Threat of the "big one" looms over Rent Control Board discussions

KATE CAGLE
Daily Press Staff Writer

With the images of Mexico City's devastating earthquake still fresh in everyone's minds, the Rent Control Board stressed urgency during last week's discussion of mandatory earthquake retrofit costs. The Board is considering whether owners should be allowed to pass through the costs of retrofitting their building to rent controlled tenants.

"I think we are up against the clock when facing the big one and it's scary because we are behind," board member Nicole Phillis said. "There are 1,300 buildings that are vulnerable and I'm concerned with creating an incentive system that would get retrofits sooner."

The overwhelming majority of seismically vulnerable buildings in the RCB's jurisdiction are "soft story" apartment buildings, with one or more unit sitting over a carport. About 550 buildings owners will have received notices to inspect their buildings by the end of October, however, some buildings will not receive notices until August 2018, according to the City's

Unprecedented City Services Building clears Coastal Commission

KATE CAGLE
Daily Press Staff Writer

Santa Monica will move forward with plans for an ambitious $77 million City Services Building, promising to break ground with one of the greenest structures in the United States, after the Coastal Commission approved the project Thursday. The public facility will strive to meet the Living Building Challenge, a rigorous environmental standard for construction that few buildings in the world have achieved.

The approval came after extensive public testimony from Santa Monica leaders and activists in Chula Vista. While the City and architect championed the building's environmental strides, emotional opponents derided the process, expense, and potential impact the Commission's approval could have on further projects in the pipeline, specifically a nearby athletic field that the City Council has also approved.

The Commission's mandate is to protect access to the beach, so the debate Thursday centered on parking. The new building will consolidate City offices within the coastal zone, increasing demand on nearby lots and structures. The Commission also approved plans for an Early Childhood Learning Lab that will replace 230 parking spaces just blocks away. Plans for the Civic Center Field, which was approved by the City Council this summer, have not yet come before the Commission.

"The claims from opponents of inadequate Civic Center parking

Senator Ben Allen Selected To 2017 Aspen Institute-Rodel Fellowship In Public Leadership

Senator Ben Allen (D – Santa Monica) has been selected to the 2017 Class of the Aspen Institute-Rodel Fellowship in Public Leadership. Since 2005, the Rodel Fellowship has brought together America's most promising young public leaders from across the country to engage in a two year program focused on achieving their fullest potential in public service. Senator Allen joins the list of notable Rodel alumni: former Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords, Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti, Lieutenant Governor Gavin Newsom, and California Senator Kamala Harris.

The Rodel Fellowship program is open by invitation only to those who hold a publicly elected office. Selected annually, each class consists of 24 Fellows, 12 Republicans and 12 Democrats, with reputations for intellect, thoughtfulness, and a commitment to civil dialogue.

"These men and women represent the very best among the new generation of America's political leadership," former Congressman Mickey Edwards, the program's director, said in announcing the new class. "They have each won the notice and praise of their constituents and their colleagues and have shown a dedication to public service that is an encouraging sign in a time of great challenge."

"I am incredibly honored to be included in this class of impressive public servants," said Senator Allen. "I look forward to learning as much as possible from my peers and from the leaders around the world who will join our seminars. The experience will undoubtedly shape me into a more impactful leader."

SMMUSD to Host Contractor Outreach Event on October 24

As the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District moves forward with new construction and modernization projects at multiple schools, the Facility Improvement Projects (FIP) department is hosting a contractor outreach event on Tuesday, October 24, 5:30-7:30 p.m. at the SMMUSD District Office Board Room, 1651 16th Street in Santa Monica.

The event, coordinated by the district's bond program outreach consultant, Jamarah Hayner of JKH Consultants, is designed to provide building contractors with information related to upcoming projects, prequalification processes, and other requirements for builders to work on district projects. Hayner encourages local and small businesses to attend, meet the program leadership and network with potential partners.

The FIP department provides construction and program management services for the district facility improvements capital building program. In 2012, Santa Monica-Malibu voters passed Measure ES, a $385 million bond that is helping the district continue its goal of modernizing schools. This bond money is utilized to modernize and build new facilities at multiple campuses, upgrade technology throughout the district, and increase safety and security.

"We are excited by the prospect of increasing participation of local contractors on our projects," said Steve Massetti, bond program manager consultant. "This outreach event is an opportunity for contractors who haven't worked here before to get tips on how to do business with the district, as well as an opportunity to meet other contractors that are already working in the district and will be bidding on upcoming projects."

Please RSVP via email to jamarah@JKHconsultingservices.com, or call (646) 262-8044. Refreshments will be served.

Green planes

Dear EarthTalk:
You hear a lot about greener cars these days, but what about airplanes?

John Caldwell
Lorton, VA

WHILE IT MAY BE THE FASTEST AND MOST convenient way to go long distances, air travel remains the most environmentally-unfriendly mode in our mix of transportation options. Airplanes require massive amounts of petroleum-based fuel that deposits greenhouse gas emissions directly into the atmosphere (where they're two to four times more potent in causing global warming than equivalent ground-level emissions). The UN's Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) reports that aviation is responsible for some 3.5 percent of human-caused global warming to date and expects that figure to grow to somewhere in the five to 15 percent range by 2050 if we don't take action soon to curb emissions.

Fortunately, the aviation industry hasn't been hiding its head in the sand. New planes coming off assembly lines at Boeing and Airbus, the world's two biggest jet manufacturers, are about 15 percent more efficient than previous models. Deploying next generation engines that can produce more thrust with less fuel is one way in which airplane makers are boosting efficiency. Another is through the use of lighter materials, with carbon fiber replacing metal in many applications and 3D printing of lightweight titanium parts taking the place of forged or machined aluminum.

Better design is also contributing to the optimization of fuel efficiency. One example is the winglet, a small vertical projection retrofitted on the tip of the wing that can cut emissions some six percent by reducing drag. Less than 20 percent of the world's jets have them now; spreading the technology widely could significantly boost the overall fuel efficiency of aviation.

We can expect to see even more dramatic gains when so-called blended wing-body (BWB) designs go mainstream. Thanks to their broader wings and the resulting higher "lift-to-drag" ratio, these futuristic planes are significantly more aerodynamic than conventional jets. The Air Transport Action Group (ATAG), a non-profit focusing on sustainable development in aviation, reports that these BWB-design planes can go as far and as fast as conventional jets on 75 percent of the fuel. But don't hold your breath: Researchers don't expect BWB planes to be ready for commercial use for another two decades.

There is also considerable R&D going into greening the fuel side of the equation. Illinois-based General Biomass, for instance, is developing carbon-neutral jet fuel formulations derived from the seed oil of jatropha and camelina plants. And Texas's Neste is a leader in developing "recycled jet fuel" made from the residue of used diesel fuel.

And as in the auto industry before it, aviation is now abuzz with talk of hybrid-electric and all-electric planes. Seattle-based Zunum Aero plans to have a prototype of its hybrid-electric 19-seater commuter plane ready for test flights by 2020, and hopes to start supplying airlines soon thereafter with commercial-grade models. Meanwhile, Silicon Valley's Wright Electric is collaborating with Europe's easyJet in developing a new battery-powered aircraft designed for short hop commuter routes. These new all-electric planes, which should be ready for prime time within a decade, will be 10 percent cheaper for airlines to buy and operate than traditional jets—and without the emissions stigma.

AFSP Out of Darkness Community Walk

Editor:

As National Suicide Prevention month comes to a close, I want to reflect on how far we have come as a community to fight the stigma and take meaningful steps to end suicide. Advocates, researchers, and policy makers have made it a priority to bring the discussion of suicide and mental health to the table in order to make real positive change and realize that talk saves lives.

We still, however, have a long way to go. Regardless of race, religion, or socioeconomic background, suicide continues to take millions of lives every year. Someone dies by suicide every 40 seconds. I myself have been affected by suicide. Three years ago, I attempted to take my own life. It was one of the hardest things I have ever had to go through. I felt scared, hopeless, and alone. Thankfully, I had a strong support system of family, friends, and doctors, but not everyone can be so lucky.

The fact of the matter is that suicide is preventable, and our community is coming together to take a stand and raise awareness for suicide prevention. If you've lost someone to suicide, or you or someone you know suffers from a mental health condition like depression or anxiety, please join us for the Out of the Darkness Community Walk to fight suicide on Saturday, October 21, at the Santa Monica Pier.

Funds raised support the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention and its bold goal to reduce the annual suicide rate in the United States 20 percent by 2025 through research, education, advocacy, and support. These walks are truly uplifting experiences, and they grow every year. If you'd like to join us you can register at www.afsp.org/lawalk. Hope to see you there.

The Phantom Carriage with Live Score by the Jack Curtis Dubowsky Ensemble

Santa Monica Public Library presents a screening of the classic 1921 silent Swedish horror film, The Phantom Carriage, with a live musical score performed by the Jack Curtis Dubowsky Ensemble, on Thursday, October 26, at 7 p.m. in the Main Library's Martin Luther King, Jr. Auditorium, 601 Santa Monica Blvd.

The Phantom Carriage (Körkarlen), directed by the father of Swedish cinema, Victor Sjöström, and based on a novel by Nobel Prize winner Selma Lagerlöf, is based on the legend that says the last person to die on New Year's Eve before the clock strikes twelve is doomed to take the reins of Death's chariot and work tirelessly collecting fresh souls for the next year. (Runtime: 104 min.)

The Jack Curtis Dubowsky Ensemble is an internationally recognized new music group that combines acoustic instruments, electronic hardware, composed material and structured improvisation. The ensemble features founder/composer Jack Curtis Dubowsky conducting, R. Scott Dibble on keyboards, Jeff Schwartz on double bass, Charles Sharp on bass clarinet, "Slam" Nobles on percussion, and Henry Webster on viola.

This program is free and open to all ages. Seating is limited and on a first arrival basis. The Santa Monica Public Library is wheelchair accessible. For disability-related accommodations, call Library Administration at (310) 458-8606 at least one week prior to event. The Main Library is directly served by Big Blue Bus lines 1, R10 and 18. The Expo Line and other bus routes stop nearby. Ride your bike. Bicycle parking racks are available at the library.

Sweet Serenade Benefits Santa Monica High School Choral Program

The award-winning Santa Monica High School Choral Program is gearing up for its first concert and biggest fundraising event of the year, Sweet Serenade, to be held on Saturday, October 21 at 6 p.m. in beautiful Centennial Plaza on the high school campus.

The alfresco event features dinner catered by Urban Taco, dessert by Diddy Riese, and performances by all five of the high school choirs under the direction of Mr. Jeffe Huls (the subject of the award-winning documentary, Big Voice), as well as solo, small ensemble, and a cappella group numbers by choir students. Sweet Serenade is the only time during the school year when the choirs perform popular music, and the students enjoy singing pop songs from all decades, as a contrast to their usual classical repertoire. "Sweet Serenade is one of the coolest things the choir program has to offer. The music is really fun and everyone really gets into it" says Rachel Lamell, a Junior in the Chamber Singers, one of two advanced choirs at Samohi.

"We are fortunate at Samohi to have an extraordinary choir teacher, dedicated and engaged students, involved parents, and a supportive community. We all work together to create skilled vocal musicians and beautiful music at the highest level," observed Nancy Lamell, Rachel's mother and a member of the choir parent support group. Erin Inatsugu, mother of choir students Sadie and Colin and President of the parent support group noted, "High quality arts programs in a diverse public school like ours are only sustained through the generosity of arts supporters like you. Nearly all Santa Monica High School's choral program expenses, including sheet music, vocal coaching, state-of-the art music technology, festival fees, transportation and student scholarships are covered by proceeds from our annual Sweet Serenade fundraiser."

In addition to the dinner event, Sweet Serenade will raise funds for the choir program through an online auction, now underway at www.BiddingforGood.com/SweetSerenade and continuing through October 26. The auction features a great variety of auction items from restaurant gift certificates, to sports and entertainment tickets, original artworks, services, and vacation getaways. Anyone can bid in the online auction, and new items are being added almost daily. Don't miss out on the auction's tickets to some nearly sold-out events: HAMILTON, and KCRW's Masquerade Ball!

Tickets for Sweet Serenade are $20 each, which includes dinner, dessert, and entertainment. The event is open to all, and tickets may be purchased at www.BiddingforGood.com/SweetSerenade. Tickets will not be available at the door.

CRIME WATCH

BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON OCTOBER 6, AT ABOUT 1:06 P.M.

Officers responded to a radio call for service at Rite Aid - 2412 Pico Blvd – regarding a theft that just occurred. The reporting party indicated the suspect was trying to leave the store and had assaulted an employee. Officers determined the suspect entered the store and was immediately recognized by an employee as a chronic theft suspect. The suspect selected several items from the sales floor and attempted to conceal them. The employee confronted the suspect about the merchandise. The suspect became upset and punched at the suspect with a closed fist. The suspect missed and walked out of the store. The suspect was located in an alley north of the 2600 block of Ocean Park Blvd. The suspect was identified by the victim. Jessica Amber Curlee, 29, homeless was arrested for robbery. Bail was set at $50,000.

notification schedule. From then, building owners have two years to submit their inspection findings and then four years to complete any retrofits.

"We could have a couple of earthquakes before this thing is over," Board member Todd Flora said.

Phillis told staff she would like to see a concrete plan to distribute retrofit costs between landlords and tenants by the end of the year. Because of the complexity of the discussion which involves several different departments and potentially the City Council, the RCB may increase their meeting schedule through the holiday season.

Board member Caroline Torosis suggested holding a round table discussion with the RCB, the City Council and staff members from Building and Safety to formulate a plan.

Other city leaders, landlords, tenants and advocacy groups weighed in during an extensive public comment portion of the meeting. After the Northridge Earthquake, owners were allowed to pass some costs through to tenants to expedite the repair and retrofit process. The influential group Santa Monicans for Renters Rights does not support any pass throughs to tenants this time around.

"Post Costa-Hawkins, as we can see from the charts that were presented by the staff, relatively few units are still at those low original rent control levels," said SMRR member Sonya Fox Sultan, referencing the California law that allowed all apartments to rise to market-rate rents once a tenant moves out. "About 70 percent have been vacancy decontrolled."

Board member Anastasia Foster also indicated that she does not at this point support a pass through because landlords can factor the costs of retrofits into new rent rates when tenants turn over. Foster said she needs much more information before making a final decision and asked staff to learn more about how the city of Berkeley handled their seismic retrofit costs.

Three percent, or about 40, Santa Monica rent-controlled buildings have had no tenants move out since Costa-Hawkens went into effect, meaning their owners collect very low rents. Phillis worried limiting pass through costs might prompt long-time owners to sell their buildings, cashing in on rising property values over the costs of construction.

"It's going to have the unintended consequence when these buildings turn over, (of) either losing existing housing stock because they are going to be Ellised or having tenants who are going to have much, much higher pass throughs on the other bonds and taxes, potentially far more than the amount were talking about on a (retrofit) pass through," Phillis said.

The board unanimously agreed that they need to hear much more from the community and stakeholders before they make a decision. In the end, however, multiple members stressed human lives are at stake.

"It's going to take a level of intergovernmental coordination that should be (as if) the crisis has already happened," Flora said.

APPROVED: The Coastal Commission has approved an expansion to City Hall and a child care facility at the Civic Center parking lot.

COMMISSION

fell flat with the Commissioners," City Manager Rick Cole said in a statement. "That bodes well for the future approval of the Civic Center Multi-Use Sports Field when we submit the final design being developed now. The City is committed to ensuring all three projects are constructed to benefit the residents and especially the youth of our community."

The move to pass the projects frustrated activists who believe the Early Childhood Lab School run by Santa Monica College will give priority to parents who work nearby who aren't necessarily Santa Monica residents.

"The ECLS is about the City of Santa Monica and Santa Monica employees getting their benefits and everyone else can get in line behind them for the Civic Center space," said Elizabeth Vandenberg, a member of Santa Monica Transparency Project. "I support our kids…I support Samohi kids walking across the street to practice and play every day."

The City provided parking surveys to the Commission that found many of the 1,779 public parking spaces in the area sit empty during the week and on weekends. In addition to the surplus parking, the Commission's top official implied the city may have spaces to spare for future projects because of other initiatives.

"The city of Santa Monica is one of the few places in Southern California where you have a really robust transit system with the Expo Line and their own Big Blue Bus transit … the other point I'd like to make is that the City of Santa Monica has more parking than any other coastal city in the state," said Executive Director Jack Ainsworth.

City manager Rick Cole told the Commission Santa Monica has 6,000 parking spaces adjacent to the beach and as many as 14,000 in the coastal zone.

"I think there are more Snowy Plovers on the Santa Monica beach than there are people who schlep their stuff from this parking lot all the way to the beach," Cole said.

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

Street Lighting Modernization Program

For the week of October 16, construction will Construction will continue throughout the project area, which is bound by 16th Street to the east, Ocean Park Boulevard to the south, Lincoln Boulevard to the west, and Pico Boulevard to the north. There may be sidewalk closures and temporary no parking posted throughout this area. Should you have any questions, please contact Robert Zak, City of Santa Monica, Project Manager (310) 458-2283.

Montana Avenue Traffic Signal Replacement

For the week of October 16, work will continue along the Montana Avenue corridor at 4th and 14th Streets. The entire intersection hardware will be replaced, including poles, signal and pedestrian heads, controllers and underground conduit. Work includes underground utilities, curb ramp construction, traffic signal installation, and all activities necessary to implement the traffic signal improvements. Work areas will be contained; crews will make practical efforts to minimize sound, dust, and disturbance to the neighboring community. One lane of traffic in each direction will be maintained. Work is scheduled to take place between the hours of 8am - 3pm, Monday – Friday, until November 2017. If you have any questions, please contact the City's Project Manager, Andrew Maximous, at (310) 458-8291.

Marine Park Irrigation Retrofit Project

For the week of October 16, the contractor will continue with the installation of the pipeline on Dewey Street from 23rd Street to 16th Street. Traffic will be reduced to one lane in each direction. Please plan accordingly and avoid this area if possible. Should you have any questions, please contact Carlos Rosales, Project Manager (310) 458-8721 ext. 2620 or Daniel Lee, Construction Manager, (714) 730-9052.

Expo Maintenance Work – Bike Path Closures

For the week of October 16, Maintenance work for the EXPO line will continue on the Exposition Corridor bike path between Centinela Avenue and Stewart Street. Maintenance work is scheduled to be completed by November 30, 2017. Should you have any questions, please contact Exposition Construction Authority at (213) 243-5534 or Skanska Rados Joint Venture at (213) 598-8104.

Parking Structure #5 Tenant Improvement Project

For the week of October 16, construction will take place in Parking Structure #5 at 1440 4th street and anticipates affecting the sidewalk in front of the building with the sidewalk pedestrian tunnel, lasting until 10/15/17. During this time, there will be intermittent closure of a single lane of southbound traffic between 8:00 am and 3:00 pm Monday thru Friday; Should you have any questions, please contact Tim Purcell, Project Manager (310) 458-2205 ext. 5027

Storm Drain Catch Basin Pipe Screens Project

For the week of October 16, small work areas will be coned off around catch basins that are being repaired at various locations Citywide. This work may impact traffic with slight lane closures at catch basin areas. Please contact Public Works Inspector Michael Valentine, Civil Engineering Division, (310) 420-6829 with any questions/concerns regarding this project.

Parking Structure #1 Repair Project

Starting October 16, Parking Structure #1 will undergo a series of retrofits and maintenance work. Construction may temporarily impact parking. Entrances and exits to the garage will be left open for smooth traffic flow. Please Robert Zak, Civil Engineering Division, (310) 458-2283 with any questions/concerns regarding this project.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 16)

The friends you make over the next three months will lead you to lifestyle upgrades. You'll learn a new side of your work in November. At the start of 2018, there's a chance to help family do something important for the next generation. A hobby turns into something more, bonding hearts in the process. Leo and Pisces adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 1, 19, 2, 22 and 44.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You may find that the best thing you can do for a person is to back off and give plenty of room for that person to solve the problem independent of you. It will probably be harder than stepping in and fixing things, though.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Hope is an essential ingredient in any good plan. If you find that you can't get behind the deal, that your attitude and heart just aren't in the right place, figure out what you have to do to put hope into the equation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)
You're determined to finish the job, but it's more than that. This ultra-focused state of mind borders on obsession. Remember to take breaks. It will help you maintain a healthy perspective.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)
You're just trying to solve a problem. It's not your fault that the fixing of it causes other problems. It's because the issue is at a deeper level than you thought. Instead of treating symptoms, go to the root.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Though you can be social, a favorite friend, the consummate host and an excellent all-around entertainer, you can also be the world's most content hermit. In fact, you'll be that today for a time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
When you know what's appropriate and can fit into a situation easily by being that version of yourself, life feels comfortable. When that stops being the case, you'll have a choice to make about whether or not it's worth it to pretend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You got to this place by answering a calling, following an inkling or obeying an intuition. But this is a crossroads in the journey in which research, logic and thoughtful argument will serve you very well. Take it to the committee.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)
You worry about loved ones just as, in the past, people have worried for you. You didn't like being on the receiving end of it, and neither will they. Knowing when and what to keep to yourself will be key.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
You're in charge of your own story. Cast yourself as the hero, and find a way to play out the action that highlights your many capabilities and your determination to overcome adversity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
The more responsibility you assume the more power you have. However, at some point, you have to ask how much power you really want. More is not always better.

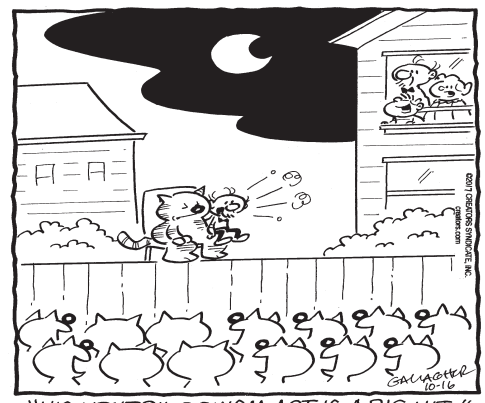

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Talk to someone you don't know. The freshness of finding a communication rhythm with a stranger will bring its own kind of thrill. And it's not every day you get to make a first impression.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
You may never jibe with some people as smoothly as you do your best friends. Yet don't let this stop you from trying to connect. There are still many pleasant interactions to be had if you give them a chance.

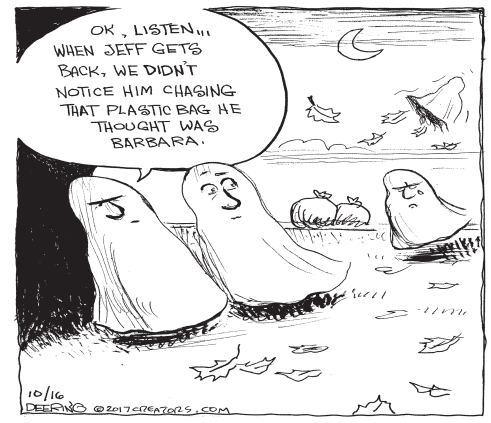

Mercury's Last Libra Day

Before we had the scientific tools to discover that an ice age had changed our planet, it was taught in school that dinosaurs died because mammals came along and ate their food. Our species so craves knowledge that we'll create reasons and stories when answers don't exist. The last day of Mercury in Libra may provide examples of this.

WELL NEWS BY SCOTT LAFEE

Rich in Hype

■ Take a pint of whole blood and extract all of its red blood cells and what's left is platelet rich plasma, a concentrate of platelets (cell fragments that promote clotting) and a variety of growth factors that proponents say stimulates healing when re-injected into soft tissue injuries.

■ The treatment is quite popular, especially with professional athletes and celebrities. NBA star Stephen Curry has used it on an ailing knee; Kim Kardashian gets "vampire facials," in which scores of micro needles inject PRP. The treatment supposedly stimulates collagen and elastin fibers, producing smoother, blemish- and wrinkle-free skin.

■ PRP treatment isn't new, but it's also largely unproven. In a recent published study, researchers surveyed what's empirically known about PRP treatments. Turns out, not much. They concluded that there's been so much media hype about PRP – often focusing on celebrity use and endorsements – that no one has needed to prove it actually works by investing in a proper clinical trial.

■ If it's good enough for the Kardashians...
