SEARS: Before and after renderings of the proposal show the exterior will remain mostly intact.

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

The proposal to reuse the now vacant Sears building on Colorado will be before the Landmarks Commission with a recommendation to approve the application that will eventually fill the property with new office, retail and food businesses.

The store at 302 Colorado Blvd. closed in April of this year following the sale of the location to a real estate investment company. In July of 2015, Sears created a new independent, publicly traded real estate investment trust named Seritage. The new company took control of 235 Sears/Kmart stores and joint ventures with several mall opera-

Businesses asking for sidewalk sales during open streets festival

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

The Santa Monica City Council is easing back into their regularly scheduled meetings with a light agenda on Sept. 12.

Council's only discussion item for the night is an exemption to rules governing sidewalk sales to facilitate the upcoming Coast festival.

Santa Monica will host its open streets festival, Coast, on October 1 and City Hall is being asked to modify its rules regarding sidewalk sales to allow local businesses to capitalize on the surge in foot traffic.

Individual businesses and Business Improvement Districts are limited to two sidewalk sales within any 12-month period. Some BIDs will have reached that limit prior to Coast and staff are asking for a temporary exemption to the rules to maximize the effectiveness of Coast.

"In order to minimize the impacts that this public Coast event will have on businesses located within or near the event and to enable these businesses to undertake activities in conjunction with the event, it is necessary for the Council to enact this emergency interim ordinance to expand the frequency that temporary use permits may be obtained for sidewalk sales when these additional sales are undertaken in conjunction with a City-produced public street event and to waive the filing fee for temporary use permits sought in conjunction with this event," said the staff report.

OEM gives preparedness tips during National Preparedness Month

MARINA ANDALON
Daily Press Staff Writer

Natural disasters are occurring more frequently from the multiple hurricanes to the La Tuna fire in Los Angeles and the City's Office of Emergency Management (OEM) wants the public to recognize September is the official National Preparedness Month.

According to Lindsay Barker, Chief Resilience Officer for Office of Emergency Management, the last natural disaster that affected Santa Monica was the Northridge Earthquake in January 1994.

Since then the City has created a Multi- Hazard Functional Emergency Plan that will guide the City's response during any emergency – whether it be an earthquake, tsunami, or mass casualty incident. "We also have a specialized Tsunami Response Plan. These plans detail how City departments will work together to respond to urgent community needs and work with our local, regional, state and federal partners," said Barker.

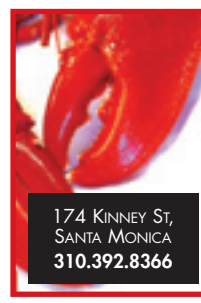

If a tsunami were to hit the Santa Monica area the induction zone could possibly reach Ocean Ave. and Neilson Way, leaving Ocean View Park with excess water and damage.

If and when a disaster hits the City has declared four locations as a safe refuge; Roosevelt Elementary, Santa Monica High School, Olympic High School and Washington Preschool.

The City also uses every major special event as an opportunity to practice emergency plans and protocols. Each Los Angeles Marathon and Twilight Concert Series, there

SMMUSD and SMC Boards to hold Special Joint Meeting on September 11

The Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District Board of Education and the Santa Monica College Board of Trustees will hold its annual joint meeting on Monday, September 11, at 5:30 p.m. in the Santa Monica High School cafeteria, 601 Pico Blvd., Santa Monica.

During this special joint meeting, staff from both SMMUSD and SMC will report on the outcomes of activities related to executing the objectives of the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU), which the two districts entered into in May 2007. The key elements of the MOU include the dual enrollment program, summer programs for high school students, shared use of facilities, and the collaboration and articulation of career and technical education programs. Along with collaborating on the objectives of the MOU, staff work together to enhance existing programs and create new opportunities for students.

During this study session, the participants will examine the ongoing collaborative work to support equity, access, success, and college readiness for students in the district. The discussion will focus on the engagement between the Santa Monica College counseling faculty and the Santa Monica High School counselors and the ways in which this partnership supports student success and promotes opportunities for college readiness.

The SMMUSD Board of Education and SMC Board of Trustees will also be asked to adopt a joint resolution to adopt the joint all-hazard mitigation plan between the two organizations. The plan identifies and evaluates specific strategies and develops a sustained course of action to reduce or eliminate long-term risks to people and property from both natural and technological hazards and their effects.

Finally, architects and SMMUSD staff will briefly update both governing bodies on current status of the John Adams Middle School performing arts theater project, including the planned scope and layout of the project and potential future phases.

The agenda for the special meeting will be posted on the district's website: http://www.smmusd.org/board/meetings.html.

SHINE Celebrates 5th Anniversary with Stories of "My Own Drummer"

SHINE celebrates its fifth anniversary of bringing inspiring true stories to the Westside with "My Own Drummer" show on Thursday, September 14 at the Santa Monica Playhouse. People will share stories of when they followed their heart – even when others thought it was impractical, improbable, or risky.

SHINE will be hosted this month by the effervescent Rahla Kahn, an original member of The Groundlings. Rahla has devoted her life to using laughter to heal. In 1983, she created The Power Of Play, an effective and entertaining approach to healing. She was personally mentored by author Norman Cousins and radiation oncologist Dr. O. Carl Simonton. Drawing on her experience at The Groundlings, Rahla incorporates improvisational theater techniques into her methods for helping people let go of the causes of suffering and chronic stress.

Live music will be provided by Jaz James, a sultry singer/songwriter who debuted with her first EP "World's Too Pretty" in 2012. Jaz performed her infections melodies for a growing following across Los Angeles, backed by a band of funky jazz players from the notorious "West Coast Get Down." With this evolving group of musicians, she became a regular performer at The Stand Hotel in West Hollywood. In 2014-15 she recorded a five-track EP with acclaimed British DJ and producer Thomas Bullock. She's now finished her new EP for AKO Music with her rotating cast of LA's best live players. KCET praised her saying "Jaz James...falls somewhere between Joni Mitchell and Billie Holiday."

Storytellers for SHINE are chosen from some of the nation's top award-winning storytellers, writers, and performers. New storytellers of all ages and walks of life also take the stage.

SHINE is held monthly at the Santa Monica Playhouse, 1211 4th Street, Santa Monica 90401. Convenient parking is located directly across the street, in City Parking Structure #1.

Tickets are $12, with student/senior discount also available. Tickets may be purchased in advance at www.StoreyProductions.com. Cash and checks only at the door.

According to the report, the two-event limit was put in place before events like Coast were conceived and when a City sponsored event effectively cuts off their traditional customer base, staff said it's reasonable to expand the sidewalk sale limit.

"Businesses located along and close to the Coast event route depend on street access and accessibility to public parking for their employees and customers. Businesses located on the streets encompassed within this event or within close proximity to the event have expressed concern about the impact the event will have on their businesses given the significant reduction in automobile traffic that will be allowed and the fact that certain streets and public parking lots in the area will become wholly inaccessible to vehicles," said the report. "These businesses have also expressed the desire to undertake activities such as sidewalk and food/beverage sales in conjunction with the event."

Council waived the limit for the first Coast event last year.

Council will close the night with several appointments to local commissions.

There is one seat available on the Architectural Review Board. Incumbent Patrick Tighe has applied for reappointment. Abraham Cohen and Peter Michael Mitsakos have also applied for the position.

There are two seats available on the Disabilities Commission (one position must be filled by a person with a self-identified disability). Dee Cappelli, Lauri Ringer and Bruce Warx have applied for the positions.

One seat is open on the Personnel Board. Incumbent Bud Pell is requesting a third term on the Personell Board and has no challengers.

Council will also be asked to accept the resignation of Anthony Perez from the Social Services Commission and advertise the vacancy.

Council meets on Sept. 12 in City Hall, 1685 Main St. Closed session begins at 5:30 p.m.

Insight on Green Patent

Dear EarthTalk:

What is so-called green patent sharing and how does it work?

Bill Gilmore
Albuquerque, NM

The idea behind so-called green patent sharing is that researchers, inventors and companies can share the rights to make, use or incorporate certain patented technologies that benefit the environment, theoretically expediting the development of energy efficiency, pollution prevention, recycling, water conservation and other advances for the common good.

The concept of patent sharing isn't new. Back in the 1850s the four major manufacturers of sewing machines in the U.S. got tired of fighting over patent infringement and joined ranks in a patent sharing pool. Outside manufacturers would have to pay licensing rights to the pool, but otherwise the four partner companies were free to make use of any and all shared patents.

It took another 150 years, though, for green patent sharing to institutionalize. In 2008, the World Business Council for Sustainable Development (WBCSD) created the Eco-Patent Commons, an online exchange of green-friendly patents that can be downloaded and used for free. Eleven companies—Bosch, DowDuPont, Fuji, HP, IBM, Nokia, Pitney Bowes, Ricoh, Sony, Taisei and Xerox—have pledged over 100 different patents to the Commons to try to encourage new innovations in sustainability and conservation.

"Companies are increasingly realizing the value of partnering and sharing expertise on sustainability issues," says Wayne Balta, IBM's Corporate Environmental Affairs VP. "The Eco-Patent Commons provides an opportunity for business to share intellectual property that can further sustainable development."

A few examples of patents available in the commons include; a battery recycling kiosk for consumers to swap out their used batteries for new replacements; a process that eliminates the need for antioxidant metal coatings in the assembly of microchips and circuit boards; a lab-designed organism that lights up to indicate the presence of pollutants in water treatment facilities; and environmentally superior refrigerants to replace the ozone-destroying fluorocarbons phased out by the Montreal Protocol and other international agreements. These shared patents and dozens more are accessible via WIPO GREEN, an online marketplace for sustainable technology.

The concept of green patent sharing came up recently with the worldwide launch of Al Gore's new movie, An Inconvenient Sequel: Truth to Power. The film documents a December 2015 phone call that Gore made to try to convince SolarCity CEO Lyndon Rive to be the corporate hero of the Paris climate accord by offering holdout India free use of his company's photovoltaic patents to ease the costs of, and hasten the country's transition away from, fossil fuels. Indian negotiators had been complaining that they could not get access to enough credit to pay for the expensive transition to solar on their own.

It isn't clear by the end of the movie whether Rive extended the offer (he did) nor whether it had any impact on India's decision to join the rest of the world in eventually signing onto the Paris accord (Indian negotiators say the patent sharing offer wasn't a factor). Regardless, there's been no evidence of any intellectual property transfer to date, although SolarCity "formally invited" Indian officials to visit its headquarters in 2016, so the wheels could be in motion.

PREPAREDNESS

is a large team of City employees and community partners who are using the same emergency response principles to prepare for successful events.

However OEM strongly encourages that locals create their own household emergency plan and discuss their plan with their neighbors or those living in their apartment building.

Barker said, "Neighbors will be a primary first responder in a major emergency event like a catastrophic earthquake, just like we saw neighbors acting as first responders after Hurricane Harvey."

"We strongly recommend that residents and businesses prepare for an emergency by following four steps: 1) Get a Kit 2) Have a Plan 3) Stay informed and share," said Barker. "We highly recommend that residents have seven days of disaster supplies in an emergency kit."

OEM suggests the important supplies include water, non – perishable food, first aid kit, flashlight, radio, and batteries. These supplies will not only help after an earthquake but also smaller emergencies like a neighborhood power outage. Barker went on to explain people should tailor their disaster kit to their unique family. For example, a parent with an infant should include formula and diapers in their disaster kit.

"The next step is for people to create an emergency plan for their household or neighborhood," said Barker. "Remember texting or email is always preferred over telephone calls and it is often easier to reach someone out of state."

To stay informed, sign up for official Santa Monica emergency and public safety alerts at https://cityofsantamonica.bbcportal.com/ and join Santa Monica social media pages on Twitter and Facebook. The information outlets will provide individuals with official updates from government agencies.

"We all have to be individually prepared and work together after a major disaster event," said Barker.

CRIME WATCH
BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON AUGUST 31, 2017 AT ABOUT 10:16 A.M.

Officers responded to a radio call for service at Universal Music Group – 2220 Colorado Blvd regarding a disturbance at the business. A subject was reportedly throwing rocks at employees and at several windows. Officers were able to locate the suspect in the area of 17th Street and Broadway. Officers determined the suspect attempted to enter the business but was denied entry. The suspect had been previously escorted off of the premises on multiple occasions. The subject became upset and began to throw rocks at security guards and employees. Several employees were struck but not injured by the rocks. The suspect also threw rocks at the several windows causing damage. The victims were desirous of prosecution and identified the suspect. The suspect was taken into custody. McKenney Pierre, 23, homeless was arrested for assault with a deadly weapon, vandalism, and resisting arrest. Bail was set at $30,000.

tors including Simon Property Group, General Growth Properties and the Santa Monica based Macerich Company.Under the terms of the $2.7 billion deal, 224 stores were leased back to Sears but Seritage has the right to end some of those leases and find new uses for the property. Seritage exercised that right for the Santa Monica location.

The proposal before the Commission Monday calls for some changes to the building.

"The applicant proposes to rehabilitate and adaptively reuse the former Sears building and requests modifications to the existing building colors, ground floor storefront glazing, rehabilitation of the roof and upper-level with new exterior façades, skylights, and mechanical screening," said the staff report. "The proposed mix of uses for the building include retail/food serving uses on the ground and basement levels, and office use on upper floors."

When the Commission designated the building as a landmark in 2004 it identified the pronounced emphasis on horizontality expressed by the horizontal striations on the building's corners and parapets, elongated window bands and the curving canopies above ground floor entries, smooth concrete exterior surfaces with grid of incised squares and several stylized basrelief sculptures and steel and concrete construction incorporating 1947 state-of-the-art "earthquake-proof construction" as historic character-defining features.

Despite significant interior construction, the exterior features will remain largely unchanged and the Landmarks Commission was previously supportive of the plans to reuse the building.

During a 2016 conceptual plan, the commissioners "suggested that the applicant consider reconstructing any original features of the building that have been modified through the years and consider reducing the overall visibility of the roof projection," said the staff report.

"Additional comments included the importance of the building's historic color palette and the roof projection's relation with the existing roof elements, and retaining the existing terrazzo tiling. Any wall mural proposed on the east facing elevation should be carefully considered (modern art suggested) and should consist of paint that is reversible."

The report said the Commission's comments have generally been addressed in the revised proposal including a reduction in the roof scale.

The Landmarks Commission will meet at 6 p.m. on Monday, September 11 in the Santa Monica Institute Training Room (2nd Floor), at 3300 Olympic Drive.

A Texas Army veteran whose family was impacted by recent flooding reached out to his battle buddy in Los Angeles to see if he could help. The two served together in Afghanistan and pledged to always have one another's backs. That pact didn't dissolve when the infantrymen parted ways after their military service and that's what the American Legion is all about—continued service to community, country and comrade.

The American Legion is one of the largest wartime veterans service organizations in the country. Chartered by Congress in 1919, the Legion is credited with creating the forerunner to the Veterans Administration and the Montgomery G.I. Bill, the first iteration of legislation that offers free college to veterans.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks is an American fraternal order founded in 1868 originally as a social club in New York City. It often engages in philanthropic endeavors benefitting physically handicapped children, sponsoring Elks National Foundation scholarships, scouting, athletic teams, veterans' works, a national "Hoop Shoot" free-throw contest involving more than 3 million children, physical and occupational therapy programs and patriotic programs.

The Santa Monica Student Veterans Association works to advance the interests of student veterans on the community college campus.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 11)

You'll do things because you want to, not because you have to. This purpose shift amps up the joy and vitality in your life. You'll make a hot deal this month and reap the rewards for years to come. Someone keeps a promise in November. The new year features winning teams and schemes. Taurus and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 9, 30, 28, 4 and 18.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
To give is a human need just as strong as the need to be nurtured and cared for sometimes. Consider the fact that when you don't let people help you, you may be stopping them from fulfilling a very real need.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Others would consider what you do very hard work. But to you, this isn't difficult at all. Your work isn't fueled by the energy of your body or mind; rather, it's fueled by your purpose, which is a high-octane fuel indeed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)
One way you know that you're close with a person is that you talk to each other in a way that's developed over time into something so specific that others on the outside wouldn't even be able to make sense of it.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)
A responsibility fell to you, not because it belonged to you so much as that you were just the most caring one around. As generous as you are, no one can give care all of the time. How can you now offload some of this?

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
British philosopher Bertrand Russell said, "All movements go too far." As for you, a cause you used to be passionate about has lost luster in your mind's eye. You'll home in on exactly why.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
This really is a wondrous place to live. If you look out the window and it's not looking so hot to you, try expanding your field of vision. Widen the view until you reconnect with your sense of appreciation and a pride of place.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
It's said that everyone is fighting a hard battle. When you look at some people, this is very hard to believe -- until you account for the relativity factor, that is. You'll extend compassion even when you can't relate to the problem.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)
Agree to make mistakes. Commit yourself to the idea. This is the path of winners. You'll succeed often, and you learn from that, but not as much as you'll learn from the mistakes, especially if you're not afraid of making them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
Lazy? You wish! It would be wonderful to switch off your brain and relax. Alas, there's so much whizzing through it that the only way to feel in sync is to be working.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Learning a new thought process will be easier when you learn a new way to move along with it. Physical movement cements knowledge. Changing how you move changes who you are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
To connect with another, you must first enter into that person's spirit. You don't have to change yourself to become more like the other person, but a little flexibility on the matter can't hurt.

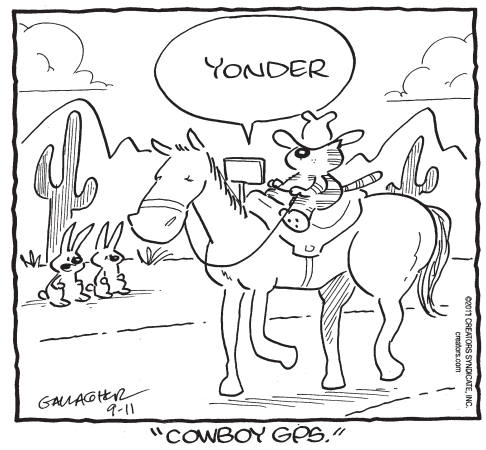

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
You celebrate your productivity as if it's a victory in life's game. Just don't fall into the trap of believing that your worth is all tied in to that productivity. You're productive because that feels better for you. You're worthy either way.

Hungry Lunar Double-Up

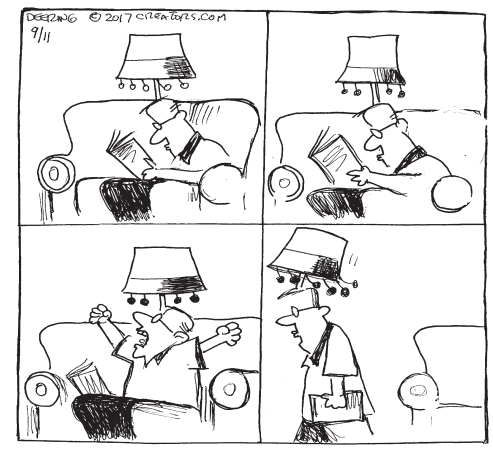

It's said that having too many cooks spoils the soup. Also, having too many soups spoils the cook. Furthermore, as the moon leaves appetite-driven Taurus to double up in Gemini, too many of anything at all will be the temptation, the problem and also, mercifully, the thing that inspires our efficient best. Whatever you can do to scale back will bring good fortune.

WELL NEWS BY SCOTT LAFEE

Medical Myths

■ Can holding in a sneeze by, say, pinching your nose or keeping your mouth closed cause hearing damage? The odds are low, but it's possible. In the moments before a sneeze, the lungs fill with tremendous air pressure so that they can spew out nasal discharge at up to 100 miles per hour. Consciously preventing this discharge can force the pressurized air back through the Eustachian tube and into the middle ear cavity, where it may damage sensitive membranes. The result can be sensorineural or conductive hearing loss, perhaps even vertigo. Other injuries may include harm to the diaphragm, ruptured blood vessels in the eyes and in the brain.

■ So let it happen. The sooner a sneeze happens, the sooner that dumb look on your face will go away.
