen. Brian Jones.

Assembly Republican Leader James Gallagher sent his own letter, and said in a statement that Democrats who supported the bill "are actively promoting crime."

The state Senate gave final approval to the bill on a 21-11 roll call, over GOP opposition and with eight Democrats not voting, after the Assembly advanced it in June on a 42-29 vote.

The first two publicly recognized overdose prevention sites in the United States opened in New York City in December and have been credited with intervening in more than 150 overdoses. Rhode Island approved testing similar centers for two years.

More than 2 1/2 times as many San Franciscans died of accidental drug overdoses in 2020 — a record roughly 700 people — than died from COVID-19 that year, San Francisco Mayor London Breed said earlier. She cited spiking drug overdose rates in declaring an emergency in the Tenderloin neighborhood in December.

Nationwide, drug overdose deaths increased 28.5% to more than 100,000 during the 12-month period ending in April 2021 over the same period a year earlier, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, including about 10,000 Californians.

The governing boards in each of the California jurisdictions have already asked to be included. It will remain up to them whether to go ahead and to what extent if Newsom signs the bill into law. The test programs would run until January 1, 2028.

Participating governments would have to split the cost of an independent study on the effectiveness of the program and its impact on the community, due by 2027.

But opposition crossed party lines. Critics say the sites would attract crime as users buy drugs nearby, or steal or prostitute themselves to afford the drugs.

The legislation would bar arresting or prosecuting anyone associated with the sites, including clients, for drug-related crimes.

Opponents highlight former governor Jerry Brown's veto of a 2018 bill that would have allowed the sites in San Francisco.

"Enabling illegal and destructive drug use will never work," wrote Brown, a Democrat. He said the proposal was "all carrot and no stick" because there was no requirement that the user undergo drug treatment.

While there is no requirement, supporters contend that employees at the sites could help users get treatment, while also helping to prevent the spread of HIV and hepatitis infections by providing clean needles. They could also have drug testing kits to check for fentanyl or other contamination.

"Although there is no silver bullet to our overdose epidemic, they are a proven strategy to reduce overdose deaths, to get people into treatment, to reduce syringe litter, and to provide people an option not to be using drugs in our public spaces — which is not healthy or appropriate for anyone involved," Wiener said during the Senate's final consideration.

Supporters and opponents have promoted conflicting data on whether nearly 170 such sites in Australia, Canada and Europe have been successful and whether they have encouraged nearby crime.

lifelong member of the Reformed Church of the United States and served as a church Elder.

He graduated as the valedictorian for the East Bakersfield High School class of 1958 and went on to attend USC's Thornton School of Music, earning a Masters degree in Music in 1967. While at USC, he also earned teaching credentials and was a member of the Pi Kappa Lambda society, according to an obituary provided by the school district.

He was married Aug. 13, 1966, to Nadine Bowers of Long Beach. Together, they raised two children, Janelle Mettler and Devin Mettler.

DARRELL METTLER

Both Janelle and Devin had their dad as a band and orchestra instructor when they attended Grant Elementary School in the 1980s. Janelle called his class a "perfect environment" for young students to learn the basics of music.

"It was a great foundation — a great musical foundation," Janelle reflected. "I think it was the same for me as it was for all the students; I think it was a great experience to go through."

When asked how her father thought about his career in education, Janelle said he was a man of few words, but she knew he was satisfied with the work he did in the Santa Monica community.

"Mr. Mettler was recognized in Who's Who Among America's Teachers in 1992 in acknowledgement of excellence as a distinguished educator," according to his official obituary. "In 2004, he was an award recipient at the Santa Monica Malibu Unified School District 55th Annual Band, Choir and Orchestra Concert 'Stairway of the Stars' in recognition of his time, effort and endless contributions on behalf of thousands of young musicians."

Mettler was an active member of the Santa Monica-Malibu Classroom Teachers Association including serving on numerous committees and as vice president.

Retiring from his 33-year teaching career, which lasted from 1966 through 1999, did not take Mettler away from his passion for music. For more than 20 years following retirement, he stayed busy performing clarinet, flute and saxophone for the Local 47 Union in Los Angeles, playing gigs with numerous groups including the Physicians Symphony, LAPD Band and Harry James Band, among many others.

Janelle said Mettler continued a rigorous pace of performances past the age of 70.

"He's in his early 70s, and he tells me, 'I'm in 16 or 17 different performing groups' — this is him in retirement! — 'I try to limit myself to two or three rehearsals or concerts per day,'" Janelle said. "He's going out all over Los Angeles, driving to all these different concerts and rehearsals everywhere."

The commitment did not go unnoticed.

"In 2016, the City of Los Angeles presented Mr. Mettler with a certificate of appreciation for service with the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Band, and he was presented a five-year service award in 2021 from the USCG Aux," according to his obituary. "In 2021, he was awarded a Life Member Order of Merit from the Republican National Committee."

Mettler was preceded in death by parents Mylo Mettler and Leola Gladwell of Bakersfield; ex-wife Nadine Penn; and sister Janet Rodrigue.

He was survived by his brothers Donald and David (Lisa) Mettler; sister Kellie (Myron) Smith; daughter Janelle Mettler; son Devin (Sinead) Mettler; and his grandsons Cathal and Ronan.

A graveside service will be held in Bakersfield at 11 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 26, at Hillcrest Memorial Park and Mortuary, 9101 Kern Canyon Road, followed by a service at 12:15 p.m. Grace Reformed Church, 420 Columbus Avenue, followed by a repast in the adjoining hall. Pallbearers are Erik Wood, Mason Smith, Michael Rodrigue, Stephen Mettler, Mark Kirschenmann, Kenneth Kirschenmann, Paul Bender, Michael Rodrigue, Jr., Cathal Mettler and Ronan Mettler.

If you are unable to attend the service but would like to contact the family, you can reach out to Janelle via email: jymettler@gmail.com or cell: (661) 378-1355.

the Main Branch is open from 35 down to 32 hours per week to allow resources to spread to other branches.

The changes would be funded through a one-time $537,924 budget appropriation from the City's general grant, and City Council is expected to discuss the proposed allocation when it meets on Wednesday, Aug. 24.

"On June 28, 2022, during the adoption of the FY 2022-23 Exception-Based Budget, City Council allocated resources for the Library to enhance Saturday hours at selected branch libraries and offer additional evening hours," according to the report prepared for the Wednesday hearing. "Staff recommends the allocation of $537,924 in one-time capital improvement program projects that were deferred to increase library operating hours, including weekly Saturday service at both the Pico and Montana Avenue branches, and evening hours until 7 pm."

The special city council meeting on Wednesday is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. and can be viewed at 1685 Main Street, Room 250, or virtually at youtube.com/user/Citytv16santamonica. Members of the public may also attend the meeting in person. Public Health Expands Monkeypox Vaccine Eligibility to Additional Groups

The Los Angeles County Department of Public Health (Public Health) is expanding the criteria to include additional residents at high risk of exposure to monkeypox. Starting Monday, August 22, monkeypox vaccine will be available to persons who self-attest to being in the following high-risk groups:

Gay or bisexual men and transgender people who had:

Multiple or anonymous sex partners in the past 14 days; OR

(NEW) Skin-to-skin or intimate contact (e.g., kissing, hugging) with persons at large venues or events in the past 14 days

(NEW) Persons of any gender or sexual orientation who engaged in commercial and/or transactional sex in the past 14 days (e.g., sex in exchange for money, shelter, food, and other goods or needs)

Residents who are immunocompromised, including those with advanced or uncontrolled HIV, may be at high risk for severe disease and will be prioritized for vaccination.

Residents who met the prior eligibility criteria are still eligible for vaccination (i.e., you are a gay or bisexual man or a transgender person and who were diagnosed with gonorrhea or early syphilis in the past 12 months, are on HIV pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP), or had anonymous sex or sex with multiple partners within the past 21 days in a commercial sex venue or other venue).

Eligible residents needing their first dose can now register by visiting ph.lacounty.gov/monkeypoxsignup.

Additionally, residents who received their first dose more than 28 days ago can receive their second dose the following ways:

Residents who received their first dose through their healthcare provider over 28 days ago should contact their provider to schedule an appointment.

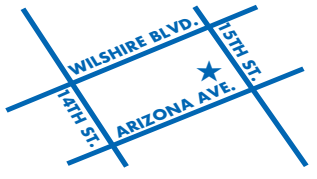

Residents who registered through the Public Health registration system and were vaccinated at a Public Health location will receive a second text message when their second dose is due with instructions on where to receive their second dose.

All first and second doses will be administered intradermally, unless contraindicated. The FDA has advised that those under 18 years of age and adults who have a history of developing keloid scars should get the vaccine beneath the skin (subcutaneously), not between the layers of the skin (intradermally).

Those without access to the internet or needing help with registration, can call the Public Health Call Center for more information including general information, testing, treatment, and vaccines at (833) 540-0473. The Public Health Call Center is open 7 days a week 8 a.m. – 8:30 p.m.

DEMOCRACY DEMANDS US ALL PARTAKE

This time last year I wrote a column suggesting that the city of Santa Monica needed a diversity commission and that I was willing to serve. I had applied to the Commission on the status of women, and we all knew that was a non-starter. The fact that as a gay man, who fights in court for fathers and children would be more than enough to ruffle the feather of the powers that be and prevent me from participating. Which is why I have been calling for a commission on the status of men and boys in the city for years. But we all know that's a non-starter as well. No one gives two dead cockroaches about men dying of substance abuse, not taking care of themselves physically, having emotional needs or their parental rights being interfered with, let alone men as victims of domestic violence because we all know that men can't be victims.

Then there's the fact that so men are homeless and/or having mental health issues, that's still not a very sexy topic for a politician to run on. Even if you gussie it up and talk about how those problems start when the men are boys – not that important.

BUT! Diversity. Gays, Lesbians, Transfolks, BIPOCs, now we're talking something that the politicians can run on. So we should have a diversity commission. Well, my suggestion kinda/sorta was taken to heart. The Council decided to combine and consolidate commissions and created the Human Services Commission with an all-new panel.

Did any of the Council reach to me after I threw my hat in the ring for the Diversity Commission suggestion? They're far too busy for that. I will say that a few of them did reply to my emails, but then it fell into the great void of council business.

I didn't see the request for applications for the new Human Services Commission, so when that happened I wasn't in the party. But there are two openings. One appointed member has apparently withdrawn so now my new application has a better shot. There's two spots and four applicants.

I love our city, I'm not fond of the way that it's developing, but rather than just complain, which is an easy thing to do, I'm choosing to step up and ask to participate. Our democratic form of government depends on people stepping up and taking part. Whether it is a simple vote, participation on a commission or council, or higher executive office. We all play a part and given the current state of the State, we need more help.

We have existential problems from homelessness (which is only going to get exponentially worse in the coming years due to automation and job loss) to the lack of state planning for proper water resources. It's easy for us to throw our hands up and say that "it's above my pay grade!" But if we don't start having more ideas brought to the public square, we're going to be stuck with the same old problems.

As a society we can all contribute more for the common good, and that doesn't just mean paying higher taxes. It means being a part of the process. There's a children's story called Stone Soup. It's a good story of how when a community comes together to share ideas and assets they can all prosper.

In times like this, where politicians want to divide us by focusing in on our differences, where hatred is spewed in the name of patriotism, where religious leaders focus on their wallets and not their spirituality, we have to find and support the voices who wish to rise above it all.

We need to find more common ground. Have more empathy for our neighbors and recognize that many of the problems we are facing are systemic and brought about by forces of greed and the lust for power.

Dodgers, Muncy agree to $13.5M deal for 2023

BETH HARRIS AP
Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers and two-time All-Star Max Muncy agreed Monday on a $13.5 million, one-year contract for 2023

The deal includes a $10 million club option for 2024 with no buyout.

His option price can increase by $4 million based on plate appearances next year: $250,000 each for 50, 250, 300 and 350, $500,000 apiece for 400 and 450, and $1 million each for 500 and 550. He would get a one-time assignment bonus of $1 million if traded.

"This place means everything to me. There's not anywhere else that I'd rather play," Muncy said. "Hopefully, there's more after that."

The outfielder, who turns 32 next week, has struggled this season. He's hitting .190 with 16 homers and 47 RBIs while playing in 99 games for the team with the best record in baseball.

Muncy has shown signs of coming around this month when he's batted .328 with seven homers and 15 RBI and a 1.185 OPS.

Manager Dave Roberts said Muncy's improved numbers are encouraging.

"But this was already in the works when he wasn't swinging well," he said.

Last season, Muncy hit .249 with a career-high 36 homers and 94 RBIs and career-bests in total bases (262) and extra-base hits (64). He earned his second All-Star selection, but his year ended early when he injured the UCL on his glove hand on a play at first base in the last game of the regular season.

"I feel pretty close. I'm not going to say 100%," he said of his physical status. "If I can get right for October, that's what I care about."

He's in his fifth season with the Dodgers.

AP Baseball Writer Ronald Blum in New York contributed to this report.

HOMELESSNESS

program in response to research showing that many people lose housing as the result of some type of financial shock.

"It could be a car accident, a trip to the hospital, something that happens with work- in any one of these cases, the person gets off track and it can lead to a cascading series of issues which prevents them from being able to pay rent and ultimately getting evicted."

Miller said that the goal is to provide people in these situations with the money they need to survive a short-term crisis and help them to become financially stable.

To be eligible to receive a loan from the STEP Fund, a person must be below the area median income and demonstrate they are at risk of eviction or in need of assistance to pay bills or secure housing. The loans are interest-free and recipients have three years to repay them.

The STEP Fund's model is currently being studied by the University of Notre Dame's Lab for Economic Opportunity. While it is too early to know the full extent of the results, and there has been debate about how effective micro loans truly are, Miller is hopeful the program will reduce homelessness by preventing people from becoming unhoused in the first place. According to the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority, 82,955 people became homeless in LA County in 2019.

The fund conducted a small-scale pre-pilot of the program last year, giving out 35 loans to eligible people in the county. Courtney Bailey, a mother of five young children was one of the recipients.

In the fall of last year, Bailey got a call she had dreamed of receiving. A four bedroom apartment in an income-based rental unit was available. It was far bigger, more spacious and well kept than her home at the time.

"My situation was not the best, our apartment was super small, there were a lot of repairs and the landlord wouldn't pay for anything," she said.

Bailey was thrilled by the news, but then came the caveat- the new apartment was only hers if she could pay the $500 move-in deposit within ten days, something she knew she couldn't afford to do.

"At the time I was on leave due to COVID, so I was on leave without pay basically," Bailey said. "The money I did have was used for my children and food and trying to stay afloat with stuff like that."

She told the person who had helped her find the new apartment about her situation and he connected her with the STEP Fund. Within a week she had applied and been approved for the loan and the STEP fund sent the money directly to the new apartment to secure her spot. Bailey has since gone back to work as a mail clerk at the post office, graduated college and written a children's book. She said none of it would have been possible without the loan and now that she is in a better place she has already started making payments and is determined to pay it back as soon as possible.

"I feel like I'm starting to gain some ability to have financial freedom," she said. "My goal is to pay it back before the three years."

Miller said he expects there to be some loans that don't get paid back in full but said the program has accounted for that in its funding model. However, he hopes that the majority of the recipients, like Bailey, will want to pay it forward and allow the program to become self-sustaining- providing loans to more people who need it, when they need it.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Aug. 23)

Flexibility of mind and perspective is your cosmic birthday gift, a talent you'll apply to understanding the broader context of things and fitting into the big picture in more powerful and successful ways. More features: a secret wish answered, a family legacy proudly upheld and the purchase of a property. Pisces and Cancer adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 1, 2, 23, 18 and 41.

HOROSCOPES

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You're willing to try new approaches, so you'll get to one that works better. Be patient! Believe! It will happen! An action will provide immediate relief from fear and stress and give you something to help you leap to the next.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Waves break on the shore of a relationship -- nobody's fault but the tide's. Blame it on the moon, and then get up on your boards and ride this out. It could be scary, fun, a high point or a wash. You'll never know until you try.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You're not a vengeful person, but you do believe in justice, and there's something you feel you must put right. You will get your opportunity in time. When that time comes, your next move will be obvious. Until then, focus elsewhere.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Though you may feel wary about change, letting go of attachments will clear the way for new energy. Try not to think of the exchange as a loss but rather as a trade. You'll know when the deal feels right.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). To relieve someone's suffering elevates your own experience. And if that someone happens to be you, you get the helper's high and the benefit of the help all at once. Every healing and each good feeling raises the vibe for all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Education is a constant for you. The world is your textbook, lab and think tank. At day's end, you'll be like a college student coming out of a long day of lectures -- brain full, ready to blow off some steam.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). There's excitement in imagining what life will bring you. Making plans helps you realize just what you want. Don't worry, your life will still be spontaneous. The detours will be all the more delightful when there's a plan to veer from.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You don't have to be doing something at every moment to be extremely productive. In fact, overworking and too much activity is bad for your bottom line. Take it easy; play it cool. Slow and steady wins the day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). There are those who seem to see themselves as superior to the rest and want to be treated as such. Though you like to help people feel important, you draw the line at feeding an unhealthy superiority complex.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Remind yourself that you may want a thing but you don't need it. This gives you leverage. Don't rush to come to an agreement. If you walk away, or seem like you're about to, the other side will sweeten the deal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). While you had good reasons to fear certain situations and people, your knowledge and capability has grown since then. From this more powerful position you can effectively handle these challenges. Move forward.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Your fantasy life and your reality will intersect in a way that will have you wondering if you made this happen with your powerful thoughts or predicted it would happen through your exceptional intuition. Either way, it's on.

FIVE SUMMER STORIES 50TH ANNIVERSARY SCREENING EVENT

Come celebrate the 50th anniversary of the "finest surf film ever made" at Laemmle Monica Film Center. When Greg MacGillivray and Jim Freeman's iconic surf film Five Summer Stories premiered in 1972, it took the surfing world by storm. The film's unusual format – a montage of five-plus exciting, controversial and beautiful vignettes or stories – perfectly captured a fractured era in which an explosion of creativity and revolutionary change was shaking down the old order, taking the sport of surfing into new and unknown territory. Five Summer Stories is directed and produced by Greg MacGillivray and Jim Freeman, and photographed by MacGillivray, Freeman, Bud Browne ("Going Surfin'") and George Greenough, with narration written by Drew Kampion. Music is composed by the 1970s rock/surf band Honk and features songs by the Beach Boys. The film features 35 surfers, including Gerry Lopez, David Nuuhiwa, Eddie Aikau, Jeff Hakman, Corky Carroll, Buttons Kaluhiokalani, Dru Harrison, Shaun Tomson, Margo Godfrey Oberg, Lynne Boyer, Billy Hamilton, Sammy Hawk, Herbie Fletcher, Rory Russell, and many more. The 135-minute runtime includes a 15 minute intermission. Find more information and reserve your spot here: https://www.laemmle.com/film/five-summer-stories#get-tickets.
