Santa Monica-based websites help voters

BY ASHLEY ARCHIBALD
Daily Press Staff Writer

CITYWIDE In case you were wondering, there's less than three weeks left before the non-stop onslaught of electoral news coverage reaches its zenith on Nov. 6, leaving the losers to go home to lick their wounds and the winners to begin fretting about their new positions of power.

Until then, however, websites, television shows, radio stations and political ads will continue to rain down truths, half-truths and outright lies, leaving soon-to-be voters with a lot of information on their hands and just as many ways to parse it.

Fortunately, Santa Monica didn't earn the title "Silicon Beach" for nothing.

Three websites with roots in the city by the sea each promise a window into the morass of information coming out of both local and national elections. Each has a

Homeless man angered by Associated Press story on his past

BY ASHLEY ARCHIBALD

CITY HALL The Santa Monica Daily Press finds itself fending off a $20 million lawsuit filed by a disgruntled homeless man who took offense to an Associated Press article that ran in the paper in early August.

Phil Sparks, who put his address down as the OPCC Access Center for homeless individuals, is suing the Daily Press for publishing the wire service article that said singer-songwriter Sheryl Crow had taken out a temporary restraining order against Sparks.

The article relied on court documents that said Crow issued a sworn statement say-

Samohi wants payback against Culver City

BY DANIEL ARCHULETA

CORSAIR FIELD It was nearly a year ago that Culver City dashed Santa Monica football's dreams of a championship in the playoff semi-finals.

Now, the only thing on Samohi's collective mind is some long-sought-after revenge.

"This one is a different type of rivalry," wide receiver Sebastian LaRue said. "When a team puts you out of the playoffs it changes things."

Samohi is coming off a 24-0 rout of another Ocean League rival in Beverly Hills, but LaRue said that this week's game is even bigger.

While the student body rallies every year to knock off Beverly Hills, LaRue said that, amongst the players, Culver City is the team they have their eyes on.

The 37-6 loss at the hands of Culver City last December is a sore spot and motivating factor for Samohi head coach Travis Clark, too.

While Culver City graduated a number of the stars from that team, Clark doesn't doubt the Centaurs' ability to restock with talent.

"They always produce explosive guys," Clark said. "I don't know where they find them, where they hide them, but every year they always have somebody who can hurt you at the skill positions."

This year's top Culver City play-maker is a hold-over from last year's team that lost to

Sprinkler tips in Spanish
Airport Avenue Demonstration Garden
3200 Airport Ave., 4 p.m. — 7 p.m.
Drop in for a free hands-on workshop for professional landscapers and gardeners, of all skill levels, who want to learn about the latest innovations in sprinklers and drip irrigation. The three-hour, hands-on workshop covers converting existing sprinkler heads to more water-efficient rotary nozzles, drip irrigation installation, weather-based irrigation controller programming, irrigation trouble-shooting and alternatives to gas-powered lawn equipment. For more information, call (310) 458-8972 ext. 5.

Boo!
Santa Monica Place
Broadway and Third Street,
7 p.m. — 1 a.m.
During the month of October, the third floor of Santa Monica Place will be transformed into a hair-raising haunted attraction where the un-dead will possess three mazes: "The Infirmary," "Insomniac Clown Playhouse" and "Granny's Manor of Mayhem." Spectators can also enjoy food and merchandise vendors throughout the night to compliment the main attraction, which will consume 50,000 square feet of what's billed as deathly horrifying space. Cost: $24; $19 for students. For more information, visit paranoiahalloween.com.

Where did it go?
The Broad Stage
1310 11th St., 7:30 p.m.
Photographers and filmmakers Carol Beckwith and Angela Fisher have devoted their entire careers to documenting traditional African societies. They are working together against the clock to record unique and compelling ceremonies and cultures that are rapidly, perhaps irrevocably, changing in the face of modernity. Their insatiable curiosity, incredible hardiness, deep humor, and profound respect for Africa's indigenous peoples have gained them entry into worlds closed to outsiders. Join them for an eye-opening cultural journey, more than 25 years in the making during Nat Geo Live! African Ceremonies: Documenting a Vanishing World. Cost: $47-$75. ELECTION 2012 City Council Candidates

Questions

1. WHY ARE YOU RUNNING FOR CITY COUNCIL, WHAT MAKES YOU QUALIFIED TO LEAD, AND WHAT ROLE DO YOU SEE YOURSELF PLAYING ON THE DAIS IF ELECTED?

2. WHAT ARE SANTA MONICA'S THREE MAJOR STRENGTHS AND WEAKNESSES? WHAT WILL YOU DO TO ENSURE THE STRENGTHS REMAIN AND THE WEAKNESSES CONTAINED?

3. HOMELESSNESS CONTINUES TO BE A SIGNIFICANT CONCERN OF MANY RESIDENTS AND BUSINESS OWNERS. HOW WOULD YOU RATE CITY HALL'S RESPONSE OVER THE LAST FOUR YEARS, WHAT WILL YOU ADVOCATE FOR AND DOES THAT MEAN MORE OR LESS FUNDING?

4. WHERE DO YOU STAND ON THE CITY COUNCIL'S DECISION TO INCREASE THE CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTION LIMIT FROM $250 TO $325?

5. WILL YOU SPONSOR A LOCAL LAW BANNING SMOKING WITHIN MULTI-FAMILY RESIDENTIAL UNITS, I.E. CONDOS AND APARTMENTS? IF NOT, WHAT WOULD YOU SUPPORT?

6. IF ELECTED, WOULD YOU ALLOW MEDICAL MARIJUANA DISPENSARIES TO SET UP SHOP IN SANTA MONICA?

7. WHAT POLICIES WILL YOU SUPPORT THAT WILL ENABLE SANTA MONICA TO DEAL WITH THE INCREASED COMPETITION FOR RESOURCES AND THE NEED TO BE SUSTAINABLE, PARTICULARLY WHEN IT COMES TO WATER AND POWER CONSUMPTION/GENERATION?

8. HOBBIES

9. WHAT ARE YOU READING?

10. THE LOSS OF REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY FUNDS DEALT A SERIOUS BLOW TO THE CITY COUNCIL'S AMBITIOUS PLANS FOR THE CIVIC CENTER, SAMOHI, AND THE PARK IN FRONT OF CITY HALL, AMONG OTHER PROJECTS. IF ELECTED, WHAT PROJECTS WOULD YOU PRIORITIZE AND HOW WOULD YOU FINANCE THEM?

11. CITY HALL ALREADY PROVIDES THE SANTA MONICA-MALIBU UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT WITH MILLIONS IN EXCHANGE FOR ACCESS TO CAMPUSES, MAINLY ATHLETIC FIELDS. DO YOU BELIEVE THIS DEAL IS GOOD FOR THE CITY, OR SHOULD IT BE REVISITED AND MODIFIED? IF SO, IN WHAT WAYS?

12. IF YOU COULD RIDE THE FERRIS WHEEL ON THE SANTA MONICA PIER WITH THREE PEOPLE IN HISTORY, WHO WOULD THEY BE AND WHAT WOULD YOU WANT TO TALK ABOUT?

13. WHERE DO YOU STAND ON THE SANTA MONICA AIRPORT?

14. COMMUNITY BENEFITS AS PART OF DEVELOPMENT AGREEMENTS: WHAT IS YOUR DEFINITION OF A BENEFIT? WHEN SHOULD THE CITY COUNCIL DEMAND BENEFITS AND TO WHAT DEGREE? AND SHOULD SOME BE PART OF A CHECKLIST THAT DEVELOPERS CAN CHOOSE FROM, OR SHOULD THE COUNCIL ALWAYS HAVE COMPLETE CONTROL IN NEGOTIATIONS WITH DEVELOPERS?

15. WHAT IS YOUR DEFINITION OF OVERDEVELOPMENT AND WHAT IS YOUR PLAN TO PREVENT IT?

16. THE SPUTTERING ECONOMY AND THE RISE IN PENSION CONTRIBUTION COSTS HAVE FORCED SOME CITIES TO FILE FOR BANKRUPTCY. SANTA MONICA IS DOING BETTER THAN MOST, BUT IF NOTHING IS DONE TO TRIM COSTS, DEFICITS WILL BECOME REALITY. WHAT'S YOUR PLAN FOR CONTROLLING PUBLIC EMPLOYEE PENSION COSTS?

17. HOW DO YOU GET ACROSS TOWN DURING RUSH HOUR? ANY TIPS OR SHORTCUTS?

18. WHAT SHOULD CITY HALL'S ROLE BE WHEN IT COMES TO THE CREATION OF AFFORDABLE HOUSING?

1. WHY RUN

As a 30-year resident of Santa Monica, longtime community advocate and former City Council member, I am running once again to serve our interests because of my deep commitment to our city. I have served our community on a wide variety of committees and commissions and will continue to build consensus for our greater good, work to preserve the character of our individual neighborhoods, and protect our quality of life and schools which make Santa Monica such a great place to live and work. We must work together to ensure all Santa Monicans are represented and our city is positioned for the future.

2. CITY'S STRENGTHS/WEAKNESSES

The city has been able to maintain a strong budget reserve because of its strong sales tax base; we take care of our

1. WHY RUN?

I'm running to make Santa Monica a better place, a "healthy city" where residents flourish, the environment is enriched and the city government is healthy, too — well-run and financially stable. I've lived here since 1983 and for 20 years I've been actively involved in the city. I've served on the Housing and Planning commissions (where you learn to analyze facts and make decisions), the board of a neighborhood association, a school bond oversight committee and for 11 years I wrote a weekly column about what goes on here. On the dais I will examine issues critically, listen to everyone and push for real decisions.

1. WHY RUN

This election is about residents. It is about the quality of life in Santa Monica. The council will either lead on issues or simply follow as others dictate. So there is a critical need for an agenda that reflects the needs of residents and public policy that strengthen the city. As someone heavily involved in our community, our schools, a Recreation and Parks and now Planning commissioner there's been a lot of involvement on issues that matter to people who live here. You need to know what policies make a difference and how to make them happen. Getting a comprehensive bike plan in place, or city as arboretum adopted, required policy skill and political leadership. Every Wednesday night voters have been able to assess my performance at the Planning Commission.

Thanks for clean water

Editor:

I feel that it is important to acknowledge and give credit to everyone involved in helping to pass and maintain the Clean Water Act. This is important to me because clean water is something that everybody needs and uses, especially for drinking, cooking and bathing. Bottled water seems to be expensive as well and sometimes it is necessary to drink from the tap, this is why I want to acknowledge and thank those involved in protecting our clean and usable water. Thank you for your time.

Conspiracy theory

Editor:

Re: Closure of Village Trailer Park by Marc Luzzatto.

Marc Luzzatto, posing as an owner and developer, I suspect he is neither. I contend that he hopes to be able to evict all the current home owners and then contrary to what he announces, will offer the land to speculators and developers for (he hopes) millions of dollars.

I contend only then, that the real owner/s will give him (perhaps an already agreed to) large fee for himself. Meantime he promotes a development without permits so far to the City Council members, to the Planning Commission and the Rent Control Board.

As soon as he has evicted all current residents he will then change the game plan as I suspect and have suggested.

Jack Waddington
Santa Monica

How to vote

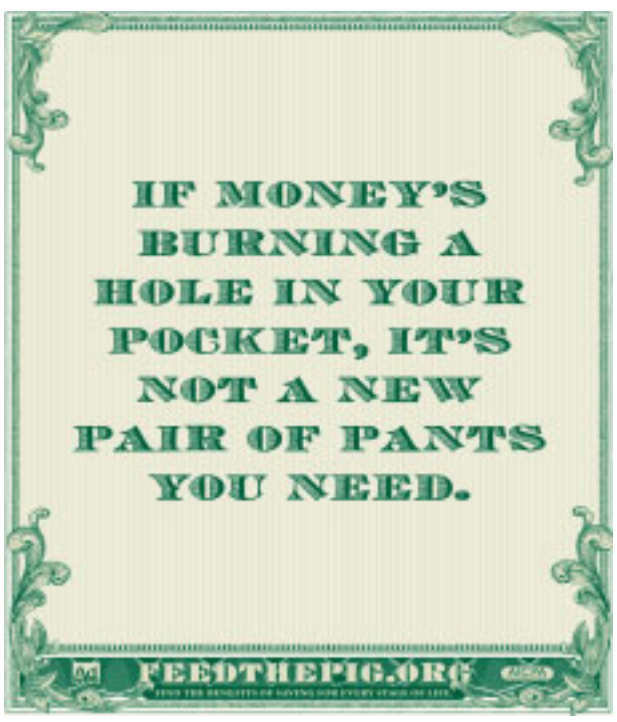

Editor:

Three major developers are spending more than $100,000 to re-elect Terry O'Day and Gleam Davis to the City Council. As the pop-up organization called Santa Monicans United for a Responsible Future, they are flooding mailboxes with slick flyers for the two and "me-too" Shari Davis.

While the candidates claim they have no control of the efforts, why would the developers pay out such huge sums to keep them on the council? Because, based on Terry and Gleam's past voting records and Shari's unquestioning support for the status quo, the developers are betting that down the road the three will vote to approve most or all of the 23 big development projects in the pipeline that will add millions of square feet and choke traffic in the city.

If you're happy with Santa Monica turning into a mini-Manhattan, vote for the incumbents and Shari. If you want to preserve what remains of Santa Monica as a pleasant beach town, pick council members who represent you, not developers.

Teaching kids to have self-efficacy

DEAR LIFE MATTERS,

I met you at the Taste of Abbot Kinney food event. As I told you, I was there because of the food. I had no idea what the charity was about and even though you tried to explain it to me, I am still confused about what self-efficacy is. I really thought it was the same thing as self-esteem and would appreciate it if you would explain it.

Thanks,
Confused

DEAR CONFUSED,

I appreciate your question because I imagine many people do not know the difference. The event supported Inside Out Community Arts, an organization that has won numerous awards, including national ones for their excellent curriculum.

When I was a doctoral student I learned about the importance of the arts to enhance learning. But I was pleasantly surprised to discover that Dr. James Catterall, a member of my doctoral committee at UCLA, had done research on the results of the educational programs at Inside Out.

If you look into their curriculum, you will see that they have a number of after-school programs and a weekend program where students camp in the Santa Monica Mountains and write a play together.

More importantly, Dr. Catterall's results show that the students learn how to work together, how to be team members, how to deal with interpersonal differences, problem solving skills and how to cooperate and make friendships. They also learn how to express feelings and use their imagination and to develop metacognition, which basically means to be reflective, which helps us learn, think, come up with new ideas and think before we act.

All of these things are important and certainly lacking in many young people today through no fault of their own. We need a lot more of this type of help for kids and we need to have the arts put back into school curriculums. Santa Monica is lucky to still have it and for those of us who had it understand how lucky we were.

Don Novak, one of the owners of Hal's restaurant who helped fund the event, told me that as a businessman, joining Hal in the restaurant 25 years ago definitely increased his ability to deal with interpersonal differences and increased his sense of cooperation and sensitivity. Joining others in artistic adventures can be incredibly fruitful and rewarding.

Now you specifically asked about self-efficacy and I deliberately left it for last.

It is not self-esteem, but it could be considered similar.

Self-esteem is the worth we place on ourselves. It is also called self-worth.

We are not born with it, we develop it after we develop our sense of self and it is directly related to how we see, think or feel others are seeing and reacting to us. If those around us think we are truly special, we usually will come to believe it. Unfortunately the reverse is also true. I have seen many people who really do not think they are worth much because they were treated as if they weren't.

But things can also happen along the way to change our self-esteem. Really bad situations, like repeated sexual assaults, being bullied, or having a parent divorce or die makes us feel bad about ourselves. The list is endless but self-esteem is fundamentally based on deeply rooted beliefs that we hold about ourselves. The good news is that they can be changed with work in psychotherapy, if need be.

Self-efficacy is related, but it is not the same. Self-efficacy is the belief in ourselves that makes us feel effective. It's a feeling that we can do it if we try. Some people who like themselves and have self-worth can be greatly lacking in the feeling or belief that they can be effective in general or at something specific.

An example might be a woman who knows she is beautiful and worth more than she has but feels helpless to make something different for herself. Another might be the guy who is great at sports and popular with the girls but cannot imagine getting through college; doesn't believe he can do it.

So you can see that it certainly is a branch of that same tree of self-esteem but it is really about how effective we believe we are or can be. What are we capable of, what can we accomplish or contribute to this world?

In this economy, many unemployed people have given up and are losing their self-efficacy. Students without a decent education can be in the same boat. And it is a boat called hopeless.

We all need self-efficacy to help us try and to accomplish and then, to keep or build self-esteem.

Inside Out is doing a great job at building self-efficacy and we really need more programs like it.

Hope I answered your question and I hope you have self-efficacy.

A taste of Italy in Newport Beach

BY CAROLE ORLIN
Special to the Daily Press

If you are thinking about Italy as a possible travel destination, but distance and money are holding you back, I have discovered an alternative that will reduce your distance traveled from more than 6,000 miles to less than 60 miles (a one-hour drive from Santa Monica). The Resort at Pelican Hill on the Newport Coast brings the traditions of Northern Italy to Southern California through its architecture, its food and wine, and a variety of specialized amenities.

Pelican Hill's Italian-inspired landscape spreads across 504 acres overlooking the Pacific Ocean. The architecture incorporates the principles of Italy's most renowned 16th-century Renaissance architect, Andrea Palladio, whose Palladian style was named for him. They did not cut corners when it came to constructing this masterpiece! Each spacious room, whether one of the bungalows or the larger villas, has been given individual attention, and it definitely shows. Our bungalow, like all the bungalows and villas, had a private terrace facing the bountiful hillsides with a magnificent view of the Pacific Ocean.

It was hard to leave our bungalow after unpacking, even though I knew I was being picked up in one of the resort's Escalade SUVs to be taken to their five-star spa to get a signature body gelato treatment. Following that heavenly experience, I spent some time in the Coliseum Pool, a unique, circular (136 feet in diameter), salt-water pool surrounded by tiered decks. This pool is worth mentioning because it was constructed with over 1 million hand-cut glass tiles, in itself a work of art. It is one of the largest circular pools in the world. Between the pool, the perfect temperature of the water, and the magnificent view, I ended up staying there for hours, leaving only to get ready for dinner at Andrea Ristorante, their signature restaurant.

Andrea specializes in Northern Italian cuisine. Its kitchen is run by former French Laundry chef, the Italian born and schooled, Michelin-starred Luigi Fineo. His accomplishments include Bouchon Bistro in Beverly Hills and La Botte Ristorante in Santa Monica. We had the pleasure of meeting Chef Luigi, and his enthusiasm for Pelican Hill was contagious. He told us that when he interviewed for the job, all he had to see was the kitchen, and he was sold. They have a special cucina della pasta, dedicated solely to creating many varieties of pasta made fresh every day. (They even make gluten free pasta.)

Please do not miss one of their seasonal risotto dishes that is presented at your tableside. When available, the restaurant uses the olive oil they make from the fruits of the 750 olive trees that dot their landscape. Their menu was unique, but I admit I needed a little help in understanding some of their offerings. Once I learned that the pan seared John Dory on the menu was a fish and not a disgruntled employee, I was able to breathe a sigh of relief and went on to try some of their scrumptious dishes.

When I mentioned Pelican Hill to my friends, they immediately thought of its two 18-hole golf courses (designed by Tom Fazio). As a matter of fact, in the April 2012 issue of Condé Nast Traveler, which rates golf courses in eight different categories, they received an overall score of 96.6 and were the only California golf resort to receive a perfect score in the course and design and access categories. Both of their courses have a panoramic view of the ocean. Although I am sure the average golfer has other things to concentrate on when on the links, it does not hurt to be surrounded by such breathtaking beauty in one's quest for a birdie. Actually, for many years Pelican Hill was synonymous with golf, but since 2008 when The Resort opened its doors, it has flourished as a destination resort.

In keeping with their love of all things Italian, during the first week of November, Pelican Hill has an annual Festa dell' Autunno, when the olives ripen and drop from the branches. This weekend festival includes an Italian street festival with olive pressing demonstrations, olive oil tastings, Italian cooking demonstrations, strolling musicians, bocce ball games and more.

I am hoping that when my own trip to Italy comes to fruition that the real thing is as first rate as my Italian experience here in Southern California. Pelican Hill has won so many awards, ranging from the AAA Five Diamond Award three years in a row to countless prestigious awards for their restaurants, spa, and golf courses, that it would be an embarrassment of riches if it was not so well-deserved. As far as resorts in Southern California go, I think that I may have finally found the jewel in the crown.

Memories, murals, music, movies

I DON'T KNOW WHERE TO BEGIN THIS week; there's just so much happening on the cultural scene here on the Westside.

Do not miss "Krapp's Last Tape" at the Kirk Douglas Theatre. The incomparable John Hurt owns this Samuel Beckett gem, which much to my surprise, few of my theatre-savvy friends knew about. I'd seen it performed at the Mark Taper Forum by actor John Necsi in 1990 during the 50/50 Vision Festival celebrating plays and playwrights who changed theatre, and I never forgot it.

On his 69th birthday, a worn and weary man listens to his younger self on reel-to-reel recordings made throughout his life, especially one moment at age 39, on the tape archived in "box three, spool five," about his relationship with a woman.

This one-man tour-de-force is funny, sad, pointed and pointless in that existential way Beckett epitomizes, and brings to bear the lesson that John Lennon once aptly summarized: Life is what happens while you're busy making other plans.

When young, we're busy looking for the next, more meaningful moment, while later we'll discover that the moment itself contained all the meaning there is. Is Krapp an author with a sense of self-importance so grand that he missed the long-lost moment now haunting his memory?

There's also an audience component: tell your own story and listen to the stories others have recorded at the listening stations in the lobby (which has been set up like a pub) before and after the show.

Simple yet profound, this production comes from the celebrated Gate Theatre Dublin, and has been admired by critics and audiences everywhere it's played. One of the major highlights of the theatrical year, it runs through Nov. 4. For more information visit

MURALS

The big news was the Oct. 9 unveiling of David Alfaro Siqueiros' "America Tropical" mural on Olvera Street, which had been considered so politically confrontational in its day that it was whitewashed in two phases, one just months after its completion and the remainder in 1938. Commissioned for the Los Angeles Olympics in 1932, the Getty Conservation Institute has been busy for years restoring Siqueiros' only surviving public mural still in its original location.

The mural depicts a Mexican Indian tied to a double cross with an American eagle above him, and revolutionary soldiers — one aiming at the eagle — closing in. Siqueiros was unabashed in his communist sympathies for ethnic peoples and the poor, and calls for the mural's restoration came about as the Chicano mural movement of the 1960s began churning.

You'll be able to view it, now safely shaded from the sun by a canopy, from the new rooftop platform. Learn more about its creation and restoration at the new America Tropical Interpretive Center on the ground floor of the historic Sepulveda House at El Pueblo, L.A.'s historic heart. For more information visit www.getty.edu/

Inspired by the Chicano mural movement and renowned for its socially-conscious murals, SPARC, the Social and Public Art Resource Center in Venice, is celebrating its 35th anniversary this weekend. An award named for Siqueiros is being given to local muralist and painter Francisco Letelier, and union leader Maria Elena Durazo will be honored with The Judy Baca Award for Social Justice. Baca is the founder of and has led SPARC throughout its storied history.

SPARC is renowned for its signature mural, the Great Wall of Los Angeles, the half-mile long panel in the Tujunga flood control channel depicting the ethnic history of California, from prehistoric times to the 1950s. More than Jacaranda (Music at the Edge) opens its 2012-2013 "Season of Contrasts" on Saturday, Oct. 20 with composer Tobias Picker narrating his own work, "The Encantadas," based on the Herman Melville novella. Picker composes operas, most recently setting Stephen King's "Dolores Claiborne" to music.

MUSIC

The evening at Santa Monica's architecturally stunning First Presbyterian Church includes an amazing line up of performers and composers, including superstar pianist Gloria Cheng playing former L.A. Phil music director Esa-Pekka Salonen's solo piano piece "Dichotomie," and a large ensemble for Steve Reich's "City Life," featuring two pianos and two sampling keyboards programmed with a plethora of New York City sounds including street talk, car horns, breaks

Big Bird costumes hot sellers for Halloween

LEANNE ITALIE
Associated Press

NEW YORK Can't figure out how to dress as a binder full of women for Halloween? There's always Big Bird, the other star of the presidential debates.

The Yellow One is flying off the shelves after Mitt Romney's threat to do away with government support for PBS. President Barack Obama kept the Halloween dream alive Tuesday night when be brought up the bird again during their second debate.

At 6 feet, Angela Betancourt volunteered for Big Bird duty among a group of friends riffing on Sesame Street for a couple of Halloween parties and a meander along Lincoln Road in Miami Beach. She'll likely carry a suitcase as she passes out the popular kid character's resume.

"I grew up on Sesame Street and I think that PBS deserves all the funds it can get," said Betancourt, 30. "We all feel the same way."

Halloweencostumes.com sold out of several takes on Big Bird almost overnight after Romney's remark during the first presidential debate Oct. 3, said a company spokesman, Marlon Heimerl.

"In the past this hasn't been a very popular costume, so when Big Bird flew the coop in such high numbers, it was definitely a big surprise," said Heimerl, who would not provide specific sales figures.

Disguise Inc., Sesame Workshop's official costume maker, said interest is up among the thousands of retailers it services. The sellers of unlicensed Big Bird, especially sexed-up versions, beware.

"The only costumes authorized by Sesame Workshop are with our licensee, Disguise, and we are working with our legal team on having the others removed from the market," said Ellen Lewis, a spokeswoman from over there on Sesame Street.

Betancourt went for sanctioned, sassy Big Bird in a yellow, flapper-style feathered dress and a dainty head piece. Shannon Ziegler of suburban Detroit will be Big Birdesque in a sexier mini with mesh cutouts, ringed thigh-highs and a fluffy hat that has google eyes.

Ziegler, another 6-footer, hadn't decided between a sign that reads: "Big Bird for President" or one imploring: "Don't Use Me." An American flag may also be involved.

"When I saw that costume," said the 27-year-old Ziegler, "I thought, how perfect is that?"

For the record, Ziegler's a Republican who said she'll probably vote for Romney.

"Big Bird is not getting fired," she said. "Big Bird is big and strong and he will be able to stand his ground. I think that Sesame Street will be strong no matter what."

Kimberly Wick, vice president of Costume World based in Deerfield Beach, Fla., also saw sleepy seller Big Bird become a hot seller overnight. The company sells and rents costumes of all kinds and has four stores around the country.

"We had Big Bird dancing in front of our Deerfield Beach store and people were honking and going crazy," Wick said. "It's been 20 years since Big Bird was popular."

Wick was madly trying to replenish sold-out Big Bird looks among several the company carries for infants to adults. So who's buying — Democrats, Republicans or those pesky undecideds?

"Does Big Bird have a left wing and a right wing? I don't know," she said. "I guess we'll find out."

Sara Gaugl, a spokeswoman at the Bellevue, Wash., headquarters for the large thrift store chain Savers and Value Village, said sales of all Sesame Street character costumes picked up significantly after the first debate on Oct. 3. Managers of the nearly 300 secondhand stores across the United States and Canada were also busy helping customers put together DIY Big Bird, she said.

"Last year we were seeing a trend in nostalgia, such as Candy Land and Twister," Gaugl said. "Big Bird was selling but it was not as hot of a commodity. People are not ignoring the conversation around the election."

MOVIES

A heart-rending multi-generational film from Sweden called "Simon and the Oaks" opens at the Landmark Theatres on Friday, Oct.19. This touching and engrossing movie is based on a beloved Swedish bestseller that tells the story of an intellectually gifted boy who feels out of place in his rural home. He convinces his provincial father that he deserves an education at a school too posh for the likes of his family's class.

He befriends Isak, the son of a highly cultured Jewish family, on the cusp of World War II, and as secrets are revealed, the lives of these two families intertwine in surprising, disruptive and ultimately enlightening ways.

A film festival favorite, it received 13 nominations for the Swedish Oscars including best picture, best director, best actress and best cinematography. On a personal note, I loved this film and encourage you to see it. Tickets at www.landmarktheatres.com/

And on the political front, one of the most stunning documentaries to elucidate the concerns affecting the science of genetically-modified foods and plants, Dr. Jeffrey Smith's "Genetic Roulette" will be screened for free at the Santa Monica Public Library tonight.

The program begins with music by "Label GMO" performer Rob Herring, and following the film, David King, founding chair of The Seed Library of Los Angeles (www.SLOLA.org), housed at The Learning Garden at Venice High School, will lead a panel discussion on the ballot initiative, Prop. 37, "California's Right to Know," calling for labeling of genetically modified foods.

Co-sponsored by Co-Opportunity, Real Food Daily will be on hand after the event providing sweet and savory foods. http://coopportunity.com/calendar/seniors, children and citizenry through our social service programs and funding of our public schools; and the natural beauty of our historical pier that has not been over-developed. Our weaknesses are the Santa Monica Airport because it's the single largest source of toxic air pollution in the city; keeping our beaches clean and free of all the trash that comes from our storm drains; and the jobs-housing imbalance. We have more jobs and not enough housing for our work force in the city.

3. HOMELESSNESS

I believe the city is doing more than its fair share to take care of the homeless population. When I was on the council I was proactive in trying to get the federal government to develop the VA property in Westwood to house and service the homeless vets. The VA has stepped in but I will continue to put pressure on them so they invest more money for its veterans that will relieve some of the pressure off of Santa Monica.

4. CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

I support it.

5. SMOKING BAN

Given the sensitivity of the issue, I believe it needs further evaluation and discussion.

6. MEDICAL MARIJUANA

Yes, but with strong guide lines to make sure there is no abuse.

7. SUSTAINABILITY

I will look to develop policies that would require any new development to be sustainable, especially as it pertains to water and power consumption.

8. HOBBIES

Golfing and bike riding along the beach bike path.

9. READING

"Half of the World in Light," by Juan Felipe Herrera.

10. REDEVELOPMENT

Santa Monica High School is the number one priority and that is why I support Measure ES, the school bond which will fund the renovation of the high school.

11. MONEY FOR SCHOOLS

I believe it's a good deal for the city, the school district, and the community as a whole because we all win when our schools are the best.

12. FERRIS WHEEL GUESTS

Abraham Lincoln, Mark Twain and Dolores Huerta, so we could discuss their life experience and how it shaped their ideas and moral compass.

13. SANTA MONICA AIRPORT

We need to find a way to ban corporate jets as soon as possible and see if there is a way to close the airport down or make it into a true recreational airport when their lease ends in 2015.

14. COMMUNITY BENEFITS

I believe the City Council should have complete control in negotiations with developers.

15. OVERDEVELOPMENT

The Water Garden project is a good example of overdevelopment in our city and any new development must have a net positive impact on our city. Also, it cannot overburden the community in terms of traffic and parking and must be sustainable with meaningful community benefits.

16. PENSION COSTS

We need to look at putting a cap on it before it breaks our city. I agree. The state just passed the mandate for a two-tier pension system to help cities keep their cost down.

17. TRAFFIC SHORTCUTS

I avoid driving across town during rush hour and if I have to, I ride my bike.

18. AFFORDABLE HOUSING

We need to do what we can to build more affordable housing and require developers to pay for affordable housing projects in the city.

A mind is responsible for the traffic light, the blood bank, ice cream, peanut butter, the doorknob, the microphone, the elevator, clothes dryer, lawn mower, pacemaker, the typewriter, guided missile, mailbox, the air conditioner, automatic transmission, curtain rod, baby carriage, lawn sprinkler, fountain pen, dust pan, the hand stamp, first open-heart surgery, cataract laser, fire extinguisher, doorstop, home security camera, the golf tee, fire escape, potato chip, food preservation, synthesized cortisone, the guitar, railroad telegraphy, envelope seal, printing press, bicycle frame, rocket catapult, insect destroyer gun, ice cream scoop, window cleaner, laser fuels, folding chair, gas mask, mop, refrigerator, pressing comb, urinalysis machine, door lock, electric cutoff switch, telephone transmitter, stair-climbing wheelchair, hairbrush, egg beater, eye protector, electric lamp bulb, biscuit cutter, chamber commode, almanac, horse shoe, lunch pail, motor, lantern, key chain, furniture caster, ironing board, sugar-refining system, lemon squeezer, portable weighing scales, wrench, airplane propeller, ore bucket, steam boiler, portable x-ray machine, cotton chopper fertilizer, street sweeper, cattle-roping apparatus, spark plug, galoshes, casket-lowering device, clothes wringer, diesel car coupling, riding saddles, and so on and so on. The list is endless. Indeed, it's time to stop and celebrate the fact that each and every one of the wonderful innovations mentioned here came from the mind. The mind of an African American. By supporting minority education, you keep open the possibility of tomorrow's great ideas. Because of all the things that the human mind has created, perhaps the most amazing is the one that has yet to be created. And that possibility is a terrible thing to waste.

Strengths (there are many more than these three):

1) An active and engaged populace that loves its city and gets involved.

2) A strong government that closely regulates economic development, but also a vibrant business community.

3) An excellent public school system.

Weaknesses:

1) The city's inability to control what happens in the surrounding megalopolis.

2) The lack of a transportation system that can meaningfully address our traffic problems.

3) A shortage of housing.

To preserve the strengths I'll do everything I can to reach out to the public for input; I'll continue to closely regulate development with the knowledge that the best way to encourage business is create a wonderful city; and I'll continue the city's policies of aiding the schools.

To contain the weaknesses, I'll push for more regional planning to solve issues like traffic and homelessness. I'll push for the Big Blue Bus to develop alternatives to get commuters out of their cars. And I'll fight for policies to encourage more housing and less office development.

3. HOMELESSNES

With the adoption of housing first, the city's response has vastly improved over the past four years, but I would expand outreach to the chronic homeless. This may require more spending on the short-term, but leads to less spending on the long-term.

4. CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

I supported it. As an independent candidate, I can say that it's hard to raise sufficient funds to get your message to Santa Monica's 50,000 voters.

5. SMOKING BAN

I support the law that was passed and then referred back for more work on second reading; i.e., I do not believe that current tenants who smoke should be evicted, but I support units becoming non-smoking upon vacancy.

6. MEDICAL MARIJUANA

Santa Monica voters have shown that they do not consider marijuana use to be a problem. So, yes, I believe that Santa Monicans should be able to fill their prescriptions here. However, state law is so unclear about the legal status of dispensaries that passing an ordinance to allow and regulate them appropriately is not easy.

7. SUSTAINABILITY

I would continue the policies the city has implemented to reduce water consumption and favor renewable energy. High-quality urban development will also reduce our ecological footprint by reducing driving.

8. HOBBIES

None, except to enjoy life.

9. READING

"In Motion: The Experience of Travel," by Tony Hiss.

10. REDEVELOPMENT

The city will have to revert back to traditional means for funding capital projects, including voter-approved bond issues, and the city will have to focus on projects that have broad public approval, since bond issues require a two-thirds vote. I foresee that the city may need to go to the voters for funding for new parks at the Fisher Lumber site and on the Civic Auditorium parking lot. Beyond that, it is hard to predict the city's capital needs after the current round of projects is completed.

11. MONEY FOR SCHOOLS

Because Santa Monica is "under parked" this is a good deal for the city. One reason (among many) that I support the new school bond is that it will enable the school district to create more recreational facilities on the Samohi campus, and the city could then make a win-win deal with the district to share those facilities.

12. FERRIS WHEEL GUESTS

Lincoln, Einstein, and Mozart, and I'd let them decide what to talk about.

13. SANTA MONICA AIRPORT

The airport needs to be closed after 2014 when the 1984 agreement expires. While any attempt to close the airport will likely lead to litigation, this is a generational opportunity to get back 227 acres of land. The city must do everything it can to make this happen.

14. COMMUNITY BENEFITS

To begin with, the best community benefit is a good project that in itself benefits the community. No amount of community benefits can make a bad project a good one. We need to enact good zoning standards setting forth what kind of development we want, then we should minimize discretionary review so that we can get that development. However, for large developments discretionary review is appropriate, and, as in any negotiation, the city should negotiate for whatever it can obtain.

15. OVERDEVELOPMENT

Overdevelopment is a concept that operates in four dimensions, i.e., including time. Now Santa Monica suffers from overdevelopment of commercial office; twice the square footage of office contemplated under the 1984 land-use plan was built. At the time, planners believed that with the loss of manufacturing, Santa Monica needed jobs. Now we have too much office and a shortage of housing. Therefore, I support development of the latter and not the former.

16. PENSION COSTS

To negotiate with the unions who represent the city's employees.

17. TRAFFIC SHORTCUTS

Well, I like to bike around Santa Monica. I also like the fact that when I need to drive, such as to do big shopping, we have convenient stores in my neighborhood, so I don't need to drive across town. But if I have to get across town during rush hour, I look at SigAlert, try to give myself plenty of time and plan on listening to good music.

18. AFFORDABLE HOUSING

Santa Monica voters have approved the building of affordable housing and most residents support preservation of a mixed-income community. However, the entire funding structure for affordable housing is undergoing drastic change because of the demise of redevelopment; it's not possible to answer this question without waiting to see how the issue is addressed in Sacramento.

I have a record of making clear, strong decisions. I would be a powerful voice for residents.

2. CITY'S STRENGTHS/WEAKNESSES

Strengths are Santa Monica's landscape and environment, the values of people who live here and the overall community that supports so much diversity of opinion.

Our weaknesses are traffic, congestion and ongoing threats to the quality of life.

3. HOMELESSNESS

It is unfair and outrageous that as a society we can't get residential accommodation for the homeless. To have thousands wandering our streets looking for food or shelter every night isn't acceptable. It requires a whole of person and whole of life approach to solve the homeless person needs (which are always complex). But for residents to be scared or shut out of parks and streets because of homeless is also not fair. Council is trying to tackle the issue. Maybe a B-minus.

4. CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

As a candidate, raising money is tough; $325 is quite a lot to many, not much to some. When corporations and single-issue donors can give large, unregulated amounts to political action committees or independent expenditure committees, the playing field is quite uneven. It is a long, hard grind from many donors matching one big check to the other side.

5. SMOKING BAN

Yes.

6. MEDICAL MARIJUANA

Medical marijuana in Santa Monica should be sold through a hospital dispensary or pharmacy to people who have legitimate prescriptions and treated as a medical and health issue. We dispense and sell complex and difficult drugs every day for a range of medical issues; marijuana is another. It's the street scene that surrounds it that creates the social problems and hospital and clinical settings remove that.

7. SUSTAINABILITY

The city needs to go deep green. We need a powerful plan that sets tough targets and firm dates across the board and then a clear path to implementation for issues as widely diverse as solar energy installation, water self sufficiency and zero waste. Santa Monica should be the national and international leader in moving from a carbon economy to a renewable energy economy. It requires political leadership.

8. HOBBIES

Swimming, riding a bike, going to art galleries.

9. READING

John Updike and Robert Caro.

10. REDEVELOPMENT

Green space and recreational facilities.

11. MONEY FOR SCHOOLS

Schools are the absolute cornerstone of our society. Every great city has great schools and in Santa Monica the connections and networks formed in the public schools provide the foundation of community activity and life. It was a good deal for everyone and provides certainty for schools and city.

12. FERRIS WHEEL GUESTS

Picasso, Washington, Julius Caesar.

13. SANTA MONICA AIRPORT

The airport is a relic of the past. It makes no sense on health, safety, environment and economic grounds. It must be closed. The strategy will be three stage. Immediately remove subsidization, give notice on ground leases of termination when the leases expire, cap movements, charge everyone commercial rates for landing and rent; all of which will begin to transform the current "anything goes" airport environment. In 2015, under the agreement, reclaim the western end of the current airport and thus shorten the runway (closing out jets) and from 2015 focus on closing the whole airport. This would be followed by a visioning process for the 200-plus acres.

14. COMMUNITY BENEFITS

Santa Monica is immensely valuable. Therefore the city must have a list of priorities and benefits that are agreed on ahead of time and form a strong compensation to the city and its residents for the value of the development agreements and development in general. Community benefits must always be present in Tier 3 and Tier 2 developments. Our objective is to ensure that the development produces a wave of public investment that matches the private investment.

15. OVERDEVELOPMENT

Huge buildings that overwhelm city streets, out of balance developments that force too much building on too little a site, canyon-ize of city streets, high-rise in the wrong place, buildings with hundreds of apartments that are 15 feet from the freeway, buildings with hundreds of tiny apartments. Tighten and toughen our zoning code, reject inappropriate development agreements, say no often, lay out clear standards and make the scale and balance of our city an overriding concern.

16. PENSION COSTS

We need to restrain the number in City Hall, make changes to the way we do business and constrain the cost of running the city by rearranging staffing, becoming more flexible in customer service, use technology to solve residents' needs. It's clearly bureaucracy, not service, you want to cut. It's the staff numbers that create the overall issue.

17. TRAFFIC SHORTCUTS

I ride my bike. Everyone should.

18. AFFORDABLE HOUSING

City Hall needs to be leading. The state removing redevelopment agencies means less housing. Our new strategy will be based around city budget dollars, forming a foundation and partnership for major pension plan investment and thus a sizable opportunity for new housing. The same approach will be used for workforce accommodation.

FOOTBALL

Arroyo Grande, 42-12, in the CIF-Southern Section Western Division final. Julius Wilson, who plays wide receiver, defensive back and a little quarterback, is the guy Samohi has to watch out for.

The speedy Wilson complements starting quarterback Xan Cuevas, who transferred to Culver City this season. The tandem mix run and pass effectively behind an offensive line that Clark said is pretty impressive.

When Wilson is at wide receiver, LaRue, who also plays both ways, will be tasked with covering the highly-recruited senior. Samohi doesn't assign players to their defensive backs, but LaRue said that he'll give special attention to Wilson when he lines up on his side of the field.

"You can't game play for any one person, but he's the type of guy that you have to watch," LaRue said.

As seems to be the case nearly every season, the league title plays into the mix. Samohi won the league last season by going unbeaten, a feat that this year's winner will most likely have to match to bring home the crown.

Samohi and Inglewood both sit at 2-0 entering the game with Culver City at 1-1.

That fact alone gives Clark reason to pause knowing that Culver City will come out with an extra bit of motivation following their 12-9 loss to Inglewood last week.

"They can't lose two," Clark said. "If they do, they're in trouble. They're going to come out swinging."

Health will certainly be on Samohi's side with no major injuries to report. Linebacker Nick Cardiel, the Vikings' most dominant inside presence, was hobbled by an ankle injury during last week's Beverly Hills game, but Clark said that he isn't exhibiting a limp and should be ready to play on Friday.

LaRue joked that Cardiel goes 100 percent on every play, something that isn't always a benefit to his health. That aside, LaRue expects Cardiel to be his offense-disrupting self come game time.

The game is scheduled for Friday at Santa Monica College's Corsair Field. The game kicks off at 7 p.m.

unique twist to its product, and each is striving to be a go-to for voters locally and across the country.

These are SMvote.org, ProCon.org and TheVSsite.com.

The first is a product of City Hall in cooperation with the League of Women Voters and Center for Governmental Studies.

This recent installment of the biannual website gets down and dirty with local election issues like traffic, homelessness and the budget, and also provides a brand-new platform for candidates to get their message out through Internet video site YouTube.

It's a one-stop-shop for local candidates and measures, designed so that voters can get their sample ballots out and make their decisions on the spot or at their convenience, said Robin Gee, Cable TV and Public Information manager with City Hall.

"Every two years we put together an election website with the goal of trying to put all of the information that Santa Monica voters need in one place," Gee said.

The 2012 version has some new features, like access to the City Clerk's database on campaign contributions and candidate videos that double as a YouTube channel that cover a diverse range of topics from what they would do about homelessness to their favorite thing about Santa Monica.

"It will be interesting to see how they're used," Gee said. "They can track their views, embed the videos on their websites and that kind of stuff."

Each video was shot in the City TV studio with help from city staff and direction from the Center for Governmental Studies, which partners with City Hall to create new formats that give voters a different view of each candidate.

The League of Women Voters assisted with the questions to preserve City Hall's "hands-off" policy on content creation for the site.

ProCon.org is a nonprofit with headquarters in Downtown that puts new meaning into "just the facts, ma'am." It's been plugged by the New York Times and is used by classrooms across the country to enhance students' understanding of the American political system.

ProCon staffers have put over 2,000 hours of work into developing its 2012 presidential election site, which shows the positions of five presidential candidates (yes, there are more than two) on 68 issues and where those positions have changed over the course of the candidate's record, said Kamy Akhavan, president and managing editor of the site.

The site winnowed down a 400-candidate pool to five: President Barack Obama, Gov. Mitt Romney, Green Party candidate Jill Stein, Libertarian Gary Johnson and Constitution Party candidate Virgil Goode.

Researchers reach out directly to candidates for their positions on topics. If they do not receive a reply — or get a non-answer — ProCon staffers go hunting, digging up speeches, newspaper articles and other primary source documents to pin down a candidate's thoughts on a given issue.

A summary chart of candidate positions with links to the relevant articles has been the most popular piece of ProCon's election site, but the organization included other key information as well to keep it fresh and informative after the election is over.

Curious Internet browsers can find transcripts of every speech and debate a candidate engaged in, financial information and even the presidential election history dating back to 1789.

"We're not making any money off of this. We have no advertising or even a means of getting revenue," Akhavan said. "The measure of our success is how many people find it useful."

Given that the site broke its own one-day website traffic record on Monday with 110,831 sessions, it's clear that something is going right for the team.

Finally, TheVSsite — pronounced "the versus site" — is a brand new product established by two brothers, one in Santa Monica and the other in Missouri. It has a distinctly social media feel to it, with users able to "vote" or "veto" articles that it pulls from both sides of the political spectrum to show which media outlets are covering certain topics and how they approach them.

It was born out of a political debate between Ben Lamb, who lives in Santa Monica, and his brother Jonny.

"I felt I was right and he felt he was right," Ben Lamb said. "It got to the point we said, well state your sources, show the brass tacks."

Each directed the other to a news article, one from a conservative outlet and the other from a liberal one, each proving their point.

They decided to create a website that featured both liberal and conservative news organizations so that people could expose themselves not only to the kind of media content they usually access, but to the other side as well.

The brothers compiled their favorite sites and blogs and used RSS feeds to take trending articles and link them to the website.

"It's hot off the presses, filtered in multiple times a day so people can figure out what's being said on the story," Lamb said.

It's good to have this kind of information available on the Internet because that is where people are going to find it, said Tracy Westen, and CEO of the Center for Governmental Studies.

The center is working to get cities everywhere to sign on to the online model.

According to a study by the Pew Research Center, 54 percent of adults used the Internet for political purposes in the 2010 midterm election, with 73 percent of adult Internet users going online to get news or information about the election.

This year, 88 percent of registered voters own a cell phone and 27 percent of those have used it to stay up to date with election information. There is growing evidence that mobile devices like smartphones and tablets are adding to how much news people get, Pew reports.

That's relevant to SMvote.org which, for the first time, was crafted with a technology called "responsive programming." The technique allows the site to sense what kind of device a person is using to access the site and arranges the view for it.

"It's malleable," said Behrang Abadi, web development manager with City Hall. "If you were to look at the site on a desktop computer, you would see the desktop version. If you slowly minimize the window, it shifts to take advantage of the real estate available."

After Nov. 6, media outlets and the Internet will return to their steady diet of memes and cute cat videos. Until then, Internet users have three Santa Monica resources to help them out.

ing she was fearful of Sparks because he claimed, in "profane online tirades," that she stole money from him and broke into his house.

Film producer Harvey Weinstein also got a restraining order against Sparks.

Sparks came to the Daily Press office twice to complain about the article, frightening staff.

On Oct. 10, he filed the lawsuit, which was served on Tuesday. In the suit, he alleges that the article was libelous and that it hurt his reputation.

"At $20 million, I question the validity of the lawsuit and I question the stability of Mr. Sparks, on the basis of the restraining orders granted for Ms. Crow and (Harvey) Weinstein," Daily Press publisher Ross Furukawa said.

Still, the Daily Press takes all such lawsuits very seriously, Furukawa said.

It is possible to sue a newspaper for an article it did not produce, but it can be tricky, said Jim Ewert, general counsel with the California Newspaper Publisher's Association.

In this case, the Associated Press article relied on court documents, which are public documents. Public records can be used without fear of lawsuit even if the information in them is incorrect, so long as it isn't taken out of context for the story, Ewert said.

Newspapers also have an option called the "anti-SLAPP" motion. SLAPP stands for "strategic lawsuit against public participation." It forces the plaintiff to show what kind of evidence they have to proceed with their claim.

If they can't show that they're likely to prevail, the court is required to dismiss the lawsuit and the plaintiff is faced with all of the court costs and attorney fees for themselves and the defendant.

That can get pricey.

"Unfortunately, there are many people who have a lack of understanding in this area of the law, and for a couple hundred bucks can file just about anything based on a delusional menu of facts," Ewert said.

The Daily Press reached out to Sparks by e-mail, but he did not respond by presstime. A phone number provided on court documents rang to the OPCC Access Center. John Maceri, CEO of OPCC, said Sparks registered for services in June, was seen twice and never returned.

Stock market edges up on stronger housing report

MATTHEW CRAFT
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK A surprisingly strong housing report helped push the stock market mostly higher Wednesday, while weak earnings reports from Intel and IBM weighed on the Dow Jones industrial average.

Even though the two tech giants disappointed, overall earnings results have come in much better than some investors had feared, said Dan Veru, chief investment officer at Palisade Capital Management in Fort Lee, N.J.

"Everyone is breathing a sigh of relief that things aren't all that bad," Veru said. "That's what you see happening now."

The Dow edged up 5.22 points to close at 13,557, barely managing its fourth straight day of gains. The broader Standard & Poor's 500 index gained 5.99 points to 1,460.91.

Better results from Mattel, Goldman Sachs, and Johnson & Johnson shot the stock market higher Tuesday. For the week, the Dow is up 1.7 percent and the S&P 500 is up 2.3 percent.

Heading into this earnings season, FedEx, Caterpillar and other global heavyweights had warned investors that China's slowing economy and Europe's ongoing debt crisis would weigh on quarterly profits.

Analysts still expect that third-quarter earnings for companies in the S&P 500 will shrink for the first time since 2009.

IBM reported sales late Tuesday that missed Wall Street's expectations. On a call with analysts, IBM's chief financial officer said the company faced "more challenging" market conditions in September, the final month of the quarter, as cautious customers and a weakening euro undercut its results. IBM's stock sank $10.37 to $200.63.

Without IBM's drop, the Dow would have been 79 points higher. Stocks with higher prices carry more weight in the average of 30 large companies. Every move of $1 in any Dow stock is equivalent to moving the Dow average 7.68 points.

Intel warned that sales of personal computers will likely remain weak during the holiday season this year. The chipmaker cut its revenue estimates for the year-end quarter when it reported results late Tuesday. Intel's stock fell 56 cents to $21.79.

The Commerce Department said Wednesday that builders broke ground on building new single-family houses and apartments at the fastest pace since July 2008. Housing starts surged to an annual rate of 872,000 in September, far above estimates by economists.

"You might think it's a misprint," said Dan Greenhaus, chief global strategist at BTIG, in a note to clients. But over the past year, housing starts have climbed by 43 percent.

"If there was any doubt that the housing market was undergoing a recovery, even a modest one in the face of the terrible 2008 decline, those doubts should be erased by now," Greenhaus said.

In other trading, the Nasdaq composite index inched up 2.95 points to 3,104.12. More than two stocks rose for every one that fell on the New York Stock Exchange.

The housing report helped lift the yield on the 10-year Treasury note to 1.81 percent from 1.72 percent late Tuesday. Better economic news usually sends traders out of safe assets like Treasurys, and when bond prices fall their yields rise.

The 10-year Treasury yield, a standard benchmark for mortgages and other loans, started October at 1.63 percent.

Among other companies making big moves Wednesday:

• Dean Foods led all stocks in the S&P 500 with a 13 percent jump. The dairy company offered more details about its planned spin-off of a subsidiary, WhiteWave, the producer of Silk Soymilk. Dean Foods said it will keep at least 80 percent of WhiteWave after the company's initial public offering. The company's stock rose $1.92 to $16.96.

• The University of Phoenix's parent company, the Apollo Group, plunged 22 percent, the biggest drop in the S&P 500. A sharp drop in student enrollment has cut into profits, Apollo reported late Tuesday. To cope with shrinking enrollment, Apollo plans to close 115 of the university's mostly smaller locations. Its stock lost $6.09 to $21.40.

• Bank of New York Mellon surged $1.30 to $24.86 after reporting net income and revenue that topped analysts' estimates. The bank slashed expenses and collected more fees for managing investments. Investment income more than doubled from the year before.

Beckett company sues over endangered cat

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LAREDO, Texas A company owned by Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Josh Beckett is suing a pipeline builder claiming it destroyed the habitat of the endangered ocelot on a South Texas ranch.

The lawsuit filed Tuesday in Laredo says Eagle Ford Midstream LP violated the federal Endangered Species Act by clearing land to build a natural gas pipeline.

The suit says the pipeline company was awarded eminent domain on land owned by Beckett Ventures Inc. and falsely told the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service that it wasn't suitable habitat for the endangered wild cat.

Beckett's company claims the pipeline builder engaged in "willful destruction" by clearing land after a notice of intent to sue was filed in August.

A phone message left with Eagle Ford Midstream's parent company wasn't immediately returned.

Heal the Bay reminds you not to swim or surf within 100 yards of any flowing storm drain or for 3 days after a rainstorm. After a rain, indicator bacteria counts at beaches throughout California usually far exceed health criteria in the state's Beach Closure and Health Warning Protocol.

Heal the Bay is a non-profit environmental organization dedicated to making Santa Monica Bay and Southern California coastal waters safe and healthy for people and marine life.

Heal the Bay

Heal the Bay's Beach Report Card™ is based on weekly water quality monitoring data provided by the City of Los Angeles' Environmental Monitoring Division and the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services. Data is analyzed as soon as it is made available to us by the public agencies. Beaches are graded on an A–F scale based on the risk of ocean users becoming ill. Samples are analyzed for bacteria—enterococcus, total and fecal coliforms—that indicate biological pollution. A fact sheet detailing the exact methodology used in determining grades for each location is available from the office or on our web site. The report is not designed to measure the amount of trash or toxins found at local beaches.

The Beach Report Card is an indication of past water quality and is not a warranty of the current safety of those areas surveyed. Our lawyers are happy.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING BEFORE THE SANTA MONICA CITY COUNCIL

SUBJECT: Adoption of Development Fee Increases

A public hearing will be held by the City Council to consider the following request:

Revise and/or establish permit fees charged by the Planning and Community Development Department for cost recovery relating to staff time for various project-related services.

DATE/TIME: TUESDAY, October 23, 2012 at 6:45 p.m.

LOCATION: City Council Chambers, Second Floor, Santa Monica City Hall
1685 Main Street, Santa Monica, California

HOW TO COMMENT

The City of Santa Monica encourages public comment. You may comment at the City Council public hearing, or by writing a letter. Written information will be given to the City Council at the meeting.

Address your letters to: City Clerk
Re: PCD Fees - October 23, 2012 City Council Meeting
1685 Main Street, Room 102
Santa Monica, CA 90401

MORE INFORMATION

If you want more information, please refer to the staff report for the October 23, 2012 meeting on the City's web site at http://www.smgov.net/departments/clerk/agendas. You may contact the City Clerk at (310) 458-8211 for alternate availability of the City Council agenda packet, or to make an appointment to review the fee study.

The meeting facility is wheelchair accessible. For disability-related accommodations, please contact (310) 458-8341 or (310) 458-8696 TTY at least 72 hours in advance. Every attempt will be made to provide the requested accommodation. All written materials are available in alternate format upon request. Santa Monica Big Blue Bus Lines numbered 2, 3, 9 and Rapid 3 serve City Hall.

Read between the lines, Libra

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ You might not realize how much you trigger certain people in your life, especially as of late. You see beyond the obvious and act accordingly. Others could be shocked as a result. Tonight: Go for the untried.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★★ Work with a partner directly, and you really might appreciate the experience and its benefits. Pressure builds when a partner or associate pushes you too hard for your own good. Tonight: A little fall shopping wouldn't hurt.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Your optimism remains, no matter what obstacles you face. In fact, a meaningful exchange occurs between you and someone else only because of your upbeat attitude. Tonight: Go with a friend's or loved one's decision.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★ Pace yourself, as you have a lot to accomplish. Know that your mind will be working overtime, and you'll have difficulty concentrating. Tonight: Get some exercise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★★ You cannot go wrong if you are spontaneous. News or an idea surprises you by triggering all types of reactions -- some angry, some unpredictable. You'll land on your feet no matter what. Your friends support you in your goals. Tonight: Paint the town red.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★ You are enthusiastic about a personal matter. If you are not dealing with that issue, you could have difficulty focusing on anything else. Tonight: Work on your juggling skills.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ Make calls early, as you likely will be swamped by others seeking you out, whether it is via email, phone or simply arriving at your door. Tonight: Read between the lines.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ Be careful with spending. You could be letting go of negative feelings through shopping. Stop and deal with your frustrations head-on. You might want to get to the root of the issue and find out why you are so easily triggered. Cool off, then approach the problem. Tonight: Have fun with a friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Funnel your energy into whatever you want, and your creativity will surge as a result. You might try out some of your wild ideas on someone. If you proceed as usual, you might become quite frustrated. Use your current unusual energy well. Tonight: Sort through offers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ You might want to step back from a project for a while, especially if you have a conflict with someone involved. Stay calm when dealing with an unpredictable individual. This person might mean what he or she says now, but not later. Get as much done as you can on your own. Tonight: Work out or take a walk.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★★ You might be more removed than you realize, as your mind wanders from one thought to another. Your creativity continues to be high. Share more of your ingenuity in a meeting. Others initially might be startled, but eventually they'll go along with some of your ideas. Tonight: Start the weekend early.

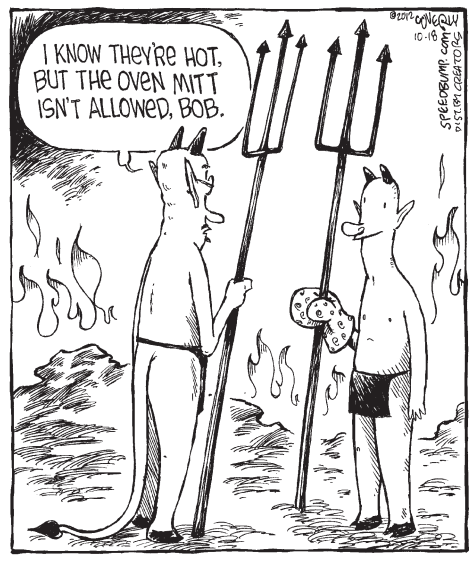

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★ Pressure comes from what you think you need to accomplish as opposed to what others want you to do. At a certain point, you need to honor your priorities, or else you will not be happy. A family member or domestic matter occupies your attention. Tonight: Clear out as much as you can.

Happy birthday

This year your imagination opens many doors, and the only issue will be which one you would like to go through. The unexpected keeps you alert and excited about life. If you are single, you have a way about you that draws many people in. You will need to be selective in order to decide who you most want to be close to. Enjoy the process. If you are attached, a tendency to kiss and make up becomes more important. Both of you understand how vital this is to your relationship. SAGITTARIUS enjoys pulling you out of yourself.

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD
BY CHUCK SHEPARD

■ Challenging Races: (1) Richard Wagner Jones, running for a school board seat in Granite, Utah, told reporters in June that since the job is mainly about taxes and budgets, he would not have to make site visits to schools. That is fortunate, for Jones is barred from schools as a registered sex offender based on a 1990 conviction. (2) Mike Rios, a former school board member in Moreno Valley, Calif., said in August that he was still considering running for the town's council despite his March arrest for attempted murder and April arrest for pimping (allegedly caught with several underage recruits). (3) Verna Jackson Hammons said in August that her candidacy for mayor of Cullman, Ala., should not suffer by her having appeared 10 years earlier as "the other woman" in a love triangle on an episode of "The Jerry Springer Show."

■ Brazil has a robust democracy but with very few controls on what candidates may call themselves on ballots. Among those running for offices this election season, according to a September New York Times dispatch from Rio de Janeiro: "John Kennedy Abreu Sousa," "Jimmi Carter Santarem Barroso," "Ladi Gaga," "Christ of Jerusalem," a "Macgaiver," five "Batmans," two "James Bonds," and 16 people whose name contains "Obama." "It's a marketing strategy," said city council candidate Geraldo Custodio, who apparently likes his chances better as "Geraldo Wolverine."

TODAY IN HISTORY

2003 – Bolivian Gas War: President Gonzalo Sánchez de Lozada, is forced to resign and leave Bolivia.

2007 – Karachi bombings: A suicide attack on a motorcade carrying former Pakistani Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto kills 139 and wounds 450 more. Bhutto herself is not injured.
