Lifeguards take up fight for first responder status

LIFEGUARD: Santa Monica Harbor Patrol's Jared Kingsbury came to the Pier in support of Concurrent Resolution 41, which would give open-water lifeguards a federal designation as emergency first responders.

THOMAS LEFFLER
SMDP Staff Writer

Anyone who's visited Santa Monica has seen them, heard them, felt their presence. Now, the area's lifeguards are humbly asking for a little presence of their own on the national level.

Local lifeguards, the United States Lifesaving Association and FOX came together at the Santa Monica Pier on August 31 for the "Lifeguards First" campaign, aiming to give open-water lifeguards the same federal "emergency first responder" designation as police officers, firefighters and EMTs. The campaign is raising awareness for Concurrent Resolution 41, currently in the U.S. House of Representatives, which would officially recognize open-water lifeguards as first responders.

If passed, the resolution would bring benefits such as giving lifeguards the ability to deploy alongside their first responder contemporaries in times of crisis, such as large flooding situations. It would also give additional benefits to families of those who died in the line of lifeguard duty, something Santa Monica Harbor Patrol Lifeguard Jared Kingsbury would be grateful to have.

"That way, (us) putting our lives out there on the line, (we) make sure that our families are protected at home if something like that happened," Kingsbury said.

Lifeguards indeed put their lives on the line every day, with Kingsbury now in his 20th year of service in Santa Monica. Stating he learned to surf and boogie board in the city as a child, Kingsbury turned a college job into a dynamic career, particularly in the one-of-a-kind locale of Santa Monica. While many see lifeguarding as a beach-only task, Harbor Patrol is also set up to deal with all form of crisis around the Pier.

"Santa Monica is a unique city," Kingsbury said. "It almost doubles in population just during the day ... we have many (unconventional) calls as lifeguards at the end of the Pier. We deal with anything from somebody (making) a drunken bet to jump off the Pier, to those that maybe want to take their life, and we can intervene and help them get the help they need."

After checking the surf and patrolling the beach first thing in the morning,

Test scores back on SMMUSD agenda

THOMAS LEFFLER
SMDP Staff Writer

With school back in session for the 2024-25 year, the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District (SMMUSD) Board of Education will be wrapping up student test scores and financial reports from the prior year, as well as commending one campus on its big 2023-24 achievement.

Thursday's meeting of the board features the Q1 Lag Metrics Report, highlighting key findings on student performance from the 2023-24 year, including scoring from the California Assessment of Student Performance and Progress (CAASPP) in English Language Arts (ELA) and mathematics.

District-wide, 73% of students either met or exceeded standards in the CAASPP ELA examinations, the same percentage as 2022-23 and a 2% drop from the 2021-22 scores. Franklin Elementary School (85% meeting or exceeding standards) overtook the top spot in ELA performance, beating out Samohi (84%) and Webster Elementary School (80%). The lowest-performing campuses from the exam were Will Rogers Learning Community (55%) and Malibu Elementary School (57%).

For the CAASPP math exam, 60% of students met or exceeded standards, a jump of 2% from 2022-23. Franklin (83%) and Webster (80%) were again among the top-performing schools, while Malibu High School (46%) and Malibu Middle School (50%) were among the lowest-performing in mathematics.

There will also be be a joint session with the district's independent Financial Oversight Committee, appointed to review the past year's finances in areas like budget recommendations, bond oversight, Measure R reporting and process review, and financial communication and reporting.

John Adams Middle School (JAMS) will be commended by the board during the meeting, including its recognition as part of the California Distinguished Schools Program. The school was one of 293 middle schools and high schools chosen across the state for the honor, with California Superintendent of Public Instruction Tony Thurmond stating the chosen schools were "exceptional" in both closing the achievement gap and demonstrating student performance.

JAMS staff will also spotlight its social emotional learning progress, including the "five core competencies" of self-management, self-awareness, social awareness, relationship skills and responsible decision-making. The staff notes that these core constructs have a "positive impact on students' academic achievement," as well as improved attendance and reduced negative social behaviors. Attendance was noted as "an area of growth" for the campus, with chronic absenteeism at 18.8%, something social emotional learning "as a Tier I intervention" looks to hone in on.

Finally, the board will be making an administrative appointment for a Special Education Coordinator, and will be adopting resolutions recognizing both National Hispanic/Latino Heritage Month and "championing Santa Monica and Malibu's workforce" through a Labor Day resolution.

Gavin Newsom returns to his duties in California and finds his status has diminished

POLITICS: Gov. Gavin Newsom holds a press conference at a Home Depot in San Jose to sign retail crime legislation into law on Aug. 16, 2024.

DAN WALTERS

Gavin Newsom's flirtation with national political status ended abruptly when Vice President Kamala Harris, often depicted as his rival, became the Democratic Party's presidential candidate.

For months California's governor had been soliciting national media attention, making campaign-like visits to other states and otherwise acting like an aspirant for the White House — all the while insisting that he had "sub-zero" interest in such a goal.

Virtually ignored at the Democratic National Convention, Newsom's disdain for the party's rapid embrace of Harris was evident in a podcast interview.

"Now we went through a very open process, a very inclusive process," Newsom responded to a question about party leaders' anointment of Harris. "It was bottom-up, I don't know if you know that. That's what I've been told to say."

Moreover, as he returns to gubernatorial duties and reality, Newsom is finding that his status in California has also taken a beating.

A poll the Public Policy Institute of California took in June found that 62% of adults believe the state is headed in the wrong direction and only 44% approve of Newsom's performance as governor.

Newsom's diminished popularity and the simple fact that his governorship is beginning to wind down manifest a declining ability to dominate the state's political playing field.

One example is the presence of two major measures on the Nov. 5 ballot that he opposes, Propositions 35 and 36.

Prop. 35, if passed, would make a tax on health care plans permanent and direct its proceeds and the extra federal money it would draw into higher reimbursements for those providing care to Medi-Cal recipients. Indirectly, it prevents Newsom from using the funds, billions of dollars, to close chronic budget deficits.

Prop. 36 toughens penalties for some crimes, modifying Prop. 14, a landmark measure voters passed in 2014 that reduced penalties. Newsom tried — and failed — to head off Prop. 36 with a rival measure.

Earlier in his governorship, when he enjoyed high approval ratings, Newsom could pretty much dictate legislation and thwart adverse ballot measures, but he clearly lacks such domination now.

Newsom's much-diminished influence was apparent in the closing hours of the 2024 legislative session last week.

A Wild Weekend!

MUSIC: Los Straightjackets will headline this Sunday's Americana in the Park.

HIGHLY RECOMMENDED

THEATRICUM BOTANICUM: Premier's new show Sat, a political thought provoker – don't be scared! They are always entertaining too. A few laughs too, I'm sure. It is another thing they are known for, one of their strengths. Grandpa Walton would be proud. "The Winter's Tale" is one of Willie the Shake's last, a tragi-comedy in five acts. He had at that point moved away from telling the stories of royalty, writing more about their emotions and lives of more everyday people. A terrific production. TB's ever-evolving staple "A Midsummer Night's Dream" has been performed by them every season, for more than half a century now. But you should probably come see this one again, because I have been told it has been reworked interestingly. Molière's classic "Tartuffe" is brought forward a few centuries, and right into today's headlines. How do you rid yourself of a persistent and clever con man? "Wendy's Peter Pan" is typical of how TB takes a fresh look at things, and by title alone sounds like a lot of fun. I plan to see it and report back (but don't wait for that). "Winter" Sat 3:30 p.m., "Latin" Sat 7:30 p.m.,"Midsummer" Sun 3:30 p.m., "Wendy" Sun 7:30 p.m., "Tartufe" Mon 7:30 p.m., $15-60.

LOS STRAIGHTJACKETS – What a great opportunity, to see this virtuosic, kickass band, free, outdoors, thanks to the City's summer Americana concert series, so expertly booked by longtime McCabe's pro Wayne Griffith. Los S is all instrumental, wearing Mexican wrestling masks, playing a lot of surf music better than you thought it could be played, especially by a band out of Nashville. McCabe's Americana in the Park, Sun 4-7 p.m., Los Straightjackets, Mariachi Los Catrines, Gandara Park, free.

HOT CLUB OF LOS ANGELES — You can go to the Cinema Bar any Monday night, 9-11:30, for more than a decade now, and hear these hot players run through Django Reinhart-style '30s jazz. This amazing ensemble is a treasure. Mon 9 p.m., Cinema Bar, Culver City, free

DUDAMEL, LA PHIL, BEETHOVEN'S 9TH – I swear, I'm not being lazy here, there is simply nothing more to say. This doesn't happen often. You'd be foolish not to be there. Opens with Bernstein's prayer for peace... just to get you ready. Tues 8 p.m., Hollywood Bowl, $14-82.

CELSO & SALIM – OK, maybe I am getting a little lazy here, having praised this amazing guitar-harmonica blues

Whispers of the Woven: a groundbreaking exploration of sight and sound

$20 to $25 — Gen adm $25; discounts for stud, tchrs, srs, military
A groundbreaking musical and theatrical experience, starring Savion and Virago! It's an exhilarating showcase - an exploration of sight and sound, and the manifestation of two untamed spirits! One night only!
Raised in rural Virginia, Savion moved to the Left Coast -- to serve her country in the armed forces -- then never left. Savion is a life coach, a yoga instructor, a physical trainer, a passionate and improving beach volleyball player -- as well as a thoroughly LA woman. She is and has been a model, an actor, a musician, a performer. Oh, and, did we mention? She is a vocalist; she can sing. She has been on-stage and in front of audiences from an early age, and now realizing a lifelong dream by creating and performing this musical theatrical showcase production. She is the mother of three spectacularly beautiful children; she lives in and loves Santa Monica.
A spiritual warrior woman, singer-songwriter, storyteller, poet, drummer, surfer, shaman, and lover of Mother Earth...Virago is a "renaissance performance artist" inspired by mysticism and metaphysical themes in combination with a deep-rooted love of rock-and-roll, folk, psychedelia, and music as a whole. In Virago's world, Life and Art are not mutually exclusive; they are complementary, and flow one into the other. Her art and music are a reflection of her own deep direct experience, and a loving prayer of gratitude for the miracle of Life.

minute legislation to be passed with only cursory examination, but his eleventh-hour demands to force gasoline refiners to maintain larger reserves and to give token refunds to electric power ratepayers fell flat this year.

Newsom was whipsawed by the Legislature's two new leaders, Assembly Speaker Robert Rivas and Senate President Pro Tem Mike McGuire.

Rivas refused to take up the legislation, saying it needed more scrutiny, and asked Newsom to call a special legislative session. McGuire was willing to put the package to a vote before adjournment Saturday night but opposed a special session.

Newsom called the special session, supposedly to begin immediately, and Rivas agreed. But McGuire said the Senate would not return to the Capitol until the new biennial session begins in December, when it will have dozens of new members from the Nov. 5 election.

"We won't be convening a special session this fall, but we look forward to continuing conversations with the governor and speaker about this critical issue in the days and weeks to come," McGuire said.

Newsom spokesman Izzy Gordon said in a statement late Saturday, rejecting McGuire's position, "The special session has already begun."

While Newsom can call special sessions, the Legislature is not legally required to do anything and can simply adjourn without acting. Non-action would be the best outcome, because both proposals are nothing more than virtue-signaling tokens by a governor trying to recapture what he has lost.

NOTEWORTHY

duo so many times...search for them in my columns, going back years. But you missed your chances on Main Street and at Harvelle's, now you have to go across town to the Mint. Excellent club, well worth the trip. The act after them sounds pretty interesting. Wed 9 p.m., The Mint, LA, $15.

RECOMMENDED:

Tonight - DUDAMERL, "CARMEN," "CARNIVAL" – Dudamel is back, at the Bowl, and not much in Disney Hall for his final season with us, until Dec., so don't miss this. Ready for some whimsy during a tough political season? Ready for the heady streets of Seville, Bizet's "Carmen," for a brother-sister piano duo marching with lions and waltzing with elephants in the imaginative suites by Saint-Saëns, for the symphonic Spanish dances by Roberto Sierra? Of course you are! It's the Bowl, the LA Phil, and the Dude, you can't lose. Especially if you grab one of those famous Bowl tickets for $1. Thurs 8 p.m., Hollywood Bowl, $1-149.

Tonight - "THE SUBSTANCE OF FIRE" – is still getting glowing reviews, and packing them in at our local theater treasure, The Ruskin, at the airport, in this long run. Written in 1991 by Jon Robin Baitz while still in his 20s, he drew his characters lovingly and skillfully, even those decades past his age. Directed here by Mike Reilly, the first NY production starred Rob Rifkin and Sarah Jessica Parker. Lead Rob Morrow first performed it years ago, as the youngest son. Now he plays the aging Holocaust-survivor patriarch of a family business, a book publishing company not doing well and about to be taken over by a large foreign firm. His children want him to bend his principles and publish a best-seller, but he is intent on a six-book examination of Nazi medical experiments. It's almost like two plays, first the family dynamics with his three very different shareholding children, and in the second part comes Marcia Cross as a psychiatric social worker, and a different territory opens up. Thurs, Fri, Sat 8p.m., Sun 2 p.m., Ruskin Group Theatre, SM Airport, $25-40.

LIBRARY GIRL: "A Celebration of Moon Tide Press" – Why don't you just sit in the parking lot of The Ruskin after you've enjoyed "The Substance of Fire" and wait for Library Girl? A monthly delight that I was tempted to make HIGHLY RECOMMENDED because the last time they presented Moon Tide Press it was exhilarating. But unlike a Los Straightjackets or LA Phil, you never know how it will go. Poetry, folks, reading, different authors. But Susan Hayden has been doing this 15 years and curates like crazy to try to find magic every time. When that happens, you want to be there, don't you? This month is a really good bet. Sun 7 p.m., Ruskin Group Theatre, SM Airport, $20, includes free parking and dessert.

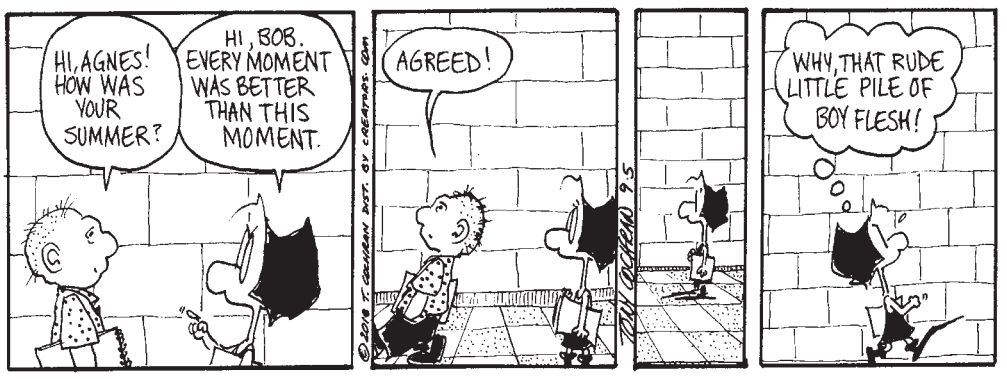

KRISTIN KORB celebrates The Eurythmics, with Peter Erskine – I've never heard a note from the jazz bass of Korb, but I do know about Erskine, two things: if he's playing, he must think this is a good thing, and if he's playing, you don't want to miss it. I think it's a fascinating idea and can't wait to hear what they do with those great songs. It's always the songs, you know. Wed 7:30, 9:30 p.m., Sam First, LAX, $25 each set.

COMING ATTRACTIONS (also recommended): Dudamel, LA Phil, Bizet, Saint-Saëns, Hollywood Bowl, 9/5; "The Substance of Fire," Ruskin Group Theatre, 9/5, 6, 7, 8, 12, 13, 14, 15; Theatricum Botanicum - "The Winter's Tale" 9/7, 15, 30 - "The Hispanic/Latino/Latina/Latinx/Latine Vote" 9/7, 14, 16, 22, 29, 10/3, 6, 12, 20, 26 - "Wendy's Peter Pan" 9/8, 14, 21, 28, 10/4 - "A Midsummer Night's Dream" 9/8, 23 -"Tartuffe-Born Again" 9/9, 15, 22, 29, 10/5, 13; McCabe's Americana in the Park, Los Straightjackets, Mariachi Los Catrines, Gandara Park, 9/8; Dudamel, LA Phil, Beethoven's 9th, Hollywood Bowl, 9/10; Kristin Korb Celebrates the Eurythmics, with Peter Erskine, Sam First, 9/11; Celso & Salim, The Mint, 9/11; Sturgill Simpson, Greek, 9/14; McCabe's Americana in the Park, Rick Shea & Tony Gilkyson, Mustangs of the West, Gandara Park, 9/15; Dengue Fever, Lodge, 9/20; Tom Jones, Greek, 10/7.

Charles Andrews has listened to a lot of music of all kinds, including more than 3,000 live shows. He has lived in Santa Monica for 38 years and wouldn't live anywhere else in the world. Really. Send love and/or hate mail to: therealmrmusic@gmail.com

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 5)

Happy Birthday Avedis "Avo" Guerboian

Prioritize relationships and they bring you opportunities in every area of life. After your selfless aims produce magic for others, your own life gets touched by auspicious grace. More highlights: You'll discover untapped talents, be chosen for interesting assignments and explore the world some, too. Sagittarius and Taurus adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 7, 4, 21, 13 and 35.

HOROSCOPES

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You are the real deal, walking your talk every day. It would be impossible for a networking opportunity to catch you by surprise. But what you offer is always changing, and you will continue to tune your pitch today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Awareness of breath is awareness of life. What makes you catch your breath? What makes you hold it? When is it deeper? What makes you exhale? Today will make literal a "breathtaking" moment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Everyone falls into ruts from time to time. If you're no longer going forward, look for something that will help you lever yourself up, out and onto a path that allows for greater ease of movement.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll hone your skills and grow your talents through independent practice. You're in a league of your own, competing against yourself, and it's even more challenging than many others you've gone up against.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The issue that once seemed cut-and-dried now invites many perspectives. There is no clear winner in today's game. Good sportsmanship is honed through close calls and unusual circumstances.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). With the introduction of a new person to your circle, a subtle enthusiasm starts to grow. It's as though the shadows of a dimly lit room are being overtaken by a new source of light.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). A relationship will play out like a game of tag. It would be a dull game if one person always pursued and the other was always running, so a change-up is good. The chaser will now be chased.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You're looking for signs that you're on the right track, but this is like a long stretch of highway between distant towns where even the billboards aren't sure what to call attention to. Trust and roll on, toward the horizon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Let people help you. It will free you up to spend your time where it will make the most difference. There is plenty else to focus on, but you won't see it if you're busy with tasks that others would gladly claim.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You're happy to play your role, though it's not always clear what that is. Some of it gets sorted in subtle competition and acts of dominance and deference. Once a hierarchy is established, there's a shuffle to align with it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You'll dream of tomorrow — not of the metaphorical future, but the actual day, which starts after midnight. To vividly envision events is to pave the way to bringing them into reality.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Philosopher Peter Deunov suggested, "The fragrance of flowers is their prayer." Similarly, your innate qualities — your kindness, creativity, intelligence and compassion — act as your unique signature today, enhancing your surroundings.

Harbor Patrol lifeguards respond to any and everything during the day, from major medical emergencies to search and rescue, both for people and dangerous property.

"Once in a while, somebody will dispose of a weapon, thinking that's a great place (to hide it) and they'll be able to see it," Kingsbury added. "Sometimes we have to do search for evidence under the Pier. So with our dive training, we've been able to, most of the time, have a good (sense of) location to be able to recover that item."

Stating that lifeguarding has "beco me more professional" in his 20 years on the job, with a new level of communication between lifeguards and first responders, Kingsbury believes Concurrent Resolution 41 would sway job-seekers into a career in the service.

The campaign was given a boost by FOX in advance of the network's new show, "Rescue: Hi-Surf," premiering on September 22. The show, similar to what the smash hit "911" did for police officers, follows the lives of lifeguards on the North Shore of Oahu in Hawaii. FOX Executive Director of Events & Strategy Annie Geffroy noted that she was caught by surprise that the show's subjects were not given the same designation as police or firefighters.

"As we were developing the marketing campaign around this series, we realized that lifeguards are not recognized as first responders at the federal level … we obviously see that they're putting their lives on the line for us every single day, just like (other first responders), so they deserve the same recognition … FOX has a big platform and a big spotlight, and we're putting a lot behind this series, (so) we thought why not use some of that for good as well and raise awareness about this issue."

Growing up in California beach cities like San Diego, Geffroy added that the ocean is "beautiful and wonderful," but also "really powerful," and that the tribulations of lifeguards shouldn't be taken for granted.

"You learned growing up, never turn your back on the ocean," Geffroy said. "So I think (lifeguards have) always been a part of anyone who lives in a beach, beach community or beach-adjacent city … I think now being involved with this show and learning more about behind the scenes of what (they do), the extensive training that they go through … they should get the same billing. They certainly deserve it."
