MEDICAL: The new building will be adjacent to the former Gates, Kingsley and Gates Mortuary property.

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

The Planning Commission has approved plans for a new medical development adjacent to Tartine bakery on 20th Street.

The new project would be a Tier 1 three-story (45 feet) research/development and medical clinic facility consisting of approximately 76,167 square-feet and a five-level subterranean parking garage with 275 spaces. The property includes three parcels at 1925 Arizona Ave, 1234 20th St and 1242 20th St.

Gates, Kingsley, and Gates Mortuary (GKGM) funeral home used to occupy a Tudor Revival-style building on the property but the chapel portion was recently rehabilitated and converted into the Tartine bakery and full-service restaurant. Built in 1933, the existing two-story Tudor Revival-style building (GKGM) located at the street corner will remain in its current site configuration with its open front lawn area preserved.

However, some rehabilitation work will occur in the administration wing of the existing building including removal of nonoriginal exterior stone veneer. Some access points would also be changed or eliminated.

The project has been in the city's pipeline since 2016 when it was proposed as a Tier 2 project including a building five stories and 70 feet in height. The original project was criticized for concerns regarding the overall scale, massing, and use of the building.

As currently proposed, the project has been reduced in size and modified to preserve the School Board politely asks for revisions to civility policy

MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Editor

The Santa Monica Malibu Unified School Board will debate adoption of a formal civility policy at its Nov. 18 meeting following a national trend of rising tensions at school board meetings.

At their Nov. 4 meeting, the board began discussion of the policy but continued any action to its Nov. 18 meeting to allow a subcommittee to reconcile different versions of the proposed document before presenting it to the public.

"Over the past several years, the Board of Education has worked with staff to develop a civility policy," said the staff report. "The current climate, both nationally and locally, has heightened awareness and concern about the need for civility, prompting requests for staff to bring a proposed policy to the Board that articulates a philosophical commitment and establishes some parameters for civility within our district."

The document defines "civil behavior" as "... polite, courteous, and reasonable behavior that is respectful to others and includes integrity, honesty, acceptance, timeliness, dependability, observance of laws and rules, and effective communication."

The proposed document says "No district participant shall communicate or behave in a

Motion seeking ban on 'bicycle chop shops' advances in Los Angeles

JAMIE PAIGE
Special to the Daily Press

The Los Angeles City Council's Public Safety Committee has voted to ban bicycle chop shops in Los Angeles. The ban would prohibit the assembly, disassembly, sale, offer of sale, distribution of bicycles and bicycle parts on public property.

Bike chop shops are spaces where individuals take apart stolen bicycles, sell parts and reassemble them often in the public right-of-way. "Thieves have little or no fear of repercussions of this activity," said Councilmember Joe.

The motion, which was introduced by Councilman Joe Buscaino, passed 4-1, with Councilman Marqueece Harris-Dawson dissenting. Harris-Dawson did not speak about the motion during the meeting, and his office did not immediately respond to questions about the basis for his no vote.

The motion calls on the city attorney to prepare an ordinance similar to one already in effect in Long Beach to prohibit the assembly, disassembly, sale, offer of sale, distribution of bicycles and bicycle parts on public property or within the public right-of-way. It will next be reviewed by the Public Works Committee before reaching the full City Council.

"Thousands of residents in our city rely on bicycles as their primary means of transportation," said Buscaino. "The proliferation of bicycle chop shops on our streets creates a public safety hazard, and the fact that they currently operate with impunity only encourages the increasing theft of bicycles. This motion will finally provide consequences for this criminal activity which will lead to a decrease in bicycle thefts."

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING
BEFORE THE SANTA MONICA CITY COUNCIL
VIA TELECONFERENCE
Pursuant to AB361

SUBJECT: Proposed Extension of Interim Zoning Regulations Establishing Increased Thresholds for Administrative Review of 100% Affordable Housing Projects and Tier 2 Housing Projects Subject to the Housing Accountability Act

A public hearing will be held by the City Council to introduce and adopt an Emergency Interim Zoning Ordinance extending interim zoning regulations established by Emergency Interim Zoning Ordinance Number 2633 (CCS) and extended by Emergency Interim Zoning Ordinance Number 2645 (CCS).

The interim zoning regulations amend Chapter 9.39 and Section 9.40.020 of the Santa Monica Municipal Code to increase thresholds for administrative review of: 1) 100% affordable housing projects; and 2) housing projects subject to the Housing Accountability Act, Government Code Section 65589.5, that do not exceed Tier 2 maximums. For projects with rental units, the interim zoning regulations require an applicant to agree, prior to issuance of a building permit, to record a deed restriction against the property ensuring that (i) all leases shall be made only to a tenant who is a natural person, or to tenants who are natural persons; (ii) all leases shall be made only to a tenant or tenants who, regardless of the term of occupancy, intend to make the rental unit the tenants' primary residence; (iii) all leases shall be in writing and provide for a minimum initial term of one (1) year; and (iv) all units shall be leased as unfurnished units.

The interim zoning regulations require applicants to conduct a community meeting prior to submitting an application and further requires the City to post project plans and approvals on the City's website for additional public noticing.

The proposed Emergency Interim Zoning Ordinance would extend the interim zoning regulations to allow for updates consistent to with the 6th Cycle Housing Element to be implemented.

Dear John

John Moos, MD Send comments to editor@smdp.com

Dear John,

I'm wondering if you can help me. I have been to many therapists in the past ... no one has been able to unlock what happened.

I remember snippets of a day when I was a small child. It was horrible and physically painful and I can't piece together what it means.

My parents never discussed it and would never allow me to ask questions when I started remembering. I have basically no other memories of my childhood. No birthdays, Christmases, special occasions ... nothing and there are approximately three photos that I can recall seeing in print from a camera. And I don't remember the days.

I believe that it has partly cost me a 27-year marriage. He told me I was broken and refused to find out why.

I don't have healthy relationships in my life. None. Everyday is an emotional struggle.

I'm asking you if you can point me in the right direction. I am 51 and alone. I feel like I can't move forward anymore in my life until I fix what is wrong. I want peace and happiness and to find joy in life. I have snippets of it but the unknown gnaws at me.

Can you help me?

No Memories

DEAR NO MEMORIES,

Let me first start off by telling you how sorry I am. And, I commend your courageousness for reaching out and starting the process. There is a quote by Rumi, "the wound is where the light enters." I can explain a few things about trauma that may explain why you are unable to remember anything. When we encounter a physical, emotional, or psychological trauma, we dissociate to protect ourselves. It is a survival strategy when our mind is unable to process the pain of the events we are enduring. We can't physically leave our bodies, but mentally and emotionally we are able to remove ourselves from that moment, compartmentalize it, and never revisit it again. Why? Because there is too much pain to process. Our minds are overwhelmed and flooded with emotion and thought, so we disconnect. The problem with unprocessed trauma is that it can resurface when triggered. Triggers are stimuli, known and unknown, that remind us of the event, e.g. a smell, a visual, a sound, a location, anything. It affects you in the present moment as if the trauma is recurring all over again. It can be terrifying, disorientating, and confusing.

There are therapists who can guide you into those unprocessed memories safely and help you retrieve those memories, and thus, integrate them into a congruent timeline. Understanding and naming these triggers is important to lessening their impact on your life. Processing these traumas is not comfortable, but necessary to become whole and free yourself from the automatic reactions that occur when triggered. You would be free from that automated pattern and would have the freedom of choice. There are other ways to access this trauma, and where I have decided to direct my training and healing efforts. You can access these memories oftentimes with psychedelic and somatic healing modalities. I work professionally with psychedelic and somatic healing at Greenlight Metamorphosis Center. As a physician, I work with ketamine, which is legal to prescribe and administer, but I have also worked personally with other psychedelics for my own inner healing.

There are also incredible programs, such as the Hoffman Process, which is a 7-day experiential program at the Hoffman Institute. They are incredible at defining and releasing core/root trauma and often many memories emerge as you create new space for your higher Self. I'd highly recommend their program; I am also a graduate.

This is a complicated question, but there are solutions and answers. You are definitely not alone, and even though you are 51, there is still plenty of time to heal. I am here as a resource if you need guidance. I trust you, I believe in you, and I commend you for taking this step towards your best self.

With love and light,

John Moos, MD

Police say the suspect, a homeless man, was wanted on attempted murder charges. The suspect fired 15 rounds at a victim, all of them missed, at Sawtelle Boulevard and Venice Avenue on October 25, according to the LAPD.

On Thursday, police identified the man as a suspect in the case and tried to obtain him. That's when they say a foot pursuit took place. The pursuit ended at Oxford Avenue and Washington Boulevard, according to Officer Drake Madison of the LAPD public information desk.

Fire guts building at Los Angeles Koreatown strip mall

More than 100 firefighters battled a fire that collapsed the roof of a shopping center in Koreatown Thursday night, but no injuries were reported, authorities said.

The blaze erupted in a building in a one-story strip mall on Vermont Avenue shortly after 6:30 p.m., the Fire Department said.

Firefighters were forced off the roof when it became unsafe. But crews outside poured streams of water on it from the ground and from high ladders.

News reports showed flames shooting through the roof of a portion of the mall that at one time housed a karaoke bar, although it wasn't clear whether the bar was still in business.

In addition to the roof, the building's facade collapsed and the interior of the building was gutted.

Firefighters knocked down the blaze in about 90 minutes. No injuries were reported, and crews managed to prevent the fire from reaching nearby buildings.

Firefighters were expected to remain there overnight to clear debris and make sure the fire was out.

There was on immediate word on what caused the fire.

USPS Operation Santa Is Now Accepting Letters for 2021 Program

Starting this week, the Postal Service is accepting letters for the 109-year-old USPS Operation Santa program. Letters must be postmarked by Dec. 10, and will be uploaded to USPSOperationSanta.com through Dec. 15 for potential adoption.

Every day can be a challenge for some families simply trying to make ends meet.

Holiday expectations put extra pressure on those same families who want to make it a special time, but just can't. That's where the USPS Operation Santa program – and generous Postal Service customers – can help make the holidays a joyous and magical time. Since the program began, hundreds of thousands of less-fortunate children and their families have been helped by the kindness of others.

Program Details

USPS Operation Santa was established by the Postal Service to help those in need during the holidays. Whether you believe in Santa or not, the nondenominational program is intended to help as many deserving families as possible experience a happy holiday season. And that can only happen if there are letters to post on USPSOperationSanta.com.

Participation in USPS Operation Santa is simple. All you have to do is write a letter, put it in an envelope affixed with a First-Class Mail Forever stamp, and make sure you include your full return address – apartment number, directional information (i.e., E Main St, Apt 103) and ZIP Code – and send it to Santa's official workshop address:

Santa Claus
123 Elf Road
North Pole, 88888

Letters without full return addresses or names will not be posted for adoption.

WHAT SHOULD I ASK FOR?

It is entirely up to the letter writer as to what appears on their wish list. But the more specific writers are with sizes, colors, styles, favorite authors, book titles, toys, etc., the better chance their wishes will be granted if their letter is adopted.

When someone writes a letter, it is opened by Santa's elves, and for safety reasons, all personally identifiable information of the letter writer is removed (i.e., last name, address, ZIP Code) and uploaded to USPSOperationSanta.com for adoption. Letters must be postmarked by Dec. 10 and letters will be uploaded to the website for adoption through Dec. 15.

There is no guarantee that letters submitted to the program will be adopted.

HOW TO WRITE A LETTER

Sending a letter to Santa is easy and the Postal Service has guides and tips to help kids and their parents write and send their best letters ever. All the information you could possibly need to write a letter, address an envelope, put on a stamp and send it on its way can be found on USPSOperationSanta.com and in our Holiday Newsroom.

You can also use these letter writing tips throughout the year if you want to send thank-you cards, birthday cards or letters to friends and family just to say "Hi."

ADOPTING A LETTER

Adopter registration, ID verification and letter adoption will open in the next few weeks. Until then, there are a few things to know for those who plan to adopt a letter.

Potential adopters, once approved, can visit USPSOperationSanta.com, read through the posted letters, pick one or more that they'd like to fulfill, and follow the directions on how to grant that special wish for a child. For security reasons, all potential adopters must be vetted through a short registration and ID verification process before they can adopt any letter. If you've adopted letters in the past, you must still be verified each year.

Businesses also get into the spirit of the season by creating teams to adopt letters – all the better to help grant those special wishes to deserving families and kids.

USPS OPERATION SANTA HISTORY

USPS Operation Santa started more than 109 years ago when the Postal Service began receiving letters to Santa from kids across the country. It wasn't until 1912 that Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock authorized local Postmasters to allow postal employees and customers to respond to the letters. That simple act of kindness has led to a very successful holiday program benefiting deserving kids and families throughout the United States.

The complete Operation Santa history can be found online at the Postal Service Holiday Newsroom, along with additional news and information, including all mailing and shipping deadlines.

The Postal Service generally receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

More USPS holiday news, including shipping deadlines and package tips, can be found at usps.com/holidaynews.

manner that causes disruption; hinders the orderly conduct of district operations, the educational program, or any other district program or activity; or creates an unsafe learning or working environment."

Reconciliation of different versions is necessary after Boardmember Craig Foster suggested edits to the original text. Due to limitations on board communication, Foster was unable to share those edits with the board before Thursday's meeting and other board members said they wanted to work with him on the final product.

"I think that this says a great deal about treating everyone with respect and courtesy, listening respectfully, agreeing to disagree and not make it personal," said Foster of the original draft. "Lots of really good and important things. And yet I think there's a lot of language here that is up down kind of language that is in and of itself exacerbating the very or at least echoing the very problems that we're trying to address with the Civility policy."

The local discussion comes as debate over behavior at school boards takes a national stage.

In early October, Attorney General Merrick Garland directed federal authorities to hold strategy sessions with law enforcement to address the increasing threats targeting school board members, teachers and other employees in the nation's public schools.

In a memorandum, Garland said there has been "a disturbing spike in harassment, intimidation, and threats of violence against school administrators, board members, teachers, and staff who participate in the vital work of running our nation's public schools."

The action is in response to an urgent request from the National School Boards Association. The group, which represents school board members around the country, asked President Joe Biden for federal assistance to investigate and stop threats made over policies including mask mandates, likening the vitriol to a form of domestic terrorism.

The association asked for the federal government to investigate cases where threats or violence could be handled as violations of federal laws protecting civil rights. It also asked for the Justice Department, FBI, Homeland Security and Secret Service to help monitor threat levels and assess risks to students, educators, board members and school buildings.

The group's letter documented more than 20 instances of threats, harassment, disruption, and acts of intimidation in California, Florida, Georgia, New Jersey, Ohio and other states. It cited the September arrest of an Illinois man for aggravated battery and disorderly conduct for allegedly striking a school official at a meeting. In Michigan, a meeting was disrupted when a man performed a Nazi salute to protest masking.

SMMUSD meetings have been virtual throughout the pandemic and while no instances of physical violence or disruption have occurred, verbal comments have sometimes crossed into personal attacks on the board or staff.

Part of the discussion before the Nov. 18 meeting will be over balancing the document's role as aspirational against any possible enforcement options.

"I actually quite like some of the changes and I think the thing that strikes me is that it's more focused on how we ask people to behave than how we ask them not to behave," said Boardmember Jennifer Smith. "And so I think that's a key component of the change. And I think that that's a much more positive term."

Chez Mimi

Restaurants have personalities. When we think about where to go for dinner, we think about the type of dish we want to eat, and run through those restaurants we know (or look on Google) for a restaurant with that personality. When I think of a good Caesar salad in Santa Monica, I remember Boa. When I think of a wonderful raw food platter, my mind immediately takes me to the Water Grill.

On occasion, a restaurant develops the personality of its owner, not just of the food. And so it is with Chez Mimi. There is not just one dish that I associate with that restaurant, I just think of Mimi. I think of Quebec, where she comes from.

Madame Mimi, at 80 years of age, has been in the restaurant business a long time. She started out on Abbot Kinney in 1976. I remember well her restaurant on 26th near San Vicente where I would meet my sister for dinner several times a month. The restaurant was there for 13 years, until some wealthy entertainment group overpaid the building owner to take over her lease. The fancy Italian restaurant that usurped Mimi's place didn't last long. I think the space remains empty.

But Mimi was undeterred. She opened a restaurant in Pacific Palisades that was excellent - until she fell down some stairs and was hospitalized. We didn't hear from her for a while and the restaurant closed.

Suddenly, six years later - without much fanfare, Mimi opened up again. Her new place is better than ever!

I used to occasionally have dinner at the revamped little house that is now Chez Mimi, before Mimi took it over from an elderly French couple. The food there was nothing like it is now under Mimi's direction. And the new outside patio is lovely.

The mussels in white wine sauce are as good as any. She serves French onion soup, pate Maison, escargots, trout with almonds, and sometimes bouillabaisse. The pork chop is big enough for the most voracious appetite. The steak frites is just like in Paris, or you may prefer it in a pepper Cognac sauce. All the favorite French dishes are there; vichyssoise, frog's legs, tomato bisque and, on occasion, cassoulet. For dessert, Mimi serves my favorite: Tarte Tatin. Mimi's favorite dessert, called "chomeur", is a caramel and maple syrup pudding popular in her hometown of Quebec. As many Francophiles know, tarte Tatin was invented (discovered?) by the Tatin sisters in the Dordogne valley when they accidentally dropped an apple pie on the floor, picked it up and recooked it upside down. At least that's the story I heard.

MADAME MIMI: Still going strong at 80.

This new gem is located on Colorado Ave. in Santa Monica, and there seems to be plenty of parking. I don't think it is open for lunch yet, but one hopes. Make a reservation before going; the old crowd is there en masse! One thing we noticed, the clientele is much older than in most restaurants in Santa Monica, and many seem to know each other. Maybe, like me, they have been following Mimi from restaurant to restaurant for many years.

PLANNING

character of the adjacent GKGM building.

According to the staff report, the Wellness Center would accommodate a range of medical research activities, including space for laboratory modules, specialized equipment, medical archives, and support offices. The project would include approximately 54,000 square feet of medical related research and development space within the P1 level, ground floor, and second floor. Medical clinic and outpatient care would include exam rooms and flexible spaces for patient treatment and administration. The project would include 18,428 square feet of medical clinic space and occupy the entire third floor.

The commission approved the project with conditions that the look of the GKGM structure and landscaping remain generally unaltered, consistent plans for physically connecting the old and new construction be developed, the Landmarks Commission evaluate a historic interpretive exhibit and the applicant is given the chance to adopt any changes to parking rules in the future.

Commissioner Ellis Raskin abstained from the final vote and didn't support the Environmental Impact Report prepared on the project. He said the loss of 10 potential apartment units needed to be addressed and that the $560,000 in mitigation fees paid to offset the removal was not enough.

"Notwithstanding how much money we're getting out of it, we're still losing 10 apartments," he said. "That impact should be appropriately mitigated. For that reason I think I'm not going to be supporting the EIR.

BAKERY: Plans for the new building will preserve the current structure that houses Tartine bakery.

Council has issued rules that temporarily suspend non-housing projects in the city but the rules exempted projects that had already begun the review process.

"I want to say very clearly, as we saw in the staff report, Council explicitly exempted applications that were in the pipeline as of a certain date when it moved to restrict the production of commercial uses on unavailable properties," said Commissioner Shawn Landres. "So I too wish this was housing, it is a great site for housing. But I don't feel in the context of a quasi-judicial hearing that we can refuse to certify the EIR or refuse to approve a project given the council has clearly made policy on this matter."

Some commissioners raised concerns over chemicals in building materials, specifically formaldehyde, but as the project will comply with building codes, no specific rules were added over the issue.

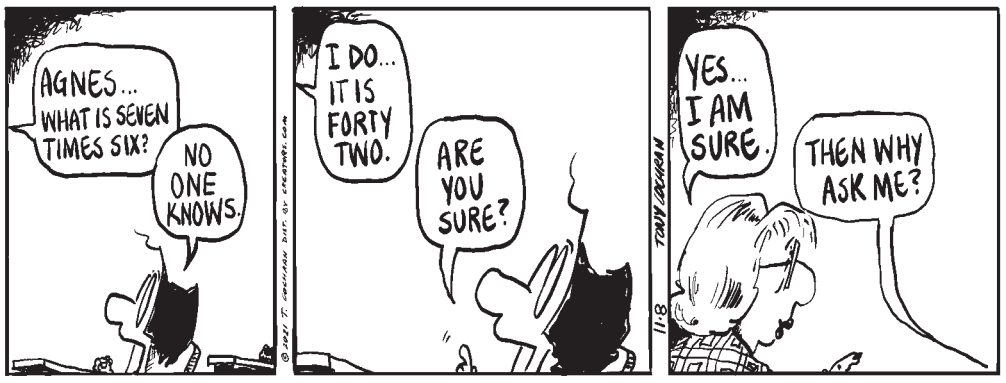

"I am not happy that we cannot raise the bar regarding health and safety beyond what maybe the green code allowed," said Mario Fonda Bonardi. "I think we should be pushing ahead. And every chance we get we should push ahead. So the argument that we can't make it for this project because we'd have to make it for all the other projects, I think is exactly upside down. We should make it for all the other projects."

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (NOVEMBER 8)

You'll master the art of getting to know people. You'll read them well, learn them quickly and respond so effectively you'll win friends, jobs and trusted roles. Quality time with your favorites will be a highlight. The key is to make plans often and far in advance. A new interest has you developing your mind and memory. Cancer and Pisces adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 9, 30, 11, 24 and 17.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). It is too early to put your project out into the world. Work in private. Steer clear of the seduction of "likes" and ratings. Don't let outside opinions intrude on your self-concept.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You have many friends who do not share your interests. A diverse group has more to teach you than a homogenous one, yet it will amplify your vitality to find people who like what you like.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). A second opinion can be helpful at times, but right now, you don't need someone looking over your shoulder and rating your performance. Stay away from those who judge and correct. This is something best figured out on your own.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Beauty impresses you. You'll find it today in the qualities of honest people. Instances of honor and loyalty may just take your breath away. Goodness is all around you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). It is possible to be happy while trying to make others happy, but it can also be a rather complicated and roundabout route. You'll bring more joy to all by pursuing your original aims and letting the rest fall into place naturally.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). It's easy to love cheerful, helpful, attractive, agreeable and interesting people. The karma points come from loving the difficult and unpleasant who show no signs of loving you back.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Just as one person's trash is another's treasure, someone's worst nightmare is just the challenge you live for. Stay solid in your preferences and let no one's opinion taint your utter enjoyment of them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Thinking too far ahead can have a paralyzing effect. Instead, walk in faith. You're going in the right direction, so you don't need to worry about too much else for now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You can be hard on yourself. You can't see what you could be giving yourself credit for. For instance, you're willing to try new things. You have no idea how many people are afraid to take the chances you take regularly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). There are many ways to speak love, but none of them are quite as effective as simply showing up to the daily actions with something slightly more than was expected.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). What you're doing feels like it's in the right ballpark, but perhaps you'd be better suited to another position on the team. Investigate to find out what else may be available to you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You're not just passively hearing what someone says. You honor their expression by bringing your curiosity and imagination into play, reflecting an interpretation and dancing with the ideas.
